BIG GUNS QUIET

Powerful Naval Forces Nearing Formosa Strait

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Red guns opposite the Quemoys were silent Saturday but faster and more powerful Communist naval vessels steamed toward the Formosa Strait with a threat to Nationalist offshore islands and their supply lines, a military spokesman reported.

At the same time there were un-official reports here that U. S. warships will start escorting nationalist supply vessels to the embattled Quemoy complex sometime next week. Official quarters would not confirm the reports.

Red China, meanwhile, broadcast a call for resumption of ambassador-level talks with the United States. Subsequently Saturday the White House announced it welcomed the offer for new talks and said the U. S. ambassador in Warsaw is ready to resume them.

Some low-level Nationalist Chinese officials speculated the move may mean Red China is backing down partially on its belligerence in the face of apparent U.S. intent to help defend the offshore islands.

WARSHIPS

The Nationalist spokesman, Rear Adm. Liu Hoh-tu, said intelligence reports indicated that the Reds were sending southward gunboats that resemble the 300-ton Kronstadt and the 900-ton Riga class warships of the Soviet Navy. The Reds now are using only torpedo boats of under 100 tons to tighten a blockade of Nationalist supplies to the Quemoys.

Liu said the Nationalists have warships bigger than the ones reported sailing toward the strait "but the difficulty is we are on the defensive."

There were growing indications here that the Nationalists would bomb Red coastal positions if the Communists opened up with a new, massive artillery attack on the Quemoy complex. But no such bombing would be carried out without the full concurrence of the U.S. authorities here.

Bombing would be a calculated risk. It could expose Formosa to Red air attacks and the United States — under its treaty to defend this island — might have to take action.

There were no reports of any Red shelling of the Quemoys Saturday.

(Peiping radio broadcasts said the Red forces halted their bombardment on Thursday to give the Nationalists time for "reflection." Early in the siege, the Reds issued surrender or die ultimatums to the Nationalist forces.)

Miss. Beauty Wins America Pageant Title

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Miss Mississippi, Mary Ann Mobley, a brown-haired Southern belle from Brandon, Saturday night won the Miss America title for 1959.

A 21-year-old senior at the University of Mississippi, the new queen hopes for a career in television. She beat 51 other beauties to win scholarships and prizes worth $150,000.

Judges picked her after narrowing the field to five finalists in the competition that started Monday. The girls, from 46 states, Alaska, Canada, Hawaii, New York City,

Oust Bulganin From Presidium; Party Meet Set

LONDON (UPI)—Radio Moscow announced Saturday night that the central committee of the Soviet Communist Party had removed former Premier Nikolai Bulganin from the party Presidium and called the 21st party Congress to meet next Jan. 27.

At that time, Premier Nikita Khrushchev will outline details of the Soviet Union's 1959-1965 five - year plan.

The broadcast said the Central Committee made its decisions at a meeting held Friday.

The ouster of Bulganin from the Presidium of the Central Committee brought his fortunes to a new low. He was given a minor party post only last month, and has been on the skids since he lost out to Khrushchev earlier this year.

The last Congress, the 20th, was held in February, 1956. It was the occasion for Khrushchev's now-famous attack on the late Josef Stalin's methods and the so-called "cult of the personality."

Saturday's announcement said that the "extraordinary 21st Congress will discuss the target figures for the development of the national economy of the U.S.S.R. in 1959-1965."

Seek Information On Missing Craft

WASHINGTON (Special) — The United States asked Russia and Iran yesterday for any information available about an American transport plane missing near the Soviet Union's southern border since Tuesday.

U. S. Air Force officials last week confirmed that a West Monroe sergeant, Robert E. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Moore, 202 N. 8th St., West Monroe, was a member of the 17-man crew of the craft. The State Department said the unarmed C30 transport was heard from last while en route from Adana to Trabzon and Van in Turkey.

Reuther Aims Strike Threat At Industry

DETROIT (AP) — Heading fast toward a showdown in contract negotiations, Walter Reuther is threatening to strike and the big auto companies are holding to a stony silence on what will happen if he does.

If it comes down to a strike—and Reuther leaves little doubt that the negotiations are heading in that direction — he may find himself in a struggle with all three big companies instead of one.

None of the companies is saying whether their new-found unity in negotiations with Reuther's United Auto Workers Union would extend into a strike.

"We have done everything short of surrender," said the red-haired UAW chief. "But we won't surrender."

Reuther, nearing the mid-September deadline he set weeks ago when the stalled negotiations still were young, made his statements in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press.

Top General Motors Corp. officials declined to answer similar questions submitted to them. But they issued a statement repeating their assertion that Reuther's demands are inflationary.

STRIKE MEET

Reuther this week personally entered the talks at General Motors for the first time in 14 weeks and called a strike-planning meeting of the UAW's Executive Committee for next Wednesday.

Reuther's calling of the executive committee to set a strike date and possible target indicated he is willing to permit launching of 1959 models but will draw the line at full production unless his half-million auto workers get a new contract.

General Motors and Chrysler already have started 1959 production and Ford is scheduled to get under way later this month.

For the last three weeks auto companies have been plagued by wildcat strikes that have idled as many as 25,000 workers.

Catahoula Parish Prisoner Chews Off Jailer's Ear

A Catahoula Parish prisoner last night chewed his jailer's ear off in an apparent escape attempt. Jailer Allen Cowart overpowered the prisoner and forced him back into the cell.

Deputy Sheriff J. W. Adams said prisoner Jay Prudhomme's wife had come to bring Prudhomme a package of cigarettes about 6 p.m. and Cowart opened the door to Prudhomme's cell. The prisoner jumped Coward and bit his ear completely off, Adams said.

Cowart wrestled Prudhomme back into the cell, called Adams and set off to a Monroe hospital with his ear in his pocket. He was preparing to undergo surgery late last night to repair the damage and seemed to be in good condition.

Prudhomme was jailed about 1 p.m. yesterday on a drunk driving charge, but reports indicate there will be "several" additional charges placed against him arising out of the incident, officers said.

Don't Fret If Mars Phone Reply Late

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army, traditionally a ground force, Saturday staked out future claims in space and told how Explorer satellites are charting its course.

The service made public a special study entitled "The Army in the Space Age." It pointed out the pitfalls ahead in assaulting outer space but warned that "free men" had better lead the way.

The pamphlet ran the gamut of problems from spatial military doctrine to getting a telephone call through to Mars.

Don't fret, the Army said, if you telephone a friend on Mars someday and he seems to take nine minutes to respond to your greeting. It won't be rudeness on his part — not necessarily so, anyway.

Brig. Gen. Earle F. Cook, of the chief signal officer's division, said that even with lightning fast radio, it will take four and one-half minutes for your voice to reach Mars.

He called for new departures in conveying mass date and pictures across space to shorten the time and to reduce the heavy weight of communications equipment that would now be needed.

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, head of the Army Ordnance Missile Command which launched the first Explorer satellite last Jan. 31, reported the vehicle had demonstrated it is feasible to control temperatures within a manned satellite.

The Explorer's inside temperatures ranged from 32 to 104 degrees, "easily within the range of human survival," he said. He add-

Test Crews Blaze Super Road Trail

Engineering teams have begun blazing the way for the new Federal interstate superhighway through Monroe.

Drilling began last week in West Monroe along the proposed route for soil samples which will be tested for strength and ability to support the enourmous weight of the highway.

Yesterday a drilling team began making test bores across the Ouachita River proposed super route bridge site in what engineers called "the biggest part of the job." Contractural time limits call for the river drilling to be finished in 18 days.

Bores will be made approximately along the Milhaven road out past Nutland S.. to determine settling qualities of the soil in the third phase of the work. First phase was the West Monroe borings, followed by the river samples. The total work is supposed to be completed within 54 contract days from the beginning, according to Engineer Bill Sterling, of Pavlov Associates, designers of the highway.

Testing of the samples will be done by Engineers Testing Laboratories of Houston. Joe Hudson, John Mosely and Harold Urban, agreed the samples looked encouraging.

CLAY SOIL

Several layers of clay soil have been found in borings of the river bottom, and engineers stated that clay was not an ideal foundation since it settled slowly. A layer of rock of unknown thickness was found at a depth of 95 feet near the West Monroe side, complicating the drilling tests. A short delay seemed necessary in order to secure drill bits which would penetrate the rock.

Borings have been taken from a maximum depth of 150 feet, but Sterling said the pilings to support

Prisoners Run Under Gunshots

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Three convicts escaped through rifle fire over the state penitentiary wall Friday night during a rodeo attended by 13,000 visitors inside the prison compound.

No one was hit by gunfire. The prisoners apparently jumped into a waiting car after sliding down a makeshift rope frim the top of the 20-foot wall. They got on the wall by climbing atop an administration building roof adjacent to the stone barrier.

The fugitives were identified as Robert Gibson, 21, serving 14 years for assault; Edward Lee Lyles, 29, serving 15 years for burglary, and Charles Jackson Kaltenback, 34, serving three years for forgery.

Tropical Storm Fifi Blossoms Into Hurricane

SAN JUAN, Puerto, Rico (UPI) Tropical storm Fifi blossomed into a full - grown hurricane Saturday in the Atlantic 450 miles east of San Juan and headed northwestward across open seas.

The Weather Bureau said in 5 p.m. advisory that reconnaissance aircraft circled hurricane Fifi and reported it was centered at latitude 18.4 north, longitude 59.3 west.

Highest winds are about 85 miles an hour over a small area near the center and hurricane force winds extended out 50 miles north and east of the center, the advisory said.

It was headed toward the open sea at 16 miles an hour on a course that, if continued, would skirt the Bahamas and carry eventually to the South Atlantic coast. Many storms born in this area, however, veer northward and never become a menace to land.

"It is expected that hurricane Fifi will continue moving in the same direction at the same speed during the next 12 hours," the advisory said. During the same period, the hurricane was expected to increase slightly in intensity.

Fifi was the six tropical blow of the season and followed swiftly on the heels of Ella, which broke its fury in a swipe across Cuba and finally blew out in a squally passage over southeast Texas.

Gale warnings were hoisted in the Leeward Islands. Residents of the Leeward group were urged to keep posted on the storm's movements.

Overcast Skies Is Prediction

Yesterday's high was 89, identical to Friday's maximum. The low yesterday was 72. Friday's low was 74.

The outlook for Arkansas today and tomorrow calls for partly cloudy skies and no important temperature changes.

Butane Truck Crash Claims Driver's Life

He was identified as Clifford A. Lamb, 34, of Bessemer, Ala. Authorities said he died of a brain concussion.

State Police, who investigated along with the Lincoln Parish Sheriff's Department, said Mr. Lamb, driving for Dixie Gas Co., apparently lost control of his truck near Ruston just after it was passed by a man driving a late model Oldsmobile. The truck plunged off the road.

Trooper E. H Powell of State Police said reports from witnesses indicate the driver of the Oldsmobile cut in sharply after passing the truck. It was theorized that Mr. Lamb lost control after the other driver cut in, but Powell said "there is nothing to indicate" the car actually hit the truck.

HUNT DRIVER

The accident occurred at 7:30 a.m. about 3½ miles west of Ruston. Both vehicles were heading east, authorities said.

Monroe fire truck No. 107 was called to the scene at 2:30 yesterday afternoon while the wreckage was still smoking. Local firemen explained that Monroe has some special equipment for fighting butane fires which the Ruston department does not have.

Absence Ended With Pre-Dawn Inquiry Meeting

WINNFIELD, La. (AP) — The Winn Parish registrar of voters, whose 36-hour disappearing act had thwarted Sen. William Rainach's probe into voting law violations, finally opened her office to investigators in the pre-dawn Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Flournoy, the registrar, was located at her home about midnight and consented to open the doors of her office at 1:30 a.m. She said she had been dove hunting and that she had been told to keep her office closed to Rainach, chief segregationist in the state.

But she would not say who gave the order.

They photo copied numerous registration cards, including one signed by Gov. Earl Long's Negro cook, retrieved their equipment which had been locked up since Thursday and left town.

Rainach left Winnfield about 5 p.m. Friday, the situation apparently stalemated. Guards had been placed at the door and told to keep an around-the-clock vigil until Monday.

RAINACH RETURNS

But when Rainach arrived home, he received a tip that Mrs. Flournoy had returned. He immediately returned to Winnfield.

Rainach, who heads the joint legislative committee on segregation, said the information he gathered during the probe convinced him there have been "many violations of registration laws in Winn Parish." Many apparently occurred, he said, during registration for the present Eighth District Congressional race, in which Rep. Lloyd Teekell is opposing Harold McSween of Alexandria. Gov Long is backing Teekell, one

Judge Orders Records Held From Probers

COLQUITT, Ga. (UPI) — A Georgia judge has ordered officials in Terrell County, scene of the first action under the 1957 Civil Rights Act, to withhold voter records from federal agents even if it takes a special police force.

Superior Court Judge Walter I. Geer, whose jurisdiction includes Terrell County in Southwest Georgia, issued the order Friday to the board of registrars in the county. He disclosed his action Saturday.

"It is my attitude that no board of registrars appointed by me has to operate at the point of a boyonet," Judge Geer said. "If they need protection they can get the protection they need to perform their duties according to laws of the Constitution of the state of Georgia."

It was Geer's second heads-on challenge to federal authority. Shortly after the Justice Department charged the Terrell registrars with discrimination against would-be Negro voters on Thursday he said he would jail any FBI man who tried to investigate his own court "in any high-handed or menacing manner."

SURRENDER NONE

Geer told the registrars to surrender no further records to federal men unless his court ordered them to do so. He also directed that they bar federal agents from preparing or assisting in the preparation of any voter lists.

Furthermore, "for the purpose of carrying out this order the

COLUMBIA (Special) — Bloodhounds late last night were set loose in the northeast corner of Rapides Parish and roadblocks were thrown up in the area where authorities believe an armed robber is in hiding after gunning a Columbia bartender late Friday night.

Officials said Alton Crockett, bartender at the Joy Hill Bar about eight miles south of Columbia, was shot Friday by a man identified only by the last name of Beuford.

Asks Pardon Board In Louisiana Ended

BATON ROUGE (AP) — State Auditor William J. Dodd Saturday called for abolishment of the pardon board because of political pressures and proposed instead a board of experts in penology and criminal law.

Dodd, former pardon board chairman who should know what he is talking about, urged Gov. Earl Long's new nonpartisan committee to help the "forgotten men" at Angola to consider his proposal.

The governor, asked for comment, said, "I think he's probably right .... there's something wrong with the pardon board system. It ought to be corrected."

Dodd, who is thinking of running for governor, stressed he was not attacking the pardon board of any administration, present or past, but the system itself which he said is badly designed for proper handling of criminal cases.

Louisiana has a parole board, which considers cases of prisoners eligible under the law for release after serving part of their time.

The pardon board is another agency, consisting of the lieutenant governor, attorney general and the presiding judge in the criminal's case. It can free a prisoner, commute a convict's sentence, or change a death penalty to a lesser punishment. It can restore a prisoner's citizenship after he is free. All its recommendations are subject to the governor's approval.

Long this week named a 32-man

600 Million Red Chinese Receive Mobilization Call

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China ordered general mobilization of its 600 million people Saturday and at the same time called on the United States to resume ambassadorial talks to keep peace in Formosa Strait.

The mobilization order was issued by the Supreme State Council in Peiping "for the struggle against war provocations by American imperialists in the Taiwan (Formosa- area," Peiping radio said.

The order went out after the council accepted a government statement broadcast earlier by Premier Chou En - lai. Chou's statement called for resumption of Geneva talks that broke off last Dec. 12. They had begun in August 1955.

Chou said the Red Chinese forces had voluntarily silenced their guns opposite the Quemoy Islands off Amoy to give Chiang Kai-shek's forces "a chance for reflection."

Chou's proposal for talks appeared to be a move to place the blame for any troubles in the Formosa Strait on the United States.

The mobilization order, at the same time, could be a further step to create a crisis aimed at the calling of an international conference at which Red China might obtain world recognition.

Meanwhile, Red broadcasts of reports from the Fukien front opposite the Quemoys said the Nationalists were continuing bombardment of the mainland.

Prisoners Run Under Gunshots

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Three convicts escaped through rifle fire over the state penitentiary wall Friday night during a rodeo attended by 13,000 visitors inside the prison compound.

No one was hit by gunfire. The prisoners apparently jumped into a waiting car after sliding down a makeshift rope frim the top of the 20-foot wall. They got on the wall by climbing atop an administration building roof adjacent to the stone barrier.

The fugitives were identified as Robert Gibson, 21, serving 14 years for assault; Edward Lee Lyles, 29, serving 15 years for burglary, and Charles Jackson Kaltenback, 34, serving three years for forgery.

Tropical Storm Fifi Blossoms Into Hurricane

SAN JUAN, Puerto, Rico (UPI) Tropical storm Fifi blossomed into a full - grown hurricane Saturday in the Atlantic 450 miles east of San Juan and headed northwestward across open seas.

The Weather Bureau said in 5 p.m. advisory that reconnaissance aircraft circled hurricane Fifi and reported it was centered at latitude 18.4 north, longitude 59.3 west.

Highest winds are about 85 miles an hour over a small area near the center and hurricane force winds extended out 50 miles north and east of the center, the advisory said.

It was headed toward the open sea at 16 miles an hour on a course that, if continued, would skirt the Bahamas and carry eventually to the South Atlantic coast. Many storms born in this area, however, veer northward and never become a menace to land.

"It is expected that hurricane Fifi will continue moving in the same direction at the same speed during the next 12 hours," the advisory said. During the same period, the hurricane was expected to increase slightly in intensity.

Fifi was the six tropical blow of the season and followed swiftly on the heels of Ella, which broke its fury in a swipe across Cuba and finally blew out in a squally passage over southeast Texas.

Gale warnings were hoisted in the Leeward Islands. Residents of the Leeward group were urged to keep posted on the storm's movements.

Overcast Skies Is Prediction

Yesterday's high was 89, identical to Friday's maximum. The low yesterday was 72. Friday's low was 74.

The outlook for Arkansas today and tomorrow calls for partly cloudy skies and no important temperature changes.

Butane Truck Crash Claims Driver's Life

He was identified as Clifford A. Lamb, 34, of Bessemer, Ala. Authorities said he died of a brain concussion.

State Police, who investigated along with the Lincoln Parish Sheriff's Department, said Mr. Lamb, driving for Dixie Gas Co., apparently lost control of his truck near Ruston just after it was passed by a man driving a late model Oldsmobile. The truck plunged off the road.

Trooper E. H Powell of State Police said reports from witnesses indicate the driver of the Oldsmobile cut in sharply after passing the truck. It was theorized that Mr. Lamb lost control after the other driver cut in, but Powell said "there is nothing to indicate" the car actually hit the truck.

HUNT DRIVER

The accident occurred at 7:30 a.m. about 3½ miles west of Ruston. Both vehicles were heading east, authorities said.

Monroe fire truck No. 107 was called to the scene at 2:30 yesterday afternoon while the wreckage was still smoking. Local firemen explained that Monroe has some special equipment for fighting butane fires which the Ruston department does not have.

Winn Registrar Unlocks Office To Rainach Probe

Absence Ended With Pre-Dawn Inquiry Meeting

WINNFIELD, La. (AP) — The Winn Parish registrar of voters, whose 36-hour disappearing act had thwarted Sen. William Rainach's probe into voting law violations, finally opened her office to investigators in the pre-dawn Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Flournoy, the registrar, was located at her home about midnight and consented to open the doors of her office at 1:30 a.m. She said she had been dove hunting and that she had been told to keep her office closed to Rainach, chief segregationist in the state.

But she would not say who gave the order.

They photo copied numerous registration cards, including one signed by Gov. Earl Long's Negro cook, retrieved their equipment which had been locked up since Thursday and left town.

Rainach left Winnfield about 5 p.m. Friday, the situation apparently stalemated. Guards had been placed at the door and told to keep an around-the-clock vigil until Monday.

RAINACH RETURNS

But when Rainach arrived home, he received a tip that Mrs. Flournoy had returned. He immediately returned to Winnfield.

Rainach, who heads the joint legislative committee on segregation, said the information he gathered during the probe convinced him there have been "many violations of registration laws in Winn Parish." Many apparently occurred, he said, during registration for the present Eighth District Congressional race, in which Rep. Lloyd Teekell is opposing Harold McSween of Alexandria. Gov Long is backing Teekell, one

Judge Orders Records Held From Probers

COLQUITT, Ga. (UPI) — A Georgia judge has ordered officials in Terrell County, scene of the first action under the 1957 Civil Rights Act, to withhold voter records from federal agents even if it takes a special police force.

Superior Court Judge Walter I. Geer, whose jurisdiction includes Terrell County in Southwest Georgia, issued the order Friday to the board of registrars in the county. He disclosed his action Saturday.

"It is my attitude that no board of registrars appointed by me has to operate at the point of a boyonet," Judge Geer said. "If they need protection they can get the protection they need to perform their duties according to laws of the Constitution of the state of Georgia."

It was Geer's second heads-on challenge to federal authority. Shortly after the Justice Department charged the Terrell registrars with discrimination against would-be Negro voters on Thursday he said he would jail any FBI man who tried to investigate his own court "in any high-handed or menacing manner."

SURRENDER NONE

Geer told the registrars to surrender no further records to federal men unless his court ordered them to do so. He also directed that they bar federal agents from preparing or assisting in the preparation of any voter lists.

Set Bloodhounds On Trail After Area Man Shot

COLUMBIA (Special) — Bloodhounds late last night were set loose in the northeast corner of Rapides Parish and roadblocks were thrown up in the area where authorities believe an armed robber is in hiding after gunning a Columbia bartender late Friday night.

Officials said Alton Crockett, bartender at the Joy Hill Bar about eight miles south of Columbia, was shot Friday by a man identified only by the last name of Beuford.

Crockett's wife witnessed the holdup and shooting. Reports said the bartender was reaching into the cash drawer to give the holdup man the money when the ban-

600 Million Red Chinese Receive Mobilization Call

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China ordered general mobilization of its 600 million people Saturday and at the same time called on the United States to resume ambassadorial talks to keep peace in Formosa Strait.

The mobilization order was issued by the Supreme State Council in Peiping "for the struggle against war provocations by American imperialists in the Taiwan (Formosa- area," Peiping radio said.

The order went out after the council accepted a government statement broadcast earlier by Premier Chou En - lai. Chou's statement called for resumption of Geneva talks that broke off last Dec. 12. They had begun in August 1955.

Chou said the Red Chinese forces had voluntarily silenced their guns opposite the Quemoy Islands off Amoy to give Chiang Kai-shek's forces "a chance for reflection."

Chou's proposal for talks appeared to be a move to place the blame for any troubles in the Formosa Strait on the United States.

The mobilization order, at the same time, could be a further step to create a crisis aimed at the calling of an international conference at which Red China might obtain world recognition.

Meanwhile, Red broadcasts of reports from the Fukien front opposite the Quemoys boasted the Nationalists were continuing [illegible] of the mainland.

Asks Pardon Board In Louisiana Ended

BATON ROUGE (AP) — State Auditor William J. Dodd Saturday called for abolishment of the pardon board because of political pressures and proposed instead a board of experts in penology and criminal law.

Dodd, former pardon board chairman who should know what he is talking about, urged Gov. Earl Long's new nonpartisan committee to help the "forgotten men" at Angola to consider his proposal.

The governor, asked for comment, said, "I think he's probably right . . . there's something wrong with the pardon board system. It ought to be corrected."

Dodd, who is thinking of running for governor, stressed he was not attacking the pardon board of any administration, present or past, but the system itself which he said is badly designed for proper handling of criminal cases.

Louisiana has a parole board, which considers cases of prisoners eligible under the law for release after serving part of their time.

The pardon board is another agency, consisting of the lieutenant governor, attorney general and the presiding judge in the criminal's case. It can free a prisoner, commute a convict's sentence, or change a death penalty to a lesser punishment. It can restore a prisoner's citizenship after he is free. All its recommendations are subject to the governor's approval.

Long this week named a 32-man

ALA. SHOCK VICTIM

Brought To Life But Dies Later

TUSCUMBIA, Ala. (UPI) — Young Joe Hubbert, who was brought back to life after a 7,200-vo'e shock stopped his heart beat for 28 minutes, died Saturday despite valiant efforts to save his life.

"We just could not keep him alive any longer," said Dr. John M. Mims, who with three other physicians had restored the 21-year -old construction worker's pulse Thursday. "There comes a time when it is out of our hands."

Hubert, of Winfield, Ala., died at 5:30 a.m. in Colbert County Hospital, less than 48 hours after he had been rushed here from a rural construction site outside of town.

Hubbert was accidentally shocked when the winch truck he was riding backed into a high tension wire.

Fellow workers flagged down a passing motorist who brought him to the hospital.

Mims was asked to declare him dead, but on finding out that Hubbert was a shock victim, the doctor had him taken to surgery where his chest was cut open to start heart massage.

Mims said at the time that "we didn't know he could live, but we thought it was worth a try."

With Mims massaging the heart and Dr. James Zickler, hospital anestheologist, breathing air into the youth's lungs, respiration and pulse were restored. Two other doctors, Dr. Thomas Pritchett and Dr. Robert Boone assisted.

After an hour and a half of work, Hubbard was given a stimulant and placed in an oxygen tent.

He lived exactly 43 hours and 20 minutes after heart massage was begun.

Mims listed the cause of death as electrocution with respiratory arrest, anoxemia of the brain and cardiac arrest as secondary factors.

Granny Moses Nears Century Mark Painting

EAGLE BRIDGE, N. Y. (AP) Grandma Moses, one of America's foremost primitive painters, will be 98 Sunday and she is feeling it. She still paints, though.

Her physician, Dr. Clayton Shaw, has recommended that there be no birthday party because of her frail condition. Only members of the immediate family will drop in at her home in this Rensselaer County community near the Vermont state line.

Grandma Moses, whose full name is Anna Mary Robertson Moses, now rests much of the day. She paints for short periods. She has been afflicted with arthritis for some time.

Shaw, one of her oldest friends, called her condition "remarkable for a 98 - year-old." But she begins to feel her years a bit, he added.

Claims Wife Who Strayed To California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Philadelphian claimed his missing wife Saturday, then, after a first-swinging outburst at newsmen, vanished with her in a taxi.

What had happened to the $18,000 he thought she had saved to buy a home?

"I don't know," said welder Stanley Collins, 42. "She must have been playing the ponies."

Blonde Mrs. Stella Collins, 41, was found wandering in downtown Los Angeles Wednesday night with $2 67 in her purse. She told police she couldn't remember coming here. They identified her from papers in her purse.

Philadelphia police said she had been reported missing since Aug. 27, when she failed to meet her husband at a home financing firm. She was to have brought a $14,790 check to complete purchase of a home.

Collins was affable when newsmen met him as he stepped off a.. airliner early Saturday morning. He went to the City Jail, where police had booked his wife of 18 years as a lost person.

As his wife stepped from an elevator to meet him, Collins threw his coat over his face and shouted at her to hide. Trying to shield her face from news cameras with a woman's sweater he carried, he hustled her out of the jail. After kicking and swinging at newsmen, without connecting, he hurried off with her in a taxi, destination undisclosed.

Retire Troop Commander In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Capt. Julius P. Fried, commander of state police Troop B here, has been relieved of his command and placed on the retirement list.

Capt. Fried refused to comment on the move and the announcement gave no reason for his retirement.

Lt. Tom Bradley was named acting captain of the troop.

A telegram from state police Supt. John Nick Brown said Fried had been placed on the retirement list at "the close of business" yesterday.

Gov. Earl Long said today he "just heard about it this morning" when several people tried to intercede for Fried, a veteran of 23 years on the state police force and commander of Troop B since 1952.

Rep. Nick Lapara, one of Long's leaders in the House, recently honored Fried with a plaque for his outstanding service.

British May Cut Race Immigration

LONDON (UPI) — Home Secretary R. A. Butler said Saturday Britain may clamp down on colored immigration into the country. But he said "considerable force of argument" would be needed to change the government's present policy.

Butler, who is in charge of Britain's internal security, told a Conservative Party rally at Saffron Walden that he was satisfied that the police and courts could maintain law and order in the face of Negro and white discontent in London's slum areas.

He spoke after a 24-hour lull in the racial rioting that had erupted for six straight nights. Police continued to patrol the trouble spots, but they admitted that possible rioters Friday night were driven from the streets by a severe tropical storm that drenched Southern England.

"As regards the wider issue," Butler said, "Britain has a great tradition for hospitality. Before these incidents we have been reviewing the volume of colored immigration and what happens to those who come here from our Comomnwealth countries.

"It has always been a right of British citizenship to come in and out of the mother country at will, and it will need considerable force of argument to alter this policy," he said.

Prime Minister Harold MacMillan will discuss the immigration issue at a secret meeting Sunday at his official country residence, Chequers. Also attending will be Commonwealth Relations Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd.

The issue will come up again at a Cabinet meeting Monday. The two issues to be considered by the Cabinet are:

Possible restriction of colored immigration to Britain. Butler announced Friday night that there were about 200,000 colored workers in Britain and that the flow was increasing at a time when unemployment in Britain was rising.

Tightening up of Britain's laws on vice and licensing of all-night clubs and cafes. White residents of slum areas with large colored populations have complained that prostitution run by colored men is one of the chief causes of the present race troubles.

Jamaican Chief Minister Norman Manley, who arrived here this week to investigate the racial situation, toured the Notting Hill district today.

He told newsmen he advised his people to "keep calm and steady and be patient."

"I have hopes that this trouble will pass on soon for I cannot believe England will allow a thing like this to go on. It is dreadful," he said.

Frat Group Hands Amherst Suspension

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. (UPI) — Phi Gamma Delta, a national social college fraternity with 45,000 white members, Saturday imposed a two-year suspension on its Amherst College chapter which was suspended when it pledged a Negro student last year.

Fraternity president Philip C. Ebeling of Dayton, Ohio, declined to say whether the two-year suspension resulted from the pledging. He said a "sizeable majority" of the 225 delegates to the fraternity's national convention approved the suspension.

The Amherst chapter pledged the Negro early in 1957. In May, 1957, the chapter was suspended by the national fraternity for breaking the fraternity's constitution. A Phi Gamma Delta spokesman said Saturday's action was a "continuation of the suspension."

Ebeling, the outgoing president of the "Fijis", said none of the Phi Gam 84 chapters in the U.S. and Canada has a Negro member except Amherst. However, he said there is no constitutional bar against Negro members.

The suspension was passed after an overnight change-of-mind by the delegates. Friday night a resolution to revoke Amherst's charter failed, getting just short of the necessary four-fifth's vote.

Crash Landing Made Safely By 9 Crewmen

VALDOSTA, Ga., (UPI) — Five crewmen and nine passengers narrowly escaped death Saturday when an Air Force C-47 transport made a forced landing in a corn field four miles north of Moddy Air Force Base.

An Air Force spokesman said none of the passengers or crewmen were injured, but they were taken to the Moody AFB hospital for a routine check.

The Texas - bound aircraft, piloted by Capt. J. A. McFadden, lost power immediately after taking off from Moody. The aircraft crash - landed in the field and skidded approximately 300 yards before coming to a stop.

A board of inquiry will be appointed to determine the cause of the accident. The C-47 was based at Moody.

Fraternity president Philip C. Ebeling of Dayton, Ohio, declined to say whether the two-year suspension resulted from the pledging. He said a "sizeable majority" of the 225 delegates to the fraternity's national convention approved the suspension.

The Amherst chapter pledged the Negro early in 1957. In May, 1957, the chapter was suspended by the national fraternity for breaking the fraternity's constitution. A Phi Gamma Delta spokesman said Saturday's action was a "continuation of the suspension."

Ebeling, the outgoing president of the "Fijis", said none of the Phi Gam 84 chapters in the U.S. and Canada has a Negro member except Amherst. However, he said there is no constitutional bar against Negro members.

The suspension was passed after an overnight change-of-mind by the delegates. Friday night a resolution to revoke Amherst's charter failed, getting just short of the necessary four-fifth's vote.

Crash Landing Made Safely By 9 Crewmen

VALDOSTA, Ga., (UPI) — Five crewmen and nine passengers narrowly escaped death Saturday when an Air Force C-47 transport made a forced landing in a corn field four miles north of Moddy Air Force Base.

An Air Force spokesman said none of the passengers or crewmen were injured, but they were taken to the Moody AFB hospital for a routine check.

The Texas - bound aircraft, piloted by Capt. J. A. McFadden, lost power immediately after taking off from Moody. The aircraft crash - landed in the field and skidded approximately 300 yards before coming to a stop.

A board of inquiry will be appointed to determine the cause of the accident. The C-47 was based at Moody.

Dionnes Await Stork Arrival

MONTREAL (AP)—Two of the four surviving Dionne quintuplets are reported preparing for the arrival of the stork next month.

Annette, married Oct. 12, 1957, to Germain Allard of Montreal, and Cecile married Nov. 23, to Philippe Langlois of Quebec City, are expecting babies, newspapers here said Saturday.

Both are in good health and both are expecting single births.

Mixed Classes In Tennessee To Open Again

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — School integration enters its second year here Monday with 30 Negroes set to attend mixed classes and with police and school officials not expecting trouble but "prepared" just in case.

Last fall when Negroes went to class with whites here for the first time in history, the beginning of school was marked by violence highlighted by the dynamiting of Hattie Cotton School.

The persons who dynamited the school still are free and police so far have been unable to come up with enough evidence to file charges.

The racial mixing Monday will be in the first and second grades where last year's was in the first grade only. Federal court here has approved a one grade a year integration plan but Negroes have appealed in an effort to get complete integration.

Sixteen Negroes registered for first grade classes with whites this year, 14 for the second year.

Last year nine Negroes completed the school year in mixed classes and eight of those signed up for integrated second grade classes. Parents of the ninth student, a girl, have not decided whether to return her to an integrated school.

The largest number of Negro students will be at Buena Vista School which will have 11, the smallest number at Caldwell School with one.

School Supt. W. H. Oliver has said he expects things to go "smoothly" this year and Police Chief Douglas Hosse says he's not expecting trouble but that his men are "prepared" in case of trouble.

The only evidence remaining of last year's trouble is at Hattie Cotton School where a close look shows new bricks joining older bricks where the dynamite damage has been repaired.

Market Gains Biggest Mark Since July 26

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market entered its post-Labor Day phase this week by setting a new high for 1958 and making the biggest weekly gain since July 26.

The four-day trading week, shorted by the Labor Day holiday, produced a daily trading average of 2,950,071 shares, the fastest trading rate in four weeks.

Substantial rises by some of the blue chips pushed The Associated Press average to new '58 peaks but it was by no means a one-way market. There was considerable irregularity. For the week as a whole, advances outnumbered declines by 682 to 523, far from a runaway.

In pushing ahead despite profit taking the market ignored the crisis headlines about the Formosa Strait and possible involvement of the United States in a Far Eastern conflict. The same indifference was displayed by commodity markets, which were virtually unruffled by the diplomatic crisis.

Prospects of further credit tightening moves by the Federal Reserve Board had a somewhat dampening effect on trading for a couple of sessions and was more of a market influence than the Formosan situation. The hike in the discount rate spread to more Federal Reserve Banks and there was further evidence of credit tightening by the Federal Reserve System.

The stock market, however, took this pretty much in stride so far as stock buying was concerned. Interest continued in lower-priced, more speculative issues. At the same time, institutional buying was important enough to push some of the high quality issues to unusual gains and it was this that raised the average.

The AP 60-stock average rose $2.20 to $186.90, putting it at its highest level since July 26, 1957 when it stood at $187.10.

Klan In Little Rock

Now that the United States supreme court has declared secret membership in an organization is lawful, the Ku Klux Klan appears ready to raise its head in Little Rock. It was announced that a klan chapter would be chartered in Little Rock this week.

The Ku Klux Klan has not operated in Arkansas since the early 1920s. On Arkansas law books is a statute enacted to outlaw the klan. It provides up to five years' imprisonment on conviction of night riding for unlawful purposes " while wearing any masks, white caps or robes."

It was this law in Arkansas and similar laws in other states, including Louisiana, which virtually wrote the death knell for the Ku Klux Klan in the 1920s. Combined with laws prohibiting secret membership in any chartered organization, klan membership, with the kind of illegal activities it contemplated, became too dangerous. Officials no longer were able to enroll new members and the membership rapidly declined until, in practically areas, it became non-existent.

A recent decision by the U. S. supreme court upholding secret membership is giving the klan a shot in the arm and a new fight against its activities is expected to complicate an already dangerous situation in Little Rock.

First news of the planned klan invasion came through the Citizens Council, of which Rev. Wesley Pruden, Baptist minister, is president. Commenting on the proposition of a klan organizer from Dallas that the Citizens Council support the klan movement, Mr. Pruden said:

"The council movement stands for . . . integrity and states' rights and endorses only those methods that are nonviolent and honorable."

The Citizens Council president was right in rejecting the klan. Giving the klan support not only would weaken the council in the eyes of the nation but might be helping to set up a political Frankenstein that would be difficult to control in the succeeding years.

In the 1920s the Ku Klux Klan was a big political force in the nation and in Louisiana and Texas. The fact that organization attempts are now being made from Dallas indicates that that state still faces great danger from a secret organization committed to violence and to enforcing its own laws in violation of public laws. Texas once had to choose between a klan candidate and "Ma" Ferguson for governor because the klan was strong enough to get its man into the runoff. The people chose Mrs. Ferguson, the wife of a man who had been impeached, thus giving Texas its first woman governor.

Aided by the supreme court, in its decision upholding secret membership, the klan is expected to attempt a big comeback. Even though the states are handicapped by the supreme court decision, now is the time to fight any such comeback.

No Red China Haven

Emphatic statements have been made by United States officials that any Chinese attack upon Formosa would bring quick retaliation by U. S. forces. On the matter of Chinese attacks on the islands of Quemoy and Matsu, this country has been less definite.

Totalitarian aggressors are historically noted for going just as far as the free world permits them to go. It might be safer to lay it on the line and tell China that we will not permit an invasion of Quemoy or Matsu than to leave the situation vague. If we give the impression that invasion of these islands will not bring retaliation we may be encouraging the attacks. This could lead to warfare faster than a facts-on-the-line stand.

One thing should be made unmistakably plain to China and that is the fact that if we start shooting the Chinese mainland will be on for a heavier attack than it can stand.

In the war in Korea the American forces worked against tremendous odds and Gen. Douglas MacArthur was removed from command because he wanted to dispense with those odds. In that war, the American forces were open to Red Chinese attack from all quarters but American planes were not allowed to go north of the Yalu river. This meant that the Red Chinese, when in distress, could always run to a haven of refuge, whereas the American forces had to be ready to take anything the north Koreans and Chinese could dish out at all times. Gen. MacArthur wanted to stage massive air attacks on the Chinese mainland, which would have put the Chinese on the defensive, instead of the offensive, but for that he lost his command.

The U. S. Seventh fleet, augmented with units en route to join it, will be the most formidable sea force assembled in the Pacific since the Korean war.

If Red China starts an offensive war and forces the United States to intervene, Peiping should be told that Red China proper will be hit with everything in the Seventh fleet's arsenal. This time there should be none of the privileged sanctuaries which led to heavy casualties and stalemates instead of vict- casualties and stalemates instead of victories in the Korean war.

Detection Post Locations To Be In North America

CONTROL POST LOCATION—Although it has been announced that twenty-four of the 180 Atom-test detection posts will be put in North America their locations are uncertain at present. For the most part they will be along the coasts which are the principal seismic areas. Possible locations in the non-seismic areas include one in the Tennessee Valley, one in the Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast area and one in the Wisconsin-Minnesota region. Each station will be manned by approximately thirty technicians, and a small auxiliary servicing staff.

FROM UP NORTH, SUH!" Judge Walter E. Hoffman, Norfolk federal judge who ordered the integration of Norfolk schools, citing the decision of the Eighth Circuit Court overruling Judge Harry J. Lemley as "the law of the land" is not a native Virginian. His birthplace was New Jersey and he attended the University of Pennsylvania. He is a Republican, appointed by President Eisenhower. The Eighth Circuit, which Hoffman repeatedly mentioned in his ruling has only one Southern state, Arkansas, and no Southern-born Judge in its membership.

FED UNDER FIRE — Look for wide-spread attacks on the Federal Reserve Board by Democratic Congressional candidates. Claim is that Feds' action in making money harder to borrow, and raising interest rates, is designed to halt recovery. Not so, says William McChesney Martin, Jr., board chairman. He insists principal reason for board action is to check stock market speculation.

HARDPRESSED VOTER? — Democratic election strategists admit that there is little in the party's record in the Congress just closed that will aid them materially. Think voter will be hardpressed to tell difference between what Republican administration proposed and Democratic Congress enacted. Recession issue also somewhat blunted. Democrats expect, however, to make strong gains. Hopes are based on tendency of country to favor party out of office in off-year election and loss of the magic in Eisenhower name.

FELIX'S FUZZY PHRASE — If the Supreme Court takes advantage of its special session on September 11 to clarify its fuzzy "all deliberate speed" dictum it won't please Justice Felix Frankfurter, most aged member of the court. Frankfurter is widely credited with being responsible for the phrase. He has used it in other opinions and by implication defended it at the Court's session ten days ago.

SYMINGTON STIRS PENTAGON — Statement of Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri that United States wasted seven and a half million dollars on obsolete weapons had immediate repercussions at Pentagon. Secretary of Defense McElroy is alarmed at mounting military costs, which may reach 50 million a year in a budget after the next one. To support such a budget country would have to continue borrow approximately 20 billion per year.

CAPITAL NEGRO INCREASE—Census Bureau officials will not even hazard a guess on present division of population in District of Columbia, but say privately 1960 census will show astounding change. Washington schools give these figures at school opening time: Negro enrollment, 88,000; white, 25,000, which is 78 percent or approximately 4 out of 5 Negro. Flight to suburbs by whites reduced caucasian enrollment by 7000; Negro enrollment increased 9000.

DeSAPIO FOR MEYNER? — Political camp of Governor Averill Harriman is greatly disturbed by reports that Tammany leader Carmine DeSapio thinks Harriman a forlorn hope for 1960 Democratic Presidential nomination. DeSapio demonstrated he ruled his party at its State convention. Belief is that DeSapio will, if Harriman is reelected Governor, go along with him as a favorite son, but will be open to deal in National Convention. If Rockefeller defeats Harriman, DeSapio may mount bandwagon of Governor Meyner of New Jersey, immediately.

OUR NIPPONESE ALLY — State Department and Pentagon take a somber view of Japanese attitude in face of the tension in Formosa. Supposedly pro-American Kishi government has given ground in face of Communist demand that the Government prohibit United States from using Japan as a base to support Chiang Kai Shek's government. Secretary of State Dulles expects to find where United States stands in Japan in his meeting with Foreign Minister Aiichira Fujiyama Thursday of next week.

AS MAINE GOES — Predictions of the outcome in Maine, which holds its last September election on Tuesday are cagey. Concensus seems to be that Muskie, Democrat, will unseat Payne, Republican in the United States Senate race but that Horace Hildreth will win for Governor, returning the State House to the Republicans. As a result of a constitutional amendment Maine hereafter will vote in November as do all her sister states.

"There is no such thing as a free lunch," says a congressman. What sort of un-American talk is this? Why, the fellow ought to be investigated!

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

U.S. Viewed As Least Imperialistic Nation

There never was a less imperialistic nation than the United States. Even such countries as Cuba and the Philippines which we won by war, were given their freedom.

Nevertheless, Soviet and Nasser propaganda in the Middle East has succeeded in building the impression, which is generally believed to be true, that imperialistic United States is the central problem of the era.

The twist has been accomplished mostly by radio which blares forth, in constant repetition, the same tales day in and day out. Even those who are too ignorant to read can listen and here is a sample of the truck that Arab-speaking people hear:

"American imperialism supports France in its dirty war in Algeria and works for its continuation so it will have an opportunity to seize French interests there. The United States, since the end of World War II, has opposed the people. Its weapon has been the traitorous imperialist associates and conspiracies. The U.S. aim was and continues to be the uprooting of the people's liberation movements, and domination of them by force in order to guarantee the sources of raw materials and cheap labor. The aim of American imperialism was and continues to be dragging the people to war whenever possible. War is the source of enormous profits to the war and arms merchants among American industrialists."

The fact that none of this is true does not affect the situation at all. Why need it to be true to be believed? Man, in his long travail, has believed much that was not true. There used to be a blackmailer in Shanghai who would approach his victim with the statement: "It has been said and it has not been denied . . ." And so we have been libelled throughout the world as imperialists!

Another libel that is widespread is that our secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, "wants to ignite a war in the Middle East." Why should a meek Presbyterian like Dulles want to foment a war? The answer over the radio is:

". . . He does not care for the people or for peace. What he wants is the oil, cheap raw materials, and cheap labor as well as the opening of markets to the American arms merchants — the merchants of destruction and death."

What will these people say when Europe moves from oil to atomic power, as Europe has moved from coal to oil? What would they say if automobiles ran on alcohol instead of gasoline? It is an easy conversion to make and would use up the surplus grain of the United States and Canada. If it is oil exploitation that alone stands in the way of a peaceful world, the Arabs may discover that the world is no longer as dependent upon oil as it once was. The Nautilus has established beyond any doubt that the most modern sea craft can undertake the most daring voyage without dependence upon oil.

If the Arabs make their oil unavailable or too expensive, no one needs to use it. Perhaps Nasser can drown in it. They might get some of their learned men to tell them what is going on in the world today.

It would do the Arabs good to listen to a broadcast from the Voice of America on why we do not need their oil and why it will not be long before Europe will not need their oil. As a matter of fact, these Arabs might be given some statistics to show how our own industry has been limited by reducing the allowable removal of oil from the ground.

In a word, these people need to be told a few facts of life. The Arabs have been a subject people for centuries, impoverished, hungry, suffering, sick, scrawny. In some of their countries, the exploitation of oil brought a measure of wealth to their rulers and states, some of which worked its way down to the people. This was not an Arab accomplishment. It was done by British, Americans, Dutch, etc., and Mr. Gulbenkian, the Armenian five percenter. It would do the Arabs no harm to remind them that although they have a long history and a great culture, what have they produced in recent years? Shall we go back to Avicenna (980-1037) and Averroes (126-1198) to prove that the Arabs are cultured or shall we recognize that it was Great Britain that freed them from the Turks?

Building Dummy Wife Proposed

NEW YORK (AP) — If science can build a perfect dummy mother, why can't it build a perfect dummy wife?

That logically is the next step—and, some feel, a step already long overdue.

The dummy mother — a cloth-covered wood and sponge figure heated by a light bulb—was made by Harry Harlow, a University of Wisconsin psychologist.

He found that bottle-fed monkeys were completely content with this laboratory mother. In fact, there was some evidence she was more satisfying than a real mother. For, in addition to being warm and soft, she never left her babies—and she never scolded them.

What works with monkeys, however, may not work with children. One can hardly foresee much of a future for artificial human mothers — at least in this country. Americans have a firm faith that a good mother can't be bought, built or borrowed—she's usually inherited, just as are the color of one's eyes.

But this isn't true at all of wives. Wives are almost never inherited. They are acquired—just like a broken arm, a job, or false teeth.

The possibilities of creating dummy wives—perhaps artificial is a better word—are positively breath-taking. They offer a real challenge to any scientist worth his test tubes.

A substitute human wife would have to be more than warm, soft and silent.

She'd be kind of a combination of an electronic brain and a department store dummy — full of all kinds of wonderful machinery unknown to ordinary wives.

Instead of talking, she'd merely hum recorded Strauss waltzes while you read your morning paper. If you got lonesome for conversation, you could put two broken records in her in English, French, German, Spanish or Italian. This is one more broken record than the normal wife today can play in any langugage.

If anything went wrong with her, you'd save doctor bills. You could fix her with a wrench—or by kicking her in the control panel.

If she ever talked back to you, you wouldn't just suspect she had a screw loose somewhere. You'd know it.

Her food bill would come from the power and light company. And everybody knows electricity is cheaper than groceries.

If she ever seemed cold or distant to you, you could always make her more warm and affectionate by installing another 200-watt light bulb in her. You could even change the color of her eyes by switching the color of her light bulbs.

She could be much more entertaining than the usual flesh-and-blood and yakkety-yak wife. You could put a steel handle on her side, a glass panel in her bosom equip her with slot machine innards—and do all your gambling at home.

But already I can hear some long-time old married codger protesting: "Why bother to build new artificial wives? Aren't the ones we got artificial enough already?

In Mr. Dulles speech he said there would be no more appeasement, that it would lead to war again just as it did in World War II. Let us hope that this time he will back up his words by his actions.

Now, Mr. Taxpayer, I just want to remind you of some of the things your hard earned dollars are spent for two hundred million dollars for the Arab refugees and so far as we know there has been no effort made to resettle them nor will there be so long as your tax dollars are sent to support them. While Egypt and Russia have contributed nothing they use them to keep up trouble in the Middle East. Now King Hussein has let us know that it will cost us 50 million dollars or he will go along with Nasser and Lebanon wants 47 million and also Nehru wants some more money to further promote the broken down 5 year Russian plan and if the government lends them money they might as well give it in the first place.

There were 200 million dollars, authorized for the Eisenhower doctrine for the Middle East. One hundred fifty million of this money was spent, what became of the other 50 million they have not said. After all the spending in the Middle East, they have gone from bad to worse.

Your tax dollars pay for high price rock and roll bands to go to Russia, for your diplomats to fly around over the world, you pay for Ike's representatives to fly to South America, the Middle East or any place he wants to send them. Also your government has spent and given away about 70 billion to keep Communists out of other countries. Here at home you pay the F. B. I. to get the evidence to convict communists and criminals and judges to convict them. I am not complaining about what you pay the F. B. I. or the Judges but I am complaining about paying the Supreme Court for turning them loose on us. And so was the money wasted, but more important is the fact that Communists and the criminals won. The same is true of our foreign policy spending only it is worse and more of it.

But when it comes to the taxpayer, no matter how high the cost of living they consider 600 dollars allowance sufficient to take care of you or your children and if they raise the allowance above this in good times it will cause inflation and if times are bad they cannot collect enough taxes to support the government and their give away plans.

Criticizing U. S. Abroad Is Bad

WASHINGTON, D. C. — There was a time, not so many years ago when the principal criticism of Americans abroad was their tendency to brag about their own country. That may have been in poor taste, but to most of us who stay home, and like being here that 'trait is preferable to the growing tendency of some of our traveling countrymen, including a number of expatriates who spend time on foreign soil to avoid income taxes, to join foreigners in criticizing the United States.

To a people who have dug into their pockets and strained their national credit to pump almost 60 billion dollars into foreign aid, a large part of which went for facilities which the recipient nations could not afford out of their own treasures, the yapping of some Americans, and some journalists in particular about what goes on in the U. S. has become an increasing annoyance.

In this growing country, so much happens which deserves and receives self criticism that until the spread of Communism, there was scant inclination to concern ourselves with what went on in India, England, France or any other country.

Foreign critics have always had plenty to say about the U. S., most of which fell on deaf ears here, but the American traveler abroad, at least in print, was a staunch defender of what went on in this country.

No that seems to be changing and rapidly.

Undoubtedly Communist propaganda plays an important part. The Hitler technique of the big lie, which the Communist governments seized upon avidly, apparently has succeeded even beyond their expectations. Some Americans who have the advantage of foreign travel or assignment appear to be joining in, agreeing with the mouthings of dictators to discredit the actions of duly elected public officials of the United States.

It is true that some of those actions are in themselves confusing, though thinking Americans can usually rationalize them within the fabric of our way of life, different than that of any other nation. But even those Americans are frequently upset in their thinking by some expatriate's blast against what goes on at home.

Recently the developments at Little Rock, the nuclear weapon tests, our decisions concerning the Near East, our defense bases in Europe and Africa and a number of less important happenings in which the federal government has seen fit to take action have been targets of Americans residing or traveling abroad, whose utterances or writings possibly become more persuasive because they have foreign date lines.

The Little Rock case has become a particular bull's eye. It has been used by Communist propagandists among foreign peoples effectively, chiefly because federal troops were sent there by orders from Washington. That White House action and its relative importance has been twisted by both Communist propagandists and some Americans abroad as part of the American way of life.

For example one newspaperman who interviewed Pandit Nehru in India found that the head of the Indian government was more impressed by the "bayonets" in Little Rock than any contemporary happening in this country.

"Bayonets in India recall the years of British domination," he is reported to have said. "Those who think of the United States as a country after which we would like to model our own are disillusioned."

Instead of trying to explain the circumstances and why the Little Rock school incident is not likely to be repeated the clamor of some Americans abroad seems to be that it should become general practice to end segregation.

As to nuclear weapon tests, no American abroad with sufficient understanding to make clear that every test provides certain information of value to the use of atoms for peace has said much, but traveling Americans have joined the demand for an unconditional cessation of the tests. And every such utterance is seized upon by the Communists, not only for broadcast purposes but also by word of mouth in countries where Communists are operating.

An old jest accuses people of talking too much, which they have and will. However, when Americans raised in the wonderful atmosphere of free speech give substantial help to the Communists, even without intending to, they really are talking too much.

Color Blindness In Only One Eye

Everyone has heard about color blindness. The vast majority of persons with this defect are men. They are not blind to all colors, in the true sense of the word, but confuse red, yellow, and green.

But not many have heard of color blindness in one eye. Only 37 cases have been recorded. C. H. Graham and Yun Hsia of Columbia University added another case. This young woman proved to be a valuable find because the authors were able to compare color blind discrimination of the two eyes.

Swallowing toothpicks is risky business. Most victims have false teeth and cannot feel the toothpick while eating veal bird, for example. The foreign body may perforate the intestine and cause peritonitis.

Porcupine quills will do the same. Dr. H. C. McDade and Dr. W. B. Crandell reported two such cases in the New England Medical Journal. One was a 51 year old woodman. He never knew the cause of his abdominal pain until he returned from the operating room and was confronted with the evidence.

This man recalled having killed a porcupine 10 days before developing peritonitis. He put on gloves before cutting off the head of the animal to collect the bounty. At noon he ate a sandwich and the quilll must have been transferred from his glove to his lunch.

The same thing happened to the other woodman. He had eaten a porcupine meat sandwich four days before getting sick.

HEAVY DEMANDS ON STARS

C. M. writes: I am a handsome man with a wonderful singing voice and was told by a music teacher I could become another Sinatra in six months. The trouble is I had tuberculosis and am now an arrested case. Do you think it would be worth the amount of practice I would have to do?

REPLY

Yes, but that's not the question. If you became another Sinatra, I doubt if your physical condition could stand the many hours of work needed for rehearsals, recitals, performances, interviews, and parties.

ANKLE POPPING

Mrs. J. F. writes: Every time my 24 year old daughter moves her ankles, they pop. Is she lacking in joint oil or something?

REPLY

No, this manifestation may be due to a rheumatic condition of the joint or of the fibrous tissues and ligaments surrounding it. Examination would be needed to pinpoint the source of the popping or snapping sound.

CREEPING PARALYSIS

C. W. writes: What can you tell me about Landry's paralysis?

REPLY

This is a form of neuritis in which paralysis begins in the legs and extends upward. The causative agent is not known. In many instances, it follows a viral respiratory or gastrointestinal infection.

LARYNX FLAP

U. R. writes: The doctor is treating my mother for epiglottis. What causes this condition?

REPLY

The epiglottis is a flap of tissue that blocks off the windpipe when one swallows. "Itis" means inflammation, possibly in conjunction with sore throat, laryngitis, or bronchitis.

EYE ARTERIES

D. L. writes: How does hardening of the arteries affect the eyes?

REPLY

In the same way it affects the circulation to any organ — by reducing the blood flow to the retina.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT—When a change in glasses is requested every few months, the physician suspects an eye disease like cataract or glaucoma; a systemic disease such as diabetes; or a neurosis.

Klan In Little Rock

Now that the United States supreme court has declared secret membership in an organization is lawful, the Ku Klux Klan appears ready to raise its head in Little Rock. It was announced that a klan chapter would be chartered in Little Rock this week.

The Ku Klux Klan has not operated in Arkansas since the early 1920s. On Arkansas law books is a statute enacted to outlaw the klan. It provides up to five years' imprisonment on conviction of night riding for unlawful purposes " while wearing any masks, white caps or robes."

It was this law in Arkansas and similar laws in other states, including Louisiana, which virtually wrote the death knell for the Ku Klux Klan in the 1920s. Combined with laws prohibiting secret membership in any chartered organization, klan membership, with the kind of illegal activities it contemplated, became too dangerous. Officials no longer were able to enroll new members and the membership rapidly declined until, in practically areas, it became non-existent.

A recent decision by the U. S. supreme court upholding secret membership is giving the klan a shot in the arm and a new fight against its activities is expected to complicate an already dangerous situation in Little Rock.

First news of the planned klan invasion came through the Citizens Council, of which Rev. Wesley Pruden, Baptist minister, is president. Commenting on the proposition of a klan organizer from Dallas that the Citizens Council support the klan movement, Mr. Pruden said:

> "The council movement stands for . . . integrity and states' rights and endorses only those methods that are nonviolent and honorable."

The Citizens Council president was right in rejecting the klan. Giving the klan support not only would weaken the council in the eyes of the nation but might be helping to set up a political Frankenstein that would be difficult to control in the succeeding years.

In the 1920s the Ku Klux Klan was a big political force in the nation and in Louisiana and Texas. The fact that organization attempts are now being made from Dallas indicates that that state still faces great danger from a secret organization committed to violence and to enforcing its own laws in violation of public laws. Texas once had to choose between a klan candidate and "Ma" Ferguson for governor because the klan was strong enough to get its man into the runoff. The people chose Mrs. Ferguson, the wife of a man who had been impeached, thus giving Texas its first woman governor.

Aided by the supreme court, in its decision upholding secret membership, the klan is expected to attempt a big comeback. Even though the states are handicapped by the supreme court decision, now is the time to fight any such comeback.

No Red China Haven

Emphatic statements have been made by United States officials that any Chinese attack upon Formosa would bring quick retaliation by U. S. forces. On the matter of Chinese attacks on the islands of Quemoy and Matsu, this country has been less definite.

Totalitarian aggressors are historically noted for going just as far as the free world permits them to go. It might be safer to lay it on the line and tell China that we will not permit an invasion of Quemoy or Matsu than to leave the situation vague. If we give the impression that invasion of these islands will not bring retaliation we may be encouraging the attacks. This could lead to warfare faster than a facts-on-the-line stand.

One thing should be made unmistakably plain to China and that is the fact that if we start shooting the Chinese mainland will be on for a heavier attack than it can stand.

In the war in Korea the American forces worked against tremendous odds and Gen. Douglas MacArthur was removed from command because he wanted to dispense with those odds. In that war, the American forces were open to Red Chinese attack from all quarters but American planes were not allowed to go north of the Yalu river. This meant that the Red Chinese, when in distress, could always run to a haven of refuge, whereas the American forces had to be ready to take anything the north Koreans and Chinese could dish out at all times. Gen. MacArthur wanted to stage massive air attacks on the Chinese mainland, which would have put the Chinese on the defensive, instead of the offensive, but for that he lost his command.

The U. S. Seventh fleet, augmented with units en route to join it, will be the most formidable sea force assembled in the Pacific since the Korean war.

If Red China starts an offensive war and forces the United States to intervene, Peiping should be told that Red China proper will be hit with everything in the Seventh fleet's arsenal. This time there should be none of the privileged sanctuaries which led to heavy casualties and stalemates instead of vict- casualties and stalemates instead of victories in the Korean war.

Detection Post Locations To Be In North America

CONTROL POST LOCATION—Although it has been announced that twenty-four of the 180 Atom-test detection posts will be put in North America their locations are uncertain at present. For the most part they will be along the coasts which are the principal seismic areas. Possible locations in the non-seismic areas include one in the Tennessee Valley, one in the Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast area and one in the Wisconsin-Minnesota region. Each station will be manned by approximately thirty technicians, and a small auxiliary servicing staff.

FROM UP NORTH, SUH!" Judge Walter E. Hoffman, Norfolk federal judge who ordered the integration of Norfolk schools, citing the decision of the Eighth Circuit Court overruling Judge Harry J. Lemley as "the law of the land" is not a native Virginian. His birthplace was New Jersey and he attended the University of Pennsylvania. He is a Republican, appointed by President Eisenhower. The Eighth Circuit, which Hoffman repeatedly mentioned in his ruling has only one Southern state, Arkansas, and no Southern-born Judge in its membership.

FED UNDER FIRE — Look for wide-spread attacks on the Federal Reserve Board by Democratic Congressional candidates. Claim is that Feds' action in making money harder to borrow, and raising interest rates, is designed to halt recovery. Not so, says William McChesney Martin, Jr., board chairman. He insists principal reason for board action is to check stock market speculation.

HARDPRESSED VOTER? — Democratic election strategists admit that there is little in the party's record in the Congress just closed that will aid them materially. Think voter will be hardpressed to tell difference between what Republican administration proposed and Democratic Congress enacted. Recession issue also somewhat blunted. Democrats expect, however, to make strong gains. Hopes are based on tendency of country to favor party out of office in off-year election and loss of the magic in Eisenhower name.

FELIX'S FUZZY PHRASE — If the Supreme Court takes advantage of its special session on September 11 to clarify its fuzzy "all deliberate speed" dictum it won't please Justice Felix Frankfurter, most aged member of the court. Frankfurter is widely credited with being responsible for the phrase. He has used it in other opinions and by implication defended it at the Court's session ten days ago.

SYMINGTON STIRS PENTAGON — Statement of Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri that United States wasted seven and a half million dollars on obsolete weapons had immediate repercussions at Pentagon. Secretary of Defense McElroy is alarmed at mounting military costs, which may reach 50 million a year in a budget after the next one. To support such a budget country would have to continue borrow approximately 20 billion per year.

CAPITAL NEGRO INCREASE—Census Bureau officials will not even hazard a guess on present division of population in District of Columbia, but say privately 1960 census will show astounding change. Washington schools give these figures at school opening time: Negro enrollment, 88,000; white, 25,000, which is 78 percent or approximately 4 out of 5 Negro. Flight to suburbs by whites reduced caucasian enrollment by 7000; Negro enrollment increased 9000.

DeSAPIO FOR MEYNER? — Political camp of Governor Averill Harriman is greatly disturbed by reports that Tammany leader Carmine DeSapio thinks Harriman a forlorn hope for 1960 Democratic Presidential nomination. DeSapio demonstrated he ruled his party at its State convention. Belief is that DeSapio will, if Harriman is reelected Governor, go along with him as a favorite son, but will be open to deal in National Convention. If Rockefeller defeats Harriman, DeSapio may mount bandwagon of Governor Meyner of New Jersey, immediately.

OUR NIPPONESE ALLY — State Department and Pentagon take a somber view of Japanese attitude in face of the tension in Formosa. Supposedly pro-American Kishi government has given ground in face of Communist demand that the Government prohibit United States from using Japan as a base to support Chiang Kai Shek's government. Secretary of State Dulles expects to find where United States stands in Japan in his meeting with Foreign Minister Aiichira Fujiyama Thursday of next week.

AS MAINE GOES — Predictions of the outcome in Maine, which holds its last September election on Tuesday are cagey. Concensus seems to be that Muskie, Democrat, will unseat Payne, Republican in the United States Senate race but that Horace Hildreth will win for Governor, returning the State House to the Republicans. As a result of a constitutional amendment Maine hereafter will vote in November as do all her sister states.

"There is no such thing as a free lunch," says a congressman. What sort of un-American talk is this? Why, the fellow ought to be investigated!

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

U.S. Viewed As Least Imperialistic Nation

There never was a less imperialistic nation than the United States. Even such countries as Cuba and the Philippines which we won by war, were given their freedom.

Nevertheless, Soviet and Nasser propaganda in the Middle East has succeeded in building the impression, which is generally believed to be true, that imperialistic United States is the central problem of the era.

The twist has been accomplished mostly by radio which blares forth, in constant repetition, the same tales day in and day out. Even those who are too ignorant to read can listen and here is a sample of the truck that Arab-speaking people hear:

"American imperialism supports France in its dirty war in Algeria and works for its continuation so it will have an opportunity to seize French interests there. The United States, since the end of World War II, has opposed the people. Its weapon has been the traitorous imperialist associates and conspiracies. The U.S. aim was and continues to be the uprooting of the people's liberation movements, and domination of them by force in order to guarantee the sources of raw materials and cheap labor. The aim of American imperialism was and continues to be dragging the people to war whenever possible. War is the source of enormous profits to the war and arms merchants among American industrialists."

The fact that none of this is true does not affect the situation at all. Why need it to be true to be believed? Man, in his long travail, has believed much that was not true. There used to be a blackmailer in Shanghai who would approach his victim with the statement: "It has been said and it has not been denied . . ." And so we have been libelled throughout the world as imperialists!

Another libel that is widespread is that our secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, "wants to ignite a war in the Middle East." Why should a meek Presbyterian like Dulles want to foment a war? The answer over the radio is:

"... He does not care for the people or for peace. What he wants is the oil, cheap raw materials, and cheap labor as well as the opening of markets to the American arms merchants — the merchants of destruction and death."

What will these people say when Europe moves from oil to atomic power, as Europe has moved from coal to oil? What would they say if automobiles ran on alcohol instead of gasoline? ## Criticizing U.S. Abroad Is Bad

WASHINGTON, D. C. — There was a time, not so many years ago when the principal criticism of Americans abroad was their tendency to brag about their own country. That may have been in poor taste, but to most of us who stay home, and like being here that trait is preferable to the growing tendency of some of our traveling countrymen, including a number of expatriates who spend time on foreign soil to avoid income taxes, to join foreigners in criticizing the United States.

To a people who have dug into their pockets and strained their national credit to pump almost 60 billion dollars into foreign aid, a large part of which went for facilities which the recipient nations could not afford out of their own treasures, the yapping of some Americans, and some journalists in particular about what goes on in the U. S. has become an increasing annoyance.

In this growing country, so much happens which deserves and receives self criticism that until the spread of Communism, there was scant inclination to concern ourselves with what went on in India, England, France or any other country.

Foreign critics have always had plenty to say about the U. S., most of which fell on deaf ears here, but the American traveler abroad, at least in print, was a staunch defender of what went on in this country.

Now that seems to be changing and rapidly.

Undoubtedly Communist propaganda plays an important part. The Hitler technique of the big lie, which the Communist governments seized upon avidly, apparently has succeeded even beyond their expectations. Some Americans who have the advantage of foreign travel or assignment appear to be joining in, agreeing with the mouthings of dictators to discredit the actions of duly elected public officials of the United States.

It is true that some of those actions are in themselves confusing, though thinking Americans can usually rationalize them within the fabric of our way of life, different than that of any other nation. But even those Americans are frequently upset in their thinking by some expatriate's blast against what goes on at home.

Recently the developments at Little Rock, the nuclear weapon tests, our decisions concerning the Near East, our defense bases in Europe and Africa and a number of less important happenings in which the federal government has seen fit to take action have been targets of Americans residing or traveling abroad, whose utterances or writings possibly become more persuasive because they have foreign date lines.

The Little Rock case has become a particular bull's eye. It has been used by Communist propagandists among foreign peoples effectively, chiefly because federal troops were sent there by orders from Washington. That White House action and its relative importance has been twisted by both Communist propagandists and some Americans abroad as part of the American way of life.

For example one newspaperman who interviewed Pandit Nehru in India found that the head of the Indian government was more impressed by the "bayonets" in Little Rock than any contemporary happening in this country.

"Bayonets in India recall the years of British domination," he is reported to have said. "Those who think of the United States as a country after which we would like to model our own are disillusioned."

Instead of trying to explain the circumstances and why the Little Rock school incident is not likely to be repeated the clamor of some Americans abroad seems to be that it should become general practice to end segregation.

As to nuclear weapon tests, no American abroad with sufficient understanding to make clear that every test provides certain information of value to the use of atoms for peace has said much, but traveling Americans have joined the demand for an unconditional cessation of the tests. And every such utterance is seized upon by the Communists, not only for broadcast purposes but also by word of mouth in countries where Communists are operating.

An old jest accuses people of talking too much, which they have and will. However, when Americans raised in the wonderful atmosphere of free speech give substantial help to the Communists, even without intending to, they really are talking too much.

Color Blindness In Only One Eye

Everyone has heard about color blindness. The vast majority of persons with this defect are men. They are not blind to all colors, in the true sense of the word, but confuse red, yellow, and green.

But not many have heard of color blindness in one eye. Only 37 cases have been recorded. C. H. Graham and Yun Hsia of Columbia University added another case. This young woman proved to be a valuable find because the authors were able to compare color blind discrimination of the two eyes.

Swallowing toothpicks is risky business. Most victims have false teeth and cannot feel the toothpick while eating veal bird, for example. The foreign body may perforate the intestine and cause peritonitis.

Porcupine quills will do the same. Dr. H. C. McDade and Dr. W. B. Crandell reported two such cases in the New England Medical Journal. One was a 51 year old woodman. He never knew the cause of his abdominal pain until he returned from the operating room and was confronted with the evidence.

This man recalled having killed a porcupine 10 days before developing peritonitis. He put on gloves before cutting off the head of the animal to collect the bounty. At noon he ate a sandwich and the quilll must have been transferred from his glove to his lunch.

The same thing happened to the other woodman. He had eaten a porcupine meat sandwich four days before getting sick.

HEAVY DEMANDS ON STARS

C. M. writes: I am a handsome man with a wonderful singing voice and was told by a music teacher I could become another Sinatra in six months. The trouble is I had tuberculosis and am now an arrested case. Do you think it would be worth the amount of practice I would have to do?

REPLY

Yes, but that's not the question. If you became another Sinatra, I doubt if your physical condition could stand the many hours of work needed for rehearsals, recitals, performances, interviews, and parties.

ANKLE POPPING

Mrs. J. F. writes: Every time my 24 year old daughter moves her ankles, they pop. Is she lacking in joint oil or something?

REPLY

No, this manifestation may be due to a rheumatic condition of the joint or of the fibrous tissues and ligaments surrounding it. Examination would be needed to pinpoint the source of the popping or snapping sound.

CREEPING PARALYSIS

C. W. writes: What can you tell me about Landry's paralysis?

REPLY

This is a form of neuritis in which paralysis begins in the legs and extends upward. The causative agent is not known. In many instances, it follows a viral respiratory or gastrointestinal infection.

LARYNX FLAP

U. R. writes: The doctor is treating my mother for epiglottis. What causes this condition?

REPLY

The epiglottis is a flap of tissue that blocks off the windpipe when one swallows. "Itis" means inflammation, possibly in conjunction with sore throat, laryngitis, or bronchitis.

EYE ARTERIES

D. L. writes: How does hardening of the arteries affect the eyes?

REPLY

In the same way it affects the circulation to any organ — by reducing the blood flow to the retina.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT—When a change in glasses is requested every few months, the physician suspects an eye disease like cataract or glaucoma; a systemic disease such as diabetes; or a neurosis.

Acheson Blasts Ike On Far East Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson blisteringly accused the Eisenhower administration Saturday of drifting without friends or allies into war with Red China.

Acheson said the administration apparently has decided to defend Nationalist-held Quemoy even though this leads to world war.

He said the administration has "unwisely maneuvered itself, with the help of Chiang Kai-shek, into a situation of which it has lost control."

He accused President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles of surrounding U.S.-China policy with "secrecy designed to keep everyone guessing.'

Acheson, who served in former President Harry S. Truman's Democratic Cabinet, called in a statement for inclusion in Eisenhower - Dulles conferences of some cool-headed friends from other countries" that might be affected by any conflict with Communist China.

Acheson named Dulles as the high-ranking American official widely quoted on U.S.-China policy at Eisenhower's Newport, R.I., vacation headquarters last Thursday.

Newport dispatches quoted this unidentified official as providing an interpretation of an Eisenhower-Dulles statement on Red China's threats to invade Quemoy, Matsu and other Nationalist-held offshore islands. This interpretation was generally considered to take a tougher line than the formal statement.

Acheson came under heavy Republican attack after the Red Chinese pushed Chiang's Nationalist forces out of mainland China nine years ago. The Republicans contended then that the Truman administration had lost China. Before he left office in 1953, Acheson issued a book-length defense of the Truman administration's China policy.

Tech Campus Readied For Registration

RUSTON (Special) — Freshmen will start arriving on the Louisiana Tech campus Sunday, Sept. 14, with the dormitories for them to open at 1 p.m., that day and orientation activities for the newcomers planned Sept. 15-16.

Dormitories for upperclassmen will open at 1 p.m., Sept. 17.

Registration at the college will start Wednesday, Sept. 17 and will close Thursday, Sept. 25. Students registering after Sept. 18 will be charged a late registration fee.

Classes will begin at Tech Friday, Sept. 19.

On Wednesday, Sept. 17, registration assistants, first semester freshmen, freshmen who began in the summer, senior advisers and graduating seniors will register.

Upperclassmen, second-semester freshmen and transfer students whose names begin with letters A-B will also register Wednesday, Sept. 17 from 3-4 p.m.

On Thursday, Sept. 18, the remaining upperclassmen, second-semester freshmen and transfer students will register.

Brother Shot, Another Jailed In Family Feud

JONESVILLE (Special) — A family quarrel last week ended up with one brother shot and another lodged in the Catahoula parish jail charged with aggravated battery.

Hulon Estis of Aimwell was charged by the Catahoula parish sheriff's office with aggravated battery after he had reportedly shot his brother "Monk" Estis in the leg with a shotgun loaded with buckshot at their home in Aimwell. Both men were reported to be in their early twenties.

"Monk" was rushed to Passman's clinic in Jonesville where he was given first aid and transferred to a Pineville hospital. Later he was taken to a Shreveport hospital where his condition was said to be "satisfactory."

Douglas Stockman, Catahoula deputy sheriff, was the first to be notified but when he arrived at the scene the boys had already left for Jonesville.

Hulon was arrested later at his home by Deputy Sheriffs C. A. McGuffee and J. W. Adams. He is out of jail on $750 bond.

Art Festival To Include Talk On Architecture

COLUMBIA (Special) — The Caldwell Parish Art Festival will include an architect on its program at the Community Center in Columbia on October 11, Miss Willie Mae Seab and Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, co-chairmen announced.

Beuford G. Jacka, registered architect of West Monroe will talk to the group about history and architecture. He attended Colorado University, Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, and received his Bachelor of Science in Architecture from Kansas State College in 1950. He is a registered architect in both Kansas and Louisiana, and has worked with other architects in numerous buildings in this area and since 1955 has maintained his own office in West Monroe.

The Art Festival is sponsored by the Caldwell Parish Library in an effort to promote greater enjoyment of the arts. It features a program and a show of work done by local artists. Mrs. O. N. Reynolds said, "We are happy to include architecture in our program this year and we know that Mr. Jacka's talk will be interesting and informative."

Minneapolis Woman Killed; Arrest Indian

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) — A Minneapolis woman was killed in early morning darkness Saturday by a bullet that pierced the back seat of an automobile cruising along a lonely stretch of U.S. 97.

Mrs. Carl Frederickson, 48, asleep in the seat, died without outcry. Her death was not discovered by others in the car until they reached Bend, 148 miles north of here.

Meanwhile, police arrested a Klamath Indian, Myron Barkley, 26, on a charge of shooting another Indian Saturday morning.

Aftler learning of the shooting of Mrs. Frederickson, they began questioning Barkley. Sheriff Murray Britton said Barkley admitted being on U.S. 97 about the time and place of the shooting, but denied knowledge of it.

In the past, a number of drivers have complained of shots directed at their cars on or near the Klamath reservation north of here. Once a couple had to jump from their car and hide in the sagebrush all night. Scores of bullet holes later were found in the car.

Post-Holiday Bond Trading Gains Cheer

NEW YORK (AP) — The post-Labor Day week brought a little more cheerful news to the bond markets.

U.S. government bonds halted a sharp summer slide and crept back a bit. Corporate financing took on a better look. Municipals showed a firmer tone. Invetent quality corporates continued to decline.

A spokesman for a big underwriting firm declared, "the market has been thoroughly tested and it looks as if we have established a level where we can do business."

Income Tax Cuts Posed By Dulles

BOSTON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon Saturday proposed cuts in federal taxes on business and persons with high-bracket incomes to stimulate contined business prosperity.

He did not suggest any reductions for average wage-earners. But he said they would benefit because "prosperity for the American people is insparable from prosperity for American business.'

The vice president emphasized he was speaking only for himself and not the administration which has been strongly opposed to any major tax reduction at this time. Democratic leaders in Congress supported the administration's position in the session concluded last month.

Nixon outlined his tax relief program in a speech on the 50th anniversary of the Harvard Business School Assn.

The vice president is a front-runner for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination. Some political pundits speculated that his remarks were a preview of how he'll stand on major issues when nominating time rolls around. Nixon also is expected to play a major role in the fall congressional campaign.

He called for "a complete overhauling of the present hodgepodge of excise taxes." He said that if liquor and cigarette taxes were left as they are, a general manufacturers excise tax of about 1½ per cent "would bring in as much revenue as is presently obtained from all other excise taxes."

He did not elaborate but this was a clear suggestion that he thought a general federal sales tax at the manufacturer's level was preferable to the extremes of varying sales taxes now levied on certain items only.

Nixon also urged that America take steps to outstrip Russia as the "champion of legitimate nationalist movements" in other countries. He said America's prospects "are breathtaking in their magnitude" if the nation uses its resources wisely and well.

"The greatest coal of all lies in the international area," he said. and added that "to win this struggle, our national effort must be total, just as the Communist effort is total."

Blaze Destroys 2-Story House

A fire of undetermined origin swept through the 2 - story dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Holmes about five miles out on the Winnsboro Road early yesterday morning.

Nobody was reported injured.

Firemen at the Orange Street station, which answered the call, said the house was a total loss. They said the building and contents were partly covered by insurance.

Truck No. 2 answered the call at 4:48 a. m.

Linder Gives Decision On Judge's Race

CROSSETT (Special) — A. J. Linder who won the nomination in August to a fifth term as prosecuting attorney for the Tenth District decided Friday not to file as a candidate for judge of that district.

In issuing a statement yesterday giving his reasons for not entering the race for circuit court judge, Linder stated that although he had over 3,000 signatures petitioning that his name be placed on the ballot, he had decided not to run because many people felt he should remain in his present office as prosecutor.

Listing his reasons for wishing to enter the judge's race after being nominated for the attorney's slot, he stated that since he was already in the prosecuting attorney's race at the time of the death of Judge John Golden, withdrawal on his part would have put in his hands the power to name his own successor.

There was only one other candidate in the race for prosecuting attorney.

"Therefore I felt it was my duty to the people of my district to stay in the prosecuting attorney's race, so if I did run later for Judge, the people would have the opportunity to choose a prosecuting attorney in the November election."

Linder's election in August was for an unprecedented fifth term.

A woman told the court that when her husband came staggering into the house late at night hiccuping, she shot him in the leg to frighten him and thereby cure him of his hiccups. She is our candidate for the Burlington Liars Club 1957 award.

He is a registered architect in both Kansas and Louisiana, and has worked with other architects in numerous buildings in this area and since 1955 has maintained his own office in West Monroe.

The Art Festival is sponsored by the Caldwell Parish Library in an effort to promote greater enjoyment of the arts. It features a program and a show of work done by local artists. Mrs. O. N. Reynolds said, "We are happy to include architecture in our program this year and we know that Mr. Jacka's talk will be interesting and informative."

Brother Shot, Another Jailed In Family Feud

JONESVILLE (Special) — A family quarrel last week ended up with one brother shot and another lodged in the Catahoula parish jail charged with aggravated battery.

Hulon Estis of Aimwell was charged by the Catahoula parish sheriff's office with aggravated battery after he had reportedly shot his brother "Monk" Estis in the leg with a shotgun loaded with buckshot at their home in Aimwell. Both men were reported to be in their early twenties.

"Monk" was rushed to Passman's clinic in Jonesville where he was given first aid and transferred to a Pineville hospital. Later he was taken to a Shreveport hospital where his condition was said to be "satisfactory."

Douglas Stockman, Catahoula deputy sheriff, was the first to be notified but when he arrived at the scene the boys had already left for Jonesville.

Hulon was arrested later at his home by Deputy Sheriffs C. A. McGuffee and J. W. Adams. He is out of jail on $750 bond.

Minneapolis Woman Killed; Arrest Indian

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) — A Minneapolis woman was killed in early morning darkness Saturday by a bullet that pierced the back seat of an automobile cruising along a lonely stretch of U.S. 97.

Mrs. Carl Frederickson, 48, asleep in the seat, died without outcry. Her death was not discovered by others in the car until they reached Bend, 148 miles north of here.

Meanwhile, police arrested a Klamath Indian, Myron Barkley, 26, on a charge of shooting another Indian Saturday morning.

Aftler learning of the shooting of Mrs. Frederickson, they began questioning Barkley. Sheriff Murray Britton said Barkley admitted being on U.S. 97 about the time and place of the shooting, but denied knowledge of it.

In the past, a number of drivers have complained of shots directed at their cars on or near the Klamath reservation north of here. Once a couple had to jump from their car and hide in the sagebrush all night. Scores of bullet holes later were found in the car.

Income Tax Cuts Posed By Dulles

BOSTON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon Saturday proposed cuts in federal taxes on business and persons with high-bracket incomes to stimulate contined business prosperity.

He did not suggest any reductions for average wage-earners. But he said they would benefit because "prosperity for the American people is insparable from prosperity for American business.'

The vice president emphasized he was speaking only for himself and not the administration which has been strongly opposed to any major tax reduction at this time. Democratic leaders in Congress supported the administration's position in the session concluded last month.

Nixon outlined his tax relief program in a speech on the 50th anniversary of the Harvard Business School Assn.

The vice president is a front-runner for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination. Some political pundits speculated that his remarks were a preview of how he will stand on major issues when nominating time rolls around. Nixon also is expected to play a major role in the fall congressional campaign.

He called for "a complete overhauling of the present hodgepodge of excise taxes." He said that if liquor and cigarette taxes were left as they are, a general manufacturers excise tax of about 1½ per cent "would bring in as much revenue as is presently obtained from all other excise taxes."

He did not elaborate but this was a clear suggestion that he thought a general federal sales tax at the manufacturer's level was preferable to the extremes of varying sales taxes now levied on certain items only.

Nixon also urged that America take steps to outstrip Russia as the "champion of legitimate nationalist movements" in other countries. He said America's prospects "are breathtaking in their magnitude" if the nation uses its resources wisely and well.

"The greatest coal of all lies in the international area," he said. and added that "to win this struggle, our national effort must be total, just as the Communist effort is total."

Linder Gives Decision On Judge's Race

CROSSETT (Special) — A. J. Linder who won the nomination in August to a fifth term as prosecuting attorney for the Tenth District decided Friday not to file as a candidate for judge of that district.

In issuing a statement yesterday giving his reasons for not entering the race for circuit court judge, Linder stated that although he had over 3,000 signatures petitioning that his name be placed on the ballot, he had decided not to run because many people felt he should remain in his present office as prosecutor.

Listing his reasons for wishing to enter the judge's race after being nominated for the attorney's slot, he stated that since he was already in the prosecuting attorney's race at the time of the death of Judge John Golden, withdrawal on his part would have put in his hands the power to name his own successor.

There was only one other candidate in the race for prosecuting attorney.

"Therefore I felt it was my duty to the people of my district to stay in the prosecuting attorney's race, so if I did run later for Judge, the people would have the opportunity to choose a prosecuting attorney in the November election."

Linder's election in August was for an unprecedented fifth term.

A woman told the court that when her husband came staggering into the house late at night hiccuping, she shot him in the leg to frighten him and thereby cure him of his hiccups. She is our candidate for the Burlington Liars Club 1957 award.

Blaze Destroys 2-Story House

A fire of undetermined origin swept through the 2 - story dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Holmes about five miles out on the Winnsboro Road early yesterday morning.

Nobody was reported injured.

Firemen at the Orange Street station, which answered the call, said the house was a total loss. They said the building and contents were partly covered by insurance.

Truck No. 2 answered the call at 4:48 a. m.

Post-Holiday Bond Trading Gains Cheer

NEW YORK (AP) — The post-Labor Day week brought a little more cheerful news to the bond markets.

U.S. government bonds halted a sharp summer slide and crept back a bit. Corporate financing took on a better look. Municipals showed a firmer tone. Invetent quality corporates continued to decline.

A spokesman for a big underwriting firm declared, "the market has been thoroughly tested and it looks as if we have established a level where we can do business."

Dag Hammarskold, secretary general of the United Nations, has received 13 academic degrees from universities throughout the world.

Grain Futures Market Stifled On Gain Tries

CHICAGO (AP) — The grain futures market appeared to be on the verge of a strong rally a few times this week but each small bulge opened up a smothering volume of profit-taking.

There were only a few extensions of last week's advances but the extreme ranges either way were within 1½ cents a bushel.

The most important new influence of the week was the monthly crop report by Francis I. du Pont & Co. and its statistician, C. M. Galvin. In it, Galvin boosted his estimates of major crop yields so substantially over those of a month ago that it gave a market a dark bullish hue most of the day.

However, the report was largely offset in later trading by the declared United States intention to go to the aid of Formosa if necessary in defense if its island possessions against invasion by Communist Chinese.

It was the mounting Chinese Communist - Nationalist tension which gave grain prices their strong boosts of last week. Although prices retreated somewhat from those highs, the trade seemed inclined to await more solid military developments before trying for another push.

Cotton Shows Irregularity; Closes Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures plodded a narrowly irregular course this week but closed with all deliveries in higher ground. The distant months made the best showing.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished the holiady - shortened week at prices ranging from 30 to 95 cents a bale higher than a week ago. Nearby October and December scored the smallest gains, distant March and July the largest.

Values at the start of the week were depressed by profit-taking, hedge selling and active liquidation, the latter stemming in part from further reaction by traders to the new farm bill.

Later the market firmed on trade buying and short covering. Demand for futures was strengthened by warlike developments in the Far East; the presence of a storm with hurricane potentialities off the Gulf Coast; and a larger than expected net stock of cotton pledged to the 1958 loan.

Wildlife Group Attacks Harmful Insecticides Use

The federation's annual convention adopted a resolution urging "immediate cessation of the fire ant control program (in Mississippi) in its present form."

The resolution said the present program "is destroying many forms of life."

The group asked that current fire ant control efforts by the Department of Agriculture and state pest control agencies be halted "until such time as adequate research authorized by the Congress shall have been concluded the full potential effects of the program and made known."

The group re-elected W. V. Robertson of Gulfport as president. L. G. Jones of Jackson will serve as additional term as vice president and J. W. Howell of West Point was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Grain Futures Market Stifled On Gain Tries

CHICAGO (AP) — The grain futures market appeared to be on the verge of a strong rally a few times this week but each small bulge opened up a smothering volume of profit-taking.

There were only a few extensions of last week's advances but the extreme ranges either way were within 1½ cents a bushel.

The most important new influence of the week was the monthly crop report by Francis I. du Pont & Co. and its statistician, C. M. Galvin. In it, Galvin boosted his estimates of major crop yields so substantially over those of a month ago that it gave a market a dark bullish hue most of the day.

However, the report was largely offset in later trading by the declared United States intention to go to the aid of Formosa if necessary in defense if its island possessions against invasion by Communist Chinese.

It was the mounting Chinese Communist - Nationalist tension which gave grain prices their strong boosts of last week. Although prices retreated somewhat from those highs, the trade seemed inclined to await more solid military developments before trying for another push.

Cotton Shows Irregularity; Closes Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures plodded a narrowly irregular course this week but closed with all deliveries in higher ground. The distant months made the best showing.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished the holiady - shortened week at prices ranging from 30 to 95 cents a bale higher than a week ago. Nearby October and December scored the smallest gains, distant March and July the largest.

Values at the start of the week were depressed by profit-taking, hedge selling and active liquidation, the latter stemming in part from further reaction by traders to the new farm bill.

Later the market firmed on trade buying and short covering. Demand for futures was strengthened by warlike developments in the Far East; the presence of a storm with hurricane potentialities off the Gulf Coast; and a larger than expected net stock of cotton pledged to the 1958 loan.

Wildlife Group Attacks Harmful Insecticides Use

The federation's annual convention adopted a resolution urging "immediate cessation of the fire ant control program (in Mississippi) in its present form."

The resolution said the present program "is destroying many forms of life."

The group asked that current fire ant control efforts by the Department of Agriculture and state pest control agencies be halted "until such time as adequate research authorized by the Congress shall have been concluded the full potential effects of the program and made known."

The group re-elected W. V. Robertson of Gulfport as president. L. G. Jones of Jackson will serve as additional term as vice president and J. W. Howell of West Point was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

One-Engined Craft Tries World Flight

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 39-year-old airline pilot took off from Idlewild Airport Saturday in an attempt to become the first man to fly solo around the world in a single-engine plane since Wiley Post did it in 1933.

"I would say that I am completely frightened at the thought of this flight," said Capt. Charles F. Banfe Jr., married and the father of four.

Banfe hoped to reach Rome, first leg of the flight, Sunday night in his 180-horsepower Mooney Mark 20A plane. The plane carried 350 gallons of fuel, enough for about 48 hours of flying. For nourishment, he had a bottle of fruit juice, vitamin pills and chocolate bars.

There was no parachute aboard because, Banfe said, it "requires too much weight."

The Pan American Airlines pilot, who lives in Palo Alto, Calif., said he hoped to complete the global flight in eight days, arriving back here a week from Sunday.

Post completed his solo flight in a Lockheed Vega named "Winnie Mae" in 7 days, 18 hours, 49 minutes and 30 seconds. Post and humorist Will Rogers later were killed in a plane crash.

Banfe's route after Rome called for six to eight-hour layovers at Bombay and Singapore before he reaches Tokyo.

"With the automatic pilot, I plan to snooze for about 15 minutes out of every hour while I'm in the air," he said. "If there is any change in direction or in the propeller pitch, I'm sure it will wake me up."

Registration At Northeast State Set Next Week

A party in honor of freshmen will be given Wednesday evening in the Student Center, following freshman orientation that morning and the administering of tests.

Various denominational student centers, the Baptist Student Union, Newman Club (Catholic), Wesley Foundation (Methodist), and Westminster Fellowship (Presbyterian), will be hosts at parties at their respective centers from 7:30-9 p. m., Thursday.

Following registration for regular students on Thursday and Friday, a barbecue and pep rally is scheduled at Brown Stadium from 5:30-7:30 p. m. Friday. The football team will be introduced at that time. Later that evening, an open house and dance for students will be held from 8-10 p. m. in the Student Center.

Classwork begins Monday, September 15. Classes will meet on the hour, beginning at 8 a. m., instead of the period schedule used here in the past.

Singers Arrive In Monroe Today For Convention

Leading singers from surrounding parishes and South Arkansas are expected to be on hand today for the regular first Sunday Booster Singing Convention, officials of the group said last night.

The singing will start at 1:30 p. m. at Booster Hall on Ouachita Avenue and will continue until 4 p. m.

A capacity crowd is expected and leaders invite the public to attend.

A public address system has been installed so that all present will be able to hear the various singing groups.

Candidate Says Rights Beliefs Causes Concern

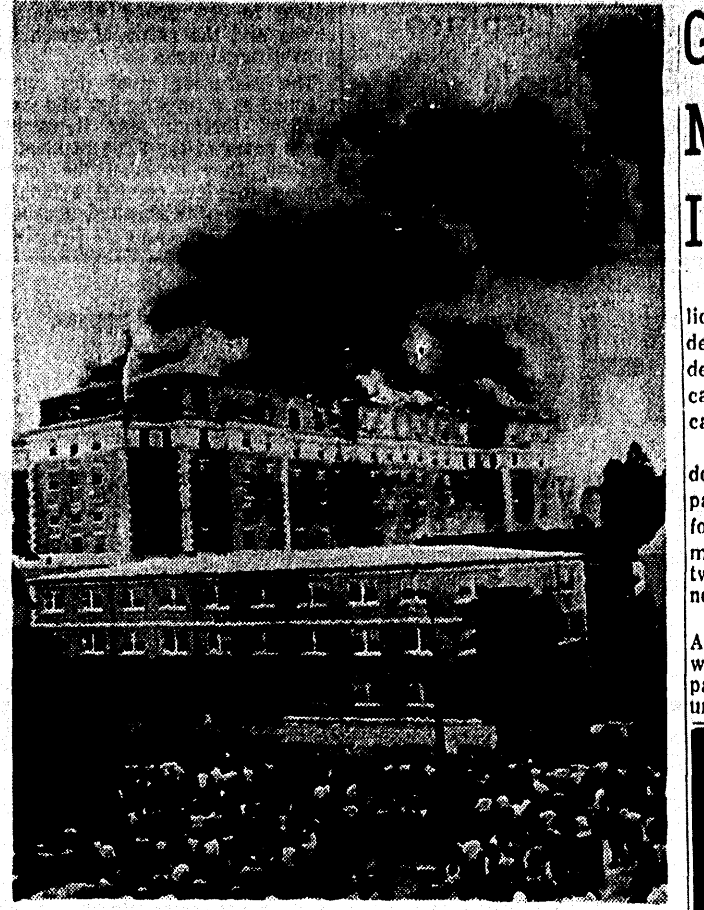
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Marvin Jackson, Independent candidate for governor, said Saturday his devotion to the states rights' principles of democracy "seems to be causing the top brass of the state party considerable concern."

Jackson, who presently is a cook at Danny's Diner here but refers to himself as a retired industrialist, said "I fully expected some unprecedented stumping against the honesty of my independent candidacy, by lesser lights of the party, but little did I expect they would deem it necessary and so soon, to call a top member like Senator Sparkman in defense of their nominee's unbeatable position.

He added, "it seems to be a repeat performance of the futile efforts to defeat anti-loyalist committee candidates in May and June."

Jackson said Sparkman pleaded with Young Democrats at Mobile recently to stick with the Democratic Party, "because we have no call on other party members, either Democrats or Republicans if we run off with a futile third party.

"By such a statement," said Jackson, "Mr. Sparkman clearly indicates he has the protest motive behind my Independent candidacy confused with a third party movement. In reality, I differ only from any Democratic candidate in that the sincerety of my position remains unquestionable.



FIRE DESTROYS BERMUDA HOTEL — Smoke billows into the sky as flames eat through the Bermudiana Hotel in Hamilton, Bermuda, during fire which destroyed the building. No loss of life or serious injuries were reported in blaze that caused an estimated three million dollars in damage. Fast-spreading blaze broke out in the afternoon and was not brought under control until early next morning. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Bermuda)

TRAFFIC CASE

Negro Leader May Appeal Conviction

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. said Saturday he is "strongly considering" an appeal of his $14 fine on charges of refusing to obey a police officer in an effort to win acquittal or permission to serve a jail sentence.

"I have five days in which to decide whether or not to appeal to the Circuit Court," said King. "I am conferring with my attorneys but have not made a final decision as yet.

"I want to make it abundantly clear that I want to be declared innocent of the charge or allowed to serve the necessary jail sentence."

The 29-year-old Baptist minister, whose fight for equal rights for Negroes has gained world-wide attention, said "I was deterined to go to jail. My conscience told me that I was not guilty."

King was fined $10 plus $4 costs Friday by Recorder's Court Judge Eugene Loe. The successful leader of the Negro bus boycott here two years ago was put in a detention room after he announced he woull not pay the fine. After an hour he was released when a "mysterious" white person paid the fine.

Three hours later city Police Commissioner Clyde Sellers, outspoken segregationist and a member of the White Citizens Council, admitted it was he who paid the $14 to prevent King from going to jail a "martyr."

If King appeals to the Circuit Court of Montgomery the case will be tried again. If the Circuit Court upholds the Recorder's Court it will be up to the higher court to set the punishment which meted out by the lower court. This would mean that King would have again the choice of paying a fine or serving a jail sentence.

Since it is a city case, the responsibility of making King assume the punishment would fall back on the Montgomery police Department which refused to jail the minister after his fine was paid.

Circuit Court Judge Walter B. Jones, whose $100,000 fine against the NAACP for contempt of court was recently thrown out, would preside over the appeal.

At a mass meeting of his followers in his church, the Dexter Avenue Baptist, King told a weeping crowd Friday night "They can put us all in jail if they want to, but we shall continue to work with God for our freedom."

Redstone Strike Meets Injunction By Contractors

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — Baroco Electrical Construction Co. Pensacola, Saturday announced it is seeking an injunction to halt union picketing which has halted 32 million dollars worth of vital missile construction at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

President James H. Baroco says his firm has appealed to the National Labor Relations Board in Atlanta, asking that pickets be removed at Redstone, where some 1,100 workers are idle, and at Santa Rosa Island near here, where another 100 workmen were off the job.

Baroco said none of his own 150 workmen have quit their jobs or struck in sympathy with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Union. "Only employes of firms with union contracts have ceased work," he said.

The Pensacola contractor said his firm employs no union labor and he labeled the strike an attempt by "union men employed by other contractors to exert pressure on Baroco Electric to sign a union agreement."

Young Demos Set Meeting In Carolina

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C. (UPI)—Approximately 1,000 young Democrats from the nine - state southeastern region will gather here next week-end for a YDC conference and rally.

Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla) will address a Saturday evening banquet session and the conference will be keynoted Friday night with an address by Nelson Lacione of Columbus, Ohio, national YDC president.

Conferences and workshop sessions are scheduled both Friday and Saturday. These will be conducted by William Z. Wood of Winston-Salem, N.I, and by Dave Tumin, Asst. Atty. Gen. of Florida.

Tax Power Body Draws Quillen To Membership

BRISTOL, Va.-Tenn. (UPI) — State Rep. James H. Quillen of Kingsport, Tenn., has been named a member of a special national Legislative conference committee which will conduct a study of the problems of federal-state relationships with emphasis on allocation of taxing powers.

The National Legislative Conference meets in Boston, holding a five-day meeting Sept. 16-20.

Quillen, in discussing the appointment, said he will introduce a resolution at the Boston meeting calling for the establishment of a committee to study the problems of state income taxes imposed on non-residents.

Gas Rates Case Will Be Heard Here Sept. 16th

A hearing of the United Gas Corporation vs. West Monroe is set for Tuesday, Sept. 16 at 9:30 a.m. in the Virginia Hotel before the Louisiana Public Service Commission.

The case stems from higher rates which the gas company is asking within the corporate limits of West Monroe.

Officials said this will be the final hearing in the case unless either faction can show due and just cause why the case should not be ended at this time.

Various other cases will also be heard at this session.

Schedule Supper

A covered dish supper at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in Castle Hall will open the fall meetings of Monroe Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters. A regular business meeting will be held following the supper. Officials ask all members to be present.

GOP Control Move To Book Ike, Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans now expect to book President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon for some intensive campaigning in their effort to recapture control of Congress.

Democrats are urging Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) to campaign for their party along with former President Harry S. Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson, twice the Democratic presidential nominee.

GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn said he expects to know within a week how much campaigning Eisenhower is likely to undertake. Alcorn already has gone over tentative schedules with Nixon.

Eisenhower's participation in the campaign may be limited by international developments. But if tensions ease, GOP leaders expect him to make several speeches in different parts of the country.

Nixon's schedule will depend in part on Eisenhower's appearances. But friends said they expect the vice president to campaign in most of the states where there are close contests for Senate seats. Nixon already is committed to appearances in California, where GOP Sen. William F. Knowland is seeking the governorship and Gov. Goodwin J. Knight is campaigning for Knowland's Senate seat.

Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida said the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee he heads is urging Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader, to campaign for party colleagues in several states. He said Johnson has given no commitments.

With Johnson, Truman and Stevenson, Smathers said he thinks the Democrats could match Eisenhower and Nixon in pulling out campaign crowds.

JC's Launch Fall Drive For Members

The fall membership drive of the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce was launched late last week with a meeting in the Penn Hotel.

Membership Chairman Doc Moncrief announced that the present members have been organized into 10 teams, and that they will work to bring in at least 100 new members.

DEADLINE SET

Deadline for the drive is Sept. 20, Moncrief said.

The team bringing in the most new members will be awarded a trip on a chartered bus to one of the LSU football games in Baton Rouge.

Also, the individual team member bringing in the most new members will receive two free tickets to the game and a $15 cash award.

The individual member does not have to be a member of the winning team in order to collect the individual award.

One-Engined Craft Tries World Flight

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 39-year-old airline pilot took off from Idlewild Airport Saturday in an attempt to become the first man to fly solo around the world in a single-engine plane since Wiley Post did it in 1933.

"I would say that I am completely frightened at the thought of this flight," said Capt. Charles F. Banfe Jr., married and the father of four.

Banfe hoped to reach Rome, first leg of the flight, Sunday night in his 180-horsepower Mooney Mark 20A plane. The plane carried 350 gallons of fuel, enough for about 48 hours of flying. For nourishment, he had a bottle of fruit juice, vitamin pills and chocolate bars.

There was no parachute aboard because, Banfe said, it "requires too much weight."

The Pan American Airlines pilot, who lives in Palo Alto, Calif., said he hoped to complete the global flight in eight days, arriving back here a week from Sunday.

Post completed his solo flight in a Lockheed Vega named "Winnie Mae" in 7 days, 18 hours, 49 minutes and 30 seconds. Post and humorist Will Rogers later were killed in a plane crash.

Banfe's route after Rome called for six to eight-hour layovers at Bombay and Singapore before he reaches Tokyo.

"With the automatic pilot, I plan to snooze for about 15 minutes out of every hour while I'm in the air," he said. "If there is any change in direction or in the propeller pitch, I'm sure it will wake me up."

Registration At Northeast State Set Next Week

A party in honor of freshmen will be given Wednesday evening in the Student Center, following freshman orientation that morning and the administering of tests.

Various denominational student centers, the Baptist Student Union, Newman Club (Catholic), Wesley Foundation (Methodist), and Westminster Fellowship (Presbyterian), will be hosts at parties at their respective centers from 7:30-9 p. m., Thursday.

Following registration for regular students on Thursday and Friday, a barbecue and pep rally is scheduled at Brown Stadium from 5:30-7:30 p. m. Friday. The football team will be introduced at that time. Later that evening, an open house and dance for students will be held from 8-10 p. m. in the Student Center.

Classwork begins Monday, September 15. Classes will meet on the hour, beginning at 8 a. m., instead of the period schedule used here in the past.

Singers Arrive In Monroe Today For Convention

Leading singers from surrounding parishes and South Arkansas are expected to be on hand today for the regular first Sunday Booster Singing Convention, officials of the group said last night.

The singing will start at 1:30 p. m. at Booster Hall on Ouachita Avenue and will continue until 4 p. m.

A capacity crowd is expected and leaders invite the public to attend.

A public address system has been installed so that all present will be able to hear the various singing groups.

Candidate Says Rights Beliefs Causes Concern

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Marvin Jackson, Independent candidate for governor, said Saturday his devotion to the states rights' principles of democracy "seems to be causing the top brass of the state party considerable concern."

Jackson, who presently is a cook at Danny's Diner here but refers to himself as a retired industrialist, said "I fully expected some unprecedented stumping against the honesty of my independent candidacy, by lesser lights of the party, but little did I expect they would deem it necessary and so soon, to call a top member like Senator Sparkman in defense of their nominee's unbeatable position.

He added, "it seems to be a repeat performance of the futile efforts to defeat anti-loyalist committee candidates in May and June."

Jackson said Sparkman pleaded with Young Democrats at Mobile recently to stick with the Democratic Party "because we have no call on other party members, either Democrats or Republicans if we run off with a futile third party.

"By such a statement," said Jackson, "Mr. Sparkman clearly indicates he has the protest motive behind my Independent candidacy confused with a third party movement. In reality, I differ only from any Democratic candidate in that the sincerety of my position remains unquestionable.

Negro Leader May Appeal Conviction

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. said Saturday he is "strongly considering" an appeal of his $14 fine on charges of refusing to obey a police officer in an effort to win acquittal or permission to serve a jail sentence.

"I have five days in which to decide whether or not to appeal to the Circuit Court," said King. "I am conferring with my attorneys but have not made a final decision as yet.

"I want to make it abundantly clear that I want to be declared innocent of the charge or allowed to serve the necessary jail sentence."

The 29-year-old Baptist minister, whose fight for equal rights for Negroes has gained world-wide attention, said "I was deterined to go to jail. My conscience told me that I was not guilty."

King was fined $10 plus $4 costs Friday by Recorder's Court Judge Eugene Loe. The successful leader of the Negro bus boycott here two years ago was put in a detention room after he announced he woull not pay the fine. After an hour he was released when a "mysterious" white person paid the fine.

Three hours later city Police Commissioner Clyde Sellers, outspoken segregationist and a member of the White Citizens Council, admitted it was he who paid the $14 to prevent King from going to jail a "martyr."

If King appeals to the Circuit Court of Montgomery the case will be tried again. If the Circuit Court upholds the Recorder's Court it will be up to the higher court to set the punishment which meted out by the lower court. This would mean that King would have again the choice of paying a fine or serving a jail sentence.

Since it is a city case, the responsibility of making King assume the punishment would fall back on the Montgomery police Department which refused to jail the minister after his fine was paid.

Circuit Court Judge Walter B. Jones, whose $100,000 fine against the NAACP for contempt of court was recently thrown out, would preside over the appeal.

At a mass meeting of his followers in his church, the Dexter Avenue Baptist, King told a weeping crowd Friday night "They can put us all in jail if they want to, but we shall continue to work with God for our freedom."

Redstone Strike Meets Injunction By Contractors

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — Baroco Electrical Construction Co. Pensacola, Saturday announced it is seeking an injunction to halt union picketing which has halted 32 million dollars worth of vital missile construction at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

President James H. Baroco says his firm has appealed to the National Labor Relations Board in Atlanta, asking that pickets be removed at Redstone, where some 1,100 workers are idle, and at Santa Rosa Island near here, where another 100 workmen were off the job.

Baroco said none of his own 150 workmen have quit their jobs or struck in sympathy with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Union. "Only employes of firms with union contracts have ceased work," he said.

The Pensacola contractor said his firm employs no union labor and he labeled the strike an attempt by "union men employed by other contractors to exert pressure on Baroco Electric to sign a union agreement."

Young Demos Set Meeting In Carolina

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C. (UPI)—Approximately 1,000 young Democrats from the nine - state southeastern region will gather here next week-end for a YDC conference and rally.

Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla) will address a Saturday evening banquet session and the conference will be keynoted Friday night with an address by Nelson Lacione of Columbus, Ohio, national YDC president.

Conferences and workshop sessions are scheduled both Friday and Saturday. These will be conducted by William Z. Wood of Winston-Salem, N.I, and by Dave Tumin, Asst. Atty. Gen. of Florida.

LEAVING the Winn Parish Courthouse after opening up the registrar of voters office at 1:30 a.m. Saturday is Mrs. Mary C. Flournoy, registrar, shown with Chief Deputy J. J. Crippen. She had disappeared for 36 hours, holding up a probe by Sen. Willie M. Rainach. (AP Wirephoto)

Absence Ended With Pre-Dawn

of Long's leaders in the House.

Rainach, accompanied to Winnfield by committee counsel W.M. Shaw, said his committee had been told that the Negro cook, Picola Parker, had been driven to Winnfield from Baton Rouge in a black Cadillac assigned to the governor.

State police Sgt. C. C. Butler, who is Long's chauffeur, drove the woman to Winnfield, according to Rainach's information. The cook registered on Aug. 26 during the four-day period in which the rolls were open after the first primary.

BOOKS TAKEN

Rainach said his committee had also heard the books were taken from the courthouse in violation of the law, that the law governing times when the books may be opened had also been broken, and that persons had received aid in filling out their registration cards, also in violation of state law.

"There is no question in our minds there have been numerous violations of voting laws, punishable by fines and jail sentences," Rainach said. He said he would make a report to the entire committee which might want to look into the Winn Parish situation further.

Mrs. Flournoy, after Rainach, Shaw and chief deputy J. J. Crippen had located her at her home, said:

"There is nothing going on wrong in that office as far as I know."

"They are just trying to find something on Earl Long," she said.

"Willie Rainach is just trying to get some publicity to run for governor," she said.

A Winn Parish grand jury is looking into the same things Rainach investigated. It could make its report the first of the week.

Rainach himself went to Winnfield Thursday morning and spent two hours in Mrs. Flournoy's office, looking over records and making photo copies of cards. At noon, they left for lunch, assured by Mrs. Flournoy she would return by 1 p.m. They left their equipment in her office.

Mrs. Flournoy did not return and left word she had to go to Greenwood, Miss., to visit a sister who was ill.

Rainach and Shaw then attempted to find the deputy registrar, J. L. Ferguson, and the grand jury served Ferguson a subpoena. But the deputy also did not appear.

Ferguson showed up at his home at 8:30 p.m. Friday and was arrested on a bench warrant issued by the grand jury when he failed to honor the subpoena. He was released on $500 bond. He said he had been hauling syrup all day. Rainach attempted to get District Judge Harwell Allen to sign petition opening the office doors Friday afternoon, but the judge, saying he doubted he had such authority, refused.

The matter stood stalemated until Mrs. Flournoy unlocked her office at 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

Rainach said he had never heard of two officials disappearing at such a time.

"I'm astounded," he said. "I think they ran off because they know they did wrong."

Nixon Says 'Paper Tiger' Not U.S. Role

BOSTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon declared Saturday the United States is not playing the role of a "paper tiger" in preparing for the defense of the islands of Quemoy and Matsu in the Formosa Strait against the Communist Chinese.

"What is involved," he said, "is not simply Quemoy and Matsu but the free world's position in all Asia.

"If a massive attack threatens Formosa, the duty of the United States to act would be clear.

"If it appeared that as a result of an attack a chain reaction would be set in motion to endanger the free world in Asia, the need for the United States to act would become clear."

Nixon departed from a prepared address on the 50th anniversary conference of the Harvard Business School Assn., to say that developments in the Formosa Strait had raised questions as to why the risk of war might be taken to save these islands.

In explanation, Nixon said, "What we will do depends on the nature of the attack if one is made. First responsibility for the defense rests on the Chinese National government."

Nixon then went on to say, "I can think of no greater miscalculation the Chinese Communists could make than to assume they could use force in this conflict without grave risk that the conflict would spread.

"To summarize," the vice president said, "our aim here as in Lebanon is solely to maintain peace. You do not maintain peace in dealing with dictatorships by appearing to be weak but by having strength both militarily and diplomatically.

"The United States could make no greater mistake than to appear to be a paper tiger in the crisis now being mounted in the Formosa Strait."

Nixon devoted most of his prepared address to discussing strengthening the American economy by broadening unemployment insurance and reducing certain business taxes and high-bracket personal income taxes.

He urged rapid adoption of reforms to extend unemployment compensation to 12 million workers not now covered. He advocated temporary benefit periods be made permanent. He said federal and state governments should cooperate to establish higher minimum standards of benefits, their duration and their coverage.

Nixon said he was not speaking for the administration.

dit apparently became nervous and shot Crockett in the face.

Crockett was not seriously hurt. He grabbed a shotgun, chased Beuford out of the bar and fired into the car in which Beuford was attempting a getaway, according to officials. No money was taken.

Beuford was not hit, but the bartender's bullet struck an accomplice, identified as Bolguard. Two other men in the car were identified as Brown and Beuford's brother.

Bolguard was captured yesterday in a Natchez, Miss., hospital where he was being treated for a "fairly serious" wound. Brown and the gunman's brother were captured later in the day, one near Olla and the other in Alexandria. One was in the LaSalle Parish Jail last night and the other was being held in the Rapides Parish Jail.

Authorities said all four will be charged with attempted murder and armed robbery.

group, including former Govs. Robert Kennon, Jimmie Davis, Sam Jones and James A. Noe, to study ways to help convicts who can't find outside jobs.

He also wants the group to help the poor inmates, unable to hire counsel to assist their cases.

Dodd said this nonpartisan committee of outstanding citizens was a sound idea.

"I believe this committee will tackle the problem systematically and come up with recommendations which, if adopted, will rectify their recurrence in the future," Dodd said.

"One of the first of these that will come to light," he added, "is the pardon board setup itself. It is physically impossible for any board to consider intelligently the petitions of several hundred prisoners in the three or four days during which the pardon board meets.

"And in my opinion, the makeup of the board is not in keeping with the work it is expected to do. The lieutenant governor, and I served in that capacity, may or may not be trained in the law and versed in the work of hearing and acting on applications for pardons.

"But even if he is qualified by training and education," Dodd continued, "the fact that he holds a political office and nine times out of 10 has his eye on the next election makes it hard for him to judge these pardon cases in a nonpartisan and nonpolitical manner.

"The same is true for the attorney general member and the sentencing judge," Dodd said. "The sentencing judge often is reluctant to recommend a pardon or commutation because by doing so he is, to some of his constituents, admitting that he made a mistake in his original sentence.

"For these reasons, and others, I would recommend that a pardon board be created that would consist of professionally trained experts not only in the field of criminal law but in penology. And I would give this board enough time to consider carefully and fully each individual pardon application."

the bridge would not extend to that depth.

The controversial highway bridge was subject of hearings here in July to determine the clearance of the structure. Present plans call for a height of 32.8 feet above the highest water mark of record but boat traffic interests and the Ouachita River Valley Association have asked for a clearance of 50 feet.

The association argued in a July hearing here that the proposed clearance would not allow the larger and newly constructed barges and tugs to move into and through the area.

In rebuttal, Dr. E. Lionel Pavlov said the additional height would call for the purchase of three more city blocks of land for the bridge at a cost of approximately $270,000. A total of more than $1 million additional would be required if the height was raised.

Briefs of the hearing testimony were submitted to the Corps of Engineers, in charge of the hearings, and will be studied before recommendations are made to Washington. No date was given for the final decision.

Rites Scheduled Here Today For Accident Victim

Funeral services for Peter Corrent, 78, will be held at St. Joseph Catholic Church on Benton Street today at 2:30 p.m. with the Rev. Michael Hannon officiating.

Mr. Corrent died Friday afternoon in a local hospital. Dr. John Burton, Ouachita Parish Coroner said he died of a cerebral hemorrhage as a result of an automobile accident. Mr. Corrent was struck by a car about a month ago as he was crossing a street.

Burial will be in St. Matthews cemetery under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home. A rosary service was held at the funeral home chapel last night, a requiem mass was said for Mr. Corrent yesterday morning.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rose Corrent, Monroe; two sons, Joe and Sam Corrent, both of Monroe; two brothers, Dominick Corrent, Port Allen, and Joe Corrent, Baton Rouge; and 13 grandchildren.

Mr. Corrent was born in Italy and had been a resident of Monroe for the past 58 years. He was a farmer during that time.

Mock Capture Of Illinois Town Is Made

LEBANON, Ill. (AP)—Marines in full battle gear took over this town Saturday in a mock occupation to the sound of wailing sirens and the rattle of machine guns firing blanks.

The recruiting stunt first was planned as a surprise but this was changed through fear it might panic some of the 3,500 residents. Instead, they crowded the town square to view combat exhibits.

The town was selected because its name is the same as the Middle East Nationa recently occupied by Marines. The Leathernecks here were greeted by signs reading, "Yankees go home" and, "We like you Yanks."

LEAVING the Winn Parish Courthouse after opening up the registrar of voters office at 1:30 a.m. Saturday is Mrs. Mary C. Flournoy, registrar, shown with Chief Deputy J. J. Crippen. She had disappeared for 36 hours, holding up a probe by Sen. Willie M. Rainach. (AP Wirephoto)

of Long's leaders in the House.

Rainach, accompanied to Winnfield by committee counsel W.M. Shaw, said his committee had been told that the Negro cook, Picola Parker, had been driven to Winnfield from Baton Rouge in a black Cadillac assigned to the governor.

State police Sgt. C. C. Butler, who is Long's chauffeur, drove the woman to Winnfield, according to Rainach's information. The cook registered on Aug. 26 during the four-day period in which the rolls were open after the first primary.

BOOKS TAKEN

Rainach said his committee had also heard the books were taken from the courthouse in violation of the law, that the law governing times when the books may be opened had also been broken, and that persons had received aid in filling out their registration cards, also in violation of state law.

"There is no question in our minds there have been numerous violations of voting laws, punishable by fines and jail sentences," Rainach said. He said he would make a report to the entire committee which might want to look into the Winn Parish situation further.

Mrs. Flournoy, after Rainach, Shaw and chief deputy J. J., Crippen had located her at her home, said:

"There is nothing going on wrong in that office as far as I know."

"They are just trying to find something on Earl Long," she said.

"Willie Rainach is just trying to get some publicity to run for governor," she said.

A Winn Parish grand jury is looking into the same things Rainach investigated. It could make its report the first of the week.

Rainach himself went to Winnfield Thursday morning and spent two hours in Mrs. Flournoy's office, looking over records and making photo copies of cards. At noon, they left for lunch, assured by Mrs. Flournoy she would return by 1 p.m. They left their equipment in her office.

Mrs. Flournoy did not return and left word she had to go to Greenwood, Miss., to visit a sister who was ill.

Rainach and Shaw then attempted to find the deputy registrar, J. L. Ferguson, and the grand jury served Ferguson a subpoena. But the deputy also did not appear.

Ferguson showed up at his home at 8:30 p.m. Friday and was arrested on a bench warrant issued by the grand jury when he failed to honor the subpoena. He was released on $500 bond. He said he had been hauling syrup all day. Rainach attempted to get District Judge Harwell Allen to sign petition opening the office doors Friday afternoon, but the judge, saying he doubted he had such authority, refused.

The matter stood stalemated until Mrs. Flournoy unlocked her office at 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

Rainach said he had never heard of two officials disappearing at such a time.

"I'm astounded," he said. "I think they ran off because they know they did wrong."

Nixon Says 'Paper Tiger' Not U.S. Role

BOSTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon declared Saturday the United States is not playing the role of a "paper tiger" in preparing for the defense of the islands of Quemoy and Matsu in the Formosa Strait against the Communist Chinese.

"What is involved," he said, "is not simply Quemoy and Matsu but the free world's position in all Asia.

"If a massive attack threatens Formosa, the duty of the United States to act would be clear.

"If it appeared that as a result of an attack a chain reaction would be set in motion to endanger the free world in Asia, the need for the United States to act would become clear."

Nixon departed from a prepared address on the 50th anniversary conference of the Harvard Business School Assn., to say that developments in the Formosa Strait had raised questions as to why the risk of war might be taken to save these islands.

In explanation, Nixon said, "What we will do depends on the nature of the attack if one is made. First responsibility for the defense rests on the Chinese National government."

Nixon then went on to say, "I can think of no greater miscalculation the Chinese Communists could make than to assume they could use force in this conflict without grave risk that the conflict would spread.

"To summarize," the vice president said, "our aim here as in Lebanon is solely to maintain peace. You do not maintain peace in dealing with dictatorships by appearing to be weak but by having strength both militarily and diplomatically.

"The United States could make no greater mistake than to appear to be a paper tiger in the crisis now being mounted in the Formosa Strait."

Nixon devoted most of his prepared address to discussing strengthening the American economy by broadening unemployment insurance and reducing certain business taxes and high-bracket personal income taxes.

He urged rapid adoption of reforms to extend unemployment compensation to 12 million workers not now covered. He advocated temporary benefit periods be made permanent. He said federal and state governments should cooperate to establish higher minimum standards of benefits, their duration and their coverage.

Nixon said he was not speaking for the administration.

Hales and District Chief Homer Massingill also made the trip.

Funeral arrangements for Mr. Lamb were incomplete last night, pending the arrival of his widow from Alabama. Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Beulah Lamb, and a sister, Miss Lee Lamb, both of Oak Grove.

FARMERVILLE WRECK

Authorities said Miss Hanks' car and a vehicle driven by Miss Susan Richey, 17, Ruston, collided at 4:30 p.m. on the Farmerville Road three miles northeast of Ruston.

After the collision, the car driven by Miss Hanks plunged down a steep embankment and landed about 40 yards off the highway. She was taken to a Ruston hospital and treated for lacerations. Her condition was not believed serious last night.

Miss Hanks was alone in her car. Miss Richey was not hurt, nor were any of her passengers. Both cars were heavily damaged.

TWO HURT

Two persons were still hospitalized last night as a result of a 2-car head-on collision on Highway 15 near Winnsboro Friday night.

Mrs. Evelyn R. Boutwell of Winnsboro, driver of one of the vehicles, was in a Winnsboro hospital suffering with cuts, bruises and head injuries. F. E. Lyles, Mangham resident and principal of Baskin High School, was in a Rayville hospital being treated for cuts and chest injuries.

Deputy Sheriff Mack Rogillio, who was at the scene with Cpl. Dave Chase of State Police, said Mrs. Boutwell apparently became blinded by the lights from the Lyles car, which was driven by Elwyn C. Lyles, son of F. E. Lyles.

Authorities said Mrs. Boutwell pulled over into the Lyles' lane after becoming blinded. Both cars were a total loss.

No charges had been filed last night pending completion of investigation.

Two Calhoun men were hospitalized following an accident on Highway 80 early yesterday morning. L. J. Mosely and George Mosely, both of Rt. 1, sustained lacerations and bruises along with possible internal injuries.

Both men were being held for treatment at the St. Francis Hospital. The driver of the other car, Wilson Foster, Winnfield, was apparently not injured.

Foster's car collided with the Mosely auto. State police said Foster had been charged with driving without a valid driver's license, running a stop sign and causing negligent injury.

Hospital attendants said George and L. J. Mosely were "resting well."

For the future, Medaris saw space platforms, world wide communications relay stations in space, perfect weather forecasting and possibly weather control, and "the unfolding knowledge of the universe beyond the stars."

The Army said in another article that its missile developers envision a space station 1,000 miles above earth as the "first step in interplanetary travel." There would be commuter vehicles from earth to the station and "deep space ships" for onward trips to Mars, Venus and the moon.

The impressive army outline of its hoped-for space future was uninhibited by such official statements as Defense Secretary Neil McElroy has made to the effect that the Air Force is likely to be the operator of this nation's manned space vehicles.

At 1,075 miles in a circular orbit, the station would go around earth every two hours while earth would rotate inside the orbit every 24 hours.

"Within a 24-hour period (an observer) would have opportunity to see every point on earth at least once," Von Braun said.

In Washington, the Justice Department declined comment on Geer's order.

Geer said no federal agents or officials had contacted him about his stand. Any further action by him, he said, "depends on what steps they might want to take."

Judge Geer said that citizens of this farming section were "very calm" about the civil rights action which was filed under the 1957 law designed to protect voter rights. He said he had received many calls, most praising him for his stand.

One of the Terrell defendants, Mrs. F. Lawson Cook, said that FBI agents made a photostatic copy of every voter registration card in the county before the charges were filed.

J. G. Rains, chairman of the Terrell board, said the Negroes named as being discriminated against were denied registration because they could not read the U.S. Constitution intelligently. He said he had always attempted to enforce voting requirements fairly without regard to race.

Terrell County is a small county about 150 miles south of Atlanta. Judge Geer's seat here is about 50 miles farther south near the Florida line and near Bainbridge, home of Gov. Marvin Griffin and a center of pro-segregation sentiment.

Miss. Beauty Wins America Pageant Title

The new Miss America measures 34¼-22-35 and was crowned before a nationwide television audience CBS and a capacity convention hall crowd of 17,006.

Second place went to Miss Iowa, Joanne Lucille MacDonald, 20, of Ames who received a $3,000 scholarship.

Third was Miss Oklahoma, Anita Bryant, 18, of Tulsa, who won a $2,000 scholarship.

Fourth place went to Miss California, Sandra Lee Jennings, 18, of Riverside, who won a $2,000 scholarship.

The fifth place winner was Miss North Carolina, Betty Lane Evans, 18, of Greenville, who won a $1,500 scholarship.

After receiving her crown, scepter and regal robes from Miss Van Derbur, the new Miss America walked down the 110-foot runway before a wildly applauding audience and the flash of hundreds of photographers' bulbs.

Miss Mobley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Williams. She is the first representative of her state to be chosen a Miss America.

The pretty brunette won the crown over four other finalists after answering two questions posed by master of ceremonies Bert Parks.

Each finalist picked her own questions from two glass jars. The first question read to Miss Mobley asked her favorite topic to open a conversation with a young man.

She answered:

"Well I have read different articles that tell you how to get along with a young man, to get him to talk about himself. Does he play football? What is his favorite sport? If you can't get him to answer any of these, you just keep quiet for the rest of the evening."

Her second question was how would she judge a person's greatness and what is her idea of true greatness.

She answered:

"A truly great person in my estimation is a person who can get along with his fellow man and woman. A person who can understand other people is bound to be a great person, and I admire him very much."

Miss Mobley said there was a great need in the world for true understanding among men.

For her talent presentation Saturday night, she sang an operate solo, then switched to a popular song and endel up by doing a modern jazz dance.

The bodice was of hand beaded lace with tiny tulle straps. The tulle skirt was decorated with lace inserts, also hand beaded.

The new Miss America has studied speech for four years, has taken four years voice training and had special instruction in dancing and modelling for six years.

She lists tennis as her favorite sport and pink as her favorite color. She was selected national football queen in Berkeley, Calif., last year. She is a member of the University Players at Mississippi.

The five finalists were chosen from 10 semifinalists who staged their talent specialties and displayed their beauty in swimsuit and evening gown.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army claimed Saturday night that a recent test demonstrated its new Nike Hercules antiaircraft missile launching system has the mobility essential for rapid deployment in any part of the world.

They were trained through rehabilitation programs operated by one of America's religious faiths. It isn't only the blind who need rehabilitation help overseas. Many have been maimed during war years. # Butane Truck Crash Claims Driver's Life

Hales and District Chief Homer Massingill also made the trip.

Funeral arrangements for Mr. Lamb were incomplete last night, pending the arrival of his widow from Alabama. Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Beulah Lamb, and a sister, Miss Lee Lamb, both of Oak Grove.

FARMERVILLE WRECK

Authorities said Miss Hanks' car and a vehicle driven by Miss Susan Richey, 17, Ruston, collided at 4:30 p.m. on the Farmerville Road three miles northeast of Ruston.

After the collision, the car driven by Miss Hanks plunged down a steep embankment and landed about 40 yards off the highway. She was taken to a Ruston hospital and treated for lacerations. Her condition was not believed serious last night.

Miss Hanks was alone in her car. Miss Richey was not hurt, nor were any of her passengers. Both cars were heavily damaged.

TWO HURT

Two persons were still hospitalized last night as a result of a 2-car head-on collision on Highway 15 near Winnsboro Friday night.

Mrs. Evelyn R. Boutwell of Winnsboro, driver of one of the vehicles, was in a Winnsboro hospital suffering with cuts, bruises and head injuries. F. E. Lyles, Mangham resident and principal of Baskin High School, was in a Rayville hospital being treated for cuts and chest injuries.

Deputy Sheriff Mack Rogillio, who was at the scene with Cpl. Dave Chase of State Police, said Mrs. Boutwell apparently became blinded by the lights from the Lyles car, which was driven by Elwyn C. Lyles, son of F. E. Lyles.

Authorities said Mrs. Boutwell pulled over into the Lyles' lane after becoming blinded. Both cars were a total loss.

No charges had been filed last night pending completion of investigation.

Two Calhoun men were hospitalized following an accident on Highway 80 early yesterday morning. L. J. Mosely and George Mosely, both of Rt. 1, sustained lacerations and bruises along with possible internal injuries.

Both men were being held for treatment at the St. Francis Hospital. The driver of the other car, Wilson Foster, Winnfield, was apparently not injured.

Foster's car collided with the Mosely auto. State police said Foster had been charged with driving without a valid driver's license, running a stop sign and causing negligent injury.

Hospital attendants said George and L. J. Mosely were "resting well."

ed that Explorer IV, launched this summer, is now trying to learn whether the radiation ban discovered by Explorer I originates from the sun or from interstellar space, and how deep the zone is.

For the future, Medaris saw space platforms, world wide communications relay stations in space, perfect weather forecasting and possibly weather control, and "the unfolding knowledge of the universe beyond the stars."

The Army said in another article that its missile developers envision a space station 1,000 miles above earth as the "first step in interplantetary travel." There would be commuter vehicles from earth to the station and "deep space ships" for onward trips to Mars, Venus and the moon.

The impressive army outline of its hoped-for space future was uninhibited by such official statements as Defense Secretary Neil McElroy has made to the effect that the Air Force is likely to be the operator of this nation's manned space vehicles.

At 1,075 miles in a circular orbit, the station would go around earth every two hours while earth would rotate inside the orbit every 24 hours.

"Within a 24-hour period (an observer) would have opportunity to see every point on earth at least once," Von Braun said.

Mary Rayborn Funeral Today

DELHI (Special) — Mrs. Mary Rayborn, a West Monroe resident until she moved to Vicksburg, Miss., about one week ago, died unexpectedly yesterday at her home in Vicksburg. She was 51.

Funeral services will be held today at 3 p.m. at Gay's Funeral Home Chapel in Delhi, with the Rev. W. A. Dearman officiating. Interment will be in the Delhi Masonic Cemetery by Gay's.

Mrs. Rayborn is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Maxine Chisholm, West Monroe, and Mrs. Pauline Crain, Greenville, Miss.; a son, Percy Rayborn, Vicksburg; two sisters, Mrs. Ruby McDonald, Jackson, Miss., and Mrs. Myrtle Scott, Natchez, Miss. and six grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Tolbert Copes, Thomas Sheppard, Woodrow Sheppard, W. A. Sheppard, Clarence Chisholm and Lavalle Crain.

Buddhist priest have their last meal of the day at noon and do not touch food again until the following morning.

Judge Orders Records Held From Probers

sheriff of Terrell County, Ga., is authorized and directed to employ as many deputies as in his discretion will be necessary to enforce this order and to protect you to the extent that you may perform your duties as registrar."

Geer said no federal agents or officials had contacted him about his stand. Any further action by him, he said, "depends on what steps they might want to take."

Judge Geer said that citizens of this farming section were "very calm" about the civil rights action which was filed under the 1957 law designed to protect voter rights. He said he had received many calls, most praising him for his stand.

One of the Terrell defendants, Mrs. F. Lawson Cook, said that FBI agents made a photostatic copy of every voter registration card in the county before the charges were filed.

J. G. Rains, chairman of the Terrell board, said the Negroes named as being discriminated against were denied registration because they could not read the U.S. Constitution intelligently. He said he had always attempted to enforce voting requirements fairly without regard to race.

Terrell County is a small county about 150 miles south of Atlanta. Judge Geer's seat here is about 50 miles farther south near the Florida line and near Bainbridge, home of Gov. Marvin Griffin and a center of pro-segregation sentiment.

Long Proclaims DAV Observance

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Earl Long has proclaimed the week of Sept. 7-13 disabled American veterans week in Louisiana.

Long urged yesterday every eligible veteran to join the DAV during the week "so the outstanding services of the organization may be continued and enlarged for the war handicapped, their widows and dependents."

Japan is now welding rails on its railway tracks. They want quiet, and not so much clickety-clack disturbing rhythm which happened on their older rail lines.

VILLAGE OF LIGHT

It once was called Village of the Blind. But the Israelis who live there, all of them blind, voted to change the name to Village of Light. They changed it because now there is light—the light of hope. The citizens all have their own houses and support themselves by making and selling furniture, handicrafts, rugs. They were trained through rehabilitation programs operated by one of America's religious faiths. It isn't only the blind who need rehabilitation help overseas. Many have been maimed during war years. They've been deprived of training and education. They need the help you can give when you support the religious OVERSEAS AID Program of your faith.

Miss. Beauty Wins America Pageant Title

The new Miss America measures 34¼-22-35 and was crowned before a nationwide television audience CBS and a capacity convention hall crowd of 17,006.

Second place went to Miss Iowa, Joanne Lucille MacDonald, 20, of Ames who received a $3,000 scholarship.

Third was Miss Oklahoma, Anita Bryant, 18, of Tulsa, who won a $2,000 scholarship.

Fourth place went to Miss California, Sandra Lee Jennings, 18, of Riverside, who won a $2,000 scholarship.

The fifth place winner was Miss North Carolina, Betty Lane Evans, 18, of Greenville, who won a $1,500 scholarship.

After receiving her crown, scepter and regal robes from Miss Van Derbur, the new Miss America walked down the 110-foot runway before a wildly applauding audience and the flash of hundreds of photographers' bulbs.

Miss Mobley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Williams. She is the first representative of her state to be chosen a Miss America.

The pretty brunette won the crown over four other finalists after answering two questions posed by master of ceremonies Bert Parks.

Each finalist picked her own questions from two glass jars. The first question read to Miss Mobley asked her favorite topic to open a conversation with a young man.

She answered:

"Well I have read different articles that tell you how to get along with a young man, to get him to talk about himself. Does he play football? What is his favorite sport? If you can't get him to answer any of these, you just keep quiet for the rest of the evening."

Her second question was how would she judge a person's greatness and what is her idea of true greatness.

She answered:

"A truly great person in my estimation is a person who can get along with his fellow man and woman. A person who can understand other people is bound to be a great person, and I admire him very much."

Miss Mobley said there was a great need in the world for true understanding among men.

For her talent presentation Saturday night, she sang an operate solo, then switched to a popular song and ended up by doing a modern jazz dance.

The bodice was of hand beaded lace with tiny tulle straps. The tulle skirt was decorated with lace inserts, also hand beaded.

The new Miss America has studied speech for four years, has taken four years voice training and had special instruction in dancing and modelling for six years.

She lists tennis as her favorite sport and pink as her favorite color. She was selected national football queen in Berkeley, Calif., last year. She is a member of the University Players at Mississippi.

The five finalists were chosen from 10 semifinalists who staged their talent specialties and displayed their beauty in swimsuit and evening gown.

Army Missile System Rapid In Deploying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army claimed Saturday night that a recent test demonstrated its new Nike Hercules antiaircraft missile launching system has the mobility essential for rapid deployment in any part of the world.

A news release on this phase of the Hercules program was issued by the Army a few days after it had protested to the Defense Department that the Air Force was trying to talk down the Army missile as compared with the Air Force's long-range Bomarc weapon. Both weapons can use atomic warheads. Range of the Army missile is 80 to 100 miles, that of the Bomarc, 200 to 500 miles.

Atom Plane Engine Ran 230 Hours

GENEVA (AP)—The Atoms-for-Peace Conference was told Saturday that a U.S. nuclear-powered plane engine had operated successfully at full power on the ground for 230 hours.

Officials declined to say whether a nuclear engine had been tested in flight.

The engine, tested by General Electric's nuclear aircraft engine department, was a modified version of the General Electric turbojet. The engine was started with a normal gasoline jet combustion chamber. As air was forced through the atomic reactor, it cooled the combustion chamber, until the engine gradually operated entirely on nuclear power.

D. Roy Shoults, head of the GE nuclear department, gave the conference a detailed report on the tests up to the beginning of last year. Test results since then were withheld for security reasons. This made the report comparatively out-dated and the U.S. delegation did not include it in its official presentation. However, Shoults' paper was placed on the conference record.

The Russians announced recently they were making progress with the development of a nuclear plane, but have not released any test data.

Shoults' paper said, "For the first time, all the components of such a system were assembled and operated."

The test reactor was shielded by water, steel and lead, he said, but flying versions of the engine would be fitted with much smaller and lighter shields.

Flu Vaccine Recommended Before Fall

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Public Health service Saturday recommended influenza vaccination for certain groups and individuals before fall.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said there is no indication now that widespread attacks of the disease will occur this fall and winter.

But he said there undoubtedly will be some influenza, and vaccination is a prudent measure for persons in key jobs and individuals to whom the disease might be an added health risk.

Ike Welcomes Chinese Offer For Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower moved quickly Saturday to exploit what seemed to be a face-saving way out for all concerned in the grimly foreboding China crisis. The White House issued a statement warmly welcoming an off by Premier Chou En-lai to resume U.S.-Red China talks on safeguarding the peace.

The White House statement said U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam "stands ready promptly to meet" at Warsaw with Rec China's ambassador there, Wang Ping-nan.

Thus, the United States sought to respond softly to the first break in the weeks-long Formosa crisis which has threatened to engulf the United States in war with Red China, if not ultimately the Soviet Union.

U.S.-Red China talks previous, had been held at Geneva in neutral Switzerland.

But the White House statement emphasized that the United States adheres to its position that it will agree to nothing in the talks which would prejudice the rights of Nationalist China.

Officials hoped this would not be a bar to resuming the talks. Its main purpose was to keep Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek from complaining that the meetings might undercut his position.

Repeated also in Saturday's statement was the U.S. attitude regarding Red China's claims on Formosa and the offshore islands also held by Chiang. It said Red China need not renounce these claims in making any pledge not to use force.

The statement was issued following an extraordinary meeting of National Security Council meetings at the White House. This session was scheduled as a luncheon for Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles. But after Chou's offer to talk peace became known, the meeting was expanded to include other members of the Security Council.

Transit Fare Hike?

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Shreveport transit company president Ed Jacobs said Friday the bus company will file with the city council for a fare hike on all city buses and trolleys. Jacobs said the requests will be presented with a statement of the transit company's operations for the first half of this year. He did not say the amount of proposed increase.

Applications Of 30 Negroes Rejected In Va.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — The School Board has rejected applications of 30 Negro pupils for admission to the city's white schools, the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People announced Saturday.

George F. Ferguson, president of the local chapter of the NAACP made the announcement and added, "We are not at all surprised."

School Board officials, who must report to Federal Judge John Paul next Monday on their review of the 30 Negro applications, had declined to reveal their action taken under a local pupil assignment plan.

Letters had been mailed by the School Board Friday night to parents of the Negro applicants disclosing the assignment made on each specific application.

Judge Paul has indicated that if he finds the School Board has discriminated against any Negro pupils because of their race in [illegible] the assignments, he will assign them himself.

Looks 'Em Over

Three seniors, each a three-letter gridder and each married, are prepared to co-captain the 1958 Northeast State Indians through a nine-game schedule, just three of them at home.

Driskill, 21, 6' 1" and weighing 195 pounds, made honorable mention in the Gulf States Conference as a freshman; the second team as a sophomore, and was named to the first team in the GSC last year.

Knox, 25, is 6' 3" and weighs 214. He played at Northeast during the 1953 and 1954 seasons before serving two years in the army. Knox was here last fall for the 1957 season and did a tremendous job in the Indian line.

Reynolds, 21, is 6' 2" and weighs 175. A stalwart quarterback for the last three seasons at Northeast, he will again lead the Indian attack. Hampered by flu last year, he is being counted on heavily this fall.

Each of the co-captains is married tto a former Northeast student. Driskill is married to the former Carolyn Dark of Delhi, 1957 homecoming queen, and Reynolds is married to the former Sandra Brinson of Waverly, 1956 homecoming queen and a former cheerleader. The Driskills have a young son. Mrs. Knox is the former Mary Ann Allen of West Monroe.

Last week we touched briefly on some of the original Indians, forerunners of the Northeast State Redskins of today. The result brought us lots of comment and many requests came wanting to know who made up the first Indian football squad that turned out for J. Paul Kemerer, the first Tribal coach in 1931.

So we did a little checking to refresh our memory and here's the squad as we recall it after jolting our memory by checking some old publications.

Kemerer announced this first Tribe roster for the initial scrimmage on October 2, 1931, after two weeks of training:

Managers were Leavell Coates, Charles Cason, C. C. "Dutchy" Bell, and Frank Smith. Harold Dennis, after some early jolts in football, decided he could better serve as team business manager and thus became one of Kemerer's chief student lieutenants. Harold holds the distinction of "doing" the first "live" broadcast of a football game in this area. He was well acquainted with the high school athletes of this area and had made friends at KMLB where he fed college athletic publicity. The late J. C. Liner Sr. had Dennis do a broadcast of a Neville High game here in 1932, and local football games have been on the air by various stations with professional announcers since.

For years we have known Brown Field boasts a unique distinction unknown to many, recalled by few, and probably a national record of some sort. In 1932 the Indians played a game to ONE paid admission. The "crowd" of three that dismal day included C. C. Colvert, president of the college and in free of course; George Lofton, the sports writer in on a pass; and the lone paid admission represented by Carroll Royce, connected with an auto parts firm here, long one of the area's big athletic followers.

It remained for Dennis, while visiting with him at G. B. Cooley Sanatorium recently, to remind us that Royce was the only person in the Twin Cities who paid to see that game in a pouring rain with a Redskin team that hadn't won a game all season. Kemerer, when he learned of the situation at the box office, ordered Royce's money refunded.

"Anybody willing to shell out to see this team play in this rain should have a gold-plated pass to all Indian games," was the sense of a Kemerer retort. Royce got his money back, with the thanks of the college, but not pass was ever forthcoming even without gold-plate.

* * *

Promoter Gus Kallio, former world's middleweight wrestling champion who presents his 1,015th card in 20 years of Twin Cities promotions here tomorrow night, is considering retirement. Gus hasn't said so officially, but he is considering sale or lease of his facilities and a well established business. Kallio wrestled on the first professional promotion here in April, 1924, and Bob Harmon, the ex-Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher and well known Ouachita farmer, was referee of his match against Jimmy Demetrae, a Greek from Madison, Wis. He became promoter here in 1939 after losing his world's title in Mexico City.

Wayne Causey, the Monroe athlete who went directly from the Neville High campus three years ago to the Baltimore Orioles, is on his way to rejoin the Orioles again for the rest of the season after playing this summer with the Louisville Colonels.

Stan Sparks 3-2 Card Win Over Dodgers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An ailing Stan Musial came off the bench to spark an eighth inning rally with a pinch double Saturday night and Joe Cunningham's two-run homer in that inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Extra base hits accounted for all the scoring in the game.

Dodger right-hander Don Drysdale was sailing along to his seventh straight victory behind a two-run lead from home runs by Carl Furillo in the second and Gino Cimoli in the eighth inning.

Jeffords Wins 120-Mile Road America Race

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (AP)—Jim Jeffords of Milwaukee, drove his Corvette sports car to victory Saturday in the 120-mile race at Road America.

The victory pushed Jeffords into a first-place standing among American sports car drivers for class B production points awarded by the Sports Car Club of America.

Jeffords was a full minute ahead of his nearest competition, Dr. Bill Larson of Hibbing, Minn., also driving a Corvette. Larson and George Reed of Midlothian, Ill., dueled for the second place position, which Larson won. Reed finished third in a Ferrari GT coupe.

Reed's finishing position won class C honors for him. Ralph Durbin of Detroit, driving an Austin Healey 100, won class D competition and Luke Stear of Indianapolis, finished first in class E in an AC Bristol.

Rickert won the 80-mile race with an average speed of 73.10 m.p.h. His victory in a Porsche Carerra also won class F production honors.

Harry Blanchard of Greenwich, Conn., also piloting a Porsche Carerra, finished second.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Franchise Moves, Likely Expansions High On List For Major League Talks

CHICAGO (AP) — Franchise shifts, expansion and the plight of the minors will be paramount in the minds of baseball magnates at the two-day meeting of the major leagues Monday and Tuesday.

Other problems to be thoroughly aired include radio-TV, the bonus situation, federal legislation and lower league realignment.

The only concrete action expected, however, may come during Monday's American League session, in which Washington club President Calvin Griffith is expected to seek permission to transfer the Senators' franchise to Minneapolis.

Indications point to a veto of the proposed shift. At latest count, three brother clubs—New York, Boston, and Kansas City, and possibly Detroit—were believed to be opposed to the move. Since a three-quarter vote is required, only three negative votes would block a transfer.

The subject of expansion is expected to dominate Tuesday's joint session of the National and American leagues, presided over by Commissioner Ford Frick. A big league official told The Associated Press Frick will seek a commitment from the executives on expanding the two majors to 10 clubs each. Frick categorically denied this.

"It is on the record that I am for expansion," he said. "I think it is inevitable. However, I have no program and therefore no recommendations to make at this time.

"It is quite possible," Frick added, "that expansion may be a topic of discussion by both the National and American Leagues in their separate meetings on Monday. They could discuss it in the joint meeting, too."

Frick's agenda, sent to the club-owners, calls for discussion and possible action on such matters as the plight of the minor leagues, the bonus problem, radio-TV and federal legislation. But it is certain that expansion will be uppermost in the minds of the executives.

It is Frick's hope that the majors expand to 10 teams by 1960 and eventually to 12 by 1963. In this he has staunch supporters in Lou Perini and Phil Wrigley Jr., heads of the Milwaukee and the Chicago Cubs, respectively. Among those known to be opposed are Horace Stoneham, president of the San Francisco Giants and General Manager George Weiss of the New York Yankees.

"I am against National League expansion at this time," said Stoneham, who intends to pass up the meetings here to attend his own stockholders' annual meeting in Jersey City, N. J.

"The commissioner's agenda calls for a discussion on expansion," he added. "It doesn't mention outright sanction and gives no notice of a question requiring a vote. Besides, no vote could be taken without unanimous consent of the club owners."

It is Weiss' contention that a change in the league setup would hurt baseball because it would break tradition and make obsolete records which are the lifeblood of baseball's appeal and interest to the public.

"Expansion is merely another one of those stop-gap tactics on the part of clubs temporarily hurting," Weiss said. "I don't think it will help baseball in the long run."

The National League will hear a report from Perini who, along with Wrigley and President Bob Carpenter of Philadelphia, were chosen as a committee to investigate the possibility of NL expansion.

Perini is expected to propose the addition of New York and Toronto to the National League, and Minneapolis and Houston to the American as possible new members.

"If our report is accepted," Perini said, "I would favor giving prospective new owners two years or so to develop a new team and line up minor league affiliates."

The American League is keeping mum on expansion. It is more concerned with the immediate problem on hand — what to do when Griffith presents his proposition to move to Minneapolis?

Bell's 6-Hitter Masters Chisox

Vic Power and Woody Held each drove in two runs. Al Smith homered for the losers' only run.

Power got the Indians off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when he homered behind a single by Billy Moran. The game was delayed by rain 66 minutes with Chicago batting in the first inning.

Billy Cobb Gets Big Rattlesnake During Dove Hunt

Billy Cobb, a Neville High youth of Monroe, went dove hunting yesterday afternoon and brought home a five-foot-ten-inch rattlesnake.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cobb said he was hunting near Epps yesterday with some high school friends when he killed the big snake about 2 p. m.

"I saw him first," said Billy when asked if the snake gave warning. He said the big viper was not coiled but traveling when he spotted it and shot it in the head.

PRO FOOTBALL

Canadians Visit U.S. Next Sunday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Canadian brand of professional football invades America Sunday, Sept. 14.

The clash between the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, all-Canada champions, and the Ottawa Rough Riders is an official Canadian League game—even though it's on foreign soil.

It's all in the interests of international athletics and charity. Net profits from the contest to be played at the 100,000-seat Municipal Stadium will go to the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia and the rehabilitation center.

But though the game is strictly Canadian, with playing rules strangely different, the clubs are run by Americans. And some of the top stars are ex-U.S. collegians.

Frank Clair, coach of the Rough Riders who finished second to Hamilton for last year's Canadian League championship, played at Ohio State, later with the Redskins. His assistant, Bill Smyth, has Notre Dame and Los Angeles Rams credits.

Bernie Faloney, who made second team All-America while playing for Maryland in 1953, is the Hamilton quarterback. Calling signals for the Rough Riders is Hal Ledyard, ex-Chattanooga U. ace.

The Canadian field is 110 yards long, 65 yards wide. In America the gridiron runs 100 yards by 53 1-3.

Canadians use 12 players, which includes five backfield men instead of the 11 in U.S.

Blocking is limited under Canadian rules and there are no time-outs unless the referee stops play because of a player injury.

Canadian teams must make a first down—at least 10 yards—in three downs or less. U.S. rules allow four downs.

Canada provides for a few additional scoring opportunities. If a punt goes beyond the end zone, and thus is unreturnable, the kicking team gets one point. A defensive team must try to run a punt out of the zone. If it fails, the kicking team gets a point.

Otherwise—it's football all the way.

NEED 'PITCHERS'

Key To Pro Grid Fortunes In Quarterbacks' Hands

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The prime question mark for most of the National Football League teams in 1958 is quarterback.

While Commissioner Bert Bell sits and dreams of a seventh straight record year financially, the coaches are fretting about their meal tickets, the passers.

Coach George Wilson of the champion Detroit Lions pins his hopes on the aging arms of Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote. Layne answers to 31 years and Rote is 30 years old, not exactly old age, but across the dividing line in this roughest of football.

On the other hand, Paul Brown's Cleveland Browns are banking on rising youth. Sophomore Milt Plum who showed signs of developing into a first-rate passer as the Browns won the Eastern title last year, and rookie Jim Ninowski from Michigan State will try to replace the retired Tommy O'Connell, one of the league's top passers.

Philadelphia's Eagles are going to fall or fly for new coach Buck Shaw on the time-tested arm of 32-year-old Norman Van Brocklin, obtained in a trade with the Los Angeles Rams. Coach Sid Gilmore at Los Angeles, who unloaded Van Brocklin in a clash of personalities, counts on Billy Wade, the one-time Vanderbilt wonder, to bail him out.

Scooter McLean in his first year as Green Bay coach must get consistent quarterbacking from Babe Parilli, Bert Starr, or perhaps the ex-Notre Dame ace Paul Hornung, if he's to climb with his Packers. At San Francisco Y. A. Tittle, now 31, will have to show advancing age hasn't dulled his effectiveness.

The New York Giants, disappointing last year as defending champions, again will count on Charley Conerly, now 34. Pop Ivy, former assistant to Bud Wilkinson at Oklahoma as well as a Canadian coach, looks to his NFL bonus choice, King Hill, late of Rice, to get his Chicago Cardinals off wining in Ivy's debut in the NFL.

Washington still counts on the biggest little man in fooaball, Edde LeBaron, while Buddy Parker a Pittsburgh figures Earl Morrall with a full year's experience at quarterback should improve the Steelers. Baltimore has accurate John Unitas and equally talented George Shaw to press what may be the Colt's best challenge for the Western crown.

George "Poppa Bear" Halas, returning to coach his one-time monsters, also seems to have an ideal setup. He can choose from three pretty fair country passers co53d Brown, Zeke Bratkowski Brown, Zeke Bratkowski and George Blanda.

Commissioner Bert Bell is optimistic about a seventh straight record money year because of increased seating capacities in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Both clubs chipped college football's icy attitude toward professional football teams and moved from baseball parks to campus stadiums.

The Philadelphia Eagles jump from Connie Mack Stadium (38,000 seats) to the 65,000-seat capacity of the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field. The Steelers switch from Forbes Field (40,000 seats) to the University of Pittsburgh's Pitt Stadium (60,000 seats).

"Now they have to play well enough to fill those places," Bell said. The Steelers had a 6-6 record last season. The Eagles were 4-8.

The league continues the television policy of last year. Games will be televised on a regional basis. TV games will be blacked out in areas in which a NFL game is scheduled.

"When the courts approved the regional set up," said Bell, "they saved pro football. It was a Godsend."

Two factors could keep the league from breaking its attendance record of 2,836,318, set last season, said Bell.

"People are more conservative with unemployment and scarce money," he said. "They'll pay to see the winners, not the teams that are down and out.

"But it wouldn't surprise me if two, three or four teams are tied for first place at the end of the season. Equalization is the key. The closer the races in both divisions, the more people will pay to see the games.

"Last year we had a close race in the West. Every team in the league but one made money. The advance sale is way up. It'll be better than 250,000. Detroit has sold 40,000 season tickets. Little Green Bay has sold 25,000 for a stadium that seats 32,000."

Ouachita's Grid Tickets On Sale

Ouachita Parish High football tickets remain on advanced sale at C and S. Sporting Goods and at Buddy Blair's, it was announced yesterday by Coach Bob Ellen.

The Lions, who upset Homer High in their opener Thursday night, will meet the Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers here next Friday night. Game reserved seats are $1.

SHOOT FOR '64

Detroit Selected For Olympic Bid

CHICAGO (AP)—The city of Detroit Saturday was chosen by the U. S. Olympic Committee to bid for the 1964 Games.

Detroit was selected over Los Angeles, Chicago and Minneapolis and will be the only U. S. city eligible to bid for the Games.

Robert J. Kane, athletic director at Cornell and chairman of the Olympic Site Selection Committee, made the following statement:

"Detroit has the athletic, cultural and housing facilities to adequately handle the Games. Detroit was the choice of the U. S. Olympic Committee for the 1960 Games and made a deeply vivid impression upon the International Olympic Committee which has the responsibility for the selection, but was not chosen because the IOC felt that the Games should be brought to a European country in that year.

"Detroit was held in higher regard with its facilities then and they are better and more extensive now. The USOC Executive Board wishes to have the Games returned to this country in 1964 and it selected the city which, in its opinion, has the best chance to receive the bid. And it firmly believes Detroit will offer the best opportunity to be chosen."

Kane said all four cities made excellent presentations and their bids were so very well documented, "We felt we couldn't make a mistake."

Kane added he felt Detroit had an excellent chance of receiving the 1964 Games.

Tug Wilson, president of the U. S. Olympic Committee, said:

"I feel Detroit has a very excellent chance because of its tremendous facilities. It's the third time Detroit has made such a bid. And Detroit impressed the International Olympic Committee so much in its bid for the 1960 Games that we feel we have an excellent chance of getting the Games in this country in 1964."

Detroit must now submit its bids on or before Dec. 1 to the IOC at Lausanne, Switzerland. Final approval for the 1964 site will be made by the IOC when it meets in Munich in May 1959.

The U. S. Olympic Committee said that to its knowledge the only city which has made a bid for the 1964 Games has been Tokyo.

By DION HENDERSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

We wildlife experts in this world have to buck up against the problems of goat management than worry, for instance, about moose.

And it's really nothing to feel sheepish about. Moose may have just as many problems, but they don't create so many—nor for so many people—as goats. If not kept in some kind of check particularly around the Mediterranean basin, goats might, in the words of a French expert, eat the cover right off the world.

This is one of the changes in perspective that will attract conservation authorities from some 40 countries to Athens this week, to take part in the International Union for Conservation. Not only do they get to exchange information on items of general interest but they get a chance to stand back and evaluate their own special problems.

Theme of this year's congress will be land and water management, with a good deal of emphasis on how the landscape can be taken apart and reassembled to provide more efficiently for multiple industrial, agricultural and recreational uses. The world's great experts will take up the subject from Empedocles (450 B.C.) to developments of the moment.

Practical fellows all, the experts emphasize economic benefits in most of their planning. Treating soil and water as capital investments to be cherished and maintained, while still a comparatively new attitude to the American layman, is a science with several thousand years of history—discouraging, mostly—to European ecologists.

But mass management is a recent concept, and U.S. Experts have acquired some painfully detailed information on such things as moving whole populations out of river valleys that are to be flooded by dam construction. A major paper is due on that subject from C. R. Humphrus of Michigan State University.

The congress was formed at Fontainebleau in 1948, with a number of U.S. official agencies, private organizations and universities participating.

But the IUC is an independent extra-governmental group with professional policies. It now has financial support from 12 member states and more than 200 organizations in the 40 countries to operate its three-way program: research, education and intervention.

The research includes a field team that at the moment is concerned over threatened extinction of five major game species—the Asian lion, the European bison, the Alpine ibex, Javan rhinoceros and Father David's deer.

Intervention covers work the congress has done in helping gain added protection for such diverse species as the big game of Africa, the aboriginal and relic plants of New Zealand and Japan, threatened flora within the Arctic Circle and game sanctuaries on five continents.

'TRADE ME'

Fernandez Fumes At Phil Bosses

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Chico Fernandez, the Philadelphia Phillies temperamental Cuban who is regarded as a good-field-poor hit shortstop, blew his top Saturday at his bosses.

Ruffled but not tongue-tied despite English that isn't exactly graceful, Fernandez said boldly: "Trade me if you don't like the way I'm playing."

"I know there are 16 other teams that would take me." That was a slip, admittedly, but Chico didn't care. He was certain anyway that any of the other 15 major league clubs would be glad to buy his contract.

The hot comment developed Friday night when Phils' Manager Eddie Sawyer benched Fernandez at the start of the current series with the Cincinnati Reds. And Chico didn't start again Saturday.

Sawyer described the playing of Fernandez, currently hitting a light .218, as "lousy," blunt talk from any manager, especially in public.

Sawyer added: "He looks like he's in spring training for the Winter League." (Fernandez, like all other Cubans in the majors, also plays during the winter in his homeland.)

"Tell Sawyer to trade me," Fernandez retorted, "tell him not to worry about the Winter League. There are still some games to be played here that are more important to him.

"If the Phillies don't like me they can get rid of me."

Fernandez insists he is having a better season than he did in 1957.

"I got less errors," he said in his picturesque broken English. "I got more RBIs. I got more doubles. I got more triples. What they want? There are a lot worst players on this team than me. I know it. They know it.

"But they worry about winter league. Let them forget it. Or let them trade me. I no care. I make out."

Sawyer refused to become netgled. "All I can go on is what I have seen since I took over the ball club (on July 22) and Fernandez hasn't shown me a thing.

"He can't even get the bat around. Either he needs a rest bad or he's getting ready for winter ball. And he's not physically equipped to play baseball 12 months a year.

"Fernandez is going to have to make a decision on whether to play up here or down there. He can't do both.

"And frankly," said the Phillies manager, "I don't give a damn what he does."

Three seniors, each a three-letter gridder and each married, are prepared to co-captain the 1958 Northeast State Indians through a nine-game schedule, just three of them at home.

Driskill, 21, 6' 1" and weighing 195 pounds, made honorable mention in the Gulf States Conference as a freshman; the second team as a sophomore, and was named to the first team in the GSC last year.

Knox, 25, is 6' 3" and weighs 214. He played at Northeast during the 1953 and 1954 seasons before serving two years in the army. Knox was here last fall for the 1957 season and did a tremendous job in the Indian line.

Reynolds, 21, is 6' 2" and weighs 175. A stalwart quarterback for the last three seasons at Northeast, he will again lead the Indian attack. Hampered by flu last year, he is being counted on heavily this fall.

Each of the co-captains is married tto a former Northeast student. Driskill is married to the former Carolyn Dark of Delhi, 1957 homecoming queen, and Reynolds is married to the former Sandra Brinson of Waverly, 1956 homecoming queen and a former cheerleader. The Driskills have a young son. Mrs. Knox is the former Mary Ann Allen of West Monroe.

* * *

Last week we touched briefly on some of the original Indians, forerunners of the Northeast State Redskins of today. The result brought us lots of comment and many requests came wanting to know who made up the first Indian football squad that turned out for J. Paul Kemerer, the first Tribal coach in 1931.

So we did a little checking to refresh our memory and here's the squad as we recall it after jolting our memory by checking some old publications.

Kemerer announced this first Tribe roster for the initial scrimmage on October 2, 1931, after two weeks of training:

Managers were Leavell Coates, Charles Cason, C. C. "Dutchy" Bell, and Frank Smith. Harold Dennis, after some early jolts in football, decided he could better serve as team business manager and thus became one of Kemerer's chief student lieutenants. Harold holds the distinction of "doing" the first "live" broadcast of a football game in this area. He was well acquainted with the high school athletes of this area and had made friends at KMLB where he fed college athletic publicity. The late J. C. Liner Sr. had Dennis do a broadcast of a Neville High game here in 1932, and local football games have been on the air by various stations with professional announcers since.

For years we have known Brown Field boasts a unique distinction unknown to many, recalled by few, and probably a national record of some sort. In 1932 the Indians played a game to ONE paid admission. The "crowd" of three that dismal day included C. C. Colvert, president of the college and in free of course; George Lofton, the sports writer in on a pass; and the lone paid admission represented by Carroll Royce, connected with an auto parts firm here, long one of the area's big athletic followers.

It remained for Dennis, while visiting with him at G. B. Cooley Sanatorium recently, to remind us that Royce was the only person in the Twin Cities who paid to see that game in a pouring rain with a Redskin team that hadn't won a game all season. Kemerer, when he learned of the situation at the box office, ordered Royce's money refunded.

"Anybody willing to shell out to see this team play in this rain should have a gold-plated pass to all Indian games," was the sense of a Kemerer retort. Royce got his money back, with the thanks of the college, but not pass was ever forthcoming even without gold-plate.

* * *

Promoter Gus Kallio, former world's middleweight wrestling champion who presents his 1,015th card in 20 years of Twin Cities promotions here tomorrow night, is considering retirement. Gus hasn't said so officially, but he is considering sale or lease of his facilities and a well established business. Kallio wrestled on the first professional promotion here in April, 1924, and Bob Harmon, the ex-Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher and well known Ouachita farmer, was referee of his match against Jimmy Demetrae, a Greek from Madison, Wis. He became promoter here in 1939 after losing his world's title in Mexico City.

* * *

Wayne Causey, the Monroe athlete who went directly from the Neville High campus three years ago to the Baltimore Orioles, is on his way to rejoin the Orioles again for the rest of the season after playing this summer with the Louisville Colonels.

Stan Sparks 3-2 Card Win Over Dodgers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An ailing Stan Musial came off the bench to spark an eighth inning rally with a pinch double Saturday night and Joe Cunningham's two-run homer in that inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Extra base hits accounted for all the scoring in the game.

Dodger right-hander Don Drysdale was sailing along to his seventh straight victory behind a two-run lead from home runs by Carl Furillo in the second and Gino Cimoli in the eighth inning.

Jeffords Wins 120-Mile Road America Race

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (AP)—Jim Jeffords of Milwaukee, drove his Corvette sports car to victory Saturday in the 120-mile race at Road America.

The victory pushed Jeffords into a first-place standing among American sports car drivers for class B production points awarded by the Sports Car Club of America.

Jeffords was a full minute ahead of his nearest competition, Dr. Bill Larson of Hibbing, Minn., also driving a Corvette. Larson and George Reed of Midlothian, Ill., dueled for the second place position, which Larson won. Reed finished third in a Ferrari GT coupe.

Reed's finishing position won class C honors for him. Ralph Durbin of Detroit, driving an Austin Healey 100, won class D competition and Luke Stear of Indianapolis, finished first in class E in an AC Bristol.

Rickert won the 80-mile race with an average speed of 73.10 m.p.h. His victory in a Porsche Carerra also won class F production honors.

Harry Blanchard of Greenwich, Conn., also piloting a Porsche Carerra, finished second.

NEED 'PITCHERS'

Key To Pro Grid Fortunes In Quarterbacks' Hands

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The prime question mark for most of the National Football League teams in 1958 is quarterback.

While Commissioner Bert Bell sits and dreams of a seventh straight record year financially, the coaches are fretting about their meal tickets, the passers.

Coach George Wilson of the champion Detroit Lions pins his hopes on the aging arms of Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote. Layne answers to 31 years and Rote is 30 years old, not exactly old age, but across the dividing line in this roughest of football.

On the other hand, Paul Brown's Cleveland Browns are banking on rising youth. Sophomore Milt Plum who showed signs of developing into a first-rate passer as the Browns won the Eastern title last year, and rookie Jim Ninowski from Michigan State will try to replace the retired Tommy O'Connell, one of the league's top passers.

Philadelphia's Eagles are going to fall or fly for new coach Buck Shaw on the time-tested arm of 32-year-old Norman Van Brocklin, obtained in a trade with the Los Angeles Rams. Coach Sid Gilmore at Los Angeles, who unloaded Van Brocklin in a clash of personalities, counts on Billy Wade, the one-time Vanderbilt wonder, to bail him out.

Scooter McLean in his first year as Green Bay coach must get consistent quarterbacking from Babe Parilli, Bert Starr, or perhaps the ex-Notre Dame ace Paul Hornung, if he's to climb with his Packers. At San Francisco Y. A. Tittle, now 31, will have to show advancing age hasn't dulled his effectiveness.

The New York Giants, disappointing last year as defending champions, again will count on Charley Conerly, now 34. Pop Ivy, former assistant to Bud Wilkinson at Oklahoma as well as a Canadian coach, looks to his NFL bonus choice, King Hill, late of Rice, to get his Chicago Cardinals off wining in Ivy's debut in the NFL.

Washington still counts on the biggest little man in fooaball, Ede LeBaron, while Buddy Parker a Pittsburgh figures Earl Morrall with a full year's experience at quarterback should improve the Steelers. Baltimore has accurate John Unitas and equally talented George Shaw to press what may be the Colt's best challenge for the Western crown.

George "Poppa Bear" Halas, returning to coach his one-time monsters, also seems to have an ideal setup. He can choose from three pretty fair country passers co53d Brown, Zeke Bratkowski Brown, Zeke Bratkowski and George Blanda.

Commissioner Bert Bell is optimistic about a seventh straight record money year because of increased seating capacities in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Both clubs chipped college football's icy attitude toward professional football teams and moved from baseball parks to campus stadiums.

The Philadelphia Eagles jump from Connie Mack Stadium (38,000 seats) to the 65,000-seat capacity of the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field. The Steelers switch from Forbes Field (40,000 seats) to the University of Pittsburgh's Pitt Stadium (60,000 seats).

"Now they have to play well enough to fill those places," Bell said. The Steelers had a 6-6 record last season. The Eagles were 4-8.

The league continues the television policy of last year. Games will be televised on a regional basis. TV games will be blacked out in areas in which a NFL game is scheduled.

"When the courts approved the regional set up," said Bell, "they saved pro football. It was a Godsend."

Two factors could keep the league from breaking its attendance record of 2,836,318, set last season, said Bell.

"People are more conservative with unemployment and scarce money," he said. "They'll pay to see the winners, not the teams that are down and out.

"But it wouldn't surprise me if two, three or four teams are tied for first place at the end of the season. Equalization is the key. The closer the races in both divisions, the more people will pay to see the games.

"Last year we had a close race in the West. Every team in the league but one made money. The advance sale is way up. It'll be better than 250,000. Detroit has sold 40,000 season tickets. Little Green Bay has sold 25,000 for a stadium that seats 32,000."

Ouachita's Grid Tickets On Sale

Ouachita Parish High football tickets remain on advanced sale at C and S. Sporting Goods and at Buddy Blair's, it was announced yesterday by Coach Bob Ellen.

The Lions, who upset Homer High in their opener Thursday night, will meet the Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers here next Friday night. Game reserved seats are $1.

VEAL MAKES SAVE ON MISCUE — Coot Veal, Detroit Tiger shortstop, leaps high in air to stab catcher Bob Wilson's high throw to second base in fourth inning of game with the Kansas City A's at Detroit yesterday. Harry Chiti, A's catcher, was credited with a stolen base and no error given on the play. (AP Wirephoto)

Franchise Moves, Likely Expansions High On List For Major League Talks

CHICAGO (AP) — Franchise shifts, expansion and the plight of the minors will be paramount in the minds of baseball magnates at the two-day meeting of the major leagues Monday and Tuesday.

Other problems to be thoroughly aired include radio-TV, the bonus situation, federal legislation and lower league realignment.

The only concrete action expected, however, may come during Monday's American League session, in which Washington club President Calvin Griffith is expected to seek permission to transfer the Senators' franchise to Minneapolis.

Indications point to a veto of the proposed shift. At latest count, three brother clubs—New York, Boston, and Kansas City, and possibly Detroit—were believed to be opposed to the move. Since a three-quarter vote is required, only three negative votes would block a transfer.

The subject of expansion is expected to dominate Tuesday's joint session of the National and American leagues, presided over by Commissioner Ford Frick. A big league official told The Associated Press Frick will seek a commitment from the executives on expanding the two majors to 10 clubs each. Frick categorically denied this.

"It is on the record that I am for expansion," he said. "I think it is inevitable. However, I have no program and therefore no recommendations to make at this time.

"It is quite possible," Frick odded, "that expansion may be a topic of discussion by both the National and American Leagues in their separate meetings on Monday. They could discuss it in the joint meeting, too."

Frick's agenda, sent to the club-owners, calls for discussion and possible action on such matters as the plight of the minor leagues, the bonus problem, radio-TV and federal legislation. But it is certain that expansion will be uppermost in the minds of the executives.

It is Frick's hope that the majors expand to 10 teams by 1960 and eventually to 12 by 1963. In this he has staunch supporters in Lou Perini and Phil Wrigley Jr., heads of the Milwaukee and the Chicago Cubs, respectively. Among those known to be opposed are Horace Stoneham, president of the San Francisco Giants and General Manager George Weiss of the New York Yankees.

"I am against National League expansion at this time," said Stoneham, who intends to pass up the meetings here to attend his own stockholders' annual meeting in Jersey City, N. J.

"The commissioner's agenda calls for a discussion on expansion," he added. "It doesn't mention outright sanction and gives no notice of a question requiring a vote. Besides, no vote could be taken without unanimous consent of the club owners."

It is Weiss' contention that a change in the league setup would hurt baseball because it would break tradition and make obsolete records which are the lifeblood of baseball's appeal and interest to the public.

"Expansion is merely another one of those stop-gap tactics on the part of clubs temporarily hurting," Weiss said. "I don't think it will help baseball in the long run."

The National League will hear a report from Perini who, along with Wrigley and President Bob Carpenter of Philadelphia, were chosen as a committee to investigate the possibility of NL expansion.

Perini is expected to propose the addition of New York and Toronto to the National League, and Minneapolis and Houston to the American as possible new members.

"If our report is accepted," Perini said, "I would favor giving prospective new owners two years or so to develop a new team and line up minor league affiliates."

The American League is keeping mum on expansion. It is more concerned with the immediate problem on hand — what to do when Griffith presents his proposition to move to Minneapolis?

Bell's 6-Hitter Masters Chisox

Vic Power and Woody Held each drove in two runs. Al Smith homered for the losers' only run.

Power got the Indians off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when he homered behind a single by Billy Moran. The game was delayed by rain 66 minutes with Chicago batting in the first inning.

Billy Cobb Gets Big Rattlesnake During Dove Hunt

Billy Cobb, a Neville High youth of Monroe, went dove hunting yesterday afternoon and brought home a five-foot-ten-inch rattlesnake.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cobb said he was hunting near Epps yesterday with some high school friends when he killed the big snake about 2 p. m.

"I saw him first," said Billy when asked if the snake gave warning. He said the big viper was not coiled but traveling when he spotted it and shot it in the head.

Canadians Visit U.S. Next Sunday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Canadian brand of professional football invades America Sunday, Sept. 14.

The clash between the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, all-Canada champions, and the Ottawa Rough Riders is an official Canadian League game—even though it's on foreign soil.

It's all in the interests of international athletics and charity. Net profits from the contest to be played at the 100,000-seat Municipal Stadium will go to the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia and the rehabilitation center.

But though the game is strictly Canadian, with playing rules strangely different, the clubs are run by Americans. And some of the top stars are ex-U.S. collegians.

Frank Clair, coach of the Rough Riders who finished second to Hamilton for last year's Canadian League championship, played at Ohio State, later with the Redskins. His assistant, Bill Smyth, has Notre Dame and Los Angeles Rams credits.

Bernie Faloney, who made second team All-America while playing for Maryland in 1953, is the Hamilton quarterback. Calling signals for the Rough Riders is Hal Ledyard, ex-Chattanooga U. ace.

The Canadian field is 110 yards long, 65 yards wide. In America the gridiron runs 100 yards by 53 1-3.

Canadians use 12 players, which includes five backfield men instead of the 11 in U.S.

Blocking is limited under Canadian rules and there are no time-outs unless the referee stops play because of a player injury.

Canadian teams must make a first down—at least 10 yards—in three downs or less. U.S. rules allow four downs.

Canada provides for a few additional scoring opportunities. If a punt goes beyond the end zone, and thus is unreturnable, the kicking team gets one point. A defensive team must try to run a punt out of the zone. If it fails, the kicking team gets a point.

Otherwise—it's football all the way.

SHOOT FOR '64

Detroit Selected For Olympic Bid

CHICAGO (AP)—The city of Detroit Saturday was chosen by the U. S. Olympic Committee to bid for the 1964 Games.

Detroit was selected over Los Angeles, Chicago and Minneapolis and will be the only U. S. city eligible to bid for the Games.

Robert J. Kane, athletic director at Cornell and chairman of the Olympic Site Selection Committee, made the following statement:

"Detroit has the athletic, cultural and housing facilities to adequately handle the Games. Detroit was the choice of the U. S. Olympic Committee for the 1960 Games and made a deeply vivid impression upon the International Olympic Committee which has the responsibility for the selection, but was not chosen because the IOC felt that the Games should be brought to a European country in that year.

"Detroit was held in higher regard with its facilities then and they are better and more extensive now. The USOC Executive Board wishes to have the Games returned to this country in 1964 and it selected the city which, in its opinion, has the best chance to receive the bid. And it firmly believes Detroit will offer the best opportunity to be chosen."

Kane said all four cities made excellent presentations and their bids were so very well documented, "We felt we couldn't make a mistake."

Kane added he felt Detroit had an excellent chance of receiving the 1964 Games.

Tug Wilson, president of the U. S. Olympic Committee, said:

"I feel Detroit has a very excellent chance because of its tremendous facilities. It's the third time Detroit has made such a bid. And Detroit impressed the International Olympic Committee so much in its bid for the 1960 Games that we feel we have an excellent chance of getting the Games in this country in 1964."

Detroit must now submit its bids on or before Dec. 1 to the IOC at Lausanne, Switzerland. Final approval for the 1964 site will be made by the IOC when it meets in Munich in May 1959.

The U. S. Olympic Committee said that to its knowledge the only city which has made a bid for the 1964 Games has been Tokyo.

We wildlife experts in this world have to buck up against the problems of goat management than worry, for instance, about moose.

And it's really nothing to feel sheepish about. Moose may have just as many problems, but they don't create so many—nor for so many people—as goats. If not kept in some kind of check particularly around the Mediterranean basin, goats might, in the words of a French expert, eat the cover right off the world.

This is one of the changes in perspective that will attract conservation authorities from some 40 countries to Athens this week, to take part in the International Union for Conservation. Not only do they get to exchange information on items of general interest but they get a chance to stand back and evaluate their own special problems.

Theme of this year's congress will be land and water management, with a good deal of emphasis on how the landscape can be taken apart and reassembled to provide more efficiently for multiple industrial, agricultural and recreational uses. The world's great experts will take up the subject from Empedocles (450 B.C.) to developments of the moment.

Practical fellows all, the experts emphasize economic benefits in most of their planning. Treating soil and water as capital investments to be cherished and maintained, while still a comparatively new attitude to the American layman, is a science with several thousand years of history—discouraging, mostly—to European ecologists.

But mass management is a recent concept, and U.S. Experts have acquired some painfully detailed information on such things as moving whole populations out of river valleys that are to be flooded by dam construction. A major paper is due on that subject from C. R. Humphrus of Michigan State University.

The congress was formed at Fontainebleau in 1948, with a number of U.S. official agencies, private organizations and universities participating.

But the IUC is an independent extra-governmental group with professional policies. It now has financial support from 12 member states and more than 200 organizations in the 40 countries to operate its three-way program: research, education and intervenvention.

The research includes a field team that at the moment is concerned over threatened extinction of five major game species—the Asian lion, the European bison, the Alpine ibex, Javan rhinoceros and Father David's deer.

Intervention covers work the congress has done in helping gain added protection for such diverse species as the big game of Africa, the aboriginal and relic plants of New Zealand and Japan, threatened flora within the Arctic Circle and game sanctuaries on five continents.

'TRADE ME'

Fernandez Fumes At Phil Bosses

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Chico Fernandez, the Philadelphia Phillies temperamental Cuban who is regarded as a good-field-poor hit shortstop, blew his top Saturday at his bosses.

Ruffled but not tongue-tied despite English that isn't exactly graceful, Fernandez said boldly: "Trade me if you don't like the way I'm playing."

"I know there are 16 other teams that would take me." That was a slip, admittedly, but Chico didn't care. He was certain anyway that any of the other 15 major league clubs would be glad to buy his contract.

The hot comment developed Friday night when Phils' Manager Eddie Sawyer benched Fernandez at the start of the current series with the Cincinnati Reds. And Chico didn't start again Saturday.

Sawyer described the playing of Fernandez, currently hitting a light .218, as "lousy," blunt talk from any manager, especially in public.

Sawyer added: "He looks like he's in spring training for the Winter League." (Fernandez, like all other Cubans in the majors, also plays during the winter in his homeland.)

"Tell Sawyer to trade me," Fernandez retorted, "tell him not to worry about the Winter League. There are still some games to be played here that are more important to him.

"If the Phillies don't like me they can get rid of me."

Fernandez insists he is having a better season than he did in 1957.

"I got less errors," he said in his picturesque broker English. "I got more RBIs. I got more doubles. I got more triples. What they want? There are a lot worst players on this team than me. I know it. They know it.

"But they worry about winter league. Let them forget it. Or let them trade me. I no care. I make out."

Sawyer refused to become netgled. "All I can go on is what I have seen since I took over the ball club (on July 22) and Fernandez hasn't shown me a thing.

"He can't even get the bat around. Either he needs a rest bad or he's getting ready for winter ball. And he's not physically equipped to play baseball 12 months a year.

"Fernandez is going to have to make a decision on whether to play up here or down there. He can't do both.

"And frankly," said the Phillies manager, "I don't give a damn what he does."

YOST HOMERS

Solons Take 6th In Row At Yankee Stadium, 8-3

NEW YORK (AP) — Leadoff batter Eddie Yost stroked a first inning homer Saturday and the Washington Senators rolled ahead to a 8-3 win over the New York Yankees. Roy Sievers' three-run homer and pitcher Camilo Pascual's two run double in the 6-run sixth inning were the other big blows for the Senators.

Washington now has six straight victories in Yankee Stadium. Even a Yankee triple play in the ninth inning failed to cool off the Senators. But by that time the Senators were leading 8-1.

Rookie Johnny James, who relieved starter and loser Art Ditmar, was on the mound when the Yankees unreeled their triple killing. James walked the first two batters but then Clint Courtney lined to second baseman Gil McDougald. McDougald flipped the ball to shortstop Tony Kubek who nipped Albie Pearson off second and Kubek's throw to first baseman Bill Skowron nailed Sievers off first.

It was the fourth triple play in the majors this season. Washington made the other one in the American League and Philadelphia and Chicago accounted for two in the National League.

Pascual held the Yanks under full control until the ninth. Yogi Berra's single, Skowron's 14th homer, and singles by McDougald and Andy Carey drove Pascual out. Elston Howard, whose hitting streak was snapped at 13 games, had lined out before McDougald's drive. Truman Clevenger relieved successfully.

Sievers's 36th homer in the sixth gave him an even 100 runs batted in for the season. With two away in the same inning, Pascual drove in two more runs with a double to left center. He scored himself when left fielder Norm Siebern dropped a drive by Yost.

Little Albie Pearson, Washington's center fielder, extended his hitting streak to 14 games with a first inning double. He also drove in Washington's second run in the third inning with a sacrifice fly scoring Herb Plews from third. Plews had tripled.

Berra's single with the bases loaded gave the Yanks their first run in the sixth inning.

BRIGGS, ELSTON HURL

Cubs Top Giants On Two Hits, 6-3

CHICAGO (AP)—Rookie Johnny Briggs and reliever Don Elston set down the power-laden San Francisco Giants on two hits Saturday and hurled the Chicago Cubs to a 6-3 victory before a crowd of 11,522.

Briggs, a chunky right-hander, had a no-hitter through the first six innings but his bid for fame ended in the seventh when Orlando Cepeda led off with a single and was later cut down in a double play.

Wildness cost Briggs his shutout and Elston had to take over in the eighth and save Briggs' fifth victory in eight decisions.

The Cubs lost no time in getting to Giant starter Johnny Antonelli and shelled him from the mound in the second inning with a four-run uprising that featured a two-run triple by Tony Taylor. Antonelli suffered his 12th defeat against 14 victories.

Briggs hadn't allowed a runner to reach second base until the eighth inning when he walked the bases full. With two out, Kirkland cleared the sacks by doubling into left field. Elston took over and ended the threat when he forced pinch batter Jackie Brandt to fly to center.

The loss dropped the Giants into third place, one game behind the Pittsburgh Pirates who edged Milwaukee, 7-6.

Miss Wright Leads Dallas Women's Golf

DALLAS (AP)—National Open champion Mickey Wright whipped out a competitive course record-tying five under par 67 Saturday to take lead at the halfway mark in the $8,500 Dallas Women's Open.

The San Diego, Calif., blonde, who also is women's PGA champion, shot what she called "my best round ever" in overtaking Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., with 139 for 36 holes.

The field of 40 turned in eight subpar rounds over the 6,238-yard Glen Lakes Country Club course. It was one of the greatest days in the three-year history of the tournament, with Miss Wright's 67, two 68s—By Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., and Ruthie Jessen of Seattle, Wash., one 69, one 70 and two 71s.

Mrs. Marlene Bauer Hagge of Del Ray Beach, Fla., who set the course record here last year, had a 70, making the second nine in 32 which tied the record set in 1956.

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg S.C., who was second Friday with a 70, soared to a 73 and was in fifth place.

The leaders:

WIVES OR AILLET?

Speculation About 'Boss' Of Bulldogs

RUSTON, La. (Special)—There is some speculation here regarding who will be the "boss" of the Louisiana Tech football team this fall.

Coach Joe Aillet will be around as usual to start his 19th year as Tech mentor, but a flock of women are likely to have some say-so too.

No less than 11 of the Tech front - line players are married, one for each position on the grid team. They include:

Sherwood White of Bastrop and Jim Smith of Columbus, Ga., ends; Allen Stough and Monroe Fowler of Delhi, guards; Henry Delony of Ruston and Bobby Hudson of Minden, tackles; Buck Stewart of Ruston, center; David Williamson of El Dorado, Ark., and J. W. Slack of Bossier City, halfbacks; Max Rudd of Minden, fullback and James McCabe of Minden, quarterback.

Aillet, unlike some coaches, says he has no special objection to having married men on the football team. "They have a job to do both scholastically and athletically and if they can do both and be married, that's fine," he said.

"The young ladies to whom these boys are married are very thoughtful and realize the problems involved in the boys being maried, competing in athletics, and fulfilling scholastic requirements," Aillet said.

WRESTLING

Brummett Meets Bill Barney Here

Phil Brummett will be the first man to get a crack at promoter Gus Kallio's $100 bonus when he takes on Bill Barney in a 45-minute limit, two-falls-to-win added attraction at the local arena tomorrow night.

The Curtis father-and-son team takes part in the semi-final and main event bouts on the card. Jack meeting Al Massey in the semi and Jack Curtis Jr. engaging Ronnie Lee in the feature attraction. The Curtis - Massey match will be a one-fall affair with a 45-minute limit. The main event has a 90-minute limit with two falls to win.

Brummett, the Alexandria fireman, is one of the three wrestlers who has asked for a chance to win the $100 bill Kallio is offering to the Louisiana man who can beat Barney. An unidentified local non-professional is another and Earl Guess, who lost to Lee last week, is the other.

Kallio claims Guess, billed as a Jackson, Miss., native until recently, is not a Louisiana resident. Guess put himself down as a New Orleans resident last week for his match with Lee.

If Barney beats Brummett tonight, he'll then fight his next challenger and so on until he is beaten. However, if Brummett triumphs and win the $100, it will all be over and promoter Gus will be out $100.

Kallio Matches Gray, Hunt For Sept. 23 Battle

Promoter Gus Kallio last night announced matching of Johnny Hunt, Houston, Tex., and Ken Gray, Cotton Valley, for a ten - round main event boxing show here Tuesday night, September 23.

Hunt and Gray are heavyweights. Hunt, 192, won a close decision over Gray, 186, in a match here over a year ago when Gray broke a bone in his hand. The hand has since healed perfectly and Gray is anxious for the return match.

"People have been talking about their last fight ever since and continue to ask me when I can get them together again," Kallio said yesterday. "Well, I'm glad to say we'll be able to bring them back for what should be another exceptional fight."

ROWAN PLEASED

Indian Gridmen Hold Scrimmage

Northeast's footballers, with their opener against Southern State less than a week away, went through their first full - scale scrimmage of the season last night and Coach Jack Rowan professed himself "pretty pleased" with the results.

Pared from Monday's 73 to 45, the Indian squad worked for an hour and 20 minues with the first team facing the second team and the third against the fourth in alternate 20 - minute sessions at Brown Stadium.

"We've gotten a lot done this past week," Rowan said, "but we've got a lot more to do. We just haven't got the speed we ought to have. Reeves can go and so can McGough but we didn't get much of a look at him."

Robert McGough, regular fullback last year and now at halfback, left the scrimmage after the first play with a broken nose. Trainer Lew Hartzog said McGough should be back at work in a day or so. Hartzog also reported three men with missing teeth after the rough workout.

Keith Amos, letterman halfback, is still out of action with a bad leg but tackle Roy Cagle, saw his first heavy action after being out with a back injury.

Rowan had Jim Knox and Joe Driskill at the ends, Luther French and Jim Brent at the tackles, Alfred Feeney and Wally Cox at the guards, Billy McGraw at center and Sleepy Reynolds, McGough, Terry Reeves and Lloyd Ray Smith running on the first team, garbed in gold last night. On the Maroon team, the second team, he had Robert Earle and Dale Hoover at the ends, junior college transfers Ray Borders and Jim Broom at the tackles, John Wood and John McClendon at the guards, Buck Anderson at center and Robert Randel, Terry Head, Jim Laudadio and Smokey Stover in the backfield.

Last night the Maroons, the second and third teams, took the unofficial victory, 14-12, with ex-Neville jack - of - all - trades Willie Ragan, running with the third team, scoring all the Maroon points. He rushed for one and scored the other on a pass from Eddie Lovelace after setting it up with a 50 - yard jaunt. He kicked boh extra - points.

The first team scored both the Gold touchdowns with Reynolds throwing 20 yards to Knox for the first and to Reeves on a 65-yarder for the other. Reeves took the pass just behind the secondary at about the 40 and was never touched. Reynolds missed the first PAT try and the second was blocked.

Michigan Run To Hillsdale; Sea Hymn 2nd

DETROIT (AP)—C. W. Smith's Hillsdale, running over a slightly off track which he is supposed to dislike, won the inaugural $20,000-added Michigan Derby Saturday at the Hazel Park race course.

He romped home by 2½ lengths over Sea Hymn as second choice of the crowd of 16,622.

Ada L. Rice's Talent Show, one of seven invaders in the field of 10, was the 13-10 favorite but never threatened in the 1 1-16th mile race. He finished sixth, 10 lengths behind the winner.

Hillsdale paid $10.20, $5.40 and $4.20 while Sea Hymn, a 10-1 shot, returned $8.40 and $6.60. Skeno paid $4 to show.

The winner covered the distance in 1:46 3-5 over a track rated "good" although it appeared slick and greasy.

When jockey Tony Ferraiuolo turned Hillsdale loose on the stretch turn, Hillsdal opened up a four-length lead and coasted home.

Sea Hymn came up next to last to take second money four lengths ahead of Skeno.

By picking up a winner's purse of $13,250, Hillsdale boosted his lifetime earnings to $109,110. It was the fifth victory in 12 starts this season.

O'Dell Hurls Orioles Past Bosox, 4 To 2

BALTIMORE (AP)—Fast - balling Billy O'Dell pitched Baltimore to a 4-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday night, striking out 10 en route to his 14th triumph and sixth straight.

Gene Woodling's 14th home run into the right field bleachers scoring Bob Boyd ahead of him gave the Orioles a 2-0 lead in the third inning. Baltimore added another pair in the sixth when Bob Nieman and Jim Busby singled and Billy Gardner doubled them home.

Days Of Grambling Gridders Are Long

A strict disciplinarian who demands work as near to perfection as his athletes are able to give, Robinson starts his daily practice sessions at 4 a. m.

Robinson and his staff are working overtime to transform the Tigers into a crisp - blocking and tackling squad throughly groomed in fundamentls.

Drawing the team's battle plans, End Coach Fred Hobdy said the early morning formula provides an opportunity for thoroughness and a chance to beat the heat.

Aside from the unearthly 4 to 7 a. m. drills, the daily tredmill schedule includes a 3 to 6 p. m. practice session, and an 8 p. m. chalk talk.

Several of the boys have accused coaches of having sundial trouble. "We seem to work 12 hours a day," they complain.

The overtime schedule prompted a drawling 260 - pound tackle to stretch his imagination.

"I wonder," he asked blinking quietly, "what would happen if we were in the Artic Circle where the days last six months?"

His caustic conclusion was, "We would probably stay up right through the football season."

New Orleans Out Of Legion Junior Title Contention

The victory gave Greenwood the best of three series in the double elimination tournament 2-1. Lloyd Forroux, who won the second game for New Orleans Thursday night, was the starting pitcher for his team Saturday.

The South Carolina team now advances to the Little World Series at Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 9-13.

GIBSON VS. HARD

Anderson, Cooper Move To Finals In National Tennis

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—Harlem's Althea Gibson moved within a step of one of the rarest feats in women's tennis Saturday while Mal Anderson and Ashley Cooper set up the third straight all-Australian men's final in the National Tennis Championships.

Grim and resolute, the 31-year-old Miss Gibson from Harlem overwhelmed the ambidexterous Mrs. Beverly Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., 6-4, 6-2, and went into the women's final against an old adversary, Darlene Hard.

Miss Hard, 22-year-old college student from Montebello, Calif., trounced Jeanne Arth, St. Paul, Minn., school teacher, 7-5, 6-2. Miss Gibson crushed Miss Hard in the final at Wimbledon in 1957 and she is favored to repeat Sunday.

A victory for Miss Gibson would give her two Wimbledon and two U. S. women's championships back-to-back in successive years.

The last player to do that was Maureen Connolly in 1952 and 1953 and beyond that, you must go back to the fabulous Helen Wills in the Golden Twenties to match the accomplishment.

Anderson and Cooper, Australian Davis Cup teammates but bitter rivals, advanced with straight victories, thus offering a repeat of last year's final cast when Anderson won with a magnificent performance.

The scrawny Anderson, a Queenslander, smashed the last outside threat to Australia's domination, Sweden's Ulf Schmidt, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2. Cooper, holder of the Australian and Wimbledon titles, downed his teammate, Neale Fraser, for the 11th straight time, 8-6, 8-6, 6-1.

Cooper's triumph was stereotyped—powerful service and good ground strokes asserting superiority over a flashy net game. Schmidt had one chance against Anderson and let it get away.

Leading 5-4 in the second set, he went to 40-0 on his own service, with three chances for the set. Then, shaken, he saw the deft, quick-moving Anderson ship off five points in a row to take the game and later the set with deadening suddenness. There was little life in Ulf after that.

A crowd of 10,000 came out to the West Side Tennis Club excited by the prospect that the seasoned Mrs. Fleitz who had beaten Miss Gibson in all of their three previous meetings, might pull off the upset of the decade.

Later she said she thought she played some of the best tennis of her career. "I knew Beverly would be tough," Althea said. "So I went out to put pressure on her. I did, and I kept the pressure on her all the way."

Mrs. Fleitz, 28, learned to swing a racket with either hand while still a small girl.

Beverly was obviously tense and over-eager. Miss Gibson, after a slow start, was a veritable jungle cat on the court. She stalked every ball and hit with a vengeance.

As she walked from the court, sniffing and blowing, someone asked her what she thought of her prospective opponents, Misses Hard and Arth.

"I fully expect to retain my crown," Miss Gibson replied icily.

TURNESA FADES

Nieporte Forges Utah Open Lead

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Tom Nieporte, a 28-year-old Bronxville, N.Y., golfer seeking his first tournament victory, seized the lead in the $17,000 Utah Open Saturday. Nieporte had a 7-under-par 65 in the second round for a 36-hole total of 132.

Nieporte, who turned pro in 1954 after winning the 1951 NCAA title and the 1953 all-Army championship, has been a fair money winner.

He came in behind Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., the game's leading money winner this year. Palmer blew an almost certain second round lead with a triple bogey on the 18th hole.

Palmer, who now has a 65-69—134 going into the third round, was long and straight off the tees and down the fairways through the 14th hole.

He was seven under par on 15, when a long downhill putt overshot and gave him a bogey on the par-3 hole.

The young slugger was short of the 18th tee and scuffed a three-wood second shot into a deep canyon. He tried an iron in a clump of bushes and used three shots to get back on the fairway.

The other first-round leader, Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., managed only a par 72, and with his first round 64 has a halfway marker of 136.

The leaders:

Dotted Line From Behind For Triumph

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—King Ranch's Dotted Line came from dead last to score a length and a half victory in Saturday's Miss America Turf Handicap at the Atlantic City race course.

Under Howard Grant's handling, the winner looked like Silky Sullivan in the back stretch and like Whirlaway coming home as 22,505 fans cheered.

The winner went the mile and 1 1-16 over grass in 1:44.

Dotted Line returned $5.80, $4.00 and $3.60 and added $19,037.50 to the winnings of the King Ranch Stable.

Fall Wind, one of two 3-year-olds in the race, went to the front at once and was challenged down the backside by longshot Jodi with Mlle. Dianne in third place.

At the top of the stretch it was still Fall Wind on the lead but Jodi and Mlle. Dianne had moved up and only heads separated the trio.

Grant had made his move on Dotted Line and Dotted Line began charging on her field. She moved quickly between horses, was taken to the outside for clear sailing and passed her rivals as if they were standing still.

Bastrop, Forest, Crossett Teams In Tilts Today

BASTROP, La. (Special) — Bastrop and Forest, who tied for second in the West Carroll Baseball League this summer, launch their semi - final playoff series here this afternoon at 1 o'clock at Barons' Park in the first of a double header program. The second game on the day's program matches Bastrop against Crossett, Ark., in an exhibition.

The Forest - Bastrop series will be a best - two - out- of - three affair. Goodwill, first place club in the West Carroll, and Bonita, the No. 4 club, will play in the other half of the playoffs.

Swapping strategy this afternoon here will be managers C. C. McVey and J. T. Roan of Bastrop; Charlie Jones, the Forest skipper; and Frank Vickers and Marshall Thurman, who pilot Crossett.

International's Series Tuesday

MONTREAL (AP) — The first four teams in the International Baseball League will begin playoffs for the Governor's Cup Sept. 9, league President Fank Shaughnessy said Saturday.

The Montreal Royals, who clinched first place Friday night, will play the fourth-place team. The second and third-place finishers will playoff in the other semifinal. The semifinals and the finals will be best-of-7 series.

YOST HOMERS

Solons Take 6th In Row At Yankee Stadium, 8-3

NEW YORK (AP) — Leadoff batter Eddie Yost stroked a first inning homer Saturday and the Washington Senators rolled ahead to a 8-3 win over the New York Yankees. Roy Sievers' three-run homer and pitcher Camilo Pascual's two run double in the 6-run sixth inning were the other big blows for the Senators.

Washington now has six straight victories in Yankee Stadium. Even a Yankee triple play in the ninth inning failed to cool off the Senators. But by that time the Senators were leading 8-1.

Rookie Johnny James, who relieved starter and loser Art Ditmar, was on the mound when the Yankees unreeled their triple killing. James walked the first two batters but then Clint Courtney lined to second baseman Gil McDougald. McDougald flipped the ball to shortstop Tony Kubek who nipped Albie Pearson off second and Kubek's throw to first baseman Bill Skowron nailed Sievers off first.

It was the fourth triple play in the majors this season. Washington made the other one in the American League and Philadelphia and Chicago accounted for two in the National League.

Pascual held the Yanks under full control until the ninth. Yogi Berra's single, Skowron's 14th homer, and singles by McDougald and Andy Carey drove Pascual out. Elston Howard, whose hitting streak was snapped at 13 games, had lined out before McDougald's drive. Truman Clevenger relieved successfully.

Sievers's 36th homer in the sixth gave him an even 100 runs batted in for the season. With two away in the same inning, Pascual drove in two more runs with a double to left center. He scored himself when left fielder Norm Siebern dropped a drive by Yost.

Little Albie Pearson, Washington's center fielder, extended his hitting streak to 14 games with a first inning double. He also drove in Washington's second run in the third inning with a sacrifice fly scoring Herb Plews from third. Plews had tripled.

Berra's single with the bases loaded gave the Yanks their first run in the sixth inning.

BRIGGS, ELSTON HURL

Cubs Top Giants On Two Hits, 6-3

CHICAGO (AP)—Rookie Johnny Briggs and reliever Don Elston set down the power-laden San Francisco Giants on two hits Saturday and hurled the Chicago Cubs to a 6-3 victory before a crowd of 11,522.

Briggs, a chunky right-hander, had a no-hitter through the first six innings but his bid for fame ended in the seventh when Orlando Cepeda led off with a single and was later cut down in a double play.

Wildness cost Briggs his shutout and Elston had to take over in the eighth and save Briggs' fifth victory in eight decisions.

The Cubs lost no time in getting to Giant starter Johnny Antonelli and shelled him from the mound in the second inning with a four-run uprising that featured a two-run triple by Tony Taylor. Antonelli suffered his 12th defeat against 14 victories.

Briggs hadn't allowed a runner to reach second base until the eighth inning when he walked the bases full. With two out, Kirkland cleared the sacks by doubling into left field. Elston took over and ended the threat when he forced pinch batter Jackie Brandt to fly to center.

The loss dropped the Giants into third place, one game behind the Pittsburgh Pirates who edged Milwaukee, 7-6.

Miss Wright Leads Dallas Women's Golf

DALLAS (AP)—National Open champion Mickey Wright whipped out a competitive course record-tying five under par 67 Saturday to take lead at the halfway mark in the $8,500 Dallas Women's Open.

The San Diego, Calif., blonde, who also is women's PGA champion, shot what she called "my best round ever" in overtaking Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., with 139 for 36 holes.

The field of 40 turned in eight subpar rounds over the 6,238-yard Glen Lakes Country Club course. It was one of the greatest days in the three-year history of the tournament, with Miss Wright's 67, two 68s—By Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., and Ruthie Jessen of Seattle, Wash., one 69, one 70 and two 71s.

Mrs. Marlene Bauer Hagge of Del Ray Beach, Fla., who set the course record here last year, had a 70, making the second nine in 32 which tied the record set in 1956.

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg S.C., who was second Friday with a 70, soared to a 73 and was in fifth place.

The leaders:

Kallio Matches Gray, Hunt For Sept. 23 Battle

Promoter Gus Kallio last night announced matching of Johnny Hunt, Houston, Tex., and Ken Gray, Cotton Valley, for a ten - round main event boxing show here Tuesday night, September 23.

Hunt and Gray are heavyweights. Hunt, 192, won a close decision over Gray, 186, in a match here over a year ago when Gray broke a bone in his hand. The hand has since healed perfectly and Gray is anxious for the return match.

"People have been talking about their last fight ever since and continue to ask me when I can get them together again," Kallio said yesterday. "Well, I'm glad to say we'll be able to bring them back for what should be another exceptional fight."

Michigan Run To Hillsdale; Sea Hymn 2nd

DETROIT (AP)—C. W. Smith's Hillsdale, running over a slightly off track which he is supposed to dislike, won the inaugural $20,000-added Michigan Derby Saturday at the Hazel Park race course.

He romped home by 2½ lengths over Sea Hymn as second choice of the crowd of 16,622.

Ada L. Rice's Talent Show, one of seven invaders in the field of 10, was the 13-10 favorite but never threatened in the 1 1-16th mile race. He finished sixth, 10 lengths behind the winner.

Hillsdale paid $10.20, $5.40 and $4.20 while Sea Hymn, a 10-1 shot, returned $8.40 and $6.60. Skeno paid $4 to show.

The winner covered the distance in 1:46 3-5 over a track rated "good" although it appeared slick and greasy.

When jockey Tony Ferraiuolo turned Hillsdale loose on the stretch turn, Hillsdale opened up a four-length lead and coasted home.

Sea Hymn came up next to last to take second money four lengths ahead of Skeno.

By picking up a winner's purse of $13,250, Hillsdale boosted his lifetime earnings to $109,110. It was the fifth victory in 12 starts this season.

WIVES OR AILLET?

Speculation About 'Boss' Of Bulldogs

RUSTON, La. (Special)—There is some speculation here regarding who will be the "boss" of the Louisiana Tech football team this fall.

Coach Joe Aillet will be around as usual to start his 19th year as Tech mentor, but a flock of women are likely to have some say-so too.

No less than 11 of the Tech front - line players are married, one for each position on the grid team. They include:

Sherwood White of Bastrop and Jim Smith of Columbus, Ga., ends; Allen Stough and Monroe Fowler of Delhi, guards; Henry Delony of Ruston and Bobby Hudson of Minden, tackles; Buck Stewart of Ruston, center; David Williamson of El Dorado, Ark., and J. W. Slack of Bossier City, halfbacks; Max Rudd of Minden, fullback and James McCabe of Minden, quarterback.

Aillet, unlike some coaches, says he has no special objection to having married men on the football team. "They have a job to do both scholastically and athletically and if they can do both and be married, that's fine," he said.

"The young ladies to whom these boys are married are very thoughtful and realize the problems involved in the boys being maried, competing in athletics, and fulfilling scholastic requirements," Aillet said.

Brummett Meets Bill Barney Here

Phil Brummett will be the first man to get a crack at promoter Gus Kallio's $100 bonus when he takes on Bill Barney in a 45-minute limit, two-falls-to-win added attraction at the local arena tomorrow night.

The Curtis father-and-son team takes part in the semi-final and main event bouts on the card, Jack meeting Al Massey in the semi and Jack Curtis Jr. engaging Ronnie Lee in the feature attraction. The Curtis - Massey match will be a one-fall affair with a 45-minute limit. The main event has a 90-minute limit with two falls to win.

Brummett, the Alexandria fireman, is one of the three wrestlers who has asked for a chance to win the $100 bill Kallio is offering to the Louisiana man who can beat Barney. An unidentified local non-professional is another and Earl Guess, who lost to Lee last week, is the other.

Kallio claims Guess, billed as a Jackson, Miss., native until recently, is not a Louisiana resident. Guess put himself down as a New Orleans resident last week for his match with Lee.

If Barney beats Brummett tonight, he'll then fight his next challenger and so on until he is beaten. However, if Brummett triumphs and win the $100, it will all be over and promoter Gus will be out $100.

ROWAN PLEASED

Indian Gridmen Hold Scrimmage

Northeast's footballers, with their opener against Southern State less than a week away, went through their first full - scale scrimmage of the season last night and Coach Jack Rowan professed himself "pretty pleased" with the results.

Pared from Monday's 73 to 45, the Indian squad worked for an hour and 20 minues with the first team facing the second team and the third against the fourth in alternate 20 - minute sessions at Brown Stadium.

"We've gotten a lot done this past week," Rowan said, "but we've got a lot more to do. We just haven't got the speed we ought to have. Reeves can go and so can McGough but we didn't get much of a look at him."

Robert McGough, regular fullback last year and now at halfback, left the scrimmage after the first play with a broken nose. Trainer Lew Hartzog said McGough should be back at work in a day or so. Hartzog also reported three men with missing teeth after the rough workout.

Keith Amos, letterman halfback, is still out of action with a bad leg but tackle Roy Cagle, saw his first heavy action after being out with a back injury.

Rowan had Jim Knox and Joe Driskill at the ends, Luther French and Jim Brent at the tackles, Alfred Feeney and Wally Cox at the guards, Billy McGraw at center and Sleepy Reynolds, McGough, Terry Reeves and Lloyd Ray Smith running on the first team, garbed in gold last night. On the Maroon team, the second team, he had Robert Earle and Dale Hoover at the ends, junior college transfers Ray Borders and Jim Broom at the tackles, John Wood and John McClendon at the guards, Buck Anderson at center and Robert Randel, Terry Head, Jim Laudadio and Smokey Stover in the backfield.

Last night the Maroons, the second and third teams, took the unofficial victory, 14-12, with ex-Neville jack - of - all - trades Willie Ragan, running with the third team, scoring all the Maroon points. He rushed for one and scored the other on a pass from Eddie Lovelace after setting it up with a 50 - yard jaunt. He kicked boh extra - points.

The first team scored both the Gold touchdowns with Reynolds throwing 20 yards to Knox for the first and to Reeves on a 65-yarder for the other. Reeves took the pass just behind the secondary at about the 40 and was never touched. Reynolds missed the first PAT try and the second was blocked.

O'Dell Hurls Orioles Past Bosox, 4 To 2

BALTIMORE (AP)—Fast - balling Billy O'Dell pitched Baltimore to a 4-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday night, striking out 10 en route to his 14th triumph and sixth straight.

Gene Woodling's 14th home run into the right field bleachers scoring Bob Boyd ahead of him gave the Orioles a 2-0 lead in the third inning. Baltimore added another pair in the sixth when Bob Nieman and Jim Busby singled and Billy Gardner doubled them home.

4 A.M. START

Days Of Grambling Gridders Are Long

A strict disciplinarian who demands work as near to perfection as his athletes are able to give, Robinson starts his daily practice sessions at 4 a. m.

Robinson and his staff are working overtime to transform the Tigers into a crisp - blocking and tackling squad throughly groomed in fundamentls.

Drawing the team's battle plans, End Coach Fred Hobdy said the early morning formula provides an opportunity for thoroughness and a chance to beat the heat.

Aside from the unearthly 4 to 7 a. m. drills, the daily tredmill schedule includes a 3 to 6 p. m. practice session, and an 8 p. m. chalk talk.

Several of the boys have accused coaches of having sundial trouble. "We seem to work 12 hours a day," they complain.

The overtime schedule prompted a drawling 260 - pound tackle to stretch his imagination.

"I wonder," he asked blinking quietly, "what would happen if we were in the Artic Circle where the days last six months?"

His caustic conclusion was, "We would probably stay up right through the football season."

New Orleans Out Of Legion Junior Title Contention

The victory gave Greenwood the best of three series in the double elimination tournament 2-1. Lloyd Forroux, who won the second game for New Orleans Thursday night, was the starting pitcher for his team Saturday.

The South Carolina team now advances to the Little World Series at Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 9-13.

GIBSON VS. HARD

Anderson, Cooper Move To Finals In National Tennis

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—Harlem's Althea Gibson moved within a step of one of the rarest feats in women's tennis Saturday while Mal Anderson and Ashley Cooper set up the third straight all-Australian men's final in the National Tennis Championships.

Grim and resolute, the 31-year-old Miss Gibson from Harlem overwhelmed the ambidexterous Mrs. Beverly Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., 6-4, 6-2, and went into the women's final against an old adversary, Darlene Hard.

Miss Hard, 22-year-old college student from Montebello, Calif., trounced Jeanne Arth, St. Paul, Minn., school teacher, 7-5, 6-2. Miss Gibson crushed Miss Hard in the final at Wimbledon in 1957 and she is favored to repeat Sunday.

A victory for Miss Gibson would give her two Wimbledon and two U. S. women's championships back-to-back in successive years.

The last player to do that was Maureen Connolly in 1952 and 1953 and beyond that, you must go back to the fabulous Helen Wills in the Golden Twenties to match the accomplishment.

Anderson and Cooper, Australian Davis Cup teammates but bitter rivals, advanced with straight victories, thus offering a repeat of last year's final cast when Anderson won with a magnificent performance.

The scrawny Anderson, a Queenslander, smashed the last outside threat to Australia's domination, Sweden's Ulf Schmidt, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2. Cooper, holder of the Australian and Wimbledon titles, downed his teammate, Neale Fraser, for the 11th straight time, 8-6, 8-6, 6-1.

Cooper's triumph was stereotyped—powerful service and good ground strokes asserting superiority over a flashy net game. Schmidt had one chance against Anderson and let it get away.

Leading 5-4 in the second set, he went to 40-0 on his own service, with three chances for the set. Then, shaken, he saw the deft, quick-moving Anderson ship off five points in a row to take the game and later the set with deadening suddenness. There was little life in Ulf after that.

A crowd of 10,000 came out to the West Side Tennis Club excited by the prospect that the seasoned Mrs. Fleitz who had beaten Miss Gibson in all of their three previous meetings, might pull off the upset of the decade.

Later she said she thought she played some of the best tennis of her career. "I knew Beverly would be tough," Althea said. "So I went out to put pressure on her. I did, and I kept the pressure on her all the way."

Mrs. Fleitz, 28, learned to swing a racket with either hand while still a small girl.

Beverly was obviously tense and over-eager. Miss Gibson, after a slow start, was a veritable jungle cat on the court. She stalked every ball and hit with a vengeance.

As she walked from the court, sniffing and blowing, someone asked her what she thought of her prospective opponents, Misses Hard and Arth.

"I fully expect to retain my crown," Miss Gibson replied icily.

TURNESA FADES

Nieporte Forges Utah Open Lead

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Tom Nieporte, a 28-year-old Bronxville, N.Y., golfer seeking his first tournament victory, seized the lead in the $17,000 Utah Open Saturday. Nieporte had a 7-under-par 65 in the second round for a 36-hole total of 132.

Jim Turnesa of Elmsford, N.Y., one of the first round co-leaders, faltered, shooting a one-under-par 71. With his first round 64, it dropped Turnesa to a 135 total at the halfway mark.

Nieporte, who turned pro in 1954 after winning the 1951 NCAA title and the 1953 all-Army championship, has been a fair money winner.

He came in behind Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., the game's leading money winner this year. Palmer blew an almost certain second round lead with a triple bogey on the 18th hole.

Palmer, who now has a 65-69—134 going into the third round, was long and straight off the tees and down the fairways through the 14th hole.

He was seven under par on 15, when a long downhill putt overshot and gave him a bogey on the par-3 hole.

The young slugger was short of the 18th tee and scuffed a three-wood second shot into a deep canyon. He tried an iron in a clump of bushes and used three shots to get back on the fairway.

The other first-round leader, Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., managed only a par 72, and with his first round 64 has a halfway marker of 136.

The leaders:

Dotted Line From Behind For Triumph

Under Howard Grant's handling, the winner looked like Silky Sullivan in the back stretch and like Whirlaway coming home as 22,505 fans cheered.

The winner went the mile and 1 1-16 over grass in 1:44.

Dotted Line returned $5.80, $4.00 and $3.60 and added $19,037.50 to the winnings of the King Ranch Stable.

Fall Wind, one of two 3-year-olds in the race, went to the front at once and was challenged down the backside by longshot Jodi with Mlle. Dianne in third place.

At the top of the stretch it was still Fall Wind on the lead but Jodi and Mlle. Dianne had moved up and only heads separated the trio.

Grant had made his move on Dotted Line and Dotted Line began charging on her field. She moved quickly between horses, was taken to the outside for clear sailing and passed her rivals as if they were standing still.

International's Series Tuesday

MONTREAL (AP) — The first four teams in the International Baseball League will begin playoffs for the Governor's Cup Sept. 9, league President Fank Shaughnessy said Saturday.

The Montreal Royals, who clinched first place Friday night, will play the fourth-place team. The second and third-place finishers will playoff in the other semifinal. The semifinals and the finals will be best-of-7 series.

Bastrop, Forest, Crossett Teams In Tilts Today

BASTROP, La. (Special) — Bastrop and Forest, who tied for second in the West Carroll Baseball League this summer, launch their semi - final playoff series here this afternoon at 1 o'clock at Barons' Park in the first of a double header program. The second game on the day's program matches Bastrop against Crossett, Ark., in an exhibition.

The Forest - Bastrop series will be a best - two - out - of - three affair. Goodwill, first place club in the West Carroll, and Bonita, the No. 4 club, will play in the other half of the playoffs.

Swapping strategy this afternoon here will be managers C. C. McVey and J. T. Roan of Bastrop; Charlie Jones, the Forest skipper; and Frank Vickers and Marshall Thurmun, who pilot Crossett.

Powers' Pinch Homer Puts Pirates Over Braves, 7-6

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Johnny Powers' pinch home run in the eighth inning—his first roundtripper since June 27—earned the Pittsburgh Pirates their second straight victory over the Milwaukee 7-6 Saturday.

The victory chopped another game off the Braves' National League lead, narrowing the gap between the world champions and the second place Pirates to 7½ games. The teams conclude a four-game series Sunday with a double-header.

Bob Friend, shooting for his 20th victory, and Bob Buhl, looking for his sixth triumph, were shelled from the mound in the fifth inning when both teams counted three runs.

Johnny Logan, Eddie Mathews and Del Rice homered for Milwaukee with Logan and Mathews getting back-to-back homers in the fifth. Those blasts gave the Braves a temporary 5-3 lead. Rice's homer knotted the score at 6-6 in the eight.

A pair of walks by Buhl led to two Pirate runs in the second and a wild pitch in the fourth scored another. In the fifth with two outs, the Pirates exploded for three runs and took a 6-5 lead until Rice tied it in the eighth with his first homer of the year.

It marked the second day in a row that a homer provided the winning margin. Billy Virdon's blast in the 10th inning gave the Pirates a 1 - 0 triumph Friday night. For Powers it was his second of the year.

R. G. Smith, who relieved Friend, picked up his second victory against two losses. The loser was Humberto Robinson who took over for Buhl with the score knotted at 5-5 in the fifth.

A crowd of 23,392—largest weekday attendance at Forbes Field exclusive of holidays and season openers since Sunday baseball made its debut in 1935—watched the contest.

MASON BOYS

Tulane Backfield Offers Brothers

By ED TUNSTALL

Tommy, a 19 - year - old, 190-pound power runner, was a big factor in Tulane's freshman team going through an unbeaten season last year. Prospects of the Tulane varsity going through the coming season without a blemish are fairly remote, but Tommy will add a lot of spark to the Green Wave attack.

If Tommy wants to get ahead of older brother Claude, he's got some real stepping to do. Coach Andy Pilney has labeled Claude, nicknamed "Boo" since his high school days, the bext right halfback in the Southeastern Conference. That's quite a compliment in the Dixie Dozen where good backs are so plentiful, but statistics show Boo was a busy boy last year.

But Pilney expects great things from Tommy in his first season.

"Tommy has remendous potential," Pilney said. "He's got more physical equipment than F and a lot of the same football savvy."

Boo and departed quarterback G. Newtin were Tulane's one-two punch during the disastrous 1957 season when the Greenies won only two of ten games.

Boo was Tulane's top ground gainer with 228 yards on 92 carries, a nifty 4.6 yards per try. He also led the squad in pass receiving, gathering in nine tosses for 132 yards and his three touchdowns trailed only the four Newton scored.

Tommy faced the same situation once before, at Lake Charles, La., high school where he trailed Boo on the varsity. But his performance left little room to lament Boo's departure.

Aside from having a physical edge on Boo, who weighs in at only 165, Tommy also carried dazzling speed. He ran the 100-yard dash in ten seconds as a member of the freshman track team.

The urge to once again compete with Boo showed up in spring practice when Tommy came up with a bad ankle and coaches practically had to hold him to keep him off the field.

"Boo is counting on me to keep the family name going at Tulane," Tommy said. "He's always been a great football player and I hope I can pattern myself after him. I hope I don't let him down.

Tulane is pretty sure Tommy isn't going to let anyone down.

2 HOMERS IN 10-2 WIN

Reds Hand Phils 5th Straight Loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bolstered by two bases-empty homers the Cincinnati Redlegs extended the Philadelphia Phillies losing string to five Saturday with a 10-2 triumph that tightened the Redleg's hold on fourth place in the National League.

The Phillies also lost the services of starting pitcher Curt Simmons who retired in the third inning because of pains in the left elbow, his throwing arm. The Redlegs were ahead 1-0 at the time and Simmons was charged with his 14th defeat. He's won seven.

The two Cincinnati homers came in the fifth off rookie John Anderson, the fourth Phil pitcher. Frank Robinson hit his 28th and Walt Dropo his 6th, both into the left field stands of Connie Mack Stadium. Dropo also drove in two more runs with a bases-loaded single in the eighth.

Right-hander Bob Purkey allowed only five hits and had only one bad inning—the fourth when Harry Anderson smashed his 21st homer with one man aboard. It was Purkey's 16th win against 9 defeats.

Fullmer, Webb Meet Thursday In Utah Scrap

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Former middleweight champion Gene Fullmer and Spider Webb of Chicago battle here Thursday night before an outdoor crowd at Derks Field. The winner will have a claim to one of the top rungs in the division.

Webb is ranked sixth, however, while Fullmer is the number two contender. The fight is expected to draw one of the biggest gates in Utah's boxing history. Promoters claim more than $40,000 is in the till. A heavy demand will have to turn up this week to threaten Utah's record gate of $130,000 drawn for a heavyweight bout in 1952 between Rex Layne and Ezzard Charles.

HOLD SCRIMMAGE

Aillet Not Pleased With Tech Progress

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech football players went through a scrimmage Saturday to close out their first week of drills—a session which left Head Coach Joe Aillet dissatisfied with the progress of the club.

Aillet said the Tech coaching staff is "not happy with the scrimmage session," pointing out that there were missed blocking assignments, a certain amount of sluggishness on the part of the players, possibly caused by training in hot weather, and a minimum of offense displayed by the three units.

The coach said the Tech players had a rough week of training having missed time from drills because of bad weather, and that the boys are "pretty well legweary," after the first week.

He said the small squad, just over 40, makes it doubly hard in practice routine. However, the fellows keep doubling up and get in condition pretty fast, he said.

Tech suffered one casualty in the session. Second unit quarterback Jim Orton going to the sidelines with a dislocated shoulder. Aillet said Orton will miss drills for at least 10 days. The Bulldogs already have several out with injuries including end Billy Bundrick, who reported for training with a game leg and who is likely to miss the first two games. Halfback Jack Howard, also is sidelined with a leg injury.

Center Buck Stewart has a broken thumb but has not missed any training time. End Sherwood White who went to the hospital the first day of drills with an attack of amoebic disentery, is expected to begin light workouts Monday. All on the ailing list except Howard are lettermen. After a day of rest today, the Tech gridmen get back to two-a-day training sessions Monday morning.

Tech now has less than two weeks to prepare for the opening game against Mississippi Southern in Hattisburg Sept. 20.

Gallant Man Fifth; Cohoes Wins Sysonby

NEW YORK (AP)—Gallant Man returned to the races Saturday after a seven weeks layoff and finished fifth in the $28,700 Sysonby Handicap at Belmont Park as Cohoes edged Mister Jive in a stirring stretch duel.

It was a tough loss for the little Texas-owned colt, who packed a crushing 134 pounds. Ralph Lowe and the new one million dollar syndicate which purchased three-quarter ownership two days ago has been pointing him toward horse of the year honors.

Cohoes, owned by the Greentree Stable, outfought John L. Applebaum's Mister Jive down the stretch and drew off slightly in the final yards to win a head victory. Mister Jive finished 2½ lengths in front of Reneged leading the way into the head of the stretch. The time was a zippy 1:35, just a fifth of a second slower than Count Fleet's track mark set in 1942 and equalled in 1956 by Blessbull. Reneged, second choice at 3 to 1, took the show by a neck over Howell E. Jackson's Tick Tock, who got fourth by a length and a quarter over Gallant Man.

Cohoes was a stubborn colt going to the post, and jockey Johnny Ruane and two assistant starters had to do plenty of urging before he'd continue to the starting gate an eighth of a mile off where the others patiently waited.

But once the gates flew open, Cohoes was right in the thick of it when Reneged took the lead after a quarter mile. Rounding into the far turn with about half a mile to go, Reneged, Mister Jive and Cohoes were running in that order with less than a length between them.

Gallant Man had started on the rail, and was seventh and last. He finally moved into sixth after half a mile, but never seemed to have his late rush and never threatened.

Mister Jive, with jockey Hedley Woodhouse, moved into a head lead at the top of the stretch with a quarter remaining, and Reneged with Bobby Ussery up began to drop back while Cohoes moved up to begin his successful challenge.

The crowd of 33,613 had bet Gallant Man and Eddie Arcaro, riding him for the first time, down to 13-20 favoritism, but they paid off $13.20, $6.90 and $4.10 on Cohoes. The winner, who packed 116 pounds, is owned by John Hay Whitney, U. S. ambassador to England, and his sister, Mrs. Charles S. Payson.

Mister Jive, packing 113, paid $17.80 and $7.50, while Reneged, with 124 pounds, was $3.50.

Arcaro said The Man "seemed to be doing fine in the early running and started his move all right, but then wasn't able to keep it up."

Mark Anthony In Record Run At Rockingham

SALEM, N. H. (AP)—Mark Antony, owned by Mrs. John Payson Adams of Newport, R. I., set a world record Saturday for a mile and 70 yards en route to his five-length triumph in the Manchester Handicap at Rockingham Park.

Mark Antony covered the distance in 1:39 1-5. The previous mark was 1:39 2-5 by Tellerain at Garden State.

The jockey was Henry Wajda.

Minors Growing Alarmed By Major League Trends

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The head of minor league baseball warned Saturday that expansion of the majors could wreck some of the best leagues in the minors.

President George M. Trautman of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball leagues said he was concerned over reports that the majors plan to expand to two 10-club circuits.

Major league club owners meet in Chicago Tuesday and expansion reportedly is a main item on the agenda.

"I am disturbed, once again, over the reports reaching us that the major leagues will attempt to take over one or more of our fine National Association cities," Trautman said. "It has happened before with tremendous damage to the entire minor league structure."

Trautman said he had not been consulted on any possible changes in the major-minor map.

He expressed concern that expansion to 10-club leagues cannot be accomplished without virtually wrecking one or more minor league.

"What happens to the American Association if Minneapolis is taken. What of St. Paul, the Twin-City with a brand new ball park? Could we continue to operate a minor league franchise there when the majors had taken over across the river? What becomes of the International League if Toronto or Montreal are taken?

"What of Denver, Houston, Dallas, and the leagues they represent? Our structure is in jeopardy, yet no one comes to us and suggests an orderly way in which to work this all out," Trautman said.

The minor league boss said the National Association was not attempting to prevent progress or expansion.

"We would not deny the right of the fans of any of these cities to major league baseball. But what of the legion of fans in the many other cities in these leagues? We must protect their rights. And are they to be denied any kind of baseball at all?"

Trautman said turmoil may well develop in many other minor league towns if "this capricious invading of our greener pastures" continues.

Fans in many minor league cities will be yelling for franchises at the first sign of failure or weakness in any major league city, Trautman said, adding:

"The fans, for example, in Atlanta, in Phoenix, in Seattle, or Buffalo would have every right and reason to say—'Look at this major league franchise. It is in trouble. Nobody supports the club. They've had their chance. Now let us have a franchise.' That sort of thing could go on and on but not indefinitely. Because eventually there won't be any cities left."

A's Cop Delayed Win Over Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers went over the million mark Saturday in home attendance but the Kansas City Athletics spoiled the occasion with a 6-2 triumph in a contest delayed three times by rain.

A crowd of 5,756 sent the attendance up to 1,003,761 and gave the Tigers a million at home for the fifth straight year and the 13th time in 14 seasons.

Rain held up the game 20 minutes and again for 51 minutes while the A's were batting in the fifth inning. Another shower brought a 13-minute delay later.

Roger Maris and Hector Lopez led a 10-hit attack against four Detroit pitchers as the Athletics captured only their second decision in 10 Briggs Stadium games.

Maris slammed his 25th home run off starter Herb Moford in the third inning and collected a single and a double before the long afternoon was over.

Lopez had a single, double and triple and drove in two runs.

Grim had yielded Charlie Maxwell's double and Frank Bolling's single in the seventh before the third showers came. Craft brought on Jack Urban, who gave up a sacrifice fly and a single that scored the two runners. Ralph Terry finished up.

Touch Football Loop To Meet Monday Night

There will be an organization of the high school touch football league at 7 tomorrow night at the Community Center, 113½ Catalpa street, assistant recreation director James McKay said yesterday.

The league will be open to boys 18 and under in high school but not playing on varsity football teams, McKay said.

"All league games will be played in late afternoon or at night at the L.T.I. field," McKay stated.

McKay said an adult league would be organized as soon as possible after the opening of college.

Fog Postpones Vim, Columbia's Showdown Race

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—A heavy fog Saturday forced the cancellation of the third race between Vim and Columbia in the battle to represent the United States against England in the America's Cup yacht classic.

The two boats, even at 1-1 in the final series, will meet again Sunday.

Visibility was less than 400 yards when the committee fired the guns to announce the calling off of Saturday's race. The committee had waited more than an hour, hoping for the fog to lift.

Powers' Pinch Homer Puts Pirates Over Braves, 7-6

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Johnny Powers' pinch home run in the eighth inning—his first roundtripper since June 27—earned the Pittsburgh Pirates their second straight victory over the Milwaukee 7-6 Saturday.

The victory chopped another game off the Braves' National League lead, narrowing the gap between the world champions and the second place Pirates to 7½ games. The teams conclude a four-game series Sunday with a double-header.

Bob Friend, shooting for his 20th victory, and Bob Buhl, looking for his sixth triumph, were shelled from the mound in the fifth inning when both teams counted three runs.

Johnny Logan, Eddie Mathews and Del Rice homered for Milwaukee with Logan and Mathews getting back-to-back homers in the fifth. Those blasts gave the Braves a temporary 5-3 lead. Rice's homer knotted the score at 6-6 in the eight.

A pair of walks by Buhl led to two Pirate runs in the second and a wild pitch in the fourth scored another. In the fifth with two outs, the Pirates exploded for three runs and took a 6-5 lead until Rice tied it in the eighth with his first homer of the year.

It marked the second day in a row that a homer provided the winning margin. Billy Virdon's blast in the 10th inning gave the Pirates a 1 - 0 triumph Friday night. For Powers it was his second of the year.

R. G. Smith, who relieved Friend, picked up his second victory against two losses. The loser was Humberto Robinson who took over for Buhl with the score knotted at 5-5 in the fifth.

A crowd of 23,392—largest week-day attendance at Forbes Field exclusive of holidays and season openers since Sunday baseball made its debut in 1935—watched the contest.

Tulane Backfield Offers Brothers

By ED TUNSTALL

Tommy, a 19 - year - old, 190-pound power runner, was a big factor in Tulane's freshman team going through an unbeaten season last year. Prospects of the Tulane varsity going through the coming season without a blemish are fairly remote, but Tommy will add a lot of spark to the Green Wave attack.

If Tommy wants to get ahead of older brother Claude, he's got some real stepping to do. Coach Andy Pilney has labeled Claude, nicknamed "Boo" since his high school days, the bext right halfback in the Southeastern Conference. That's quite a compliment in the Dixie Dozen where good backs are so plentiful, but statistics show Boo was a busy boy last year.

But Pilney expects great things from Tommy in his first season.

"Tommy has remendous potential," Pilney said. "He's got more physical equipment than B and a lot of the same football savvy."

Boo and departed quarterback G. Newtin were Tulane's one-two punch during the disastrous 1957 season when the Greenies won only two of ten games.

Boo was Tulane's top ground gainer with [illegible]28 yards on 92 carries, a nifty 4.6 yards per try. He also led the squad in pass receiving, gathering in nine tosses for 132 yards and his three touchdowns trailed only the four Newton scored.

Aside from having a physical edge on Boo, who weighs in at only 165, Tommy also carried dazzling speed. He ran the 100-yard dash in ten seconds as a member of the freshman track team.

The urge to once again compete with Boo showed up in spring practice when Tommy came up with a bad ankle and coaches practically had to hold him to keep im off the field.

"Boo is counting on me to keep the family name going at Tulane," Tommy said. "He's always been a great football player and I hope I can pattern myself after him. I hope I don't let him down.

Tulane is pretty sure Tommy isn't going to let anyone down.

2 HOMERS IN 10-2 WIN

Reds Hand Phils 5th Straight Loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bolstered by two bases-empty homers the Cincinnati Redlegs extended the Philadelphia Phillies losing string to five Saturday with a 10-2 triumph that tightened the Redleg's hold on fourth place in the National League.

The Phillies also lost the services of starting pitcher Curt Simmons who retired in the third inning because of pains in the left elbow, his throwing arm. The Redlegs were ahead 1-0 at the time and Simmons was charged with his 14th defeat. He's won seven.

The two Cincinnati homers came in the fifth off rookie John Anderson, the fourth Phil pitcher. Frank Robinson hit his 28th and Walt Dropo his 6th, both into the left field stands of Connie Mack Stadium. Dropo also drove in two more runs with a bases-loaded single in the eighth.

Right-hander Bob Purkey allowed only five hits and had only one bad inning—the fourth when Harry Anderson smashed his 21st homer with one man aboard. It was Purkey's 16th win against 9 defeats.

Fullmer, Webb Meet Thursday In Utah Scrap

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Former middleweight champion Gene Fullmer and Spider Webb of Chicago battle here Thursday night before an outdoor crowd at Derks Field. The winner will have a claim to one of the top rungs in the division.

Webb is ranked sixth, however, while Fullmer is the number two contender. The fight is expected to draw one of the biggest gates in Utah's boxing history. Promoters claim more than $40,000 is in the till. A heavy demand will have to turn up this week to threaten Utah's record gate of $130,000 drawn for a heavyweight bout in 1952 between Rex Layne and Ezzard Charles.

HOLD SCRIMMAGE

Aillet Not Pleased With Tech Progress

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech football players went through a scrimmage Saturday to close out their first week of drills—a session which left Head Coach Joe Aillet dissatisfied with the progress of the club.

Aillet said the Tech coaching staff is "not happy with the scrimmage session," pointing out that there were missed blocking assignments, a certain amount of sluggishness on the part of the players, possibly caused by training in hot weather, and a minimum of offense displayed by the three units.

The coach said the Tech players had a rough week of training having missed time from drills because of bad weather, and that the boys are "pretty well legweary," after the first week.

He said the small squad, just over 40, makes it doubly hard in practice routine. However, the fellows keep doubling up and get in condition pretty fast, he said.

Tech suffered one casualty in the session. Second unit quarterback Jim Orton going to the sidelines with a dislocated shoulder. Aillet said Orton will miss drills for at least 10 days. The Bulldogs already have several out with injuries including end Billy Bundrick, who reported for training with a game leg and who is likely to miss the first two games. Halfback Jack Howard, also is sidelined with a leg injury.

Center Buck Stewart has a broken thumb but has not missed any training time. End Sherwood White who went to the hospital the first day of drills with an attack of amoebic disentery, is expected to begin light workouts Monday. All on the ailing list except Howard are lettermen. After a day of rest today, the Tech gridmen get back to two-a-day training sessions Monday morning.

Tech now has less than two weeks to prepare for the opening game against Mississippi Southern in Hattisburg Sept. 20.

Gallant Man Fifth; Cohoes Wins Sysonby

NEW YORK (AP)—Gallant Man returned to the races Saturday after a seven weeks layoff and finished fifth in the $28,700 Sysonby Handicap at Belmont Park as Cohoes edged Mister Jive in a stirring stretch duel.

It was a tough loss for the little Texas-owned colt, who packed a crushing 134 pounds. Ralph Lowe and the new one million dollar syndicate which purchased three-quarter ownership two days ago has been pointing him toward horse of the year honors.

Cohoes, owned by the Greentree Stable, outfought John L. Applebaum's Mister Jive down the stretch and drew off slightly in the final yards to win a head victory. Mister Jive finished 2½ lengths in front of Reneged leading the way into the head of the stretch. The time was a zippy 1:35, just a fifth of a second slower than Count Fleet's track mark set in 1942 and equalled in 1956 by Blessbull. Reneged, second choice at 3 to 1, took the show by a neck over Howell E. Jackson's Tick Tock, who got fourth by a length and a quarter over Gallant Man.

Cohoes was a stubborn colt going to the post, and jockey Johnny Ruane and two assistant starters had to do plenty of urging before he'd continue to the starting gate an eighth of a mile off where the others patiently waited.

But once the gates flew open, Cohoes was right in the thick of it when Reneged took the lead after a quarter mile. Rounding into the far turn with about half a mile to go, Reneged, Mister Jive and Cohoes were running in that order with less than a length between them.

Gallant Man had started on the rail, and was seventh and last. He finally moved into sixth after half a mile, but never seemed to have his late rush and never threatened.

Mister Jive, with jockey Hedley Woodhouse, moved into a head lead at the top of the stretch with a quarter remaining, and Reneged with Bobby Ussery up began to drop back while Cohoes moved up to begin his successful challenge.

The crowd of 33,613 had bet Gallant Man and Eddie Arcaro, riding him for the first time, down to 13-20 favoritism, but they paid off $13.20, $6.90 and $4.10 on Cohoes. The winner, who packed 116 pounds, is owned by John Hay Whitney, U. S. ambassador to England, and his sister, Mrs. Charles S. Payson.

Mister Jive, packing 113, paid $17.80 and $7.50, while Reneged, with 124 pounds, was $3.50.

Arcaro said The Man "seemed to be doing fine in the early running and started his move all right, but then wasn't able to keep it up."

Mark Anthony In Record Run At Rockingham

SALEM, N. H. (AP)—Mark Antony, owned by Mrs. John Payson Adams of Newport, R. I., set a world record Saturday for a mile and 70 yards en route to his five-length triumph in the Manchester Handicap at Rockingham Park.

Mark Antony covered the distance in 1:39 1-5. The previous mark was 1:39 2-5 by Tellerain at Garden State.

The jockey was Henry Wajda.

Minors Growing Alarmed By Major League Trends

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The head of minor league baseball warned Saturday that expansion of the majors could wreck some of the best leagues in the minors.

President George M. Trautman of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball leagues said he was concerned over reports that the majors plan to expand to two 10-club circuits.

Major league club owners meet in Chicago Tuesday and expansion reportedly is a main item on the agenda.

"I am disturbed, once again, over the reports reaching us that the major leagues will attempt to take over one or more of our fine National Association cities," Trautman said. "It has happened before with tremendous damage to the entire minor league structure."

Trautman said he had not been consulted on any possible changes in the major-minor map.

He expressed concern that expansion to 10-club leagues cannot be accomplished without virtually wrecking one or more minor league.

"What happens to the American Association if Minneapolis is taken. What of St. Paul, the Twin-City with a brand new ball park? Could we continue to operate a minor league franchise there when the majors had taken over across the river? What becomes of the International League if Toronto or Montreal are taken?

"What of Denver, Houston, Dallas, and the leagues they represent? Our structure is in jeopardy, yet no one comes to us and suggests an orderly way in which to work this all out," Trautman said.

The minor league boss said the National Association was not attempting to prevent progress or expansion.

"We would not deny the right of the fans of any of these cities to major league baseball. But what of the legion of fans in the many other cities in these leagues? We must protect their rights. And are they to be denied any kind of baseball at all?"

Trautman said turmoil may well develop in many other minor league towns if "this capricious invading of our greener pastures" continues.

Fans in many minor league cities will be yelling for franchises at the first sign of failure or weakness in any major league city, Trautman said, adding:

"The fans, for example, in Atlanta, in Phoenix, in Seattle, or Buffalo would have every right and reason to say—'Look at this major league franchise. It is in trouble. Nobody supports the club. They've had their chance. Now let us have a franchise.' That sort of thing could go on and on but not indefinitely. Because eventually there won't be any cities left."

A's Cop Delayed Win Over Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers went over the million mark Saturday in home attendance but the Kansas City Athletics spoiled the occasion with a 6-2 triumph in a contest delayed three times by rain.

A crowd of 5,756 sent the attendance up to 1,003,761 and gave the Tigers a million at home for the fifth straight year and the 13th time in 14 seasons.

Rain held up the game 20 minutes and again for 51 minutes while the A's were batting in the fifth inning. Another shower brought a 13-minute delay later.

Roger Maris and Hector Lopez led a 10-hit attack against four Detroit pitchers as the Athletics captured only their second decision in 10 Briggs Stadium games.

Maris slammed his 25th home run off starter Herb Moford in the third inning and collected a single and a double before the long afternoon was over.

Lopez had a single, double and triple and drove in two runs.

Grim had yielded Charlie Maxwell's double and Frank Bolling's single in the seventh before the third showers came. Craft brought on Jack Urban, who gave up a sacrifice fly and a single that scored the two runners. Ralph Terry finished up.

Touch Football Loop To Meet Monday Night

There will be an organization of the high school touch football league at 7 tomorrow night at the Community Center, 113½ Catalpa street, assistant recreation director James McKay said yesterday.

The league will be open to boys 18 and under in high school but not playing on varsity football teams, McKay said.

"All league games will be played in late afternoon or at night at the L.T.I. field," McKay stated.

McKay said an adult league would be organized as soon as possible after the opening of college.

Fog Postpones Vim, Columbia's Showdown Race

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—A heavy fog Saturday forced the cancellation of the third race between Vim and Columbia in the battle to represent the United States against England in the America's Cup yacht classic.

The two boats, even at 1-1 in the final series, will meet again Sunday.

Visibility was less than 400 yards when the committee fired the guns to announce the calling off of Saturday's race. The committee had waited more than an hour, hoping for the fog to lift.

Presbyterian Church Group Slates Meet

The annual retreat for business and professional women of Red River Presbytery, Presbyterian Church in the U. S., will be held at Camp Alabama, September 20-21. Dr. Rachel Hinderlite of the Board of Christian Education, Richmond, Va., and Dr. Wm. B. Kennedy of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, will lead the study group.

Business and professional women of the Presbytery have been invited to participate in the special study — "Learning Within the Covenant Community — the Church." The retreat will begin with registration period from 9-10, Saturday morning, September 20, and will close at 3 p. m., Sunday, September 21.

Registration should be sent to Miss Isabella Leary, 1536 Stephens, Shreveport, by September 10.

Local Church Will Install Pastor Today

Formal installation services for the Rev. John O. Stewart, new pastor of the First Christian Church in Monroe, will be held at the church this evening at 7.

The installation sermon will be given by the Rev. Joe Babb, executive secretary of the Louisiana Christian Missionary Society. Greetings will be given by Mayor Howard on behalf of the city, from the local Ministerial Alliance, and from the St. John Christian Church.

Mr. Stewart began his ministry here on August 15th, succeeding Rev. R. T. Watson, who served the church for more than 20 years.

The public has been given a cordial invitation to attend this formal installation service.

Revival Slated This Week At Central Baptist

Revival services will be conducted this coming week at the Central Baptist Church of Monroe with Rev. Joe Mongle of Winnsboro as the evangelist and Rev. Charles B. Littleton in charge of the music.

Rev. Joe Mongle is the pastor of the Temple Baptist Church of Winnsboro and was formerly pastor of the Baptist Church at Start. He will be speaking in the early morning services beginning at 6:30 a. m. from Monday through Friday and every night in the evening services which will begin at 7:30 p. m.

The public is cordially invited to attend this series of meetings.

Missionaries Face Reverse Color Line

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Religion Writer

Christianity is facing a stern test in Africa.

It's so stern, in fact, that Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the National Council of Churches, has warned that opportunities for Christi-- missionary work in Africa may soon come to an end.

The problem is basically the same as that which confronts the Western world politically — an aroused spirit of nationalism and a color-consciousness line that is being drawn from the opposite direction.

Why has African nationalism chosen Christianity as one of its antagonists?

Ben J. Marais, professor of Christian history at the University of Pretoria, South Africa, writing in the fortnightly Christianity Today, explains it this way: "For generations we Western Christians have become accustomed to the fact that the nominally Christian nations of Europe or the West were the masters of the world. . . .

The hatred built up by colored peoples, he says, "often makes them blind . . . to the real nature and purpose of the church as a fellowship which seeks to transcend all barriers of race and color."

The surge of nationalism also has sharpened the rivalry between Christianity and Islam, the Christian missionary's oldest organized adversary on the Dark Continent.

The Rev. John McGee, a Southern Baptist missionary stationed in Nigeria, reported recently that the Arab world is raising 50 million dollars for a campaign to make all Africa Moslem.

Islam, as it appears in Africa, is a difficult thing for Christian professional clergy. It has no central organization. It makes no organized effort to found schools, hospitals, missions.

Why, then, is Islam such a formidable opponent?

Geo-Spiritual Year In Planning Stage

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Don't be surprised if religion tears a leaf from science's notebook pretty soon and comes up with an International Geo-Spiritual Year.

At least two prominent clergymen have suggested it in recent months. And a newly formed Committee on Religion and Science is showing a keen interest in getting it off the ground.

The Rev. Louis A. Gales of St. Paul, Minn., editor of the Catholic Digest, brought the subject up late last year at a meeting of religious education groups.

Father Gales recommended that 1960 be set aside as a period when "each religious group would present the moral and spiritual resources if felt was necessary for the religious development of mankind."

And the Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches, suggests an International Geo-Theological Year to carry the Geophysical Year a step beyond its material limits.

Dr. Dahlberg, writing in the monthly National Council Outlook, notes that President Eisenhower's advisory committee has listed four motivations for an enlarged space program—curiosity, defense, prestige and knowledge.

To this, Dr. Dahlberg would add a fifth motivation, one that would set the tone for the Geo-Theological Year—"the desire to know the nature of God and the ultimate purpose behind the universe."

Those taking part in the program would seek answers to these questions:

"Do we live and move and have our being in God, or simply in a kind of electric plasma?

"What is the authority of Christ? If there are other inhabited worlds, is He the Lord and Savior of those worlds as well as our own?

"What is the goal of human history. In the thunder of sound barriers breaking, the roar of rockets rushing through space, and the shock of hard landings on the moon, how shall we think of time, and timelessness, and eternity?

"What is the central idea of creation? One translator of John 1:1 gives this version of the introduction to the fourth Gospel: 'In the beginning was the Idea.' What was that Idea?"

Dr. Dahlberg would invite participation by the best religious thinkers, Christian and non-Christian: nuclear scientists; and philosophers.

"Such an experiment," concludes Dr. Dahlberg, "might contribute more to the peace of the world and the intelligent control of outer space than all the high level conferences of political and military leaders."

The Committee on Religion and Science, which is showing signs of picking up the cudgel for the International Geo-Spiritual Year, was organized last spring because, in its own words:

"Man does not always put new power to work for the best use of mankind. The purpose of this committee is to emphasize the need for spiritual and moral growth along with scientific achievements."

Special Services Set At Calvary Baptist Church

Calvary Baptist Church, 812 Mississippi Street, Monroe, will open revival services next Sunday, Sept. 14, according to Rev. D. W. Nix, pastor.

Rev. F. W. Hart, pastor of the Fairfields Baptist Church in Baton Rouge will fill the pulpit as evangelist, and Jon Barker will lead the music.

The revival will continue through Sept. 21, with morning services at 9:30 and evening services at 7:30 each day of the occasion.

MINISTER OF MUSIC—Jack Day, minister of music at First Baptist Church, West Monroe, recently returned from a visit to the television networks in New York. As producer of the series "Decision," Day had the opportunity of examining the facilities at NBC for producing and directing. The church produces the series seen locally from 3:30-4:30 p.m. on Sundays.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: In our high school, there is a girl who follows me and calls me all sweet names. My parents say I should be nice to her because I am a Christian, but when I am nice to her, she just clings to me. Can you suggest a course of action for me as a Christian? P.V.

ANSWER: This girl friend of yours appears to have some of the symptoms of sexual abnormality. She can be dangerous if encouraged too much, and there-conversation and very confidenfore your problem is a difficult one. If you know what her problem is, you can be on guard against undue familiarity. At the same time, you may be able to help her.

Many times, Christians make the mistake of thinking that they cannot help people spiritually unless they become intimate in their conversation and very confidential. That is not our calling as witnesses. Be careful in all your dealing with her to be very frank and open in you witness, but do not commit yourself to her under any conditions. Be careful not to win her to yourself and fail to win her to Christ. He can help her, but you cannot. The Bible says "He that winneth souls is wise", not just wise because he wins them but he wins them because he is wise." (Proverbs 11:30)

Rev. J. P. Nolan Bids Farewell To W.M. Church

Reverend J. P. Nolan delivered his farewell sermon at the Church of God, 809 Montgomery St., West Monroe, last week.

Reverend Nolan organized this church in March of 1939; with the exception of four years, has been the continuous pastor. Reverend Nolan and his family will be moving Monday to a new field of labor near Mobile, Alabama.

Succeeding Reverend Nolan at the West Monre Church will be the Reverend E. L. Joplin, who has been pastor at Bogalusa, Louisiana, for the past two years. Reverend Joplin, Mrs. Joplin, ith their four children have arrived here, and he will deliver his first message today.

Break Ground Today For New Church

Ground - breaking ceremonies for the new Trinity Lutheran Church were set for 3 p.m. today at the building site, 1301 Oliver Road, Monroe, according to the Rev. Arthur Betz, church pastor.

Assisting in the services will be William Hochstetler, president of the congregation, Mrs. Vencel Hubka, president of the Ladies Society and Danny Miller, who will represent the young people of the church.

Plans for the first unit of three anticipated buildings have been completed and accepted. John Neel will serve as architect and Lamar Moore will be the general contractor.

Pastor Notes Completion Of Year's Work

Reverend and Mrs. Fred D. Wall have completed one year's work as pastors of the First Assembly of God Church in West Monroe. In the last year much has been accomplished, such as a facelifting program on the church building and the purchase of a church model organ.

Reverend and Mrs. Wall will leave this week on a trip through the eastern states to attend the 5th World Conference of Pentecostal Churches which convenes in Toronto, Canada on September 14-21. This is the first time this conference has convened on the American continent. The speakers will be the leading ministers of all Pentecostal faiths, also visiting choirs from all over the world dressed in national costumes will sing in different languages.

PROGRAM DIRECTOR—Mrs. Malcolm L. Mason will serve as program director for the Wesley Foundation for Methodist student work at Northeast State College. She was a graduate of Rayville High School and Centenary College. Group will hold freshman party Thursday.

Men In Service

Presbyterian Church Group Slates Meet

The annual retreat for business and professional women of Red River Presbytery, Presbyterian Church in the U. S., will be held at Camp Alabama, September 20-21. Dr. Rachel Hinderlite of the Board of Christian Education, Richmond, Va., and Dr. Wm. B. Kennedy of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, will lead the study group.

Business and professional women of the Presbytery have been invited to participate in the special study — "Learning Within the Covenant Community — the Church." The retreat will begin with registration period from 9-10, Saturday morning, September 20, and will close at 3 p. m., Sunday, September 21.

Registration should be sent to Miss Isabella Leary, 1536 Stephens, Shreveport, by September 10.

Local Church Will Install Pastor Today

Formal installation services for the Rev. John O. Stewart, new pastor of the First Christian Church in Monroe, will be held at the church this evening at 7.

The installation sermon will be given by the Rev. Joe Babb, executive secretary of the Louisiana Christian Missionary Society. Greetings will be given by Mayor Howard on behalf of the city, from the local Ministerial Alliance, and from the St. John Christian Church.

Mr. Stewart began his ministry here on August 15th, succeeding Rev. R. T. Watson, who served the church for more than 20 years.

The public has been given a cordial invitation to attend this formal installation service.

REV. JOE MONGLE

Revival Slated This Week At Central Baptist

Revival services will be conducted this coming week at the Central Baptist Church of Monroe with Rev. Joe Mongle of Winnsboro as the evangelist and Rev. Charles B. Littleton in charge of the music.

Rev. Joe Mongle is the pastor of the Temple Baptist Church of Winnsboro and was formerly pastor of the Baptist Church at Start. He will be speaking in the early morning services beginning at 6:30 a. m. from Monday through Friday and every night in the evening services which will begin at 7:30 p. m.

The public is cordially invited to attend this series of meetings.

Missionaries Face Reverse Color Line

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Religion Writer

Christianity is facing a stern test in Africa.

It's so stern, in fact, that Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the National Council of Churches, has warned that opportunities for Christian missionary work in Africa may soon come to an end.

The problem is basically the same as that which confronts the Western world politically — an aroused spirit of nationalism and a color-consciousness line that is being drawn from the opposite direction.

Why has African nationalism chosen Christianity as one of its antagonists?

Ben J. Marais, professor of Christian history at the University of Pretoria, South Africa, writing in the fortnightly Christianity Today, explains it this way: "For generations we Western Christians have become accustomed to the fact that the nominally Christian nations of Europe or the West were the masters of the world. . . .

The hatred built up by colored peoples, he says, "often makes them blind . . . to the real nature and purpose of the church as a fellowship which seeks to transcend all barriers of race and color."

The surge of nationalism also has sharpened the rivalry between Christianity and Islam, the Christian missionary's oldest organized adversary on the Dark Continent.

The Rev. John McGee, a Southern Baptist missionary stationed in Nigeria, reported recently that the Arab world is raising 50 million dollars for a campaign to make all Africa Moslem.

Islam, as it appears in Africa, is a difficult thing for Christian professional clergy. It has no central organization. It makes no organized effort to found schools, hospitals, missions.

Why, then, is Islam such a formidable opponent?

Geo-Spiritual Year In Planning Stage

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Don't be surprised if religion tears a leaf from science's notebook pretty soon and comes up with an International Geo-Spiritual Year.

At least two prominent clergymen have suggested it in recent months. And a newly formed Committee on Religion and Science is showing a keen interest in getting it off the ground.

The Rev. Louis A. Gales of St. Paul, Minn., editor of the Catholic Digest, brought the subject up late last year at a meeting of religious education groups.

Father Gales recommended that 1960 be set aside as a period when "each religious group would present the moral and spiritual resources if felt was necessary for the religious development of mankind."

And the Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches, suggests an International Geo-Theological Year to carry the Geophysical Year a step beyond its material limits.

Dr. Dahlberg, writing in the monthly National Council Outlook, notes that President Eisenhower's advisory committee has listed four motivations for an enlarged space program—curiosity, defense, prestige and knowledge.

To this, Dr. Dahlberg would add a fifth motivation, one that would set the tone for the Geo-Theological Year—"the desire to know the nature of God and the ultimate purpose behind the universe."

Those taking part in the program would seek answers to these questions:

"Do we live and move and have our being in God, or simply in a kind of electric plasma?

"What is the authority of Christ? If there are other inhabited worlds, is He the Lord and Savior of those worlds as well as our own?

"What is the goal of human history. In the thunder of sound barriers breaking, the roar of rockets rushing through space, and the shock of hard landings on the moon, how shall we think of time, and timelessness, and eternity?

"What is the central idea of creation? One translator of John 1:1 gives this version of the introduction to the fourth Gospel: 'In the beginning was the Idea.' What was that Idea?"

Dr. Dahlberg would invite participation by the best religious thinkers, Christian and non-Christian; nuclear scientists; and philosophers.

"Such an experiment," concludes Dr. Dahlberg, "might contribute more to the peace of the world and the intelligent control of outer space than all the high level conferences of political and military leaders."

The Committee on Religion and Science, which is showing signs of picking up the cudgel for the International Geo-Spiritual Year, was organized last spring because, in its own words:

"Man does not always put new power to work for the best use of mankind. The purpose of this committee is to emphasize the need for spiritual and moral growth along with scientific achievements."

The committee is coordinated by Edward L. Wertheim, a New York advertising executive, and is financed by a temporary agent from the Swedenborg Foundation.

MINISTER OF MUSIC—Jack Day, minister of music at First Baptist Church, West Monroe, recently returned from a visit to the television networks in New York. As producer of the series "Decision," Day had the opportunity of examining the facilities at NBC for producing and directing. The church produces the series seen locally from 3:30-4:30 p.m. on Sundays.

Special Services Set At Calvary Baptist Church

Calvary Baptist Church, 812 Mississippi Street, Monroe, will open revival services next Sunday, Sept. 14, according to Rev. D. W. Nix, pastor.

Rev. F. W. Hart, pastor of the Fairfields Baptist Church in Baton Rouge will fill the pulpit as evangelist, and Jon Barker will lead the music.

The revival will continue through Sept. 21, with morning services at 9:30 and evening services at 7:30 each day of the occasion.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: In our high school, there is a girl who follows me and calls me all sweet names. My parents say I should be nice to her because I am a Christian, but when I am nice to her, she just clings to me. Can you suggest a course of action for me as a Christian? P.V.

ANSWER: This girl friend of yours appears to have some of the symptoms of sexual abnormality. She can be dangerous if encouraged too much, and thereconversation and very confidenfore your problem is a difficult one. If you know what her problem is, you can be on guard against undue familiarity. At the same time, you may be able to help her.

Many times, Christians make the mistake of thinking that they cannot help people spiritually unless they become intimate in their conversation and very confidential. That is not our calling as witnesses. Be careful in all your dealing with her to be very frank and open in you witness, but do not commit yourself to her under any conditions. Be careful not to win her to yourself and fail to win her to Christ. He can help her, but you cannot. The Bible says "He that winneth souls is wise", not just wise because he wins them but he wins them because he is wise." (Proverbs 11:30)

Rev. J. P. Nolan Bids Farewell To W. M. Church

Reverend J. P. Nolan delivered his farewell sermon at the Church of God, 809 Montgomery St., West Monroe, last week.

Reverend Nolan organized this church in March of 1939; with the exception of four years, has been the continuous pastor. Reverend Nolan and his family will be moving Monday to a new field of labor near Mobile, Alabama.

Succeeding Reverend Nolan at the West Monre Church will be the Reverend E. L. Joplin, who has been pastor at Bogalusa, Louisiana, for the past two years. Reverend Joplin, Mrs. Joplin, ith their four children have arrived here, and he will deliver his first message today.

Break Ground Today For New Church

Ground - breaking ceremonies for the new Trinity Lutheran Church were set for 3 p.m. today at the building site, 1301 Oliver Road, Monroe, according to the Rev. Arthur Betz, church pastor.

Assisting in the services will be William Hochstetler, president of the congregation, Mrs. Vencel Hubka, president of the Ladies Society and Danny Miller, who will represent the young people of the church.

Plans for the first unit of three anticipated buildings have been completed and accepted. John Neel will serve as architect and Lamar Moore will be the general contractor.

Pastor Notes Completion Of Year's Work

Reverend and Mrs. Fred D. Wall have completed one year's work as pastors of the First Assembly of God Church in West Monroe. In the last year much has been accomplished, such as a facelifting program on the church building and the purchase of a church model organ.

Reverend and Mrs. Wall will leave this week on a trip through the eastern states to attend the 5th World Conference of Pentecostal Churches which convenes in Toronto, Canada on September 14-21. This is the first time this conference has convened on the American continent. The speakers will be the leading ministers of all Pentecostal faiths, also visiting choirs from all over the world dressed in national costumes will sing in different languages.

PROGRAM DIRECTOR—Mrs. Malcolm L. Mason will serve as program director for the Wesley Foundation for Methodist student work at Northeast State College. She was a graduate of Rayville High School and Centenary College. Group will hold freshman party Thursday.

REVIVE LAMPOON

NEW YORK (AP) — "Captain Applejack," a farce that enjoyed notable success during the 1921-'22 Broadway season, is being readied for a return to the White Way in musical guise.

The Walter Hackett lampoon concerning cops and robbers is being transformed under the aegis of Jonathan Edwards, director of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, and Halroy Productions.

Edwards is doing the book, with Shura Dvorine preparing the score and Bert Pollock the lyrics.

TO PLAY LONDON

AT JIM SOON

'Light In Forest' Thrilling Picture

Walt Disney's Technicolor production of "The Light In The Forest" is full of excitement and romance of the early days of pioneer America. Boasting a great cast of performers such as Fess Parker, Wendell Corey, Joanne Dru and Jessica Tandy, the film which starts Wednesday at the Jim Theatre, stars young screen sensation James MacArthur and introduces a new, young beauty, Carol Lynley.

Set in the year 1764, the picture unfolds the story of a white youth, Johnny Butler, raised by the Delaware Indians, who goes to live in the township of Paxton, where he runs into a group of Indian - hating white men. Johnny rebels against the injustice and prejudice of the group, the Paxton Boys, and seeks to return to his adopted tribe. The thrilling adventures surrounding his rebellion, the wise counsel of scout Del Hardy, his tender romance with the beautiful Shenandoe and his mixed loyalties to the Indians and townsmen produces a suspenseful, exciting film.

Rank Prepares Heaviest Slate In Many Years

The Rank Organization currently has 10 top quality motion pictures in various stages of production at its Pinewood Studios and on location, the heaviest schedule in over a year, it was announced by Kenneth N. Hargreaves, president of Rank Film Distributors of America, Inc.

Films currently in production and on location, six in all, are:

"Floods of Fear," starring Howard Keel, Anne Heywood and Cyril Cusack. Sydney Box is producing. David Deutsch is associat producer, with Charles Chrichton directing from the screen adaptation of the John and Ward Hawkins novel and "Saturday Evening Post" serialization.

"The Freshman," (tentative title) starring Hardy Kruger, Sylvia Syms, Ronald Lewis and Eric Barker in a Julian Wintle and Leslie Parkyn production.

"The Square Peg," starring Norman Wisdom, is being produced by Hugh Stewart and directed by John Paddy Carstairs.

"Sea of Sand," starring John Gregson, Michael Craig and Richard Attenborough, a Tempean Production to be released by the Rank Organization, is on location in North Africa. Monty Berman and R. F. Baker are producing with Guy Green directing.

"Operation Amsterdam," starring Peter Finch, Eva Bartok, Tony Britton and Alexander Knox, is on location in the Netherland. Maurice Cowan is producing and Michael McCarthy is directing.

"The Captain's Table," starring John Gregson, Nadia Gray, Donald Sinden and Peggy Cummins, is being produced by Joseph Janni and directed by Jack Lee.

Now being edited are:

"Sea Fury," which stars Victor McLaglen, Stanley Baker, Luciana Paluzzi and Gregoire Aslan. Benny Fisz is producing and Cy Endfield directing.

"Storm in Jamaica," starring Virginia McKenna, Bill Travers, Yvonne Mitchell, Alexander Knox an Ellen Barrie. Kenneth Harper and George Willoughby are producing with Rudolph Cartier directing from a screen adaptation of Richard Mason's novel, "The Shadow and The Peak."

STAR IN FILM—Frank Sinatra talks with Natalie Wood in this scene from "Kings Go Forth" that opens today at the Paramount Theatre. Also seen in the feature will be Tony Curtis as the third star.

ROUGH STUFF FOR TALLULAH

NEW YORK (AP) — A "macabre comedy" entitled "Crazy October" has lured Tallulah Bankhead as her next Broadway vehicle.

The playwright, James Leo Herlihy, said he only realized after completing the script how the central role might suit Miss Bankhead.

A partial description of the focal distaff assignment is "a steam engine of a woman. Once her eyes draw a bead on you, they hold it —until you back down . . . Her speech too, has the melody of a machine gun with a Southern accent."

DESIGNER TURNS PRODUCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Virginia Volland, costume designer for such Broadway hits as "Two for the Seesaw" and "Sunrise at Campobello" is going into the management side of show business. She has acquired "Mother's Day," a comedy, for future production.

Academy Award winning feature that opens today at the Delta Theatre. Also on the bill is "Yankee Doodle Dandy," starring James Cagney in the role of George M. Cohan.

'Light In Forest' Thrilling Picture

Walt Disney's Technicolor production of "The Light In The Forest" is full of excitement and romance of the early days of pioneer America. Boasting a great cast of performers such as Fess Parker, Wendell Corey, Joanne Dru and Jessica Tandy, the film which starts Wednesday at the Jim Theatre, stars young screen sensation James MacArthur and introduces a new, young beauty, Carol Lynley.

Set in the year 1764, the picture unfolds the story of a white youth, Johnny Butler, raised by the Delaware Indians, who goes to live in the township of Paxton, where he runs into a group of Indian - hating white men. Johnny rebels against the injustice and prejudice of the group, the Paxton Boys, and seeks to return to his adopted tribe. The thrilling adventures surrounding his rebellion, the wise counsel of scout Del Hardy, his tender romance with the beautiful Shenandoe and his mixed loyalties to the Indians and townsmen produces a suspenseful, exciting film.

Rank Prepares Heaviest Slate In Many Years

The Rank Organization currently has 10 top quality motion pictures in various stages of production at its Pinewood Studios and on location, the heaviest schedule in over a year, it was announced by Kenneth N. Hargreaves, president of Rank Film Distributors of America, Inc.

Films currently in production and on location, six in all, are:

"Floods of Fear," starring Howard Keel, Anne Heywood and Cyril Cusack. Sydney Box is producing. David Deutsch is associate producer, with Charles Chrichton directing from the screen adaptation of the John and Ward Hawkins novel and "Saturday Evening Post" serialization.

"The Freshman," (tentative title) starring Hardy Kruger, Sylvia Syms, Ronald Lewis and Eric Barker in a Julian Wintle and Leslie Parkyn production.

"The Square Peg," starring Norman Wisdom, is being produced by Hugh Stewart and directed by John Paddy Carstairs.

"Sea of Sand," starring John Gregson, Michael Craig and Richard Attenborough, a Tempean Production to be released by the Rank Organization, is on location in North Africa. Monty Berman and R. F. Baker are producing with Guy Green directing.

"Operation Amsterdam," starring Peter Finch, Eva Bartok, Tony Britton and Alexander Knox, is on location in the Netherland. Maurice Cowan is producing and Michael McCarthy is directing.

"The Captain's Table," starring John Gregson, Nadia Gray, Donald Sinden and Peggy Cummins, is being produced by Joseph Janni and directed by Jack Lee.

Now being edited are:

"Sea Fury," which stars Victor McLaglen, Stanley Baker, Luciana Paluzzi and Gregoire Aslan. Benny Fisz is producing and Cy Endfield directing.

"Storm in Jamaica," starring Virginia McKenna, Bill Travers, Yvonne Mitchell, Alexander Knox and Ellen Barrie. Kenneth Harper and George Willoughby are producing with Rudolph Cartier directing from a screen adaptation of Richard Mason's novel, "The Shadow and The Peak."

STAR IN FILM—Frank Sinatra talks with Natalie Wood in this scene from "Kings Go Forth" that opens today at the Paramount Theatre. Also seen in the feature will be Tony Curtis as the third star.

ROUGH STUFF FOR TALLULAH

NEW YORK (AP) — A "macabre comedy" entitled "Crazy October" has lured Tallulah Bankhead as her next Broadway vehicle.

The playwright, James Leo Herlihy, said he only realized after completing the script how the central role might suit Miss Bankhead.

A partial description of the focal distaff assignment is "a steam engine of a woman. Once her eyes draw a bead on you, they hold it —until you back down . . . Her speech too, has the melody of a machine gun with a Southern accent."

DESIGNER TURNS PRODUCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Virginia Volland, costume designer for such Broadway hits as "Two for the Seesaw" and "Sunrise at Campobello" is going into the management side of show business. She has acquired "Mother's Day," a comedy, for future production.

RETURN TO OLD TRADITION

An Art Apart—Greek Artists Unite East, West

RETURN TO TRADITION: On the left, Yannis Tsarouchis—who studied under Parthenis, father of "neo-Hellenic realism," — stands before his "Bride of Fleusis." "Greek Peasant Girl" in the center is the work of Yannis Pappas, who teaches sculpture at the Athens School of Fine Arts where a new generation of sculptors (right) diligently practices its art.

ATHENS (AP) — You find it there in the works of some Greek painters and sculptors, a special stamp or "family likeness" that sets them apart from the works of other European artists.

A common technique, perhaps?

"No," says painter Yannis Tsarouchis. "It is the outcome of race, religion and environment. It is the expression of our reality — Greek reality. All Greek poets, artists and philosophers, from Homer down to the present, have striven to express that reality."

But the striving was not continuous from the time of Homer. There was a 500 - year break, coinciding with Greece's domination by the Turks after the fall of Byzantium.

As an independent nation, Greece was reborn in the 1820s. But it took another century for its artistic soul to find independence.

During the 100 years that followed the nations rebirth, Greek artists sought inspiration in Munich and Paris art trends. They embraced Western styles because Eastern conceptions of art were associated in their minds with the expelled conquerors.

Shortly after the end of World War I, there began to take shape an artistic movement that preached the return to tradition. A handful of artists, headed by painter Parthenis and architect Pikionis, made up the movement.

They rejected Western or "Modern" art as uncongenial to their own "reality." Instead they turned to Greek popular imagery and crafts, to Byzantine paintings and mosaics, even to Eastern and Asiatic art. From these sources, and more particularly from the Byzantine, they sought to draw ways of expression that would be intrinsically theirs and no longer "borrowed from alien sources."

Thus was born what the Greeks call "neo-Hellenic realism," a trend that counts in its swelling ranks some of the most talented artists in the land: Tsarouchis, Moralis, Pappas, Kapralos.

The extremism of the early days of the movement has been toned down. Its followers have acknowledged the historical fact that Greece is and has been, the meeting point of East and West and Greek reality must contain a synthesis of both.

The movement is inextricably entwined with the nation's only art institution, the Athens School of Fine Arts. Some of the most talented exponents of the movement either were graduated from or now serve on the faculty of, the school.

Founded in 1837, it is the country's oldest educational institution, and also the cheapest. The yearly tuition fee is no higher than $13.33.

Entrance examinations are stiff, however. An average of only one in every 10 candidates passes them. Of the 200 students now attending the school, nearly 45 per cent are girls. Most of the girls are Athenian and from well-to-do families. The opposite is true of the boys.

Katie Spenza, who studies sculpture is the 22-year-old daughter of a rich manufacturer. Working close by is another sculpture student, 25-year - old Yannis Parmakilis, who is the son of a Cretan laborer and attends the school on a state scholarship.

BOOKS

The Big Company Look. by J. Harvey Howells (Doubleday): Described by the publisher as "a novel of the hidden terror in big business," it turns out to be about a young businessman who overcomes his competitors with dedicated ruthlessness until he meets his match. The principal character, Jackson Pollett, is interesting enough but rather unlikeable.

Description of a Struggle. by Franz Kafka (Schocken Books). Stories presented for the first time in English translation by Tania and James Stern. Included is Kafka's only piece in drama form, "The Warden of the Tomb." One must be a Kafka fan to enjoy these trance - like writings so heavily freighted with symbolism that their meanings are unclear, to put it mildly.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Many New Titles Are To Be Found

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Once again we have several interesting new titles to offer the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. A beautifully written book which will stir the emotions of everyone who reads it is "A Death in the Family" by James Agee. It is essentially a story of love, which glows with affection and tenderness and of great courage, when tragedy changes completely the lives of those who are left behind. A book which will have great appeal to women is "The Other Side of the Day" by Hilda Sidney Krech. This is the story of a young mother and wife and of the problems she faced every day. It is the story of how she tried to feel useful by finding a life for herself outside the home and family and of the guilt feelings which followed. This is a very human story and is one which will have a wide appeal.

Do you want a light and humorous novel to read? If so try "Cocktail Time" by P. G. Wodehouse. This is a story of English high society and is written in his usual vein. If you are a Wodehouse devotee, don't miss this one. A new mystery from the pen of Christopher Brush has just arrived. It is called "The Case of the Triple Twist" and has his usual appeal for readers of this type of story. A new Western is available called "Rustler's Luck" written by Peter Field. If you want a true account of life in the Old West we have a very fine new book called "Cattlemen from the Rio Grande" written by Mari Sandoz. This is the story of cattle in America and of the men whose ranches reached from the Rio Grande up far into Montana. In its sweep it ranges from early Spanish days, through the era of far - flung cattle empires down to our own time. This is one for the true lover of the West.

A very important new book and one that has already made the best - seller list is "The Affluent Society" by John Kenneth Galbraith. The author closely scrutinizes current ideas and attitudes in economics. He shows that many of the ideas under which our society operates were worked out for a world far different from our own. He says that we are committed to a tense and humorless pursuit of goods and to a fantastic effort to manufacture wants as rapidly as we make goods. We are impelled to invest too much in things and not enough in people. This is a book to make one think and it will certainly cause comment.

A delightful collection of letters is "Dear Abby" by Abigail Van Buren. Writing with rare humor, she has added a new twist to the advice to the lovelorn field. If you have enjoyed her newspaper column, you will surely want to try "Dear Abby." Another humorous book is "How to to Nothing with Nobody, All Alone by Yourself," by Paul Smith. This is a sequel to his earlier "Where Did you Go, Out." Both of these books although humorous, have a great deal of common sense in them and are especially valuable for parents of adolescent children.

A very significant new biography is "Eisenhower, Captive Hero" by Marquis Childs. President Eisenhower's life and leadership are brought under close scrutiny in this perceptive study by one of the nation's most widely read and respected newspapermen. This is the first extensive critical survey of Eisenhower and his administration. It is a vivid, comprehensive and discerning book about the best - known and least - known man in America.

J. Lafitte's Journal Makes Good Reading

THE JOURNAL OF JEAN LAFITTE the privateer-patriot's own story (Vantage Press, $3.50).

Here, in his own words, painstakingly written down in the years of his retirement, is the "memoir-journal" of Jean Lafitte, privateer extraordinary and fiery champion of freedom. In this fascinating century-old document, which has just come to light, Lafitte furiously denies that he was ever a pirate.. or anything but a defender of his adopted land, America, and a sworn enemy of "the British dragon" and "Spain's despotic crown."

Hear him, as he writes in 1845: "I have never pretended to be anything but an erring liberator of the suffering masses."

When Lafitte began his journal he stipulated that his descendants were not to release it until 107 years had elapsed. The manuscript has been in the family's possession ever since. It was inherited in 1926 by John Lafitte, who now lives in Spartanburg, South Carolina.

The account begins with Lafitte's childhood in Port-au-Prince, and closes with his quiet old age in St. Louis. His privateering adventures against England and Spain appear in vivid detail, as does his distinguished role in the Battle of New Orleans. It is Lafitte's unqualified conviction that without his aid in that crisis—if he had sold out to the British, who were hounding him with bribes—"the United States would have been wiped out after 39 years of independence."

GLIMPSE

Glimpses of historic figures — Andrew Jackson, hero of New Orleans, "an energetic man who always imagined the worst of everything;" "Mr. Joseph Bonaparte," with whom Lafitte plotted the rescue of Napoleon from St. Helena; President Madison issuing a "pardon" to Lafitte and his men—a proclamation which Lafitte bitterly thought inadequate; acquaintance with the renowned—Bertillon, Braille, de Tocqueville, Daguerre—and financial aid to Marx and Engals...all these were part of Lafitte's colorful life.

There were the communes he established on the Louisiana shore and on the present site of Galveston, Texas; and, always, there was his war against England and Spain—a personal war he carried on long after those nations had become our friends.

Lafitte never swerved from the belief that he lived according to the tenets of a man fighting for human freedom. Even smuggling—"my only culpability"—he justified on humanitarian grounds.

Adventure On Taking Of Pictures

I TAKE PICTURES FOR ADVENTURE By Tom Stobart (Doubleday, $4.95).

An expert photographer with an incurable wanderlust and a long - cultivated taste for excitement, Tom Stobart put this combination of artistic talent and curiosity to excellent use: he took his cameras and joined expeditions into the world's most remote and dangerous regions.

This foot - loose photographer's account of his wanderings is a breath - taking one. Stobart's travels have led him into Antarctica, the African jungles, and the vast Australian swamplands. These expeditions resulted in the magnificent documentary movie The White Continent and some of the most superb animal pictures ever filmed. But the climax of Stobart's career came when he joined Hillary and Tenzing on their memorable expedition to Mount Everest. His film The Conquest of Everest is a moving tribute to man's courage and adventurous spirit.

I Take Pictures For Adventure, with Stobart's lively commentary and many magnificent photographs culled from his documentaries, is a fascinating excursion into the savage wilderness of four continents.

-THE ARTS-

SHREVEPORT MAN

First Book Shows Excellent Promise

SOCIAL SECURITY No. 438-10-1408 by O. C. Dupree (Comet Press, Books, New York, 73 pp., $2.75).

This is the first published work of a Shreveport, La., man and it could possibly be the beginning of a good author and a number of excellent books.

Although a few things in the book seem a bit unrealistic, the author shows great promise and if he develops as expected, he should turn into a top producer.

The book generally is autobiographical.

The boy's father dies with four bullets in his belly. He is raised by his mother, three aunts and a grandmother — "the only male in a house full of females (where) there is too much intrigue for him to cope with." For this houseful of women, he is "a toy."

A few years later, at 17, he is six feet tall, weighs 175 pounds, and is a member of the U. S. Navy. But that career is brief. Thanks to a childhood which was, for him, well calculated to maim, he is a total misfit in the Navy. One misadventure leads to another, and all lead to a berth in the psychopathic ward — and an eventual psythopathic discharge.

Next come 20 years of landing and losing jobs — with intermittent flights back to mother — and five marriages, along with careers as cab driver, hobo, and professional boxer. All, save for the final marriage are abortive attempts at adjustment.

In the end, No. 438-10-1408 finds peace — of sorts. Many of his problems would seem to remain unsolved, but his marriage is stable and he had dedicated himself to winning back the farm he lost by throwing "14 successive craps" on the gambling tables at Las Vegas.

What is least believable in the book — whose greatest merit is its sincerity and rather unusual candor, is this happy ending, in which problems evaporate as if by magic, so that "Cynicism, vanity, greed and selfishness have been dispelled and all through the simple, childlike devotion of someone who loves you and for whom you feel the same love."

A native of Shreveport, Orleans Dupree offers, in "Social Security No. 438-10-1408," an interesting and readable volume. His first book-length work (there is also a collection of short prose pieces, "Rejected Stories"), it displays the spottiness and some of the other faults of the typical first novel. On the other hand, it undeniably holds the attention and entertains, and the reader is left with the wish that the book might have been longer — something that occurs too seldom.

Beginner's Luck Not So Suspenseful

BEGINNER'S LUCK' By Paul Somers, (Harper's, $2.95).

This is supposed to be a novel of suspense, but almost from the start you can pretty well figure out what is going to happen. Even at that, however, it makes for fairly good reading.

It starts when Hugh Curtis, a cub reporter on the Daily Record is sent to cover the disappearance of a cannon ball from Lodden Castle. Generally, the editor figures this was just a routine assignment, but it developed into more than that when Hugh decided to look around. He was intrigued when he realized the size and weight of the missing cannon ball and the tremendous undertaking moving it must have been.

He was even more intrigued when he discovered that Mollie Bourne, the beautiful red-haired star reporter of the Courier, was interested enough in the cannon ball to be covering the story herself.

Both the reporters filed stories on the castle and the theft, but it was Mollie's which reported that a key to the castle had been stolen four years earlier.

Who would want to steal a key, wait four years and then return for a hundred-and-fifty pound cannon ball? and why?

And then the rival reporters found something they hadn't expected — the fully dressed body of a man in the castle well.

That brought the police into the picture — the man had been murdered.

Hugh's paper sent a seasoned crime reporter down to give him a hand, and the other papers' reporters moved down to cover the rapidly expanding story.

But it was Hugh and Mollie, each of whom had crept back to the castle at night, thinking to steal a march on everyone else, who not only got a scoop but met, in the stone tower of the castle, a desperate, able killer — and were trapped by him.

How they escaped from the trap is the best part of the book and will hold your interest.

THREATENS ASTONISHMENT

LONDON (UPI)—The English Law Society's Gazette Friday quoted a letter by a lawyer in India to point up the "rather monotonous English style in legal documents" published at home. The Indian letter read: "Dear Sir, unless you pay . . . the . . . rupees that you owe me . . . within seven days of this date, we shall take such steps as will cause you the utmost damned astonishment."

Above Average Is Rating For This New Book

WHO TOLD CLUTHA By Hugh Munro (Ives Washburn, Inc, $2.95).

A lot of so-called suspense novels are hitting the book market as of now, and Who Told Clutha is no exception, although it is a bit more interesting than most.

As private detective for the Alma Dockyard, Clutha leads a professional life beset by unusual perils. The problems of stealing, disputes among the men, etc., are not so dangerous as sudden death from an accidentally dropped hammer. But the death of one of the men on the tank-top of an American, millionaire's new research ship was no accident. Was it private revenge or something more significant, and what did Inspector McClint of tht Glasgow C.I.D. mean when he suggested it was time Clutha stopped shielding his Gowan Road pals?

Clutha swung into action on several fronts, which led him in and out of many a tight corner before this thrilling story reaches its climax in a desperate chase from the heart of Glasgow to the green coastline of Ayr.

ENTERS NEW FIELD

RETURN TO OLD TRADITION

An Art Apart—Greek Artists Unite East, West

RETURN TO TRADITION: On the left, Yannis Tsarouchis—who studied under Parthenis, father of "neo-Hellenic realism," — stands before his "Bride of Fleusis." "Greek Peasant Girl" in the center is the work of Yannis Pappas, who teaches sculpture at the Athens School of Fine Arts where a new generation of sculptors (right) diligently practices its art.

ATHENS (AP) — You find it there in the works of some Greek painters and sculptors, a special stamp or "family likeness" that sets them apart from the works of other European artists.

A common technique, perhaps?

"No," says painter Yannis Tsarouchis. "It is the outcome of race, religion and environment. It is the expression of our reality — Greek reality. All Greek poets, artists and philosophers, from Homer down to the present, have striven to express that reality."

But the striving was not continuous from the time of Homer. There was a 500 - year break, coinciding with Greece's domination by the Turks after the fall of Byzantium.

As an independent nation, Greece was reborn in the 1820s. But it took another century for its artistic soul to find independence.

During the 100 years that followed the nations rebirth, Greek artists sought inspiration in Munich and Paris art trends. They embraced Western styles because Eastern conceptions of art were associated in their minds with the expelled conquerors.

Shortly after the end of World War I, there began to take shape an artistic movement that preached the return to tradition. A handful of artists, headed by painter Parthenis and architect Pikionis, made up the movement.

They rejected Western or "Modern" art as uncongenial to their own "reality." Instead they turned to Greek popular imagery and crafts, to Byzantine paintings and mosaics, even to Eastern and Asiatic art. From these sources, and more particularly from the Byzantine, they sought to draw ways of expression that would be intrinsically theirs and no longer "borrowed from alien sources."

Thus was born what the Greeks call "neo-Hellenic realism," a trend that counts in its swelling ranks some of the most talented artists in the land: Tsarouchis, Moralis, Pappas, Kapralos.

The extremism of the early days of the movement has been toned down. Its followers have acknowledged the historical fact that Greece is and has been, the meeting point of East and West and Greek reality must contain a synthesis of both.

The movement is inextricably entwined with the nation's only art institution, the Athens School of Fine Arts. Some of the most talented exponents of the movement either were graduated from or now serve on the faculty of, the school.

Founded in 1837, it is the country's oldest educational institution, and also the cheapest. The yearly tuition fee is no higher than $13.33.

Entrance examinations are stiff, however. An average of only one in every 10 candidates passes them. Of the 200 students now attending the school, nearly 45 per cent are girls. Most of the girls are Athenian and from well-to-do families. The opposite is true of the boys.

Katie Spenza, who studies sculpture is the 22-year-old daughter of a rich manufacturer. Working close by is another sculpture student, 25-year - old Yannis Parmakilis, who is the son of a Cretan laborer and attends the school on a state scholarship.

BOOKS

The Big Company Look, by J. Harvey Howells (Doubleday): Described by the publisher as "a novel of the hidden terror in big business," it turns out to be about a young businessman who overcomes his competitors with dedicated ruthlessness until he meets his match. The principal character, Jackson Pollett, is interesting enough but rather unlikeable.

Description of a Struggle, by Franz Kafka (Schocken Books). Stories presented for the first time in English translation by Tania and James Stern. Included is Kafka's only piece in drama form, "The Warden of the Tomb." One must be a Kafka fan to enjoy these trance - like writings so heavily freighted with symbolism that their meanings are unclear, to put it mildly.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Many New Titles Are To Be Found

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Once again we have several interesting new titles to offer the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. A beautifully written book which will stir the emotions of everyone who reads it is "A Death in the Family" by James Agee. It is essentially a story of love, which glows with affection and tenderness and of great courage, when tragedy changes completely the lives of those who are left behind. A book which will have great appeal to women is "The Other Side of the Day" by Hilda Sidney Krech. This is the story of a young mother and wife and of the problems she faced every day. It is the story of how she tried to feel useful by finding a life for herself outside the home and family and of the guilt feelings which followed. This is a very human story and is one which will have a wide appeal.

Do you want a light and humorous novel to read? If so try "Cocktail Time" by P. G. Wodehouse. This is a story of English high society and is written in his usual vein. If you are a Wodehouse devotee, don't miss this one. A new mystery from the pen of Christopher Brush has just arrived. It is called "The Case of the Triple Twist" and has his usual appeal for readers of this type of story. A new Western is available called "Rustler's Luck" written by Peter Field. If you want a true account of life in the Old West we have a very fine new book called "Cattlemen from the Rio Grande" written by Mari Sandoz. This is the story of cattle in America and of the men whose ranches reached from the Rio Grande up far into Montana. In its sweep it ranges from early Spanish days, through the era of far - flung cattle empires down to our own time. This is one for the true lover of the West.

A very important new book and one that has already made the best - seller list is "The Affluent Society" by John Kenneth Galbraith. The author closely scrutinizes current ideas and attitudes in economics. He shows that many of the ideas under which our society operates were worked out for a world far different from our own. He says that we are committed to a tense and humorless pursuit of goods and to a fantastic effort to manufacture wants as rapidly as we make goods. We are impelled to invest too much in things and not enough in people. This is a book to make one think and it will certainly cause comment.

A delightful collection of letters is "Dear Abby" by Abigail Van Buren. Writing with rare humor, she has added a new twist to the advice to the lovelorn field. If you have enjoyed her newspaper column, you will surely want to try "Dear Abby." Another humorous book is "How to to Nothing with Nobody, All Alone by Yourself," by Paul Smith. This is a sequel to his earlier "Where Did you Go, Out." Both of these books although humorous, have a great deal of common sense in them and are especially valuable for parents of adolescent children.

A very significant new biography is "Eisenhower, Captive Hero" by Marquis Childs. President Eisenhower's life and leadership are brought under close scrutiny in this perceptive study by one of the nation's most widely read and respected newspapermen. This is the first extensive critical survey of Eisenhower and his administration. It is a vivid, comprehensive and discerning book about the best - known and least - known man in America.

J. Lafitte's Journal Makes Good Reading

THE JOURNAL OF JEAN LAFITTE the privateer-patriot's own story (Vantage Press, $3.50).

Here, in his own words, painstakingly written down in the years of his retirement, is the "memoir-journal" of Jean Lafitte, privateer extraordinary and fiery champion of freedom. In this fascinating century-old document, which has just come to light, Lafitte furiously denies that he was ever a pirate.. or anything but a defender of his adopted land, America, and a sworn enemy of "the British dragon" and "Spain's despotic crown."

Hear him, as he writes in 1845: "I have never pretended to be anything but an erring liberator of the suffering masses."

When Lafitte began his journal he stipulated that his descendants were not to release it until 107 years had elapsed. The manuscript has been in the family's possession ever since. It was inherited in 1926 by John Lafitte, who now lives in Spartanburg, South Carolina.

The account begins with Lafitte's childhood in Port-au-Prince, and closes with his quiet old age in St. Louis. His privateering adventures against England and Spain appear in vivid detail, as does his distinguished role in the Battle of New Orleans. It is Lafitte's unqualified conviction that without his aid in that crisis—if he had sold out to the British, who were hounding him with bribes—"the United States would have been wiped out after 39 years of independence."

GLIMPSE

Glimpses of historic figures — Andrew Jackson, hero of New Orleans, "an energetic man who always imagined the worst of everything;" "Mr. Joseph Bonaparte," with whom Lafitte plotted the rescue of Napoleon from St. Helena; President Madison issuing a "pardon" to Lafitte and his men—a proclamation which Lafitte bitterly thought inadequate; acquaintance with the renowned—Bertillon, Braille, de Tocqueville, Daguerre—and financial aid to Marx and Engals...all these were part of Lafitte's colorful life.

There were the communes he established on the Louisiana shore and on the present site of Galveston, Texas; and, always, there was his war against England and Spain—a personal war he carried on long after those nations had become our friends.

Lafitte never swerved from the belief that he lived according to the tenets of a man fighting for human freedom. Even smuggling—"my only culpability"—he justified on humanitarian grounds.

Adventure On Taking Of Pictures

An expert photographer with an incurable wanderlust and a long - cultivated taste for excitement, Tom Stobart put this combination of artistic talent and curiosity to excellent use; he took his cameras and joined expeditions into the world's most remote and dangerous regions.

This foot - loose photographer's account of his wanderings is a breath - taking one. Stobart's travels have led him into Antarctica, the African jungles, and the vast Australian swamplands. These expeditions resulted in the magnificent documentary movie The White Continent and some of the most superb animal pictures ever filmed. But the climax of Stobart's career came when he joined Hillary and Tenzing on their memorable expedition to Mount Everest. His film The Conquest of Everest is a moving tribute to man's courage and adventurous spirit.

I Take Pictures For Adventure, with Stobart's lively commentary and many magnificent photographs culled from his documentaries, is a fascinating excursion into the savage wilderness of four continents.

SHREVEPORT MAN

First Book Shows Excellent Promise

SOCIAL SECURITY No. 438-10-1408 by O. C. Dupree (Comet Press, Books, New York, 73 pp., $2.75).

This is the first published work of a Shreveport, La., man and it could possibly be the beginning of a good author and a number of excellent books.

Although a few things in the book seem a bit unrealistic, the author shows great promise and if he develops as expected, he should turn into a top producer.

The book generally is autobiographical.

The boy's father dies with four bullets in his belly. He is raised by his mother, three aunts and a grandmother — "the only male in a house full of females (where) there is too much intrigue for him to cope with." For this houseful of women, he is "a toy."

A few years later, at 17, he is six feet tall, weighs 175 pounds, and is a member of the U. S. Navy. But that career is brief. Thanks to a childhood which was, for him, well calculated to maim, he is a total misfit in the Navy. One misadventure leads to another, and all lead to a berth in the psychopathic ward — and an eventual psythopathic discharge.

Next come 20 years of landing and losing jobs — with intermittent flights back to mother — and five marriages, along with careers as cab driver, hobo, and professional boxer. All, save for the final marriage are abortive attempts at adjustment.

In the end, No. 438-10-1408 finds peace — of sorts. Many of his problems would seem to remain unsolved, but his marriage is stable and he had dedicated himself to winning back the farm he lost by throwing "14 successive craps" on the gambling tables at Las Vegas.

What is least believable in the book — whose greatest merit is its sincerity and rather unusual candor, is this happy ending, in which problems evaporate as if by magic, so that "Cynicism, vanity, greed and selfishness have been dispelled and all through the simple, childlike devotion of someone who loves you and for whom you feel the same love."

A native of Shreveport, Orleans Dupree offers, in "Social Security No. 438-10-1408," an interesting and readable volume. His first book-length work (there is also a collection of short prose pieces, "Rejected Stories"), it displays the spottiness and some of the other faults of the typical first novel. On the other hand, it undeniably holds the attention and entertains, and the reader is left with the wish that the book might have been longer — something that occurs too seldom.

Beginner's Luck Not So Suspenseful

BEGINNER'S LUCK' By Paul Somers, (Harper's, $2.95).

This is supposed to be a novel of suspense, but almost from the start you can pretty well figure out what is going to happen. Even at that, however, it makes for fairly good reading.

It starts when Hugh Curtis, a cub reporter on the Daily Record is sent to cover the disappearance of a cannon ball from Lodden Castle. Generally, the editor figures this was just a routine assignment, but it developed into more than that when Hugh decided to look around. He was intrigued when he realized the size and weight of the missing cannon ball and the tremendous undertaking moving it must have been.

He was even more intrigued when he discovered that Mollie Bourne, the beautiful red-haired star reporter of the Courier, was interested enough in the cannon ball to be covering the story herself.

Both the reporters filed stories on the castle and the theft, but it was Mollie's which reported that a key to the castle had been stolen four years earlier.

Who would want to steal a key, wait four years and then return for a hundred-and-fifty pound cannon ball? and why?

And then the rival reporters found something they hadn't expected — the fully dressed body of a man in the castle well.

That brought the police into the picture — the man had been murdered.

Hugh's paper sent a seasoned crime reporter down to give him a hand, and the other papers' reporters moved down to cover the rapidly expanding story.

But it was Hugh and Mollie, each of whom had crept back to the castle at night, thinking to steal a march on everyone else, who not only got a scoop but met, in the stone tower of the castle, a desperate, able killer — and were trapped by him.

How they escaped from the trap is the best part of the book and will hold your interest.

THREATENS ASTONISHMENT

LONDON (UPI)—The English Law Society's Gazette Friday quoted a letter by a lawyer in India to point up the "rather monotonous English style in legal documents" published at home. The Indian letter read: "Dear Sir, unless you pay . . . the . . . rupees that you owe me . . . within seven days of this date, we shall take such steps as will cause you the utmost damned astonishment."

Above Average Is Rating For This New Book

WHO TOLD CLUTHA By Hugh Munro (Ives Washburn, Inc., $2.95).

A lot of so-called suspense novels are hitting the book market as of now, and Who Told Clutha is no exception, although it is a bit more interesting than most.

As private detective for the Alma Dockyard, Clutha leads a professional life beset by unusual perils. The problems of stealing, disputes among the men, etc., are not so dangerous as sudden death from an accidentally dropped hammer. But the death of one of the men on the tank-top of an American millionaire's new research ship was no accident. Was it private revenge or something more significant, and what did Inspector McClint of tht Glasgow C.I.D. mean when he suggested it was time Clutha stopped shielding his Gowan Road pals?

Clutha swung into action on several fronts, which led him in and out of many a tight corner before this thrilling story reaches its climax in a desperate chase from the heart of Glasgow to the green coastline of Ayr.

ENTERS NEW FIELD

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Hallmark cards announced Friday it will produce greeting cards in a foreign language — Spanish —for the first time in its 50 year history. They will be introduced along with gift wrappings and party items in Puerto Rico, Cuba, Panama, Peru, the Dominican Republic, Veneuela, Guatemala, El Salvador and Costa Rica.

Integration View At Weekend Fuzzy

By The Associated Press

The South's school integration picture was fuzzy at week's end with most pupils back on the campus for the new school term.

And the picture likely won't be brought into better focus until after a U.S. Supreme Court hearing this week.

The high court meets Sept. 11 to hear more arguments on a stay of a circuit court order that overruled a district court decision permitting Little Rock to suspend integration for 2½ years.

Minor violence highlighted numerous developments in the sprawling integration-segregation struggle from Arkansas to Virginia. There was some integration progress without incident in North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee.

On Monday, the Little Rock school board voted to delay opening Central High until Sept. 15, four days after the U.S. Supreme Court hears oral arguments in this latest appeal.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus said he would close the 2,000-pupil school "for the peace of the community" if the court orders integration resumed.

Then the governor charged that the federal government is mustering a force of civilian deputy marshals to use, if necessary, in forcing integration at Central, where President Eisenhower used U.S. Army units last year.

At a high school in Van Buren, in extreme west Arkansas, integration protests took the form of a school strike, a protest meeting, and threats to put the Negroes out of white classrooms "for good."

A group of about 50 striking white students succeeded Friday in barring 13 Negroes from the 600-pupil Van Buren High, where limited integration already had been accomplished.

Meanwhile, a parents meeting was held downtown to back up the strikers. "The kids took the first step today, now it is up to us," one of them was quoted.

A spokesman for the strikers said 100 students would be on hand for six days and if the Negroes were not out by then "we will put them out for good."

At Alexandria, Va., Federal Dist. Judge Albert Bryan authorized Arlington County, adjacent to Washington, D.C., to open its schools on a segregated basis. But he stressed that his order does not nullify the right of 30 Negro pupils to transfer to a white school later if they are entitled to do so.

He said, however, that his ruling is subject to change depending on whether the U.S. Supreme Court clarifies "all deliberate speed" in deciding the delay request for Little Rock's Central High.

Another federal district judge upheld the Norfolk School Board, which rejected eight Negroes for admission to a white school. Judge Walter E. Hoffman said if they were admitted, they would be transferred next year to a new Negro school.

The board indicated it would go along with 17 of the petitioners but this drew a stern warning from Gov. J. Lindsay Almond.

He told local school boards to steer clear of such assignments. No federal decree—even from the Supreme Court—can require such action of the local authority, he said.

A new trouble spot flared in North Carolina, a state where limited integration has taken place with little difficulty.

At Raleigh, U.S. Judge Edwin M. Stanley denied a 14-year-old Negro boy permission to attend an all-white school.

The judge said Joseph Hiram Holt Jr. had not exhausted all state measures in his effort to attend a white school two miles nearer his home than the Negro school.

Only Idiots Wouldn't Win On Quiz Show

Mrs. Regan Leydenfrost spoke with newsmen Friday after being questioned by the Manhattan district attorney's office.

She said she had not received exact answers from program personnel, but commented:

"Anyone would have been an idiot not to have been able to give the answers."

Mrs. Leydenfrost was one of nine former "Dotto" contestants questioned Friday by the district attorney's office, which has been investigating alleged irregularities in "Dotto" and other TV quiz shows.

Former contestant Herbert Stempel has charged the program was rigged. The show's producers have denied the charge.

Nuclear Bits Could Cause Lung Cancer

GENEVA (AP) — Radioactive atoms spread by accidents in atom-power plants could cause some human lung cancers, a scientist said Saturday.

Peacetime A-plant mishaps "are potentially more important than fallout from weapons tests as a threat of cancer," declared Dr. J. N. Stannard, University of Rochester, N.Y., School of Medicine.

Tests "have proven without a doubt that deposits of radioactive materials in the lungs can produce cancer," he told the Atoms-for-Peace Conference.

Atomic reactors build up accumulations of Strontium-90 and other radioactive products which stay hot for a very long time, Dr. Standard said.

If released by accidents, he said they would bring "a hazard of colossal proportions" in radiation directed externally at the body, and also would be highly dangerous if inhaled into the lungs.

Higher doses of radiation are apparently needed to produce detectable damage to lungs than to bone marrow or sex organs, he added, but the "lung becomes a 'critical' organ primarily if the material remains localized in it for long periods."

Dr. Stannard told a news conference later the hazards he had in mind could only be produced by some "completely unpredictable accident" in a nuclear plant.

He stressed that normal radiation hazards could be controlled quite easily.

Accidents to A-power plants "will surely come in spite of our best efforts to prevent them," C. Rogers McCullough of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said earlier this week.

McSween Says Long Interferes In Winn Hassle

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Congressional candidate Harold McSween accuses Gov. Earl Long of interfering in the Eighth District race and contributing to the Winn Parish voter registration hassle.

McSween spoke on television last night and said he has information "that the governor's chauffeur transported the governor's cook from Baton Rouge to Winnfield in a state-owned Cadillac so that she could register."

The chauffeur, state police Sgt. C. C. Butler, was called before the Winn Parish grand jury Thursday.

McSween said the administrator, which is backing state Rep. Lloyd Teekell, should not "try to skirt the registration laws in order to elect its candidate."

He also recalled Teekell's claim that Louisiana has little to worry about on the race problem.

"I think we have plenty to worry about in regard to the segregation problem. I am deeply worried and disturbed about it."

McSween also attacked Long on the school lunch program. The governor, he said, wants to set up "a new school lunch program regime with a politically appointed commissioner in each parish and a highly paid state administrator."

He said he understood former Sen. A. A. Fredericks of Natchitoches has been mentioned as the likely head of the proposed lunch program for the state "if it is done."

Only Idiots Wouldn't Win On Quiz Show

Mrs. Regan Leydenfrost spoke with newsmen Friday after being questioned by the Manhattan district attorney's office.

She said she had not received exact answers from program personnel, but commented:

"Anyone would have been an idiot not to have been able to give the answers."

Mrs. Leydenfrost was one of nine former "Dotto" contestants questioned Friday by the district attorney's office, which has been investigating alleged irregularities in "Dotto" and other TV quiz shows.

Former contestant Herbert Stempel has charged the program was rigged. The show's producers have denied the charge.

Nuclear Bits Could Cause Lung Cancer

GENEVA (AP) — Radioactive atoms spread by accidents in atom-power plants could cause some human lung cancers, a scientist said Saturday.

Peacetime A-plant mishaps "are potentially more important than fallout from weapons tests as a threat of cancer," declared Dr. J. N. Stannard, University of Rochester, N.Y., School of Medicine.

Tests "have proven without a doubt that deposits of radioactive materials in the lungs can produce cancer," he told the Atoms-for-Peace Conference.

Atomic reactors build up accumulations of Strontium - 90 and other radioactive products which stay hot for a very long time, Dr. Standard said.

If released by accidents, he said they would bring "a hazard of colossal proportions" in radiation directed externally at the body, and also would be highly dangerous if inhaled into the lungs.

Higher doses of radiation are apparently needed to produce detectable damage to lungs than to bone marrow or sex organs, he added, but the "lung becomes a 'critical' organ primarily if the material remains localized in it for long periods."

Dr Stannard told a news conference later the hazards he had in mind could only be produced by some "completely unpredictable accident" in a nuclear plant.

He stressed that normal radiation hazards could be controlled quite easily.

Accidents to A - power plants "will surely come in spite of our best efforts to prevent them," C. Rogers McCullough of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said earlier this week.

McSween Says Long Interferes In Winn Hassle

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Congressional candidate Harold McSween accuses Gov. Earl Long of interfering in the Eighth District race and contributing to the Winn Parish voter registration hassle.

McSween spoke on television last night and said he has information "that the governor's chauffeur transported the governor's cook from Baton Rouge to Winnfield in a state-owned Cadillac so that she could register."

The chauffeur, state police Sgt. C. C. Butler, was called before the Winn Parish grand jury Thursday.

McSween said the administrator, which is backing state Rep. Lloyd Teekell, should not "try to skirt the registration laws in order to elect its candidate."

He also recalled Teekell's claim that Louisiana has little to worry about on the race problem.

"I think we have plenty to worry about in regard to the segregation problem. I am deeply worried and disturbed about it."

McSween also attacked Long on the school lunch program. The governor, he said, wants to set up "a new school lunch program regime with a politically appointed commissioner in each parish and a highly paid state administrator."

He said he understood former Sen. A. A. Fredericks of Natchitoches has been mentioned as the likely head of the proposed lunch program for the state "if it is done."

Shooting Probe Reported Open By Rackets Men

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit News said in its Sunday editions that the Senate Rackets Committee has launched an investigation of the unsolved shootings of Walter and Victor Reuther.

The copyrighted story said the shotgun woundings had been "of concern to the committee for several months.

Walter Reuther is president of the giant United Auto Workers union. Victor is a Washington representative of the UAW.

"As the committee probed into underworld connections with unionists in the Detroit area it found itself inescapably drawn into the Reuther assault case," the News said.

No subpoenas have been served in connection with the Reuther shooting investigation, the News said, and no staff investigators have been assigned specifically to the project.

Walter was fired on the night of April 20, 1948, as he stood in the kitchen of his home in Detroit. Shotgun pellets shattered his right arm. Victor lost an eye a year later when he was shot at his home.

There have been arrests but no connections.

The seven-year statute of limitations has run out on both assaults.

According to the News' story the senators have not decided whether to call the Reuther brothers to testify in the investigation.

Captial City Accident Toll Is Fourteen

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Two separate accidents pushed Baton Rouge's 1958 traffic death toll to 14 Saturday.

Dead were Levi Robertson, 50-year-old Negro pedestrian struck down last night on the Airline Highway, and Vernon L. Smith, 21, killed in a headon collision early Saturday.

Arthur Smith, 28, driver of the car that struck Robertson, was booked with speeding and driving while intoxicated.

A coroner's jury ruled negligent homicide in the death of Vernon L. Smith. George Scheler, 25, driver of the other car, was booked on charges of negligent homicide, drunken driving, reckless driving and speeding.

Original paintings of any date are duty free if brought into the United States.

POLICE BLOTTER

PAIR ARRESTED

Monroe police yesterday arrested two young Negroes and charged both of them with carrying concealed weapons. Henry Manning, 17, 720 Ridge Dr., W.M., and Maxel Manning, 19, 1211 Joe Bill St., W. M., were each carrying a pistol concealed on their persons, according to police reports.

Both men were in the West Monroe city jail late last night, each charged with aggravated battery and both under $500 bond. Henry Manning was also charged with disturbing the peace by using loud and obscene language.

They will be heard in city court but must still answer the Monroe police charges.

Maxel Manning also had a hidden knife, police said. He was placed under a total of $450 bond and Henry Manning was under $350 bond. Both were transferred to the West Monroe city jail, after they were arrested in the 800 block of Calypso St. yesterday afternoon.

THEFT CHARGE

A Rayville man was arrested yesterday for theft by check and transferred to the parish jail. C. S. Aycock, 58, was arrested on a warrant in the 100 block of North Seventh.

UNDER BOND

Wallace Stron, 40, 2113 Grammont St., was under $437.50 bond yesterday after Monroe police arrested him for driving while intoxicated and reckless driving. Jessie Wright, 40, 110 Morton St., was arrested at home on a warrant charging him with reckless driving, speeding and no valid driver's license.

Retired Grocer George Sullivan Dies; Rites Set

Detroit Named Will Bid For Olympic Games

CHICAGO (AP) — The City of Detroit Saturday was chosen by the United States Olympic Committee to bid for the 1964 games.

Detroit was selected over Los Angeles, Chicago and Minneapolis and will be the only U.S. city eligible to bid for the games.

Robert J. Kane, chairman of the Olympic Site Selection Committee, said in a statement:

"Detroit has the athletic, cultural and housing facilities to adequately handle the games."

Final approval for the 1964 site will be made by the IOC when it meets in Munich next May.

Rhode Island Beauty Named 'Congeniality'

United Press International

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—Freckle-faced Ann Louise Willis, one of eight children and a daughter of invalid parents, gave her little state of Rhode Island a big victory in the Miss America Pageant Saturday by being chosen "Miss Congeniality" by her 51 competitors.

The other girls clapped and cheered but Miss Willis, 18, burst into tears when her victory was announced in Atlantic City's huge Convention Hall during the last rehearsal for Saturday night's pageant grand finale, at which Miss America will be crowned.

The $1,000 scholarship she wins along with the title of Miss Congeniality means that she will be able to go to college for at least two years. Otherwise, she might have had to stay at her present job, working in a department store.

The congeniality title is one of the most coveted of the entire beauty pageant. Girls have been campaigning for it all week, but pageant veterans said that as usual, the one who tried the least came out on top.

Also to be chosen before Miss America is crowned shortly before midnight are the 10 top semi-finalists, then the five top semi-finalists and the winners in various talent classifications. These will be announced to the nation on a television presentation from 10 p.m. to midnight.

Pupils Strike Against Plans In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — More than 300 high school students have gone on strike against Mississippi school reorganization plans, it was learned Saturday.

About 270 students stayed at home in Neshoba County instead of attending the Neshoba County High School at Longino when the county plan went into effect at the opening of school.

Under the plan all students outside the Philadelphia separate school district were designated to attend the Longino school instead of news they previously attended and which have been closed. The students are from Arlington House, Boomo and Linwood.

One father, Walker Joyner of House, went to court seeking an injunction preventing the county school board from ordering his children to the Longino school. Chancellor R. P. Sugg was expected to rule on the petition in Philadelphia this week.

Arlington patrons also petitioned the State Education Finance Commission to allow their children to attend the Noxapater High School in Winston County.

In Raleigh, 40 students were conducting a somewhat different sort of strike. The students reported daily to Raleigh High School but were not allowed to attend classes because they had been assigned to attend Burns High School under the Smith County plan. The Smith County School Board may take up their case Monday.

Meanwhile in Meridian, the Lauderdale County School Board closed two schools and sold them under Lauderdale's plan.

The first railroad in the U. S. is believed to have been a short track of wooden rails built in 1795 on Beacon Hill in Boston, Mass. Wagons drawn by horses supplied the transportation.

Winter White Enhances The Checked Wool

By BETH BLAIR

Trimmings add interest to the new higher waistlines, to collars and hemlines. When you sew your new clothes add a touch of braid or fur to give them an air of luxury and distinction. A reader writes —

Dear Miss Blair:

I am making a "chemise" dress in a black and white check wool. I feel it needs a little trimming at the neckline and sleeve edges but I don't want to add white linen which could give it a spring look.

A banding of black braid may be just the touch you want for your checked chemise dress. Another idea would be to use a white corduroy or black corduroy or velveteen for a collar and narrow cuffs.

Dear Miss Blair:

How many pairs of pajamas do you think I should take with me when I leave for school this fall? I thought four pairs would be sufficient but mother thinks I should take at least six.

I think six would be a more adequate figure unless you are planning a few gowns in addition to the four pairs of p.j.'s. Take a good basic robe of the duster type and one or two little lounge tops for night study sessions.

Towel Savers

Avoid lipstick damage to your guest towels by keeping a box of tissues readily available in your bath or powder rooms. They're a gentle—and useful—reminder to your guests.

Moore-Bostick Marriage Vows Are Exchanged

The First Methodist Church of Gilbert was the scene of the marriage of Miss Alice Kate Bostick and Harold Arthur Moore. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Nathaniel Bostick of Gilbert, and the groom's parents are Arthur Alsop Moore of Ft. Necessity, and Mrs. Sudie Haymon Moore of Winnsboro.

The Rev. Robert Earl Price officiated over the double ring ceremony last evening, before standards of gladioli and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a gown of heliotrope mohair. She carried a white prayer book topped by an orchid.

Miss Anne Bostick served her sister as maid of honor. Her gown was of pale green and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Mary Bostick, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid gowned also in a pale green gown and carried a bouquet of roses.

Serving the groom as best man was Dawson Malcolm Johns of Homer. Charles William Buie was the usher.

The couple will be at home in Baton Rouge.

MR. AND MRS. W. I. BURNETT of West Monroe announce the engagement of their daughter, Sybil Louise to George Wayne McDanell, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McDanell of Baton Rouge. The wedding will be an event of September 13.

Organized Way To Wash Dishes

Organized way to wash dishes is to brush food from plates before stacking them in hot, soapy water. This task is lightning quick if you simply pick up food particles with paper toweling or table napkins you used at the table.

Exercises To Be Done While Relaxing

Time was when a bed was a place for sleeping. Now the experts tell us its one of the best places to get your beauty treatments. There are whole series of exercises designed to be done while in bed.

One involves lying flat on your back with the soles of your feet firmly planted on the mattress. Slowly pull up and in with the stomach muscles while pressing shoulders down. Hold for a count of ten and then release. This is an excellent waist-slimmer.

Here's another. Lying on your stomach with arms and legs outstretched, stiffen the knee and slowly raise one leg off the mattress. Lower it even more slowly.

Now they tell us you can put new life in your hair by lying across the bed with your head hanging down over the side as you vigorously brush away.

For all of these things, of course, you need a level and firm mattress.

MRS. ALFRED BRUCE FILES

Patricia Christine Prince And Alfred Bruce Files Exchange Marriage Vows

Wearing a white lace gown re - embroidered with seed pearls and sequins at the deep V neckline and a panel down the front of the bodice, and carrying a cascade bouquet of white fleurs d'amour, Miss Patricia Christine Prince, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Alonzo Prince of Lake End, became the bride of Alfred Bruce Files, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Herbert Files, of Oak Ridge.

The Rev. Davey Jones officiated over the ceremony on Saturday August 23, at nine o'clock in the morning, at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride was escorted by her father. Her tiered veil of illusion fell from a lace cap encrusted with tiny seed pearls.

The bride was preceded to the altar by her maid of honor and only attendant, Miss Dollye Belle Prince who wore a lovely pink creation and carried a nosegay of pink blossoms.

The bride's mother chose to wear for the wedding, a pink embroidered model with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a white embossed model. Both wore shoulder corsages of pink carnations.

The bride's table was decorated with a pyramid arrangement of white stock, pink carnations and candy tuft interspersed with fern. Flanking the arrangement were tall burning white tapers.

The three tiered wedding was served by Mrs. E. Bayles, and Mrs. Irvin Calir served punch.

The couple will be at home in Winnsboro.

Avocado At Snacktime

For a tasty cocktail dip, try this combination. Mash a large ripe avocado until it's free of lumps. Blend in ¼ pound of cream cheese. Add ½ cup of sour cream, 2 tablespoons of fresh lemon juice. diced anchovies from two 2-ounce cans, a few drops of Tabasco, a dash of salt and ground black pepper. Beat until smooth. Serve with chips or crackers.

Enter packaged brides. A manufacturer has come up with a bridal ensemble with all parts coordinated. It consists of silk bombazine gown embroidered in lace applique motifs, pearls and paillettes, a removable chapel-length Watteau lace train, and a matching mantilla lace headdress.

NECKLACE

Count on this new necklace for a different idea in jewelry. An industrial design team (Smith, Scherr and McDermott) of Akron, O., is making abacus beads into necklaces and barcelets. The beads, which come from Korea, are in white, black, natural wood and bright colors. The abacus is a device for counting in which beads are moved up and down parallel wires or bamboo sticks set in a frame. It dates back to the 6th Century, B.C. in China, and spread to Korea, where the industry flourished until the 20th Century.

HAT STYLES

Flappers and heroes of TV "Westerns" have inspired men's hat styles for fall. Look for the boater and the 10-gallon hat, plus shorter crowns, generally narrower brims, and prices about the same as last year.

NEW LACE

A new type of lace combines the fragile look with durability. The lace is made of tycora yarns and ranges from cobweb-thin to heavier, casual weights. The fabric retains the softness of regular lace, but is stronger, easier to care for, and more easily draped. Designers show it in a theater gown and matching reversible lace raincoat, a tennis dress, swim suit, and at-home costume.

NEW FAD

Teen-aged girls will find a new fad in jewelry—dangle rings. The rings have one or two gold loops to which charms are attached. About 25 types of charms are available, including cultured pearls, hearts, and birthstones.

Trim Cabinet

For easier cleaning and a smarter look, try putting adhesive veneer on the shelves of your medicine cabinet. This decorative covering will adhere permanently to an smooth surface and, because of its plastic - coated surface, can be cleaned swiftly and easily with a damp cloth.

MISS CAROL ANN CARUSO and Henry E. Cole are engaged to be married on September 20, at three o'clock in the afternoon at St. Matthew's Catholic Church. Miss Caruso's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arlie McKinley Jenkins Jr., of Concord, Tennessee. Mrs. Dorothy Winkelmann Cole of Houston, Texas, and John Cole of Rusk, Texas, are the groom-elect's parents.

Miss Broomfield, K. Carpenter Are Married

Friday evening August 22, Miss Sharon Broomfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Broomfield of Dodson became the bride of Kenneth Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Carpenter also of Calvin.

The ceremony was performed in the Church of Christ at Winnfield by the Rev. H. L. Reynolds. The double ring service was used.

The nuptial music was sung by Mrs. B. A. Schoomer and Miss Carolyn Ferguson of Shreveport.

The wedding march was sung by Mrs. B. A. Schoomer, Miss Carolyn Ferguson, Miss Barbara Horn, Mrs. Thelma Rowell, Miss Pat Hicks, Miss Maxine Bartlett, and Mrs. H. L. Reynolds.

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride was lovely in her white gown of taffeta over which a full net skirt draped gracefully, the bodice was of taffeta and white lace the lovely cowl neckline formed the sleeves and the finger tip veil of illusion which was caught up with a net bandeau was held in place with jeweled pins. She carried a white bible with a corsage of white carnations.

The bridesmaids, Miss Bobby Norred and Miss Sue Bartlett were dressed identical in pale green taffeta with net overskirts, fitted lace bodices with cowl necklines and they wore white accessories and white carnation bouquets [illegible] the lovely costumes.

The m[illegible]on of honor, Mrs. E. F. Broomfie d a sister of the bride wore pale pink, her gown was identical to, the bridesmaids.

E. F. Broomfield served as best man. Little Sharon Carpenter was flower girl; the ring bearer was Ricky Broomfield.

Ushers were Larry Carpenter and Dawson Lambright.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Dodson.

The reception rooms were decorated in the wedding flowers and in the center of the bride's table was a low bowl of mums. On either end of the table was the crystal punch bowl and the three tierred wedding cake. Miss Barbara Horn poured punch and Miss Normajean Carpenter served the cake, Miss Maxine Bartlett asked the guests to sign the brides book.

Try Trimming Shoe, Hat Boxes

Pretty storage boxes for your winter hats and shoes can be created for a bedroom closet in unexpected ways. One wasy method is to apply a decorative covering to old shoe and hat boxes that harmonize with the bedroom color scheme. A simple material to apply, because of its adhesive backing, is a plastic coated material. It comes in many colors a patterns to blend with any period or room.

What with the long weekend, the Cotton States Invitational Golf tournament, the rodeo, and the final flurry attendant upon the closing of the swimming pools and the opening of school, Labor Day is getting to be a regular "little season" hereabouts. Quite as gay as The Holidays, except shorter.

And if one is not lucky enough to live in the Twin Cities, the next best thing is to have a friend living here whom one may visit. There were a goodly number of out of towners among us last weekend, and a large percentage of them were former residents coming "back home" for a few days.

Center of activity for the four days was Bayou DeSiard country club, where the golf tournament was held. In connection with the sports were several social affairs, beginning with a buffet supper on Friday night. Saturday night was a seated dinner, with dancing afterwards. Buffet meals were served in the main lounge on Sunday and Monday. Both out of town and local golfers and their friends attended most of these affairs. Spied at one party or another were the BEN MEREDITHS of Bastrop, the L. C. LATHAMS of Vicksburg, the ALLEN BARHAMS of Bastrop, the DICKIE LEES of Atlanta, the DOUG SMITHS of Shreveport, the CRAIG WILLIAMS of Bastrop, the the TOM LUTZ of Canton, Miss.

BERNILLE and BENNIE HOUSE, who moved to Houston, Texas, about a year ago, were here for the long weekend, Wednesday until Tuesday, and were guests at a local motel. Accompanying them were their friends, JANE and JEFF TUCKER of Houston . . . Young PETE HOUSE divided his time with his friends DICK ETHRIDGE and STEVE SLADE.

Parties for Bernille got underway with a luncheon hosted by LAMY STODDARD Thursday. Five guests attended the affair at the Highland Park country club . . On Friday AURELINE SLADE entertained with a luncheon at the motel. Yellow gladiola were used with Sun crysanthemums and stalks of wheat for a spectacular centerpiece. Shrimp newburg was served to twelve guests . . . Sunday afternoon the CLAY WILSONS were hosts to a patio and swimming party at their home. About twenty couples enjoyed a dip in the pool, followed by a supper of barbecue ribs and the fixings.

Monday morning the EVANS ETHRIDGES and the JIM ADCOCKS were hosts at a brunch in the Ethridge home. A lavish breakfast was served from the buffet, where chafing dishes kept the food piping hot. Smoked sausage, scrambled eggs, baked grits, hot rolls with jelly were served to about eighteen couples.

The ARTHUR GRANTS invited some of the out of town golfers and their wives to come by their home Sunday night for a visit and dancing to records. About twenty couples attending, including MATT and ELLEN DALE of Greenwood, Miss, the HERBIE HOLMES of Tupelo, Miss., Dr. SAM BRISTER, the JOHN KERNEYS and FAY and CHET RHODES of Greenwood, and MARY and GENE FEDRIC of Glendora, Miss.

Visiting from Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, last weekend were LEE and BILL SCHUMACHER and their children PATTY, SUSIE, and BILLY. They were guests of Lee's brother, TOM HARGEST, MIRIAM, and the children, JUDY, SCOTT, MARGARET, and BILLY . . . Thursday night the Hargests invited friends to meet the Schumachers. The party was held in the private dining room of the Bayou DeSiard country club, where yellow and bronze chrysanthemums were used in matching amber glass and copper containers on the twin buffets . . . Miriam was wearing an ethereal pink voile with lace medallions and dozens of tiny tucks . . . Lee's dress was of white silk printed in shades of blue. The intricately draped skirt featured an uneven hemline . . . About sixteen couples called to meet the visitors.

The DICK BRADLEYS of Houston and the WALLACE KINGSBURYS of Amite spent the weekend with the JOHN KELSOS . . . The Bradley children were also in town: ANN was the guest of TIL WRIGHT, while JANE TUCKER stayed with young Miss MARTHA SCHONLAU . . . On Friday night the JIM SCHONLAUS took the guests to dinner, attending the buffet at the Bayou DeSiard country club . . . SARA M'SHERRY was luncheon hostess on Saturday, also at the club . . . For the dinner and dance that night, the DICK TROYS were hosts to the Kelsos and their guests, and the Troy's guest, ELISE NOTESTEIN of Chicago.

Monday morning the Kelsos entertained with a brunch at their home. Fresh fruit centered the dining table, while the buffet held an unusual arrangement of white artificial fruit used with ivy. On the menu were ham, fresh mackerel, eggs in cheese sauce grits, and hot biscuits. Eight couples attended this party.

In the meantime, Ann and Til were having a whirl with the junior high set. On Saturday EILEEN WRIGHT was hostess at a luncheon for fifteen young friends. Pink roses were used in the centerpiece, and both of the young honorees were gifted with pink rose corsages . . . FRANCES M'HENRY took the girls to lunch at the country club on Sunday . . . Two nights were spent at the Wright's camp, "Moonglow", and Monday afternoon Til's father, G. W. WRIGHT, JR., took the girls dove hunting.

Teen-age guest of JAN ADCOCK was KAY COLLIER, who flew up Thursday and was here until Sunday. Kay is the daughter of the I. P. COLLIERS of Baton Rouge. Saturday night Jan invited a group for a boat ride and supper party on the river. Fried chicken, potato salad, brownies, and iced drinks were served to about twenty-four young people.

High point of the weekend at Highland Park country club was the children's style show. LALAGE FEAZEL narrated the show, and models were about thirty children of club members. Back to school fashions for all sizes were shown. About 200 attended the show and the buffet dinner of barbecued chicken.

Monday morning September officially started with the annual rodeo parade. Hundreds of horses followed the bands that wound through Twin City streets. Riding clubs represented were from Winnsboro, Farmerville, Morehouse parish, and Camden, Crossett, and Hamburg, Ark., Natchez, Miss. and other points, in addition to our riding groups. Pony carts and buggies and clowns on horseback added to the show.

Visiting celebrities here for the rodeo were TV stars TRIS COFFIN and KELO HENDERSON. They were honored at a party hosted by JIMMY MOORE and JIM ADCOCK at the Highland Park country club on Tuesday. This was a party conceived and planned by the men, and they did themselves proud. Guests included about fifty persons: rodeo and city officials and the hosts' employees and their wives. The buffet held a supper consisting of hot roast beef, cold ham and turkey, shrimp salad, foil baked potatoes, beans, tossed salad, and coconut pie.

The BREWER GODFREYS celebrated their twenty-fourth wedding anniversary with a beautiful dinner party Wednesday night. June wore a most becoming black sheath dress with a wide white satin bertha collar with streamers falling to the hem in the back . . . The T-shaped table was set up in the upstairs dining room of the Bayou DeSiard country club. Ivy was used with yellow crysanthemums in a long arrangement which extended down the table. The delicious meal opened with shrimp cocktail, followed by domestic quail served with stuffed baked tomatoes, dirty rice and brandied oranges. Dessert was Alaska refrigerator cake. Twenty six guests attended.

Twenty-five members of Alpha Omicron Pi attended the sorority's house party last week. Hostess for this affair was FRAN GUTHRIE. Scene of the gathering was Grecian Bend Plantation on Bartholomew Lake, the Guthrie family country home. Guests were all members of the Northeast State chapter of AOPi.

Visitors in the home of JEAN and GARLAND HAMMONS were the RAY HAINES from Ann Arbor, Michigan. (She is the former Ellen Hale of Monroe and Jean's sister. They were here from Sunday until Friday and are now en route to El Campo, Texas to visit another sister, BETTY, and her husband, ROSS M'DADE . . . On Wednesday Jean honored Ellen with a luncheon at Highland Park country club. Yellow crysanthemums and blue salvia centered the table. A cold plate of shrimp salad and finger sandwiches was served to ten guests. Coconut pie was dessert.

Several back to school parties have been held for various age groups this week. On Wednesday night CAROL ANN M'DONALD was honored with a swimming party at Highland Park country club. After the swim, the teenagers enjoyed a hamburger supper. Ten guests attended.

Among those leaving for College this week will be NEIL M'DONALD who will be a freshman at the University of the South at Sewance, Tenn., and TOMMY M'DONALD, who will be a senior at Tulane STEVE SLADE leaves by air Tuesday for Georgia Military academy, where he will be in the tenth grade.

A much-fun impromptu party was concocted by a group of about 18 teenagers Monday night. They had been together that afternoon and couldn't stand the idea of not doing SOMETHING the night before school opened. So they had a "bring-your-own-hamburger" party at JIM GUTHRIE'S house. The guests played records and danced after supper.

BILL KELLOGG celebrated his tenth birthday with a skating party Wednesday afternoon. The "Stop the Music" game was played. KATHY SHAVER and JANIE WILBERT were the winners and were awarded fountain pens. Doughnuts and soft drinks were served to about 45 children.

Our travelers are about to get back home for fall. EMMALEE SHORT is due back today from a week's stay in New York . . . The VEGGIE RIVERS were in Hot Springs, Ark., this week . . . The DICK KELLOGGS and their son RICHARD have returned from a three weeks trip through the West. They spent several days in Colorado Springs, in Jackson, Wyoming, and at Yellowstone, before proceeding to Beverly Hills, Calif., where they visited relatives. In Wyoming they ran into the formor SATCHIE NAIDEN who now lives there. At another stop, they saw LEON HAMMONDS, also vacationing from Monroe.

We mustn't let Labor Day get completely behind us without stopping to consider these words from Kahlil Gibran's prose poem on Work:

You have been told that life is darkness and in your weariness you echo what was said by the weary.
And I say that life is indeed darkness save when there is urge,
And all urge is blind save when there is knowledge,
And all knowledge is vain save when there is work,
And all work is empty save when there is love;
And when you work with love you bind yourself to yourself, and to one another, and to God.
And what is it to work with love?
It is to build a house with affection, even as if your beloved were to dwell in that house.
It is to sow seeds with tenderness and reap the harvest with joy, even as if your beloved were to eat the fruit.
It is to charge all things you fashion with a breath of your own spirit,
And to know that all the blessed dead are standing about you and watching.
Work is love made visible.
And if you cannot work with love but only with distaste, it is better that you should leave your work and sit at the gate of the temple and take alms of those who work with joy.
For if you bake bread with indifference, you bake a bitter bread that feeds but half man's hunger.
And if you sing though as angels, and love not the singing, you muffle men's ears to the voices of the day and the voices of the night.

THE MARRIAGE of Miss Sylvia Rea Frost to Johnie Eugene Blazier was performed at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Frost of West Monroe, at eight o'clock in the evening, August 26. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Blazier also of West Monroe.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Travis J. Fields of Minden announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Jo Marlene, to Robert Earl Boyett of the Tannehill community.

The wedding will take place in the First Baptist Church in Minden at 6:30 in the evening of September 20. The Rev. E. E. Fields, an uncle of the bride will officiate.

Vows Repeated By Miss King And B. Stott

Miss Sarah Lynn King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cary King of Urania, and Bobby Rae Stott, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Stott of Olla, were united in marriage in the home of the bride's parents with the Rev. D. K. Harris officiating.

The vows were said before an arch decorated with ivy, flanked with baskets of white gladioli and tall burning white tapers.

Mrs. Carlton King served the bride as matron of honor. She wore a gown of powder blue nylon with fitted bodice and portrait neckline.

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride was lovely in a gown of white embroidered organdy over taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a portrait neckline and cap sleeves. She carried a Bible topped by a bouquet of white gladioli and baby mums tied with white satin streamers.

Lieutenant Norman E. Stott, Jr., served his brother as best man.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and held as the central decor, a large arrangement of white gladioli, white chrysanthemums and greenery.

The couple are at home in Georgetown.

Meat Salad Congealed Is Good Main Dish

A hearty meat salad makes a good main dish in hot weather. Start with a gelatin base, following the directions on an envelope of unflavored gelatin. Add 2 cups of diced cooked meat or poultry. You also may add sliced radishes, diced cucumber and shredded cabbage. Chill and serve.

PASTRY

Next time you make pastry for a fruit pie, or use a pastry mix, substitute chilled orange juice for the water. The juice brings out extra flavor in the filling.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS H. SPURLOCK of West Monroe, announce the marriage of their daughter, Bettye LaVerne, to James W. Stroud of Charlotte, North Carolina. The wedding was an event of August 30, in the home of the groom's Godmother, Miss Ruth Yelvington, in Charlotte. They departed immediately for Hartford, Connecticut where they will make their home. The bride is a graduate of Northeast State College. She received her masters degree from LSU this summer. Mr. Stroud is a graduate of LSU and is a member of the staff of Hart College of Music in Hartford.

Here's a wonderful dressing for tomatoes or tossed green salad. Combine 1 cup cottage cheese, ¼ cup of lemon juice, ½ teaspoon of sugar and ¼ teaspoon of salt. Yield, 1¼ cups.

Survey Shows Color Not White In Decor

Colors other than white are taking over in home decor, a survey shows.

The use of white for walls and exteriors, has declined steadily used for woodwork reported the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association after a nationwide survey of paint manufacturers.

Green is the most popular color for interiors. Beige is the favorite among neutral hues, which make up more than half the interior flat paints sold. Increasing in popularity are chartreuse, gray, yellow, pink, peach, flame and raspberry. Blue-green remains a top accent color.

White still ranks first for outsides of homes, but green, yellow and orange are coming up, the Association said.

This Is A Gem Of A Tip

Does your new costume jewelry leave a stain on your wrist and neck? Scrub each piece well with a brush in warm, sudsy water. Then polish with a tissue. Brush on a film of colorless nail polish.

Cosmopolitan Club Holds Dance Friday

Using the colorful theme, "Around the World", the Cosmopolitan Dance Club held its initial get-together in a local hotel Friday evening.

One wall of the spacious room was centered with letters spelling "Cosmopolitan". To the right was a realistic skyscraper, and to the left, a large passenger plane. Under the word "Cosmopolitan", was suspended a revolving world. On other walls were travel posters and colorful mobils.

The decoration committee consisted of Mrs. Ed Hamilton and Mrs. Clinton Langley. The telephone committee was composed of Mrs. John Bell, Jr., Mrs. Patrick N. Siudy, Mrs. Barney Pate and Mrs. Ted Cash. Others on the committee were Mrs. Charles Hyatt and Mrs. John C. Colt, Jr.

MEMBERS

Members attending were Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Langley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Plitt, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Pate, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cole, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick N. Siudy, Mr. and Mrs. Klein Crow, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. George Adams, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Burdine, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Halpin, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. Bolen Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McGough, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Tolson, Mr. and Mrs. Carter Ackel, Mr. and Mrs. J E Ethridge, Mr. and Mrs. Everette Croslowe, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Tolson and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Liner, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Harting, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Webster and Mr. and Mrs. Frances McLeland.

GUESTS

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Marion Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bernat and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Allen.

Nancy Tucker Is Wed In Little Rock

Miss Nancy Ann Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean Tucker, became the bride yesterday afternoon, September 6th, at four o'clock, of Selden Spencer Compton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Selden Compton, of Little Rock.

The Rev. Dan R. Robinson performed the double ring ceremony before a background decorated with floor baskets of white gladioli and stock accented with glossy ivy. The only candles were the two lighted altar candles. Mrs. W. B. Anderson was organist, and Miss Betty Hines read Elizabeth Barrett Browning's, "How Do I Love Thee."

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional white wedding gown of botique taffeta trimmed with hand-run Alencon lace. The scoop neckline was edged with the hand-cut lace, and fitted sleeves tapered to lily points over her hands. The princess lines of the dress were enhanced with an apron front of the lace on the full skirt which swept to a chapel train in back. Her finger - tip veil fell from a coronet of oragne blossoms. She carried a white Bible topped with a white rose.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Marjorie Compton, of Little Rock, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a waltz - length peacock blue taffeta dress which was designed with an Empire line in front with back fullness from the shoulders. Her headdress was fashioned with a matching tailored velvet bow with a brow veil. She carried a single long - stemmed white rose.

Identically dressed bridesmaids were Miss Mary Fletcher Cox, of Morrilton, and Miss Deborah Compton, of Little Rock, sister of the groom.

Ernest Selden Compton served his son as best man. Ushers were Jerry Russell, Hugh Dunlap, Gene Joyce, all of Little Rock; Bob Tucker, brother of the bride, and Bill Nutter.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony there was a reception in the social hall of the church. Assisting were Mrs. W. B. Alderson, of Denton, Texas; Miss Mary Sue Jordan, of Mulberry, Arkansas; Miss Kay Norman, Miss Mary Jane Regnier, and Miss Margaret Ann McGoogan, all of Crossett. The three-tiered wedding cake formed the centerpiece of the satin and net-covered table.

For travel the bride wore a cotton tweed suit, black accessories, and the white rose from her Bible arrangement at her shoulder. Following a wedding trip the couple will make their home in Little Rock.

The bride attended Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Missouri. The groom was graduated from Washington University at St. Louis, Missouri, where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Barbecue, Party Given In Honor Of Jody Autrey

Several lovely parties have complimented Miss Jody Autrey during her visit in Monroe with Miss Anna Camp. Among those was a barbecue supper given on the patio of the R. C. Camp home.

Enjoying the evening with the hostess and honoree were Miss Faye Parker, Miss Linda Garrett, Miss Carole Eady, Miss Joann Gaster and Miss Sally White.

AFTERNOON PARTY

Another lovely affair in honor of Miss Autrey was a party at the home of Mrs. Ed. Hislop, with Miss Faye Parker serving as hostess.

The serving table was overlaid in white and held a handsome arrangement of pink carnations. Serving were Mrs. John M. Parker and Mrs. Hislop.

MRS. SELDEN SPENCER COMPTON

Nancy Tucker Is Wed In Little Rock

Miss Nancy Ann Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean Tucker, became the bride yesterday afternoon, September 6th, at four o'clock, of Selden Spencer Compton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Selden Compton, of Little Rock.

The Rev. Dan R. Robinson performed the double ring ceremony before a background decorated with floor baskets of white gladioli and stock accented with glossy ivy. The only candles were the two lighted altar candles. Mrs. W. B. Anderson was organist, and Miss Betty Hines read Elizabeth Barrett Browning's, "How Do I Love Thee."

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional white wedding gown of botique taffeta trimmed with hand-run Alencon lace. The scoop neckline was edged with the hand-cut lace, and fitted sleeves tapered to lily points over her hands. The princess lines of the dress were enhanced with an apron front of the lace on the full skirt which swept to a chapel train in back. Her finger - tip veil fell from a coronet of oragne blossoms. She carried a white Bible topped with a white rose.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Marjorie Compton, of Little Rock, sister of the groom, was maid of. honor. She wore a waltz - length peacock blue taffeta dress which was designed with an Empire line in front with back fullness from the shoulders. Her headdress was fashioned with a matching tailored velvet bow with a brow veil. She carried a single long - stemmed white rose.

Identically dressed bridesmaids were Miss Mary Fletcher Cox, of Morrilton, and Miss Deborah Compton, of Little Rock, sister of the groom.

Ernest Selden Compton served his son as best man. Ushers were Jerry Russell, Hugh Dunlap, Gene Joyce, all of Little Rock; Bob Tucker, brother of the bride, and Bill Nutter.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony there was a reception in the social hall of the church. Assisting were Mrs. W. B. Alderson, of Denton, Texas; Miss Mary Sue Jordan, of Mulberry, Arkansas; Miss Kay Norman, Miss Mary Jane Regnier, and Miss Margaret Ann McGoogan, all of Crossett. The three-tiered wedding cake formed the centerpiece of the satin and net-covered table.

For travel the bride wore a cotton tweed suit, black accessories, and the white rose from her Bible arrangement at her shoulder. Following a wedding trip the couple will make their home in Little Rock.

The bride attended Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Missouri. The groom was graduated from Washington University at St. Louis, Missouri, where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Barbecue, Party Given In Honor Of Jody Autrey

Several lovely parties have complimented Miss Jody Autrey during her visit in Monroe with Miss Anna Camp. Among those was a barbecue supper given on the patio of the R. C. Camp home.

Enjoying the evening with the hostess and honoree were Miss Faye Parker, Miss Linda Garrett, Miss Carole Eady, Miss Joann Gaster and Miss Sally White.

AFTERNOON PARTY

Another lovely affair in honor of Miss Autrey was a party at the home of Mrs. Ed. Hislop, with Miss Faye Parker serving as hostess.

The serving table was overlaid in white and held a handsome arrangement of pink carnations. Serving were Mrs. John M. Parker and Mrs. Hislop.

DEAR ABBY:

Reluctant Bridesmaid And For Good Reason

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am in a spot and don't know what to do. My friend (we grew up next door to each other) is getting married in November and she asked me to be a bridesmaid. She's been engaged to this fellow for three years and all the time she went with him she has been sneaking out to go with others. I don't respect her and really don't want to be a bridesmaid at her wedding because I know too much about her. She says she is marrying him for security and will learn to love him after they are married. How can I get out of being her bridesmaid after I said yes?

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: Merely "growing up" with someone doesn't constitute a friendship. Tell her you you have changed your mind—and tell her why.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a very irritating habit of reading in bed before going to sleep. If you've ever tried to sleep with the light shining in your face you will realize my problem. In my job I am on 24-hour call and I could use the extra sleep. Should I burn the magazines or sleep in the doghouse?

SLEEPY IRENE

DEAR SLEEPY: Neither! Get a bed-light that shoots a beam of light, or buy eye-shades for yourself. Goodnight, Irene!

---

DEAR ABBY: We have a very stingy aunt who accepts dinner invitations from all the relatives, but never invites anyone to her home. Last Christmas she won a turkey in a raffle and it only weighed 12 pounds and she had the nerve to invite 36 people to her house for turkey. All she served with it was cranberry sauce and garlic bread. She has been the talk of the whole family ever since. My husband says we should invite her anyway and overlook her stinginess. Do you think he is right or not? I say she should stay home if she can't entertain others like they entertain her. She is in better financial shape than any of the rest of us, so that's no excuse.

A NIECE

DEAR NIECE: Life is too short to bear a grudge over anything so insignificant as what was served at a party. Next time offer to "help" her and talk enough "turkey" to her to feed everybody.

---

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 17 and I think I have a problem. I have been seeing this guy who is 19 but he says he doesn't want to go steady. He told me he loves me and I know I am in love with him. He told me he didn't want to see too much of me because he doesn't want to get sick of me. After telling me this he put me on a bus to go home and didn't say when he would call me. Do you think he meant it when he said he loved me? I want to know what to do.

LOSS OF WORDS

DEAR LOSS: If this felllow love anything — it's his own freedom. Don't take him seriously.

---

DEAR ABBY: I have been widowed for six years and now have an opportunity to remarry. I understand that there is a new state law which gives the husband half his wife's assets. My husband's insurance, holdings and properties add up to about $30,000. This is a lot of money and all I have in the world. I am not saying this man who asked to marry me is marrying me for my money but I know he isn't as well off as I am. I like this man, but I am not sure I like him $30,000 worth. Should I talk it over with him and ask him if he is counting on this law or what?

QUESTIONING

DEAR QUESTIONING: Talk to a lawyer about drawing up a prenuptial agreement. If your husband is not marrying you for your money he won't mind putting it in writing.

---

CONFIDENTIAL TO "EXHAUSTED:" Prosperity is just around the coronary. Slow up.

---

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Miss Bobbie Johnson Exchanges Vows With Thomas Malcolm DuBose

Tall floral basket arrangements and seven branched candelabra former a nuptial setting for the marriage ceremony at the Maplewood Baptist Church which united Miss Bobbie Jean Johnson and Thomas Malcolm DuBose August 22, at seven o'clock Friday evening. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Johnson of Lake Charles and Mr. and Mrs. T. M. DuBose of Ruston.

The Reverend J. M. McDonald officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony. Mrs. H. E. Schaller rendered nuptial music at the organ and accompanied Charles Tate, Jr. who was the soloist.

MAID OF HONOR

Miss Barbara Jefcoat of Maplewood, who served as the bride's only attendant, was maid of honor. Her ice blue frock of brocaded taffeta was accented by a scoop neckline and bouffant skirt. She wore a headdress of white velvet covered with white flowers and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Fred McLemore of Maplewood. Ushers were Johnny Johnson, brother of the bride, J. T. Bain and Mike DuBose, brother of the groom, of Ruston and Bob Loomis of Sulphur.

Miss Raye Ellen Reese and Miss Mary Nan DuBose, lighted the tapers. They wore identical pale pink sheath dresses with full organdy overskirts. The high necklines came to a deep V in the back and paneled bows offered back interest at the waist They wore wristlets of pink carnations.

BRIDE'S GOWN

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her white gown of embroidered lace over taffeta. The sweetheart neckline highlighted a fitted bodice that came to a point just below the waistline and long sleeves that came to points over the hands. The bouffant ballerina length skirt was accented by points of lace falling gracefully over it. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell softly from a seed pearl tiara. She carried a white Bible surmounted by pink sweetheart roses.

The bride's mother chose a royal blue sheath dress for her daughter's wedding which featured three quarter length sleeves and a V neckline. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. DuBose chose a pale blue dress over satin fashioned also with a V neckline. Her accessories were black and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception in the church parlors. The bride's table was highlighted with a three tiered wedding cake and crystal punch service. Serving were Mrs. Tyre Fox, Mrs. C. E. Stevenson, Miss Betty Jo Potter, and Miss Janice Trosclair, all of Maplewood. Miss Salley Linker registered the guests.

Tea girls were Miss Peggy Robinson of Ruston and Miss Sandra Hooper of Maplewood.

The young couple will make their home in Ruston where the groom will complete his senior year in petroleum engineering at Louisiana Tech.

The bride is a graduate of Sulphur High School and attended McNeese State College. The groom is a graduate of Ruston High School.

Out of town guests for the wedding were Mrs. Mary Bain, J. T. Bain, Mac Bain, Raye Ellen Reese, Mary Nan DuBose, and Peggy Robinson, all of Ruston.

MRS. THOMAS MALCOLM DUBOSE

MRS. RAYMOND LEE SPENCE, JR., the former Miss Ann Ercelle Williamson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf F. Williamson of Jackson, Mississippi. Mr. Spence is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lee Spence Sr., of Shreveport, formerly of West Monroe. He is the grandson of Mrs. S. H. Heard and the late Mr. S. H. Heard of West Monroe. The wedding was solemnized Saturday evening, August 23rd at the Chapel of the First Baptist Church of Jackson.

Gaar-Gordon Vows Said

The marriage of Miss Odie Mae Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Gordon of Plain Dealing to Dennis B. Gaar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis F. Gaar of Dodson, is announced.

The ceremony was performed on August 28. The couple will be at home in Mott.

Slenderize With Stripes

EAST LANSING, Mich.— It takes a little more time and money to find the right dress for a chubby girl but it can be done.

So says extension clothing specialist at Michigan State University. She advised chubby girls to avoid horizontal cuts and sharp color contrasts between blouse and skirt. Instead, slenderize with stripes.

How To Mix Son And Paint

When your young son wants to paint "just like dad" here's a way to keep him occupied for a short while. Provide him with an old nail polish brush and several tissues.

The brush is ideal for painting—with water, of course—while the tissues serve as mighty handy cleanup "rags." Best of all, you won't have any real cleaning to do, yourself, when the game gets tiresome.

Household Hints

Freeze herbs and vegetables, such as parsley, celery, onions, and green pepper, to save preparation time. Chop, package in plastic envelopes, and label clearly.

VEGETABLES

An easy way to cook vegetables at barbeques is in aluminum foil. Place individual servings of canned or frozen vegetables on squares of foil. Slices of zucchini, tomato or onion rings also may be used. Add butter, salt and desired seasoning, seal the foil with a double fold, and place the packets on top of the grill or in the coals. Cook about 10 minutes.

FLAVOR

To retain a full ham flavor, do not freeze the meat. Cured and smoked meats lose flavor and smoked meats lose flavor when frozen, but regular or skinned hams may be frozen as long as 60 days. Do not freeze canned meat.

APPLE PIE

For a variation of apple pie, sprinkle the top crust with grated sharp cheese in the last 10 minutes of baking. Let the cheese melt, then remove theh pie from the oven. Serve warm.

CLOTHES

To remove a grey film from clothes, add three tablespoons of soda concentrate to the washer. Let the clothes go through the regular wash cycle, but without adding soap or detergent. Wash again as usual.

IRONING

When ironing tablecloths, press the center crease only. All other folds are best made by hand, because ironed creases do not lie flat on the table.

THE HOME SHIFT

Landscaping In City Planning

By MILDRED SWIFT

It seems that fall weather is hiding and the 94 degree temperature continues. When I'm writing this, we could use a rain in my part of the parish. Let me warn you again — don't let camellia and azalea roots dry out. You'll suffer bud drop later as a result.

PLANNING

Landscaping with emphasis on community development was presented as a feature at LSU Extension's Farm and Home Week. The panel discussed individual problems only as they related to the community.

Dr. Reich said we must learn to collaborate with others in our community if a city planning system is to be most effective. He asked this question, "What consideration have you given your neighbor in your own back yard?" The small units in a city, make up the whole. How does your unit look?

Mr. Wells said "Recreation as an industry ranks third in the United States. During 1957 one and one half million people visited our parks. Our state parks are the show windows of our state.

"It is ·  ually impossible to arrive at a monetary value which the state park system provides in making available recreational opportunities to the citizens of the state. The state park system is a vital factor in preventing delinquency."

IMPRESSIONS

The panel members brought out these thoughts, what are a visitor's first impression of our town? Is the city limits cluttered with signs and billboards with a warning to tourists instead of a welcome? Is your welcome mat a sea of junk, unscreened, resting in all its rusted glory? Or — is it neat, tidy and pleasing? Do our homes look as if their owners are proud of them? Do we have parks and playgrounds? Have we thoughtless people left these public grounds littered with cups, papers and bottles?

If all of these questions have the wrong answers, the panel said we need to ask ourselves the question, "What can I do about it?"

Mrs. Guidry, a panel member, and specialist with LSU Extension, said, "Order will grow in the city, town and countryside when each family unit is considered a part of the whole. Every spot of ugliness in a community was brought about through carelessness of one of its citizens. Was it you?"

GARDEN JOBS

If you like coleus for the house, cut some stems very soon. The frost kills this plant. Place the pieces in a bowl or vase of water. Change this water once a week to keep it fresh. During the winter the stems take root and next spring you have the rooted plants to set out in your garden.

Did you ever notice coleus flowers? They are blue or lilac and quite inconspicuous. You'd never grow this plant for the flowers. Once your plant blooms, it seems to quit growing and dies. If you'll pinch out the blooms, the plant continues to thrive.

You can still plant Louisiana native Iris. Call our office for a bulletin. Snowdrops can be planted in partial shade. You can get single or double varieties. Madonna, Regale and Speciosum lilies should be planted in October, so if you're interested, put in your order for the bulbs

Except in the severest of winters, pansies will give a succession of blooms for several months, especially if they are kept watered and fertilized. You'll be able to buy pansy plants in October and November, so get your planting space ready.

Pansies even stand a freeze very well. Seldom are they killed by the temperature we have in North Louisiana. If they are damaged, they are not likely to be killed after the thaw. — they generally come back and before long start producing flowers again. We amateurs are not too successful with pansy seed. Best to buy the plants.

LONG LIFE

Dr. Joseph Still, outstanding authority on aging, has come up with some outstanding facts about aging. First he says the average life span has increased from 40 years in 1900 to more than 70 years today. This came about, he says as a result of better sanitation, antiseptics, vaccines antibiotics, and related measures.

The most amazing statement made by this learned doctor, is that we have a theory that the sands of time run out on us along about 70. It's time to leave this world, we believe, so we up and die. This idea that we're born with a fixed life span is nonsense, the doctor says.

TEEN-AGE PROBLEM

A source of much unhappiness for some teenage boys and girls is acne. This means chronic outbreaks of pimples and blackheads. Its most serious threat is a scarred, unsocial personality. Many young people with acne make a fairly good social adjustment. Others refuse to join in social activities.

The treatment recommended by specialists is to control the diet by cutting out excessive fats and sweets. Avoid oily cosmetics. Wash the face with soap and water three times daily, and apply to the face every night, one of the preparations recommended for the condition. If the skin does not clear in a reasonable time, the family doctor should be consulted.

On the avoid list for acne sufferers are candy, butter, cream, sundaes, chocolate, nuts, potato chips, French fries, pie and frosted cakes.

LEARN TO SEW

You can learn to sew or if you're already experienced you can pick up many new speed-up methods and short cuts. How? By tuning in to KLSE beginning September 17 and each Wednesday and Friday for 25 weeks. Each broadcast will be thirty minutes and the preceding program will be given each day, as a review. The time is 6:30 p.m.

Isn't that a wonderful arrangement? Just get comfortable in your own home and tune in to KLSE. If you miss one program you can pick it up the next week. Even if you can't see the entire series, any one of the broadcasts is a complete lesson. My! What a wonderful opportunity.

The demonstrations on film are given by Miss Lucille Reo with the Extension Service of Iowa State College.

Some of the lessons are: How To Measure For Your Dress; Pattern Types; Selection of Your Pattern and Fabrics; How To Prepare Fabrics For Sewing; How To Alter and Cut. The unit construction method is used and it's a time saver.

For more information call KLSE, FA 2-8200. You'll be glad if you do.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday and Tuesday, Jean Cloy and Glenda Willet from Jackson Parish will show you how to make a bench and coffee table; Wednesday, Mrs. Jardine with flower arrangements; Thursday and Friday, Marketing with Mildred. See you next Sunday.

Control Seen For White Fly

By AUDREY DAWSON

If you have violets in your landscape and you have not reset them, better get busy. Separate old clumps to single stems with roots – and remember it's time to fertilize violets, too. The white fly is giving the gardener a great deal of trouble — best control is malathion. Repeat spray in ten days if needed. Malathion will also control aphids, mealy bugs, scale and thrips.

WEED PULLING

Although it's almost fall, everyone who has a flower bed knows that the weeds and grass are still growing. It's hard to resist the temptation to stoop down, grab that big weed and give it a tug.

If the stubborn roots hold, the challenge increases, and you are likely to tug away until something gives. That's the origin of many a gardener's backache, because a muscle sometimes gives before the weed does. The best idea is to use a hoe or some other grubbing tool, but if you must pull, use the proper position.

Bend the knees and crouch down, feet apart, with the back straight and the shoulders over the hips. If the plant doesn't come out easily, get a tool to help you. When it comes to weeds, you may be sorry if you stoop to conquer.

FABRIC SOFTNESS

School days mean more laundering for homemakers. However, the task is no longer a burden if you keep up to date with the latest new laundering products. Frabric softeners are products which will help solve some of the modern new laundering problems.

Fabric softeners are lubricating agents which gives fabrics a soft feel and appearance. A fabric softener minimizes wrinkles and helps eliminate deep creases which make ironing more difficult. The softeners also have an anti - static effect in those fabrics which tend to ride up and "cling."

HOW TO USE

The softener is added in the final rinse. The amount of fabric softener to use is determined by the pounds of clothes and not on the number of gallons of water. Always follow the directions on the container for correct amount to use.

Never add softener to wash water because they are not compatible with detergents. If softeners were added before the detergent was rinsed out of the clothes, it could cause a scum to form.

PREPARATIONS

Beauty preparations may be fine for skin and hair, but they can be hard on clothes. Perfumes and colognes should never be applied to clothing. The alcohol content tends to blend some dyes and stains are formed.

Many liquid deodorants are quite acid and are likely to disintegrate the fabrics with which they come in direct contact. Cotton and linen are especially susceptible to acid deterioration. Many deodorants however, bear the certified washable seal, indicating the product is harmless to fabrics.

Some cold permanent wave solutions are a special problem. Such solutions may destroy dyes used in the fabric. The stains may go unnoticed until the garment comes back from cleaners with discolorations. Research has shown that such discolorations are usually caused by hidden chemicals in cold wave solutions.

Stains have a tendency to "set" and the longer they stay in fabrics, the harder they are to remove. Most ordinary stains should be rinsed at once with water.

LESSONS ON SEWING

Mrs. Homemaker, I know you will be interested in a new program on KSLE television station. It's a course in sewing and will begin Wednesday, September 17 at 6:30 p.m. — so mark this on your calendar. Mr. Gorden Canteburry, manager of the station, explained that each lesson will be repeated on Friday. The first lesson will be: How to Measure Your Pattern, September 17 and 19 Then on September 24 and 26, will be pattern types. October 1 and 3 will be selection of your pattern and fabrics.

A THOUGHT

COULD SAVE TIME

CHRIST CHURCH, New Zealand (UPI)—Russia could save both time and expense in plans to chart the entire 6,000,000 square miles of antarctica by asking the United States for aerial photographs made by Navy, Marine, Air Force, and civilian pilots, according to Rear Adm. George J. Duek, commander of U. S anarctic operations.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Home Garden Show Designs

By MARY M. JARDINE

The diversity of arrangements by members of the Home Gardeners Club of Monroe at the Garden Center this week illustrated the fact that flower arrangement is a many-faceted hobby.

Mrs. James Richardson and Mrs. Katie Henderson combined talents in creating a fall composition featuring fresh and dried materials. The container selected was a flat rectangular bowl of chartreuse pottery. A triangular line pattern was established with cat-tails and light brown dock. Autumn leaves in orange and red tones framed the center of interest at the base of the design, dark red apples. Nice fall colors for a family room.

TRIANGLE DESIGN

Mrs. J. A. Funston illustrated the use of one kind of flower in her symmetrical triangle design, using magenta celosia (cockscomb). The large heads of the celosia followed the rounded rim of the leaf green container, which was set on a black base.

The design started at the base with the round, full heads of cockscomb and graduated in size to tall slender tips of the same flower. Amaryllis foliage was placed in the background for depth and interest. Dark red coleus with the magenta markings was placed low, covering the rim of the container. This striking design would be suitable for a man's study or den.

Mrs. Henry Poulan selected a white classic urn for her cool, long lasting arrangement. A mass design, symmetrical in form was created with pampas plumes, accented with green juniper. Clusters of pale green and white artificial grapes extending over the rim of the container made a most effective center of interest. This cool and lovely design would be suitable for living room, buffet or hall.

EXTRA

Mrs. J. A. Funston designed our extra of the week. A delightful design, suitable for the kitchen, breakfast room or den. The "container" was a round, log base (treated with wax for permanency). Red tipped photinia foliage was used as a background for the bright zinnias shading from yellow into orange into red. Deep red and green coleus was placed at the base and picked up the colors of the ceramic rooster used in an accessory.

Demonstrations

Monday, the Monroe Garden Club presents Mrs. John G. McReynolds, Birmingham, Alabama, in a Flower Arrangement Demonstration. Mrs. McReynolds is nationally known for her beautiful flower designs and table settings. Place: Knights of Columbus Hall. Time 2 P.M. Public invited. $1.00.

Monday, September 15, Welcome Garden Club will present Dorothy Biddle in a Flower Arrangement demonstration. Frances Hotel, Mirror Room, 2 P.M. Price $2.00, public invited.

Flower Show School, Course IV, Shreveport, Sept. 15-17, 1958, (Lamar-McCary). Chairman Mrs. George Moe, Sr. 2621 Lakeshore Drive, Shreveport.

Flower Show School I. Baton Rouge, September 23-25 (Biddle-Hanchey). Chairman, Mrs. Al Alleman, 740 Royal St., Baton Rouge.

Another lovely book has been placed in the Garden Center library in memory of Mr. W. G. Haab, by the Welcome Garden Club. Seven Keys to Distinction in Flower Arrangement by Anita Stele.

POPULAR

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK — (UPI) — There's some really fine country music in "Hi-Fi Square Dances Without Calls" (RCA Camden Cal-432).

It features The Nashville Squares on an even dozen numbers that should liven up any party, rural or urban. And it gives callers an opportunity to practice their spiel.

The music of Chet Atkins, Hal Smith, Ernie Newton, Murray Harmon and Billy Burke is reproduced with almost stereophonic quality and the selection leaves nothing to be desired. Among the dances are "Soldier's Joy," "Sugar in the Gourd," "Cripple Creek" and "Old Joe Clark."

And for those who like to romp around the dance floor in the old - country style "Polka Festival" by Bruno Zielinski (Liberty LRP 3085) sets the stage for some fast stepping.

Zielinski is one of the top impresarios of the polka and this LP reels off some of his best work. The vocals sound like they came from Warsaw but those Wilson sisters are Irish.

"Dance Time in Paris" by Chauncey Gray and his orchestra (Judson L3022) is somewhat more restrained but eminently suited for the ballroom. Gray offers 14 tunes with a French flavor even though the band is strictly American.

And there's always Guy Lombardo. "Berlin By Lombardo" (Capitol T1019) presents the Royal Canadians in no less than 40 compositions by Irving Berlin. Many LP's are being made in honor of Berlin's 50th anniversary in show business but this is among the best.

Platter Chatter — Rusty Draper has a sure hit with "Hip Monkey" (Mercury 713-51) unless the witch doctor's medicine has lost its punch. This one is loaded with gimmicks . . . "Elevator Operator" by the Rays (XYZ UR 2001) is good for rock'n'rollers . . . "The Crawl" by The Fireflies (Roulette R-4098) also has a good R&R future . . . Lou Busch's piano lends poetry to the Orchestration of "Young Enough to Dream" (Capitol F4019) which is the best number of its kind since "Poor People of Paris."

Record of the week — "Hi-Fi Adventure in Asia Minor" by Marko Melkon and his Internaitonal Oriental Orchestra (Decca DL9061). Superb sound with stereo realism. Exotic music from the Near East.

Stereoscope: Beethoven's "Symphony No. 7" has been recorded with almost unbelievable realism by Sir Adrian Boult (Vanguard VSD-2005). Sound separation is sharp. Will convert many low-brow hi-fi fans to high-brow stereophonic sound.

deal with the more important question: does it do anything for you?

The recording is derived from a manuscript in the British Museum. Medieval notation is inexact to the point of being, almost non - existent, but the hints that are there have been used to construct a playable and singable score.

It has been recorded by a group calling itself "Pro Musica" of New York, Noah Greenberg director. It has ancient instruments, either borrowed from museums or made in modern times according to the old designs.

The drama is the Biblical one about the prophet being cast into the lion's den. The performers are both skilled and sincere. (Decca-9402).

Strangely enough, "The Play of Daniel" is not too far removed from two of the most "revolutionary" and "modern" of contemporary pieces — Pierre Boulez's "Le Marteau sans Maitre" and Karlheinz Stockhausen's "Number Five Zeitmasse."

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Spray Ends Wiltproofing

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Southern nurseries are now beginning to use the wonderful new wilt-proofing spray that makes it possible to transplant all kinds of plants — even big trees — while their foliage is still on. Lots of people would like to do some planting of shrubbery and trees in September and October. The nurseries would like to do some of their work in these two months, too. It would take the pressure off the old planting season which had to begin after the leaves had fallen.

HOLDS MOISTURE

The new wilt - proofing spray simply prevents the loss of large amounts of moisture from the leaves of plants. When shrubs and trees are moved with this spray on them, you do not have to be a slave to them with the water hose. They do not have to be covered with a sun shade either. By the time the rains have washed off the wilt proofing, your shrubs have taken hold with their new root system.

You can use wilt-proofing spray on all sorts of small plants or on your own trees and shrubs. It is no more difficult to apply than any other kind of spray. Garden magazines are beginning to carry advertisements for this useful material, and the seed stores and other outlets can supply it.

One advantage of transplanting non - evergreen shrubs and trees before the leaves have fallen on everything lies in the fact that you can see exactly how the new shrubs or trees look growing in their new location. You know at once whether you will like them there. In fact, you can see what their surrounding plants look like even before you transplant new shrubs to the location. In winter, it is hard for people who are unaccustomed to landscaping and cannot see the new combination in their minds' eyes to really be sure of the picture they are creating. A visit to almost anyone's garden will, at some point, bring out the remark, "I moved that over there without really knowing how bad it would be!"

Perhaps not every single nursery in the south is using wilt-proofing yet. They will soon see its great advantages, however. If you request this service, you will be more than likely to get it.

ANOTHER BULB

The bulbous plant called Amarcrinum has been in your columnist's garden for years and years and in many southern gardens. It can surely be recommended as one of the best of this group of amaryllis - like flowers. For those who think crinums are too big, amarcrinum is just the thing. It is small. The foliage is rarely over twelve to eighteen inches long and grows in a neat compact bunch.

The flowers are like both of their parents: crinum and amaryllis. At any time from mid-summer on, you will get a large flower head of bright medium pink flowers, produced two at a time for about ten days. There is even a small amarcrinum called Delkin's Find — a real "find" discovered in a Japanese garden by Mr. Delkin! Look in your catalogues of spider - lilies and crinums for amarcrinum. Florida and California bulb nurseries usually carry it.

THE HOME SHIFT

Landscaping In City Planning

By MILDRED SWIFT

It seems that fall weather is hiding and the 94 degree temperature continues. When I'm writing this, we could use a rain in my part of the parish. Let me warn you again — don't let camellia and azalea roots dry out. You'll suffer bud drop later as a result.

PLANNING

Landscaping with emphasis on community development was presented as a feature at LSU Extension's Farm and Home Week. The panel discussed individual problems only as they related to the community.

Dr. Reich said we must learn to collaborate with others in our community if a city planning system is to be most effective. He asked this question, "What consideration have you given your neighbor in your own back yard?" The small units in a city, make up the whole. How does your unit look?

Mr. Wells said "Recreation as an industry ranks third in the United States. During 1957 one and one half million people visited our parks. Our state parks are the show windows of our state.

"It is actually impossible to arrive at a monetary value which the state park system provides in making available recreational opportunities to the citizens of the state. The state park system is a vital factor in preventing delinquency."

IMPRESSIONS

The panel members brought out these thoughts, what are a visitor's first impression of our town? Is the city limits cluttered with signs and billboards with a warning to tourists instead of a welcome? Is your welcome mat a sea of junk, unscreened, resting in all its rusted glory? Or — is it neat, tidy and pleasing? Do our homes look as if their owners are proud of them? Do we have parks and playgrounds? Have we thoughtless people left these public grounds littered with cups, papers and bottles?

If all of these questions have the wrong answers, the panel said we need to ask ourselves the question, "What can I do about it?"

Mrs. Guidry, a panel member, and specialist with LSU Extension, said, "Order will grow in the city, town and countryside when each family unit is considered a part of the whole. Every spot of ugliness in a community was brought about through carelessness of one of its citizens. Was it you?"

GARDEN JOBS

If you like coleus for the house, cut some stems very soon. The frost kills this plant. Place the pieces in a bowl or vase of water. Change this water once a week to keep it fresh. During the winter the stems take root and next spring you have the rooted plants to set out in your garden.

Did you ever notice coleus flowers? They are blue or lilac and quite inconspicuous. You'd never grow this plant for the flowers. Once your plant blooms, it seems to quit growing and dies. If you'll pinch out the blooms, the plant continues to thrive.

You can still plant Louisiana native Iris. Call our office for a bulletin. Snowdrops can be planted in partial shade. You can get single or double varieties. Madonna, Regale and Speciosum lilies should be planted in October, so if you're interested, put in your order for the bulbs

Except in the severest of winters, pansies will give a succession of blooms for several months, especially if they are kept watered and fertilized. You'll be able to buy pansy plants in October and November, so get your planting space ready.

Pansies even stand a freeze very well. Seldom are they killed by the temperature we have in North Louisiana. If they are damaged, they are not likely to be killed after the thaw. — they generally come back and before long start producing flowers again. We amateurs are not too successful with pansy seed. Best to buy the plants.

LONG LIFE

Dr. Joseph Still, outstanding authority on aging, has come up with some outstanding facts about aging. First he says the average life span has increased from 40 years in 1900 to more than 70 years today. This came about, he says as a result of better sanitation, antiseptics, vaccines antibiotics, and related measures.

The most amazing statement made by this learned doctor, is that we have a theory that the sands of time run out on us along about 70. It's time to leave this world, we believe, so we up and die. This idea that we're born with a fixed life span is nonsense, the doctor says.

TEEN-AGE PROBLEM

A source of much unhappiness for some teenage boys and girls is acne. This means chronic outbreaks of pimples and blackheads. Its most serious threat is a scarred, unsocial personality. Many young people with acne make a fairly good social adjustment. Others refuse to join in social activities.

The treatment recommended by specialists is to control the diet by cutting out excessive fats and sweets. Avoid oily cosmetics. Wash the face with soap and water three times daily, and apply to the face every night, one of the preparations recommended for the condition. If the skin does not clear in a reasonable time, the family doctor should be consulted.

On the avoid list for acne sufferers are candy, butter, cream, sundaes, chocolate, nuts, potato chips, French fries, pie and frosted cakes.

LEARN TO SEW

You can learn to sew or if you're already experienced you can pick up many new speed-up methods and short cuts. How? By tuning in to KLSE beginning September 17 and each Wednesday and Friday for 25 weeks. Each broadcast will be thirty minutes and the preceding program will be given each day, as a review. The time is 6:30 p.m.

Isn't that a wonderful arrangement? Just get comfortable in your own home and tune in to KLSE. If you miss one program you can pick it up the next week. Even if you can't see the entire series, any one of the broadcasts is a complete lesson. My! What a wonderful opportunity.

The demonstrations on film are given by Miss Lucille Reo with the Extension Service of Iowa State College.

Some of the lessons are: How To Measure For Your Dress; Pattern Types; Selection of Your Pattern and Fabrics; How To Prepare Fabrics For Sewing; How To Alter and Cut. The unit construction method is used and it's a time saver.

For more information call KLSE, FA 2-8200. You'll be glad if you do.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday and Tuesday, Jean Cloy and Glenda Willet from Jackson Parish will show you how to make a bench and coffee table; Wednesday, Mrs. Jardine with flower arrangements; Thursday and Friday, Marketing with Mildred. See you next Sunday.

EXTENSION NEWS AND VIEWS

Control Seen For White Fly

By AUDREY DAWSON

If you have violets in your landscape and you have not reset them, better get busy. Separate old clumps to single stems with roots — and remember it's time to fertilize violets, too. The white fly is giving the gardener a great deal of trouble — best control is malathion. Repeat spray in ten days if needed. Malathion will also control aphids, mealy bugs, scale and thrips.

WEED PULLING

Although it's almost fall, everyone who has a flower bed knows that the weeds and grass are still growing. It's hard to resist the temptation to stoop down, grab that big weed and give it a tug.

If the stubborn roots hold, the challenge increases, and you are likely to tug away until something gives. That's the origin of many a gardener's backache, because a muscle sometimes gives before the weed does. The best idea is to use a hoe or some other grubbing tool, but if you must pull, use the proper position.

Bend the knees and crouch down, feet apart, with the back straight and the shoulders over the hips. If the plant doesn't come out easily, get a tool to help you. When it comes to weeds, you may be sorry if you stoop to conquer.

FABRIC SOFTNESS

School days mean more laundering for homemakers. However, the task is no longer a burden if you keep up to date with the latest new laundering products. Frabric softeners are products which will help solve some of the modern new laundering problems.

Fabric softeners are lubricating agents which gives fabrics a soft feel and appearance. A fabric softener minimizes wrinkles and helps eliminate deep creases which make ironing more difficult. The softeners also have an anti - static effect in those fabrics which tend to ride up and "cling."

HOW TO USE

The softener is added in the final rinse. The amount of fabric softener to use is determined by the pounds of clothes and not on the number of gallons of water. Always follow the directions on the container for correct amount to use.

Never add softener to wash water because they are not compatible with detergents. If softeners were added before the detergent was rinsed out of the clothes, it could cause a scum to form.

PREPARATIONS

Beauty preparations may be fine for skin and hair, but they can be hard on clothes. Perfumes and colognes should never be applied to clothing. The alcohol content tends to blend some dyes and stains are formed.

Many liquid deodorants are quite acid and are likely to disintegrate the fabrics with which they come in direct contact. Cotton and linen are especially susceptible to acid deterioration. Many deodorants however, bear the certified washable seal, indicating the product is harmless to fabrics.

Some cold permanent wave solutions are a special problem. Such solutions may destroy dyes used in the fabric. The stains may go unnoticed until the garment comes back from cleaners with discolorations. Research has shown that such discolorations are usually caused by hidden chemicals in cold wave solutions.

Stains have a tendency to "set" and the longer they stay in fabrics, the harder they are to remove. Most ordinary stains should be rinsed at once with water.

LESSONS ON SEWING

Mrs. Homemaker, I know you will be interested in a new program on KSLE television station. It's a course in sewing and will begin Wednesday, September 17 at 6:30 p.m. — so mark this on your calendar. Mr. Gorden Canteburry, manager of the station, explained that each lesson will be repeated on Friday. The first lesson will be: How to Measure Your Pattern, September 17 and 19 Then on September 24 and 26, will be pattern types. October 1 and 3 will be selection of your pattern and fabrics.

A THOUGHT

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Home Garden Show Designs

By MARY M. JARDINE

The diversity of arrangements by members of the Home Gardeners Club of Monroe at the Garden Center this week illustrated the fact that flower arrangement is a many-faceted hobby.

Mrs. James Richardson and Mrs. Katie Henderson combined talents in creating a fall composition featuring fresh and dried materials. The container selected was a flat rectangular bowl of chartreuse pottery. A triangular line pattern was established with cat-tails and light brown dock. Autumn leaves in orange and red tones framed the center of interest at the base of the design, dark red apples. Nice fall colors for a family room.

TRIANGLE DESIGN

Mrs. J. A. Funston illustrated the use of one kind of flower in her symmetrical triangle design, using magenta celosia (cockscomb). The large heads of the celosia followed the rounded rim of the leaf green container, which was set on a black base.

The design started at the base with the round, full heads of cockscomb and graduated in size to tall slender tips of the same flower. Amaryllis foliage was placed in the background for depth and interest. Dark red coleus with the magenta markings was placed low, covering the rim of the container. This striking design would be suitable for a man's study or den.

Mrs. Henry Poulan selected a white classic urn for her cool, long lasting arrangement. A mass design, symmetrical in form was created with pampas plumes, accented with green juniper. Clusters of pale green and white artificial grapes extending over the rim of the container made a most effective center of interest. This cool and lovely design would be suitable for living room, buffet or hall.

EXTRA

Mrs. J. A. Funston designed our extra of the week. A delightful design, suitable for the kitchen, breakfast room or den. The "container" was a round, log base (treated with wax for permanency). Red tipped photinia foliage was used as a background for the bright zinnias shading from yellow into orange into red. Deep red and green coleus was placed at the base and picked up the colors of the ceramic rooster used in an accessory.

Demonstrations

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Spray Ends Wiltproofing

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Southern nurseries are now beginning to use the wonderful new wilt-proofing spray that makes it possible to transplant all kinds of plants — even big trees — while their foliage is still on. Lots of people would like to do some planting of shrubbery and trees in September and October. The nurseries would like to do some of their work in these two months, too. It would take the pressure off the old planting season which had to begin after the leaves had fallen.

HOLDS MOISTURE

The new wilt - proofing spray simply prevents the loss of large amounts of moisture from the leaves of plants. When shrubs and trees are moved with this spray on them, you do not have to be a slave to them with the water hose. They do not have to be covered with a sun shade either. By the time the rains have washed off the wilt proofing, your shrubs have taken hold with their new root system.

You can use wilt-proofing spray on all sorts of small plants or on your own trees and shrubs. It is no more difficult to apply than any other kind of spray. Garden magazines are beginning to carry advertisements for this useful material, and the seed stores and other outlets can supply it.

One advantage of transplanting non - evergreen shrubs and trees before the leaves have fallen on everything lies in the fact that you can see exactly how the new shrubs or trees look growing in their new location. You know at once whether you will like them there. In fact, you can see what their surrounding plants look like even before you transplant new shrubs to the location. In winter, it is hard for people who are unaccustomed to landscaping and cannot see the new combination in their minds' eyes to really be sure of the picture they are creating. A visit to almost anyone's garden will, at some point, bring out the remark, "I moved that over there without really knowing how bad it would be!"

Perhaps not every single nursery in the south is using wiltproofing yet. They will soon see its great advantages, however. If you request this service, you will be more than likely to get it.

ANOTHER BULB

The bulbous plant called Amarcrinum has been in your columnist's garden for years and years and in many southern gardens. It can surely be recommended as one of the best of this group of amaryllis - like flowers. For those who think crinums are too big, amarcrinum is just the thing. It is small. The foliage is rarely over twelve to eighteen inches long and grows in a neat compact bunch.

The flowers are like both of their parents: crinum and amaryllis. At any time from mid-summer on, you will get a large flower head of bright medium pink flowers, produced two at a time for about ten days. There is even a small amarcrinum called Delkin's Find — a real "find" discovered in a Japanese garden by Mr. Delkin! Look in your catalogues of spider - lilies and crinums for amarcrinum. Florida and California bulb nurseries usually carry it.

Girl Scout News

"Back to school, back to Scouting," is the thought right now. For some girls who took part in many of the summer activities is is hardly "back" to Scouting. However, there was little activity in August and mothers have told us that daughters missed having a scout activity for that month. With last week necessarily devoted to the opening of school, we hope that Scouting for aready organized troops will get underway this week.

We've heard the plans of a number of troops which will hold their first regular meetings this week. Troop 48, we hear, has already had two meetings to plan their year's program. This is a sixth-grade troop whose members always take part enthusiastically in the summer activities, as well as troop program. For example 12 members of the troop attended day camp, two of them both sessions, and many of them also participated in swimming, sewing, cooking, and pottery. The group became so interested in pottery as their Second Class arts and crafts project last winter that they made a gift of money at the end of the school year to be used for additional equipment, and at least five of them joined the pottery class in June. Mrs. M. A. Denoux and Mrs. Floyd Stone, Jr. are leaders of the troop. Congratulations are in order, incidentally, to the Stones on the new Boy Scout in their family.

The council bulletin which goes out monthly to all registered adults in Girl Scouting, contains a training schedule for fall. In an attempt to meet the needs of all, there are sessions scheduler for prospective leaders who have had no experience at all, for experienced leaders, for leaders of special age groups, and a workshop on pottery, which is expected to be as popular this winter as last. It is hoped that adults interested in Scouting will attend and will bring other adults with them. This training, as well as other services, is made possible by United Givers Fund, of which Girl Scouting is an agency.

Troops that need reorganizing will be somewhat later getting started, of course. There are already requests for new troops and we should have news of many in a few weeks. Requests for troops should come through the neighborhood chairman, where there is one. The office can channel requests to the people who can help get started. Call them.

Somehow in the list of those who received Red Cross swimming cards, the Junior Lifesaving class was omitted. We certainly want to commend these girls for continuing their training until they reacher this point. Not only will they be able to take care of themselves better, but will be able to help others. Congratulations to Arden Anders, Frances Byrd, Gayle Dunn, Diana Jordan, Barbara Jackson, Jill Marx, Becky Middleton, Nancy Talbot, Mickie Vardado and Mittie Wade. We hope they continue their training, so that in a few years they can help teach Girl Scout swimming.

South, 1 club; West, pass; North, 1 diamond; East pass.
South, 2 no trump; West, pass; North, 3 no trump; East, pass.
South, pass; West, pass.
Opening lead: Spade 6.

It is not very often that two suits should be developed simultaneously, but in today's hand such action was essential to success.

In reaching the final contract, both players went to the limit of their resources. A jump rebid to two no trump by the opening bidder is a strong invitation but not a force. It describes a well balanced hand with a value of 19 points. It must not be confused with a jump to two no trump by partner of the opening bidder, which is forcing to game.

As for the acceptance of the invitation by North, note that a response at the level of one normally designates a hand containing six points. North had seven, in addition to a five card suit, so no quarrel should be picked with him on that score.

West led the spade 6, and South won with the king. The outlook was anything but bright. Declarer, hoping that the diamond ace would fall on the first or second round, led the jack and then the 10. Nothing happened. Then he woke up to the necessity for operating on the club suit and led the A-Q. This enabled him to take eight tricks for down one.

Declarer had not planned well. Even if the diamond ace were to appear early, that suit would not provide enough tricks and declarer would still have to fall back on the club finesse.

A play that permits declarer to work on diamonds and clubs simultaneously is available. The diamond jack should be overtaken with the queen in dummy. This will hold. The club finesse should be taken and won. The diamond 10 is then overtaken with the king, and another club finesse taken. Now that the club suit has broken, the declarer has succeeded in taking nine tricks. Note that if the diamond ace were doubleton, it would fall on the second round and declarer would run that suit also. Two chances are better than one.

Rickover Rocked Boat; Fathered Nuclear Sub

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you were searching for a single phrase to summarize the latter - day career of Hyman George Rickover, it could be this: he rocked the boat.

Rocking it, the 125-pound, gray-haired, slightly built rear admiral - acclaimed as the father of the atomic-powered submarine - has had the Navy chagrined and embarrassed. Even, some people say, ready to make him walk the plank.

Many who know Rickover trace his troubles to his dogged determination to get a job done—no matter what. They say he doesn't care whose toes he steps on in his drive for nuclear-propelled ships for the fleet.

He has defied protocol, blasted at conformity, pushed projects through over the heads of superior officers. Over the years, he has become a man apart in the tradition-bound Navy, a lone seawolf hard to know and, by many accounts, hard to work with.

Rickover's parents were Russian Jews, and there have been whispers that anti-Semitism has been a factor in his troubles with authority. But Seen. Jacob Javits R-NY, himself Jewish, says no — it's more of a Billy Mitchell case than a Dreyfus case."

As for the 58-year-old Rickover himself, "forget the personal stuff," he advised a reporter.

"The real issue is what a man accomplishes."

He wanted no part in explaining why, despite Rickover's accomplishments, it took congressional action and the intervention of two civilian secretaries of the Navy to get him from forced retirement.

"I can't get involved," he said.

"It can hurt my work terrifically. I'm too busy to get involved."

When the world's first atom sub, the Nautilus, cruised under the polar icecap in a pioneering voyagé recently, the White House marked the event with pomp and ceremony. Rickover wasn't among the Navy brass invited, and an outcry followed.

The snub-deliberate or, as the White House said, unintended - quickly turned into Rickover's favor. "I'm too busy to worry about snubs," Rickover said. But others weren't.

OTHERS

His wife Ruth, obviously in a moment of pent-up anger gave a newspaper interview in which she said the Navy's top brass was determined "to hurt my husband for his independence and free soirit." She herself had not been invited to christen any of the atomic subs her husband helped build, she disclosed.

Rickover kept silent. But the incident brought his case to the fore and Congress voted him a special gold medal for his achievements in developing not only the nuclear sub but also the first large-scale nuclear power reactor at Shippingport, Pa.

He received an official apology from Secretary of the Navy Gates, plus assurance that he would be promoted to vice admiral and stay in the service. Previously thére had been reports that promotion was unlikely and he might be forced to retire in 1960. Mrs. Rickover will christen a forthcoming A-súb, and President Eisenhower named the admiral his personal representative at the Nautilus' homecoming ceremonies late last month.

Throughout his 40-year career in the Navy - where he trained as an electrical engineer, served on subs and surface vessels and won two Legion of Merit citations - Rickover has been frequently and audibly critical.

From his days at Annapolis 1918-1922 he adopted a solitary role. Neither he nor his wife joined much of the Navy's stratified social life. Today they live quietly in a Washington apartment. Mrs. Rickover has a Ph. D in international law from Columbia. The admiral's sole hobby is reading.

He chides the younger generation for failing to do likewise. Young men, says he, are becoming "nest builders and bird hatchers" — spending most of their time puttering around the house and doing little to improve themselves professionally."

ADMIRAL

The admiral lives by a rigorous code. "He won't even keep the pay he gets for a speech or a book he is writing," Mrs. Rickover said. "He turns it over to charity everything on government time."

Sen. Jackson D-Wash says of him: "He is a dissenter, a non-conformist in uniform. The man is a scientist and a genius. You would search hard and long to find a good scientist who is not a bit difficult. I was attracted to him 10 years ago because he was like a breath of fresh air."

Some of Rickover's project workers, who have been with him for years, say Rick they call him admiral to his face is not a scientific genius but rather an outstanding engineer with mature technical judgment. But they credit him with a sixth sense for anticipating trouble before it gets started.

They aren't surprised at the admiral's failure to get along with Navy brass. Many people make friendly compromises and adjustments in working with others. Not Rickover.

Says Adm. Mumma: "Rickover is a pretty tough guy to work with . . . He works like a dog himself tut he's not a happy pleasant individual. People feel rebuffed by someone exceptionally tough and Rickover makes a fetish of that."

Rickover has given his own interpretation of his problems in testimony before senate committees.

If a military man wants to push a new idea, he once observed, the first thing he must decide is that "he is going to get his head chopped off ultimately."

He said he was given a free hand to build the Nautilus because "there were so many people who were certain the project would fail and they didn't want to be associated with it.

Rickover doesn't smoke and rarely takes a drink stronger than skimmed milk.

THE SUB WAR

Comparison Of Soviet U.S. Submarine Fleets

By BERNARD GAVZER

The United States has lagged behind Russia in flinging massive satellites into space but it is first in another direction: beneath the sea. The success of the Nautilus, Seawolf and Skate — first operational atomic-powered submarines in the world — outdistances the Russians by perhaps three years.

But in numbers of conventional submarines, the Soviets have a lop-sided advantage. Numbers vary, but all sources agree the Russians have at least 475 submarines, most fitted with snorkels enabling them to cruise for long periods without surfacing. The United States sub strength, including the three atomic powered boats already in the fleet, is set at 110 by the Defense Department.

Top Navy officials admit Russian submarines have been operating close to both our Atlantic and Pacific shores. Intelligence sources estimate the Soviet fleet has about 250 modern submarines capable of sailing to any point on earth.

MAJOR RED TYPES

The three major classes forming the present attack force of the Russian fleet are: W Class—A sea-going patrol type with a sailing radius of 13,000 to 16,000 miles. It has potent offensive power.

Z Class — A large sea-going type with a very long range. This is a streamlined, modern version of the pre-World War II K Class. It is being produced at a rate of 18 to 20 to year.

Q Class — Post World War II boats, these have better streamlining than either the W or Z classes but are smaller in size (over-all length of 180 feet compared to 245 for W Class and 310 for Z Class) and have a shorter range.

The Soviets also have a vast flotilla of more than 150 M Class coastal submarines.

The Russian sub production rate, since 1950, has been estimated at six times that of the United States. However, some sources report building conventional submarines has slowed down because of a Russian crash program for cargo ships and efforts to produce atomic powered and guided missiles, but no number has been hazarded.

ATOM PUT TO WORK

Although the United States still is building some conventionally powered subs, the effort now is to capitalize on its nuclear-powered lead. Besides the three A-subs, it has in commission, the U. S. Navy has five others in the water, 14 in various stages of construction, and 11 more authorized.

The Nautilus, Seawolf and Skate are classified as attack types. The Triton, which slid down the ways last month, is the largest submarine ever launched and intended for radar picket duty. The Skipjack, also in the water, is the first of a radical new design providing unprecedented maneuverability (it is literally "flown" in the water with airplane-type controls).

Among the 25 A-subs under construction or authorized are nine which will be equipped to fire the 1,500-mile ballistic missile Polaris from beneath the sea, and four capable of launching the 1,000 Regulus II guided missile.

MISSILE EQUIPPED

The Navy has limited submarine-launched missile capability now. The Barbero and Tunny, conventionally powered with snorkel breathing devices, have both fired the sub-sonic 500-mile Regulus I. The Grayback and the Growler, also with conventional power plants were modified in final stages of construction to carry the Regulus II.

The remainder of the 100-odd U. S. operating fleet is made up largely of Gato and Balao Class boats, about half of which have been equipped with snorkels.

The Russians claim they are building subs in order to protect their long coastline. But Western navy officials say the reason is simply to build up a force which can cut Allied supply lines in time of war.

Some measure of the hazard can be understood when this fact is considered: Nazi Germany nearly severed transatlantic shipping lines early in World War II with a U-boat fleet which never rose higher than 166 operational vessels. The Russians have about three times than many right now.

Is 9-Month School Year Going To Be Outmoded?

By K. G. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

Is the nine-month school year as outmoded as the old nickelodeon and the horsehair sofa?

A growing number of Americans think so.

Teachers say they need more time to teach the facts and fancies of today's complex world. Space - age education, they say, can't be taught on a horse-and-buggy schedule.

The American Assn., of School Administrators says "there is now more to teach and learn than can be accomplished . . . in the present time allotment."

The idea of having American children spend more time in the classroom is not a new one. It has been kicked around for a number of years. But, like just about everything else in education it really became an issue last fall when Russia startled the world with Sputnik I.

In Russia, where the schools operate six days a week, 10 months a year, Soviet students spend an average of from 210 to 230 days in the classroom. The traditional U. S. school year of five days a week, nine months a year, allows an average of from 175 to 180 classroom days.

The American system, widely adopted at the turn of the century, was designed largely for a rural society. Long summer vacations meant the kids would be home on the farm during most of the busy planting, growing and harvesting seasons.

The changing American scene has long since done away with the need for such an educational pattern. But it's tradional, and therein lies most of its staying power.

Three plans have been advanced to revise the school year: Saturday classes, 10-month school year; and the controversial four - quarter plan. All of them have their advocates, but they have their enemies, too.

And all of them would cost money, meaning higher taxes at the local level.

When Gov. George M. Leader hinted last year that Saturday classes might be tried out in Pennsylvania, you could hear the outraged wails of anger in Timbuktu.

A valid objection was made on religious grounds. Thousands of Seventh Day Adventists and Jews observe Saturday as the Sabbath.

Apparently it's going to take more of a crisis than education has yet faced to bring about a six-day school week in this country.

The four - quarter plan is a tricky one. It looks good, if you don't look too hard.

That's a system whereby the school plant is kept open the year 'round, with each student attending three of the four quarters.

Its backers say that under the four - quarter plan, 60 classrooms can do the work of 80, a big capital investment isn't allowed to stand idle for three months, and jobs are easier to find when only one fourth of the stulent body is on vacation at a time.

But every school that has tried the four - quarter plan has dropped it. Many others have looked into it, and shied away.

First, it doesn't really lengthen the school year. In most cases, the average number of classroom days drops.

A second, the idea is full of hidden expenses such as air conditioning schools for hot summer months and the need in some cases of paying premium rates for maintenance to be done at night or weekends.

If anything is going to be done, it will probably be along the lines of a 10-month school year. There are arguments against that idea, too, but they aren't as numerous nor as strong.

Calvin Grieder, a professor of school administration at the University of Colorado, has come up with a plan for a 10-month, 200 - day school year, with each school day stretched out a bit. He figures the increased cost should't run more than about 10 per cent per year. Most of that would be in salary adjustments to the teachers.

Historic Stage Run Began Century Ago

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A hundred years ago Sept. 16 a driver cracked his whip and a glistening stage coach creaked and swayed out of Tipton, Mo., on the longest leg in the nation's first regularly scheduled coast-to-coast postal service.

In addition to the mail, the stage carried two passengers, a newspaperman and John Butterfield, who reportedly had invested almost one million dollars in the Overland Mail stage line designed to connect the westward-pushing railroad with California.

Although the stage made his name commonplace in the West, Butterfield apparently was no lover of frontier life. He ended his inaugural ride at Ft. Smith, Ark., said to be his deepest personal penetration of the American West.

The other passenger was Walterman L. Ormsby, a New York Herald writer assigned to report the historic venture. His chronicles, which form an important part of the Butterfield line's history, were relayed back to the home office by eastbound coaches he met en route to San Francisco.

A 100th anniversary rerun of that first journey will have considerably more customers, although again none will be of the paying variety. The American Assn. for State and Local History has organized a motorcade which will trace the route of the Overland Mail starting from Tipton Sept. 16.

Covering roughly only a stage's mileage each day, the caravan will stop for dozens of local celebrations and highway marker dedications. It will pull into San Francisco Oct. 10, the day the Post Office Department puts on sale a stamp commemorating the Butterfield mail service.

The Overland Mail was born in the clamor on both coasts for mail communication after the westward rush that followed discovery of gold in California.

Mail dribbled through under postal contract, but its arrival was never certain. There was spasmodic service through the Salt Lake area and by an irregular, once-monthly run on the Birch line from San Antonio to San Diego, sometimes called the "Jackass Mail."

That nickname stemmed from stipulation in the line's posters that the entire route was in comfortable—horse drawn carriages except-in fine print—for 100 miles of mule-back travel west of Ft. Yuma, Ariz. The passengers slept in the open, cooked their own food.

SOUTHERN ROUTE CHOSEN

Congress decided an overland route should connect with the new railway pushing west from the Mississippi. The Post Office discarded northern and central routes because of weather, mountains and Indians and chose the southerly route. Butterfield, a Utica, N. Y., stage line operator, won the contract with an outfit he called the Overland Mail Co. It soon became popularly known as the Butterfield Overland Mail.

Under Post Office specifications, the route from Ft. Tipton to San Francisco had to be run twice-weekly and each trip had to be completed inside of 25 days.

Traveling day and night, the first westbound stage covered the 2,800-mile distance in 23 days and about 23 hours. It and succeeding runs were sustained by 140 relay stations manned by a staff of 1,000. The Butterfield company owned 1,800 horses and mules, hundreds of sets of harness, and 250 coaches and special mail, freight and water wagons.

President Buchanan hailed the onset of service as a "glorious triumph for civilization," one that would bind the nation's east and west in "a chain of living Americans than can never be broken."

But the grand chain lasted less than three years. The approach of the Civil War, withdrawal of the Army from much of the area and the threat of Indian trouble made it too unprofitable and dangerous. Congress authorized movement of the service to a central route in 1861.

Seven governors have been asked to proclaim "Overland Mail Days" for the dates the 100th anniversary caravan is in their states. The general chairman of the caravan program is Dr. H. Bailey Carroll of the University of Texas. National coördinator is Vernon H. Brown of Tulsa.

At overnight stops at 24 "corrals" coaches and wagons carried in the caravan will be paraded at local observances. "Corrals" on the caravan schedule include Warsaw and Springfield, Mo.; Fayetteville and Ft. Smith, Ark.; Durant, Okla.; Sherman, Anson, Sweetwater and Ft. Stockton, Tex.; Carlsbad, N. M.; El Paso, Tex.; Lordsburg, N. M.; Tucson, Gila Bend and Yuma, Ariz.; and Los Angeles, Bakersfield, and Portersville, Calif.

Coachella Valley Now Is Paradise

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A few decades ago, the sandy Coachella Valley was a virtually waterless wasteland simmering in summer temperatures up to 120 degrees and supporting only rodents, reptiles and 76 hardy Indians.

Now it is an incredible oasis of plush propserity led by the famed desert resort of Palm Springs, where well - heeled thousands spend vacations and weekends — even in defiance of the summer sun.

Here is a triumph of air conditioning — in homes, autos hotels, restaurants — water from deep wells and the powerful, stark appeal of the timeless desert.

Once the visitor makes peace with the sun and learns to ignore the sand-laden winds up to 60 miles an hour, the setting is irresistible. The desert nights are cool, and velvety soft.

Palm Springs, the unofficial capital, lies at the head of the 50-mile-long, 15-mile-wide valley, which stretches southeast along a chain of resort and agricultural communities to the shore of the Salton Sea. The big body of water is below sea level.

On weekends — winter and summer — thousands of sun lovers flock to Palm Springs, where tap beer costs 50 cents a glass and the number of swimming pools, about 1,600, probably is the highest per capita anywhere in the world.

Property only a few blocks from mesquite - studded wilderness sells for $2,000 a front foot and demand is high. So high, in fact, that it threatens cramped Palm Springs' standing as the center of desert migration.

Although the influx of Hollywood people in 1920s put the tiny spa on the map, it now ranks well-to-do sun seekers from every section of the country and parts of Canada.

Hollywood is still represented, with more than 50 stars owning homes. Dozens also have business interests like Alan Ladd's hardware store, Claudette Colbert's gift shop and Desi Arnaz's hotel.

Challenging the future of Palm Springs is the fantastic growth of other resorts to the south.

Even swankier than Palm Springs is Palm Desert, 12 miles southeast. That's where President Eisenhower once vacationed and where Bing Crosby has a new home. Just north of Palm Springs, the community of Desert Hot Springs is growing fastest of all — a tenfold population increase since the war.

Things Happen As Girl Reporter Spends 5 Weeks In Big Harem

Editor's Note—Ever wonder about life in a harem? Here's your chance to find out what it's like. Just go with this young American girl explorer on her most exciting adventure behind palace walls into the closely guarded inner sanctum where wives and concubines live.

By JANE DOLINGER

It had to be. The lord and master came back.

But in Ahmad al Yaman's absence from his walled palace high in the Moroccan hills, I had become a confidante of his three wives, fought off the "evil eye" of a suspicious concubine and learned what harem life holds for a woman.

It was worth all the perils. How many other American girls can say they've lived in the impenetrable fortress of a Moslem's most jealously guarded possession, his harem?

Of course, not every other American girl would want to say it.

But discovering for myself the exciting world of adventure, experiencing its thrills and perils - that has been my life since the day four years ago that I decided being a secretary was too hum-drum for a high - spirited, inquisitive girl.

Since then I've lived with head-hunters in the South American jungles and shared their toasted worms and boiled snakes. I've dug for rare emeralds in a Colombian mine. I've explored the enchanted Galapagos Islands.

The dangers I faced on those adventures, however, did nothing to prepare me for the difficulties I encountered in trying to gain access to a harem.

But persistence won. I had made up my mind I would know what it was like—this way of life so alien to my upbringing in Kennett Square, Pa. And when a woman makes up her mind . . . .

It took me nearly a week to make a connection that would eventually lead to a first - hand visit in a polygamous household.

The groundwork was laid here in Tangier—a fabulous city of minarets, hashish, veiled women and male belly dancers—in a scene filled with intrigue.

I had selected Morocco because some Moslem countries were in a state of political unrest and others had abandoned the harem way of living.

Even in Morocco the harem seemed to have gone underground. Pressure from a minority group of modern Moslems, intent upon adopting Western ways, had given the wealthy harem establishments the unpopular label of feudalism.

The harem I had designs on belonged to a wealthy landowner of about 45 years of age whom I shall call Ahmad al Yaman. In it were three wives and twelve concubines whom I shall also call by fictitious names. Retribution would be swift and sure if my escapade and the women's identities ever were brought to the attention of the all-powerful husband.

One of the wives was the key to the realization of my hopes. I shall call her Aziza, a common Arabic name.

Aziza paid secret visits to Tangier for a rendezvous with her paramour, a dancer at the Club Rif. An Arab newspaperman knew of these meetings, and took me to the notorious dance spot in the Casbah, deep in the old quarter of the city.

The newsman and I were sitting cross - legged on the floor of the club, which was jammed with shadowy-robed characters. The air was redolent with the acrid odor of their hashish pipes.

It was Aziza. But our talk with her had to wait. Hafid, the 16-year-old dancer, was about to perform, and it was for him that Aziza risked the dangers of leaving the harem.

The dance was fantastic. Clad in bright-red silk pantaloons, and wearing a richly embroidered robe and jeweled belt, Hafid gyrated and undulated while his stomach muscles rippled rhythmically. His bare feet beat out a staccato reverberation on the tiled floor, nearly drowning out the efforts of the four pantalooned musicians.

After the dance, my Arab friend slipped away to talk to Aziza. When he came back, he whispered to me under cover of the music "Aziza has agreed to smuggle you into the harem. Ahmad al Yaman is vacationing in Cannes and won't be back for several weeks."

I had expected to find the harem a fortress in which Ahmad held his wives and concubines captive against their will. And it was true that three fierce police dogs guarded the beautiful Moorish palace surrounded by high bougainvillea-covered stone walls. The white dome, slender fluted turrets and massive nail-studded doors of the palace looked like something out of "Arabian Nights."

But inside there was laughter, music and girlish gaiety.

Aziza greeted me in perfect Spanish and halting English. I was struck by her dark beauty. She had dark flashing eyes, sensuous red lips and black shiny hair that fell around her shoulders.

How would she introduce me? I asked.

"It is not unusual for a wife or a concubine to invite relatives and friends to visit her, providing" — and she laughed —"they're women. I shall say you are a friend of my mother's. She's European, you see, and it would explain a girl with blue eyes and brown hair coming into the harem."

Then she took me into the garden, where young unveiled women were sitting around a marble fountain, one of them strumming a three - stringed gumbri.

I was immediately surrounded, the girls chattering rapidly in Arabic, their eyes dancing with excitement. No two looked alike. Some had the classical features of Grecian goddesses, while others had coarse peasant features. Only one seemed hostile—a sultry, 14-year-old mountain Rif girl named Thorya. And I was soon to find out the cause of her enmity.

Ahmad's three wives were very different in looks and dispositions. Raria, his first wife, was 27, Egyptian, and the only member of the household who could read and write. She had four children, and shared a quarter in the palace with Houria, the third wife, and her two children.

Houria was typically Moroccan, a beautiful black-haired girl with a cafe au lait complexion, and somber dark brown eyes. The daughter of a poor farmer, she could neither read nor write, but possessed great feeling for the land — and in particular, the palace's spacious garden where she spent countless hours weeding.

Aziza was of all the harem women the only one who did not adhere to her strict Moslem marriage vows of fidelity. She was from Tangier, and at 21, was frustrated, jealous and completely unhappy.

She had fallen in love at 14 with Gerard, a handsome Frenchman employed in a government office in Tangier. She wanted desperately to marry him but he had a wife and was a Christian. Aziza offered to become his mistress, but Gerard could not afford one.

After this experience, she decided to seek only men who could afford her pleasures. Because she was young and beautiful, she soon found herself the toast of the wealthy international set. During a gay party at one of the embassies she med Ahmad. He was handsome, she said, but more important, wealthy and generous.

After having tasted the bitter fruits of illicit love, Aziza could not remain faithful. She was infatuated with the 16-year-old dancer, and risked the harsh penalties of Islamic law to meet him.

Her romance could have had disastrous consequences, for adulterous wives can be severely beaten, the dowries they receive from their master at the time of marriage can be forfeited, and they may be cast out penniless.

Twelve concubines lived in the palace, most of them simple farm girls who were happy to have the security and ease offered them through harem life. Omaya, however, was an exception. She was a fiery 30-year-old who had left her home to become a prostitute, and lived for five years on an oasis in the Sahara. But in spite of her sordid past, once she entered the harem she remained faithful to Ahmad.

Rickover Rocked Boat; Fathered Nuclear Sub

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you were searching for a single phrase to summarize the latter - day career of Hyman George Rickover, it could be this: he rocked the boat.

Rocking it, the 125-pound, gray-haired, slightly built rear admiral - acclaimed as the father of the atomic-powered submarine - has had the Navy chagrined and embarrassed. Even, some people say, ready to make him walk the plank.

Many who know Rickover trace his troubles to his dogged determination to get a job done—no matter what. They say he doesn't care whose toes he steps on in his drive for nuclear-propelled ships for the fleet.

And all of them would cost money, meaning higher taxes at the local level.

When Gov. George M. Leader hinted last year that Saturday classes might be tried out in Pennsylvania, you could hear the outraged wails of anger in Timbuktu.

A valid objection was made on religious grounds. Thousands of Seventh Day Adventists and Jews observe Saturday as the Sabbath.

Apparently it's going to take more of a crisis than education has yet faced to bring about a six-day school week in this country.

That's a system whereby the school plant is kept open the year 'round, with each student attending three of the four quarters.

Its backers say that under the four - quarter plan, 60 classrooms can do the work of 80, a big capital investment isn't allowed to stand idle for three months, and jobs are easier to find when only one fourth of the student body is on vacation at a time.

But every school that has tried the four - quarter plan has dropped it. Many others have looked into it, and shied away.

First, it doesn't really lengthen the school year. In most cases, the average number of classroom days drops.

A second, the idea is full of hidden expenses such as air conditioning schools for hot summer months and the need in some cases of paying premium rates for maintenance to be done at night or weekends.

If anything is going to be done, it will probably be along the lines of a 10-month school year. There are arguments against that idea, too, but they aren't as numerous nor as strong.

Calvin Grieder, a professor of school administration at the University of Colorado, has come up with a plan for a 10-month, 200 - day school year, with each school day stretched out a bit. He figures the increased cost should't run more than about 10 per cent per year. Most of that would be in salary adjustments to the teachers.

Historic Stage Run Began Century Ago

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A hundred years ago Sept. 16 a driver cracked his whip and a glistening stage coach creaked and swayed out of Tipton, Mo., on the longest leg in the nation's first regularly scheduled coast-to-coast postal service.

In addition to the mail, the stage carried two passengers, a newspaperman and John Butterfield, who reportedly had invested almost one million dollars in the Overland Mail stage line designed to connect the westward-pushing railroad with California.

Although the stage made his name commonplace in the West, Butterfield apparently was no lover of frontier life. He ended his inaugural ride at Ft. Smith, Ark., said to be his deepest personal penetration of the American West.

The other passenger was Walterman L. Ormsby, a New York Herald writer assigned to report the historic venture. His chronicles, which form an important part of the Butterfield line's history, were relayed back to the home office by eastbound coaches he met en route to San Francisco.

A 100th anniversary rerun of that first journey will have considerably more customers, although again none will be of the paying variety. The American Assn. for State and Local History has organized a motorcade which will trace the route of the Overland Mail starting from Tipton Sept. 16.

Covering roughly only a stage's mileage each day, the caravan will stop for dozens of local celebrations and highway marker dedications. It will pull into San Francisco Oct. 10, the day the Post Office Department puts on sale a stamp commemorating the Butterfield mail service.

The Overland Mail was born in the clamor on both coasts for mail communication after the westward rush that followed discovery of gold in California.

Mail dribbled through under postal contract, but its arrival was never certain. There was spasmodic service through the Salt Lake area and by an irregular, once-monthly run on the Birch line from San Antonio to San Diego, sometimes called the "Jackass Mail."

That nickname stemmed from stipulation in the line's posters that the entire route was in comfortable—horse drawn carriages except-in fine print—for 100 miles of mule-back travel west of Ft. Yuma, Ariz. The passengers slept in the open, cooked their own food.

SOUTHERN ROUTE CHOSEN

Congress decided an overland route should connect with the new railway pushing west from the Mississippi. The Post Office discarded northern and central routes because of weather, mountains and Indians and chose the southerly route. Butterfield, a Utica, N. Y., stage line operator, won the contract with an outfit he called the Overland Mail Co. It soon became popularly known as the Butterfield Overland Mail.

Under Post Office specifications, the route from Ft. Tipton to San Francisco had to be run twice-weekly and each trip had to be completed inside of 25 days.

Traveling day and night, the first westbound stage covered the 2,800-mile distance in 23 days and about 23 hours. It and succeeding runs were sustained by 140 relay stations manned by a staff of 1,000. The Butterfield company owned 1,800 horses and mules, hundreds of sets of harness, and 250 coaches and special mail, freight and water wagons.

President Buchanan hailed the onset of service as a "glorious triumph for civilization," one that would bind the nation's east and west in "a chain of living Americans than can never be broken."

But the grand chain lasted less than three years. The approach of the Civil War, withdrawal of the Army from much of the area and the threat of Indian trouble made it too unprofitable and dangerous. Congress authorized movement of the service to a central route in 1861.

Seven governors have been asked to proclaim "Overland Mail Days" for the dates the 100th anniversary caravan is in their states. The general chairman of the caravan program is Dr. H. Bailey Carroll of the University of Texas. National coordinator is Vernon H. Brown of Tulsa.

At overnight stops at 24 "corrals" coaches and wagons carried in the caravan will be paraded at local observances. "Corrals" on the caravan schedule include Warsaw and Springfield, Mo.; Fayetteville and Ft. Smith, Ark.; Durant, Okla.; Sherman, Anson, Sweetwater and Ft. Stockton, Tex.; Carlsbad, N. M.; El Paso, Tex.; Lordsburg, N. M.; Tucson, Gila Bend and Yuma, Ariz.; and Los Angeles, Bakersfield, and Portersville, Calif.

"Sin costs this country 14 billion dollars a year," declares an evangelist. Nearly everything costs more than it's worth these days.

Coachella Valley Now Is Paradise

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A few decades ago, the sandy Coachella Valley was a virtually waterless wasteland simmering in summer temperatures up to 120 degrees and supporting only rodents, reptiles and 76 hardy Indians.

Now it is an incredible oasis of plush propserity led by the famed desert resort of Palm Springs, where well - heeled thousands spend vacations and weekends — even in defiance of the summer sun.

Here is a triumph of air conditioning — in homes, autos hotels, restaurants — water from deep wells and the powerful, stark appeal of the timeless desert.

Once the visitor makes peace with the sun and learns to ignore the sand-laden winds up to 60 miles an hour, the setting is irresistible. The desert nights are cool, and velvety soft.

Palm Springs, the unofficial capital, lies at the head of the 50-mile-long, 15-mile-wide valley, which stretches southeast along a chain of resort and agricultural communities to the shore of the Salton Sea. The big body of water is below sea level.

On weekends — winter and summer — thousands of sun lovers flock to Palm Springs, where tap beer costs 50 cents a glass and the number of swimming pools, about 1,600, probably is the highest per capita anywhere in the world.

Property only a few blocks from mesquite - studded wilderness sells for $2,000 a front foot and demand is high. So high, in fact, that it threatens cramped Palm Springs' standing as the center of desert migration.

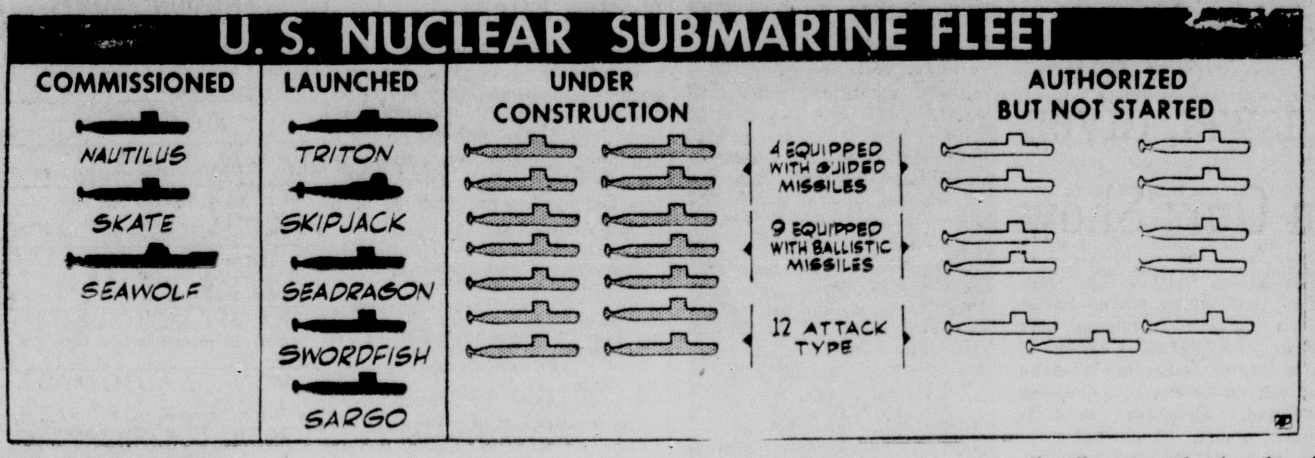
Although the influx of Hollywood people in 1920s put the tiny spa on the map, it now ranks well-to-do sun seekers from every section of the country and parts of Canada.

Hollywood is still represented, with more than 50 stars owning homes. Dozens also have business interests like Alan Ladd's hardware store, Claudette Colbert's gift shop and Desi Arnaz's hotel.

Challenging the future of Palm Springs is the fantastic growth of other resorts to the south.

Even swankier than Palm Springs is Palm Desert, 12 miles southeast. That's where President Eisenhower once vacationed and where Bing Crosby has a new home. Just north of Palm Springs, the community of Desert Hot Springs is growing fastest of all — a tenfold population increase since the war.



THE SUB WAR

Comparison Of Soviet U.S. Submarine Fleets

By BERNARD GAVZER

The United States has lagged behind Russia in flinging massive satellites into space but it is first in another direction: beneath the sea. The success of the Nautilus, Seawolf and Skate — first operational atomic-powered submarines in the world — outdistances the Russians by perhaps three years.

But in numbers of conventional submarines, the Soviets have a lop-sided advantage. Numbers vary, but all sources agree the Russians have at least 475 submarines, most fitted with snorkels enabling them to cruise for long periods without surfacing. The United States sub strength, including the three atomic powered boats already in the fleet, is set at 110 by the Defense Department.

Top Navy officials admit Russian submarines have been operating close to both our Atlantic and Pacific shores. Intelligence sources estimate the Soviet fleet has about 250 modern submarines capable of sailing to any point on earth.

MAJOR RED TYPES

The three major classes forming the present attack force of the Russian fleet are: W Class—A sea-going patrol type with a sailing radius of 13,000 to 16,000 miles. It has potent offensive power.

Z Class — A large sea-going type with a very long range. This is a streamlined, modern version of the pre-World War II K Class. It is being produced at a rate of 18 to 20 to year.

Q Class — Post World War II boats, these have better streamlining than either the W or Z classes but are smaller in size (over-all length of 180 feet compared to 245 for W Class and 310 for Z Class) and have a shorter range.

The Soviets also have a vast flotilla of more than 150 M Class coastal submarines.

The Russian sub production rate, since 1950, has been estimated at six times that of the United States. However, some sources report building conventional submarines has slowed down because of a Russian crash program for cargo ships and efforts to produce atomic powered and guided missiles, but no number has been hazarded.

ATOM PUT TO WORK

Although the United States still is building some conventionally powered subs, the effort now is to capitalize on its nuclear-powered lead. Besides the three A-subs, it has in commission, the U. S. Navy has five others in the water, 14 in various stages of construction, and 11 more authorized.

The Nautilus, Seawolf and Skate are classified as attack types. The Triton, which slid down the ways last month, is the largest submarine ever launched and intended for radar picket duty. The Skipjack, also in the water, is the first of a radical new design providing unprecedented maneuverability (it is literally "flown" in the water with airplane-type controls).

Among the 25 A-subs under construction or authorized are nine which will be equipped to fire the 1,500-mile ballistic missile Polaris from beneath the sea, and four capable of launching the 1,000 Regulus II guided missile.

MISSILE EQUIPPED

The Navy has limited submarine-launched missile capability now. The Barbero and Tunny, conventionally powered with snorkel breathing devices, have both fired the sub-sonic 500-mile Regulus I. The Grayback and the Growler, also with conventional power plants were modified in final stages of construction to carry the Regulus II.

The remainder of the 100-odd U. S. operating fleet is made up largely of Gato and Balao Class boats, about half of which have been equipped with snorkels.

The Russians claim they are building subs in order to protect their long coastline. But Western navy officials say the reason is simply to build up a force which can cut Allied supply lines in time of war.

Some measure of the hazard can be understood when this fact is considered: Nazi Germany nearly severed transatlantic shipping lines early in World War II with a U-boat fleet which never rose higher than 166 operational vessels. The Russians have about three times than many right now.

Things Happen As Girl Reporter Spends 5 Weeks In Big Harem

Editor's Note—Ever wonder about life in a harem? Here's your chance to find out what it's like. Just go with this young American girl explorer on her most exciting adventure behind palace walls into the closely guarded inner sanctum where wives and concubines live.

By JANE DOLINGER

It had to be. The lord and master came back.

But in Ahmad al Yaman's absence from his walled palace high in the Moroccan hills, I had become a confidante of his three wives, fought off the "evil eye" of a suspicious concubine and learned what harem life holds for a woman.

It was worth all the perils. How many other American girls can say they've lived in the impenetrable fortress of a Moslem's most jealously guarded possession, his harem?

Of course, not every other American girl would want to say it.

But discovering for myself the exciting world of adventure, experiencing its thrills and perils - that has been my life since the day four years ago that I decided being a secretary was too hum-drum for a high - spirited, inquisitive girl.

Since then I've lived with head-hunters in the South American jungles and shared their toasted worms and boiled snakes. I've dug for rare emeralds in a Colombian mine. I've explored the enchanted Galapagos Islands.

The dangers I faced on those adventures, however, did nothing to prepare me for the difficulties I encountered in trying to gain access to a harem.

But persistence won. I had made up my mind I would know what it was like—this way of life so alien to my upbringing in Kennett Square, Pa. And when a woman makes up her mind . . . .

It took me nearly a week to make a connection that would eventually lead to a first - hand visit in a polygamous household.

The groundwork was laid here in Tangier—a fabulous city of minarets, hashish, veiled women and male belly dancers—in a scene filled with intrigue.

I had selected Morocco because some Moslem countries were in a state of political unrest and others had abandoned the harem way of living.

Even in Morocco the harem seemed to have gone underground. Pressure from a minority group of modern Moslems, intent upon adopting Western ways, had given the wealthy harem establishments the unpopular label of feudalism.

The harem I had designs on belonged to a wealthy landowner of about 45 years of age whom I shall call Ahmad al Yaman. In it were three wives and twelve concubines whom I shall also call by fictitious names.Retribution would be swift and sure if my escapade and the women's identities ever were brought to the attention of the all-powerful husband.

One of the wives was the key to the realization of my hopes. I shall call her Aziza, a common Arabic name.

Aziza paid secret visits to Tangier for a rendezvous with her paramour, a dancer at the Club Rif. An Arab newspaperman knew of these meetings, and took me to the notorious dance spot in the Casbah, deep in the old quarter of the city.

The newsman and I were sitting cross - legged on the floor of the club, which was jammed with shadowy-robed characters. The air was redolent with the acrid odor of their hashish pipes.

Just then, a veiled woman slipped in, wearing a blue jellaba, the flowing ankel-length hooded robe which women wear exclusively for street attire.

It was Aziza. But our talk with her had to wait. Hafid, the 16-year-old dancer, was about to perform, and it was for him that Aziza risked the dangers of leaving the harem.

The dance was fantastic. Clad in bright-red silk pantaloons, and wearing a richly embroidered robe and jeweled belt, Hafid gyrated and undulated while his stomach muscles rippled rhythmically. His bare feet beat out a staccato reverberation on the tiled floor, nearly drowning out the efforts of the four pantalooned musicians.

After the dance, my Arab friend slipped away to talk to Aziza. When he came back, he whispered to me under cover of the music "Aziza has agreed to smuggle you into the harem. Ahmad al Yaman is vacationing in Cannes and won't be back for several weeks."

I had expected to find the harem a fortress in which Ahmad held his wives and concubines captive against their will. And it was true that three fierce police dogs guarded the beautiful Moorish palace surrounded by high bougainvillea-covered stone walls. The white dome, slender fluted turrets and massive nail-studded doors of the palace looked like something out of "Arabian Nights."

But inside there was laughter, music and girlish gaiety.

Aziza greeted me in perfect Spanish and halting English. I was struck by her dark beauty. She had dark flashing eyes, sensuous red lips and black shiny hair that fell around her shoulders.

How would she introduce me? I asked.

"It is not unusual for a wife or a concubine to invite relatives and friends to visit her, providing" — and she laughed —"they're women. I shall say you are a friend of my mother's. She's European, you see, and it would explain a girl with blue eyes and brown hair coming into the harem."

Then she took me into the garden, where young unveiled women were sitting around a marble fountain, one of them strumming a three - stringed gumbri.

I was immediately surrounded, the girls chattering rapidly in Arabic, their eyes dancing with excitement. No two looked alike. Some had the classical features of Grecian goddesses, while others had coarse peasant features. Only one seemed hostile—a sultry, 14-year-old mountain Rif girl named Thorya. And I was soon to find out the cause of her enmity.

Ahmad's three wives were very different in looks and dispositions. Raria, his first wife, was 27, Egyptian, and the only member of the household who could read and write. She had four children, and shared a quarter in the palace with Houria, the third wife, and her two children.

Houria was typically Moroccan, a beautiful black-haired girl with a cafe au lait complexion, and somber dark brown eyes. The daughter of a poor farmer, she could neither read nor write, but possessed great feeling for the land — and in particular, the palace's spacious garden where she spent countless hours weeding.

Aziza was of all the harem women the only one who did not adhere to her strict Moslem marriage vows of fidelity. She was from Tangier, and at 21, was frustrated, jealous and completely unhappy.

She had fallen in love at 14 with Gerard, a handsome Frenchman employed in a government office in Tangier. She wanted desperately to marry him but he had a wife and was a Christian. Aziza offered to become his mistress, but Gerard could not afford one.

After this experience, she decided to seek only men who could afford her pleasures. Because she was young and beautiful, she soon found herself the toast of the wealthy international set. During a gay party at one of the embassies she med Ahmad. He was handsome, she said, but more important, wealthy and generous.

After having tasted the bitter fruits of illicit love, Aziza could not remain faithful. She was infatuated with the 16-year-old dancer, and risked the harsh penalties of Islamic law to meet him.

Her romance could have had disastrous consequences, for adulterous wives can be severely beaten, the dowries they receive from their master at the time of marriage can be forfeited, and they may be cast out penniless.

Twelve concubines lived in the palace, most of them simple farm girls who were happy to have the security and ease offered them through harem life. Omaya, however, was an exception. She was a fiery 30-year-old who had left her home to become a prostitute, and lived for five years on an oasis in the Sahara. But in spite of her sordid past, once she entered the harem she remained faithful to Ahmad.

Pastor Says Answer Given On Quiz Show

NEW YORK (AP) — The spotlight of controversy played Saturday on another television quiz show — "The $64,000 Challenge" — as a former contestant said he was given an answer to a question beforehand. Program officials promptly denied his contention.

The Rev. Charles E. (Stoney) Jackson said in Nashville, Tenn., that he was given the answer by a "Miss Bernstein" in a preshow briefing.

The answer enabled him to win, he said, but added that he was not told the question would be asked on the air.

Shirley Bernstein, associate producer of the program, said at her home here that she never assisted Jackson.

"I've never fed him or anyone else an answer on 'The $64,000 Challenge' or on any other show," she said.

The question was asked Dec. 29, 1957, on the CBS - TV program when Jackson defeated Miss Dell Goostree, 67, of Clarksville, Tenn., to win $4,000. He previously had won $16,000 on a sister show, "The $64,000 Question."

Jackson said he saw "no collusion of any kind" in the operation of "The $64,000 Question."

Two other Tennessee participants on quiz programs, former Mayor George Dempster of Knoxville and Floyd L. Yoemans of Wartrace, said they were given no answers and saw no evidence of rigging.

Dempster won $32,000 on "The $64,000 Question" and Yoemans $16,000 on "The $64,000 Challenge."

Jackson's contention brought "The $64,000 Challenge" into the scope of the investigation of quiz programs being conducted by the Manhattan district attorney's office.

Airman Jailed

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — A New Orleans Navy airman was held in the Houston jail today after he allegedly led a Texas highway patrolman on a 95-mile chase and then shot him in the arm. Airman Charles Knotts, 18, was booked with assault to murder despite his statement to officers that the shooting was accidental. The chase began after Knights drove away from a service station without paying the attendant, officers said.

SHE DENIES GIVING ANSWER—Shirley Bernstein, associate producer of "The $64,000 Challenge" TV quiz show, denied in New York Saturday she ever assisted a contestant on the show. (AP Wirephoto)

Early Morning Blaze Destroys Area Residence

The Monroe Fire Department extinguished a pre-dawn blaze yesterday morning that destroyed the home of Taylor Holmes, about five miles out on Highway 15.

Fire truck No. 102 answered the call at 4:48 a.m. and rushed to the residence, but firemen said the house was almost completely burned before they arrived. The cause of the blaze which razed the two-story dwelling house has not been determined.

Firemen said an investigation is in progress.

Balloons May Test Wind Velocities

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Before he knew California-launched research balloons would land in Russia, an Air Force physicist said the balloons might provide information on high-velocity wind streams in the upper atmosphere — possibly important in rocket aiming.

Sam Solot explained this at a press conference here three months ago. Solot, atmospheric physicist for the Air Force Cambridge Research Center at Bedford, Mass., directed the start of test balloon launchings from nearby Vernolis Field las May.

The Soviet government three days ago officially protested the balloons' passage over Russia. The U.S. government, in reply, asked that any of the weather research balloons recovered by Russia be delivered to the American Embassy in Moscow.

FOOD BILL

Pastor Says Answer Given On Quiz Show

NEW YORK (AP) — The spotlight of controversy played Saturday on another television quiz show — "The $64,000 Challenge" —as a former contestant said he was given an answer to a question beforehand. Program officials promptly denied his contention.

The Rev. Charles E. (Stoney) Jackson said in Nashville, Tenn., that he was given the answer by a "Miss Bernstein" in a preshow briefing.

The answer enabled him to win, he said, but added that he was not told the question would be asked on the air.

Shirley Bernstein, associate producer of the program, said at her home here that she never assisted Jackson.

"I've never fed him or anyone else an answer on 'The $64,000 Challenge" or on any other show," she said.

The question was asked Dec. 29, 1957, on the CBS - TV program, when Jackson defeated Miss Dell Goostree, 67, of Clarksville, Tenn., to win $4,000. He previously had won $16,000 on a sister show, "The $64,000 Question."

Jackson said he saw "no collusion of any kind" in the operation of "The $64,000 Question."

Two other Tennessee participants on quiz programs, former Mayor George Dempster of Knoxvi'' and Floyd L. Yoemans of Wartrace, said they were given no answers and saw no evidence of rigging.

Dempster won $32,000 on "The $64,000 Question" and Yoemans $16,000 on "The $64,000 Challenge."

Jackson's contention brought "The $64,000 Challenge" into the scope of the investigotion of quiz programs being conducted by the Manhattan district attorney's office.

JOHN JOSEPH FURLOW

RAYVILLE (Special) — John Joseph Furlow died in a Monroe hospital yesterday afternoon. He was 73, and a resident of Rayville.

Services probably will be held at the Mulhearn Funeral Chapel here Sunday afternoon with the Rev. W. D. Boddie officiating. Burial will be in Bunkie Cemetery, Bunkie, La.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. John Furlow; two daughters, Mrs. W. R. Bowles, Rayville; Mrs. D. W. Mitchell, Chicago, Ill.; one sister, Mrs. Albert Covillion, Jena; six granddaughters and one grandson.

Services will be held at 1 p.m. today at Mulhearn Funeral Home in Rayville.

Pallbearers will be H. R. Newton Jr., Alvin Lane Jr., John Morris Jr., Veron Waite, A. Lee Booth, Vesha Simms, Jamar Adcock, M. B. Gwin, David Burke Jr., Charles Heine Jr., W. R. Coenen and T. J. Coenen.

MRS. L. J. THOMAS

WINNFIELD (Special) — Final rites for Mrs. L. J. Thomas, 64, of Winnfield, will be conducted today at 3 p.m. at the Winnfield Presbyterian Church.

Officiating will be the Rev. R. W. Gage and the Rev. W. L. Holcomb. Burial will be in the Garden of Memories Cemetery in Winnfield by Southern Funeral Home of Winnfileld.

Mrs. Thomas died yesterday morning in a Winnfield hospital after a long illness.

She is survived by her husband Larkin Thomas, Winnfileld; a son, James L. Thomas, Winnfield, three daughters, Mrs. Hazel Barr, Hico; Mrs. Lois Pollan, Tyler, Tex., and Mrs. Flois Perkins, Alaska; a brother, Marvin Holmes, Birmingham, Ala.; a sister, Mrs. Pearl Finney, Birmingham, and 11 grandchildren.

MRS. SALLIE TOLER

Mrs. Sallie Toler, 86, a life-long resident of this area, died yesterday in a local nursing home after an extended illness.

Funeral services will be held today at 2:30 p. m. at the Hall Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Lea Joiner officiating.

Interment will follow in the Riverview Burial Park under the direction of Hall's Funeral Home.

The only known survivors are a granddaughter, Mrs. Jimmie Hatfield of Cannon, Miss., and a cousin, Claude Adams Jr., in the U. S. Army.

Pallbearers will be William Causey, Ezell McGough, Charlie Clay, Florent Hammonds, Bid Causey, Adam Causey and John Brown.

Airman Jailed

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) —A New Orleans Navy airman was held in the Houston jail today after he allegedly led a Texas highway patrolman on a 95-mile chase and then shot him in the arm. Airman Charles Knotts, 18, was booked with assault to murder despite his statement to officers that the shooting was accidental. The chase began after Knights drove away from a service station without paying the attendant, officers said.

SHE DENIES GIVING ANSWER—Shirley Bernstein, associate producer of "The $64,000 Challenge" TV quiz show, denied in New York Saturday she ever assisted a contestant on the show. (AP Wirephoto)

Early Morning Blaze Destroys Area Residence

The Monroe Fire Department extinguished a pre-dawn blaze yesterday morning that destroyed the home of Taylor Holmes, about five miles out on Highway 15.

Fire truck No. 102 answered the call at 4:48 a.m. and rushed to the residence, but, firemen said, the house was almost completely burned before they arrived. The cause of the blaze which razed the two-story dwelling house has not been determined.

Firemen said an investigation is in progress.

Balloons May Test Wind Velocities

MODESTO, Calif. (AP)—Before he knew California-launched research balloons would land in Russia, an Air Force physicist said the balloons might provide information on high-velocity wind streams in the upper atmosphere — possibly important in rocket aiming.

Sam Solot explained this at a press conference here three months ago. Solot, atmospheric physicist for the Air Force Cambridge Research Center at Bedford, Mass., directed the start of test balloon launchings from nearby Vernolis Field last May.

The Soviet government three days ago officially protested the balloons' passage over Russia. The U.S. government, in reply asked that any of the weather research balloons recovered by Russia be delivered to the American Embassy in Moscow.

FOOD BILL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower signed a bill Saturday requiring advance testing of the safety of food additives. Additives include chemicals or other substances used in producing, processing, packaging or transporting food.

ROSEWOOD

ARE YOU THE ONE who called . . . and said you wanted S-P-A-C-E? Here it is—all 1881 sq. feet of it . . . and it's centrally air conditioned and heated . . . brick construction . . . with 3 bedrooms, 2 ceramic tile baths with shower over tubs (one with built-in dressing table) . . . plus vinyl tile floors, drapes throughout, natural finish cabinets with Formica tops, built-in snack bar, 2 porches, double carport and storage . . . just 2 years old and on a 111½-125 ft. lot. Just a few seconds to call — that's all it takes, and we're ready to show!

WEST MONROE
MALLARD ST.

"MILADY" WILL BE DELIGHTED with the mahogany paneled kitchen and separate family room of this brand spankin' new brick home. And there's a Westinghouse built-in electric range and oven, many cabinets (with Formica tops and splashboards), stainless steel vent over range. Many hours will be spent in the family room with its glass wall (recessed fluorescent lights above) and double sliding glass doors opening to patio. Other noteworthy features are 3 bedrooms with excellent closet space (master bedroom has huge walk-in closet), ceramic tile bath has shower over tub with double sliding glass doors, built-in dressing table . . . and there's a ceramic tile ½ bath off master bedroom, and storage—all this well situated on a 100x150 ft. lot. We'll be glad to show at the "drop of a hat."

NORTH 8TH

SWISS ST.

WE KNOW YOU! You're the kind of buyer who loves good value! We think you'll agree we have it in this newly decorated home on its 90 ft. lot. The closet space (many—all with double sliding doors and storage above) will delight the "Mrs." . . . and there's (2) 12x14 bedrooms, oak strip floors, floor furnace, attic fan, Venetian blinds, washed plumbing, wired for dryer, carport and storage. Cyclone fenced back yard and just 2 short blocks to school. And the price? A low $8500 (FHA financing available). Don't tarry on this one!

SPLANE DRIVE

OOPS! THE OWNER'S JUST DROPPED the price on this 2 bedroom home, just 5 blocks from Highland School. We thought it reasonable at the original price, but at $7550, it's dadgum good value. The lot (50x250) is completely shaded by ever so many large shade trees and has spring blooming shrubs and flowers all over! Inside features include: false fireplace (logs included), blinds throughout, invalid linoleum, shower over tub, corner China cabinet in dining area, attic fan, and attached garage. Will sell furniture, if desired. Call now—we'll show.

NORTH 9TH

IT ALL BEGINS with a newly painted pleasant green 2 bedroom home nestled in an appealing setting of St. Augustine, shrubbery, and a cyclone fenced back yard, well shaded with willow and pine trees. It continues with the newly decorated interior with its 14x24 family room, wall-to-wall carpeting in living room, master bedroom, and hall . . . all drapes and blinds . . . Vent-a-hood . . . excellent closet space . . . double garage and 2 storage rooms . . . lot 100x150. Priced at a reasonable $13,500 with only $450 down plus closing. Don't wait on this one!

JERSEY ST.

BETTER THAN NEW! How so? Well, it's only a year old and has all the finishing touches an owner can give. There's 1372 sq. ft. of well-arranged living area in this 3 bedroom buff brick containing . . . 14x20 living room, separate dining room, kitchen and dining area with natural finish cabinets and vent-a-hood, ceramic tile bath (with shower over tub) and ½ ceramic tile bath—both have built-in medicine cabinets with sliding mirror doors. And "to boot" there's . . . draw drapes in living room, Venetian blinds, large closets, central heat, 42 in. attic fan, carport, and 9x11 storage. On a 100x200 ft. lot in a most desirable neighborhood only 3 blocks from Highland School. Oh, yes, the street's just been blacktopped (paid for by owner). It's with a long-look, just call!

NORTH 9TH

THE "WEEK-END PAINTER" and "do-it-yourselfer" can do wonders with this home! a touch here and there will make for very comfortable living. There's 2 bedrooms and 8x12 utility (with closet) that could easily be used for nursery or bedroom, fireplace, Rotpoint dishwasher, Formica cabinet tops, vent-a-hood, 2 floor furnaces (thermostatically controlled), 42 in. attic, double garage, 2 large oak trees and fenced back yard. $350 down plus closing and move in immediately—it's vacant!

STIX ST.

IF THE OWNERS WOULD HAVE THEIR "DRUTHERS" . . . they would "druther" not see this home, but they're transferring and must leave immediately. So another "charmer" is on the market! The spacious (217 sq. ft.) home is ideal for the entire family. There's 3 bedrooms (with many large closets plus hall closet), separate dining room with corner China Cabinet and 220 wiring for dryer, vent over stove, breakfast bar . . . not to mention the 4 air conditioners (3¼ tons), floor furnace, 42 in. attic fan (automatic shutters), Venetian blinds, oak floors, double carport, 7x16 storage . . . and don't worry about the "younguns"—it's on a quiet street with little traffic and the yard is huge (120x121), well shaded, has fenced back yard, and is near Highland School. How much to move yon in? Just $400 plus closing. No waiting—immediate possession!

HILTON ST.

"COUNTRY LIVIN'" your preference? Well, here's a brand new suburban brick home that provides the quiet atmosphere of the country with all city conveniences. We know you'd rather see it for yourself, but here is a "birds-eye" view: pine paneled kitchen with pass-through to pine paneled dining area, natural finish cabinets, Formica tops and splashboards, vent . . . large airy living room with entry closet . . . 3 bedrooms . . . ceramic tile bath with built-in dressing table and shower over tub—also ½ ceramic tile bath with built-in dressing table . . . more large closets and storage than you could imagine . . . and central heating (thermostatically controlled), 42 in. attic fan, vinyl tile floors, 220 wiring. All this very well arranged in 1346 sq. ft. on 90x147 ft. lot. Just call and we're on our way to show!

SHADY OAKS DRIVE

HAVE YOU LOOKED ALL OVER town for a brick home for less than $12,000? Well, look no more—here 'tis for only $10,500! This 4-year-old beauty has all the following features: kitchen and dining area has natural finish cabinets with Formica tops, vent-a-hood, 2 bedrooms, ceramic tile bath, drapes in living room, attic fan, wall heaters, carport and storage. Set on a large tree-studded lot . . . and there's no city taxes. Want to see for yourself?

It's just ½ block to the busline and has oak floors, blinds, and well-arranged kitchen with vent-a-hood . . . and you can have almost immediate possession. Call and we'll see today.

ROSEWOOD

ARE YOU THE ONE who called . . . and said you wanted S-P-A-C-E? Here it is—all 1881 sq. feet of it . . . and it's centrally air conditioned and heated . . . brick construction . . . with 3 bedrooms, 2 ceramic tile baths with shower over tubs (one with built-in dressing table) . . . plus vinyl tile floors, drapes throughout, natural finish cabinets with Formica tops, built-in snack bar, 2 porches, double carport and storage . . . just 2 years old and on a 111½-125 ft. lot. Just a few seconds to call — that's all it takes, and we're ready to show!

WEST MONROE MALLARD ST.

"MILADY" WILL BE DELIGHTED with the mahogany paneled kitchen and separate family room of this brand spankin' new brick home. And there's a Westinghouse built-in electric range and oven, many cabinets (with Formica tops and splashboards), stainless steel vent over range. Many hours will be spent in the family room with its glass wall (recessed fluorescent lights above) and double sliding glass doors opening to patio. Other noteworthy features are 3 bedrooms with excellent closet space (master bedroom has huge walk-in closet), ceramic tile bath has shower over tub with double sliding glass doors, built-in dressing table . . . and there's a ceramic tile ½ bath off master bedroom, and storage—all this well situated on a 100x150 ft. lot. We'll be glad to show at the "drop of a hat."

NORTH 8TH

SWISS ST.

WE KNOW YOU! You're the kind a buyer who loves good value! We think you'll agree we have it in this newly decorated home on its 90 ft. lot. The closet space (many—all with double sliding doors and storage above) will delight the "Mrs." . . . and there's (2) 12x14 bedrooms, oak strip floors, floor furnace, attic fan, Venetian blinds, washed plumbing, wired for dryer, carport and storage. Cyclone fenced back yard and just 2 short blocks to school. And the price? A low $8500 (FHA financing available). Don't tarry on this one!

SPLANE DRIVE

OOPS! THE OWNER'S JUST DROPPED the price on this 2 bedroom home, just 5 blocks from Highland School. We thought it reasonable at the original price, but at $7550, it's dadgum good value. The lot (50x250) is completely shaded by ever so many large shade trees and has spring blooming shrubs and flowers all over! Inside features include: false fireplace (logs included), blinds throughout, invalid linoleum, shower over tub, corner China cabinet in dining area, attic fan, and attached garage. Will sell furniture, if desired. Call now—we'll show.

NORTH 9TH

IT ALL BEGINS with a newly painted pleasant green 2 bedroom home nestled in an appealing setting of St. Augustine, shrubbery, and a cyclone fenced back yard, well shaded with willow and pine trees. It continues with the newly decorated interior with its 14x24 family room, wall-to-wall carpeting in living room, master bedroom, and hall . . . all drapes and blinds . . . Vent-a-hood . . . excellent closet space . . . double garage and 2 storage rooms . . . lot 100x150. Priced at a reasonable $13,500 with only $450 down plus closing. Don't wait on this one!

JERSEY ST.

BETTER THAN NEW! How so? Well, it's only a year old and has all the finishing touches an owner can give. There's 1372 sq. ft. of well-arranged living area in this 3 bedroom buff brick containing . . . 14x20 living room, separate dining room, kitchen and dining area with natural finish cabinets and vent-a-hood, ceramic tile bath (with shower over tub) and ½ ceramic tile bath—both have built-in medicine cabinets with sliding mirror doors. And "to boot" there's . . . draw drapes in living room, Venetian blinds, large closets, central heat, 42 in. attic fan, carport, and 9x11 storage. On a 100x200 ft. lot in a most desirable neighborhood only 3 blocks from Highland School. Oh, yes, the street's just been blacktopped (paid for by owner). It's with a long-look, just call!

NORTH 9TH

THE "WEEK-END PAINTER" and "do-it-yourselfer" can do wonders with this home! a touch here and there will make for very comfortable living. There's 2 bedrooms and 8x12 utility (with closet) that could easily be used for nursery or bedroom, fireplace, Hotpoint dishwasher, Formica cabinet tops, vent-a-hood, 2 floor furnaces (thermostatically controlled), 42 in. attic, double garage, 2 large oak trees and fenced back yard. $350 down plus closing and move in immediately—it's vacant!

STIX ST.

IF THE OWNERS WOULD HAVE THEIR "DRUTHERS" . . . they would "druther" not see this home, but they're transferring and must leave immediately. So another "charmer" is on the market! The spacious (217 sq. ft.) home is ideal for the entire family. There's 3 bedrooms (with many large closets plus hall closet), separate dining room with corner China Cabinet and 220 wiring for dryer, vent over stove, breakfast bar . . . not to mention the 4 air conditioners (3¼ tons), floor furnace, 42 in. attic fan (automatic shutters), Venetian blinds, oak floors, double carport, 7x16 storage . . . and don't worry about the "younguns"—it's on a quiet street with little traffic and the yard is huge (120x121), well shaded, has fenced back yard, and is near Highland School. How much to move you in? Just $400 plus closing. No waiting—immediate possession!

HILTON ST.

"COUNTRY LIVIN'" your preference? Well, here's a brand new suburban brick home that provides the quiet atmosphere of the country with all city conveniences. We know you'd rather see it for yourself, but here is a "birds-eye" view: pine paneled kitchen with pass-through to pine paneled dining area, natural finish cabinets, Formica tops and splashboards, vent . . . large airy living room with entry closet . . . 3 bedrooms . . . ceramic tile bath with built-in dressing table and shower over tub—also ½ ceramic tile bath with built-in dressing table . . . more large closets and storage than you could imagine . . . and central heating (thermostatically controlled), 42 in. attic fan, vinyl tile floors, 220 wiring. All this very well arranged in 1346 sq. ft. on 90x147 ft. lot. Just call and we're on our way to show!

SHADY OAKS DRIVE

HAVE YOU LOOKED ALL OVER town for a brick home for less than $12,000? Well, look no more—here 'tis for only $10,500! This 4-year-old beauty has all the following features: kitchen and dining area has natural finish cabinets with Formica tops, vent-a-hood, 2 bedrooms, ceramic tile bath, drapes in living room, attic fan, wall heaters, carport and storage. Set on a large tree-studded lot . . . and there's no city taxes. Want to see for yourself?

by CHIC YOUNG
THE PICTURE ON MY TELEVISION IS FUZZY
WELL, LET'S TAKE A LOOK
IT'S YOUR AERIAL·· IT NEEDS CLEANING AND ADJUSTING
I COULD NEVER DO THAT··I'M NOT HANDY THAT WAY
I'LL FIX IT FOR FOR YOU, EDDIE, OLD BOY··IT'LL JUST TAKE A FEW MINUTES
I ADMIRE YOU HUSBANDS WHO CAN DO ALL THESE THINGS
LOOK WHAT YOU'RE DOING TO MY WASH!
DON'T WORRY, I'LL BE CAREFUL
AND NOW LOOK··· HE'S RUINING MY BEAUTIFUL PETUNIA BED·· BOO-HOO
BUT, DEAR, HE'S DOING ALL THIS FOR NOTHING·· HE'S NOT CHARGING A CENT
GO AWAY, CAT·· CAN'T YOU SEE I'M BUSY?
BUT, PET, YOU'RE TAKING THE WRONG ATTITUDE·· DAGWOOD IS ACTUALLY RISKING HIS LIFE FOR US
I DON'T CARE
R·R·R·
LOOK OUT·· GO AWAY, CAT
OOF
THERE GOES MY CAKE!
NOW WE'LL SEE HOW THE TELEVISION WORKS

I DOUBT THAT YOU'LL BELIEVE ME, BUT I'M PRETTY SURE I WAS TALKING TO DICK TRACY LAST NIGHT.
KOEMS
IT WAS ABOUT 2 O'CLOCK. HE SAID HE WAS OKAY—BUT DIDN'T KNOW WHERE HE WAS.
KOEMS
THERE WAS A LOT OF STATIC—AND THEN ALL OF A SUDDEN —IT FADED.
WHEN ARE YOU GOING TO TRY AGAIN, BOB?
TONIGHT AT TWO A. M.
WE'LL BE HERE.
MEANWHILE
ALL I CAN SAY, WHITEHALL, IS THAT WHEN THIS ATOM-POWERED 2-WAY RADIO CAN'T GET THROUGH THE STATIC, WE'RE REALLY ISOLATED.
ALL THE MORE REASON, OLD BOY, TO CONTINUE WITH OUR PROJECT, EH?
YES, IF THIS SPRING, WHICH ULTIMATELY DISAPPEARS IN THE ROCK CREVICES, CAN BE DEFLECTED INTO AN S.O.S. DESIGN, THERE'S ALWAYS A CHANCE A STRAY PLANE MAY SPOT IT.
WHEN I STARTED THIS WEEKS AGO, I LITTLE REALIZED HOW IT COULD SAP THE STRENGTH. BUT MAYBE WITH TWO OF US DIGGING—
FIRST OF ALL, WHITEHALL, WE NEED BIGGER TOOLS. THIS GOAT RIB IS NOT MUCH GOOD, WHAT WITH THE HARD, GRAVELLY SOIL.
A COUPLE OF BIG STICKS—MAYBE SAPLINGS—COULD BE SHAPED INTO TOOLS.
THERE'S A DEAD ONE AT THE TOP OF THAT ROCK PILE.
H'M! MAYBE IT LOOKS DEAD—BUT IT'S PLENTY TOUGH.
YES, IT SEEMS NOTHING QUITE DIES IN THIS HOLE.

THE PICTURE ON MY TELEVISION IS FUZZY
WELL, LETS TAKE A LOOK
IT'S YOUR AERIAL-- IT NEEDS CLEANING AND ADJUSTING
I COULD NEVER DO THAT--I'M NOT HANDY THAT WAY
I'LL FIX IT FOR FOR YOU, EDDIE, OLD BOY--IT'LL JUST TAKE A FEW MINUTES
I ADMIRE YOU HUSBANDS WHO CAN DO ALL THESE THINGS
LOOK WHAT YOU'RE DOING TO MY WASH!

PSSST! KAYO, BEFORE YOU LEAVE FOR SCHOOL, WILL YOU KINDLY BRING ME THE LADDER, PLEASE ?
THANKS!..MAMIE DIDN'T MIND ME WHEN I TOLD HER TO LEAVE THE DOOR TO MY ROOM UNLOCKED THIS MORNING.
HO-HUM!
WELL, I THINK I'LL USE YOUR PAD FOR A NAP, UNCLE WILLIE. THAT LECTURE MAMIE GAVE YOU WHEN YOU GOT HOME LATE LAST NIGHT MADE ME MISS A LOT OF SLEEP.
NONE OF THAT, KAYO. YOU RUN ON TO SCHOOL LIKE A GOOD LITTLE BOY.
BLESS HIS HEART. HE'S SNORING SO GENTLY... WELL, WILLIE NEEDS HIS SLEEP, AND IT'LL GIVE ME A CHANCE TO SLIP OUT TO TH' GROCERY.

BOO-HOO! THE SQUATLEYS ARE GONE, AND I HAVEN'T GOT ANYBODY TO PLAY WITH ANY MORE.
BUT, ANGEL, HONEY, YOU'RE STARTING SCHOOL TODAY. YOU'LL HAVE DOZENS OF PLAYMATES THERE.
I DON'T WANTA GO TO SCHOOL! I WANTA PLAY WITH THE SQUATLEY KIDS.
ALL OF US WANT TO GO TO SCHOOL, ANGEL. JUST THINK, YOU'LL LEARN TO READ AND WRITE.
CAN I READ THE FUNNY PAPERS ALL BY MYSELF AFTER I GO TO SCHOOL?
SURE! YOU'LL BE ABLE TO READ ANYTHING!
YOU WANT TO LOOK YOUR BEST THE FIRST DAY AT SCHOOL, ANGEL. I'M LETTING YOU WEAR YOUR NICEST DRESS.
A LITTLE CHERUB THAT'S WHAT SHE IS.
LATER
MY STARS, ANGEL! JUST LOOK AT YOU! AND YOUR BEST DRESS! WHAT HAPPENED TO YOU AT SCHOOL?
WHERE'S THE FUNNY PAPER?
SCHOOL'S A GYP! I STILL CAN'T READ A THING!
BUT, ANGEL, HONEY, YOU HAVE TO BE PATIENT.
YOU SAID I'D BE ABLE TO READ THE FUNNY PAPERS.

BOO-HOO! THE SQUATLEYS ARE GONE, AND I HAVEN'T GOT ANYBODY TO PLAY WITH ANY MORE.
BUT, ANGEL, HONEY, YOU'RE STARTING SCHOOL TODAY. YOU'LL HAVE DOZENS OF PLAYMATES THERE.
I DON'T WANTA GO TO SCHOOL! I WANTA PLAY WITH THE SQUATLEY KIDS.
ALL OF US WANT TO GO TO SCHOOL, ANGEL. JUST THINK, YOU'LL LEARN TO READ AND WRITE.
CAN I READ THE FUNNY PAPERS ALL BY MYSELF AFTER I GO TO SCHOOL?
SURE! YOU'LL BE ABLE TO READ ANYTHING!
YOU WANT TO LOOK YOUR BEST THE FIRST DAY AT SCHOOL, ANGEL. I'M LETTING YOU WEAR YOUR NICEST DRESS.
A LITTLE CHERUB, THAT'S WHAT SHE IS.
LATER
MY STARS, ANGEL! JUST LOOK AT YOU! AND YOUR BEST DRESS! WHAT HAPPENED TO YOU AT SCHOOL?
WHERE'S THE FUNNY PAPER?
SCHOOL'S A GYP! I STILL CAN'T READ A THING!
BUT, ANGEL, HONEY, YOU HAVE TO BE PATIENT.
YOU SAID I'D BE ABLE TO READ THE FUNNY PAPERS.
9-7
BUT NOT AFTER JUST ONE DAY. SURELY, THOUGH, YOU LEARNED SOMETHING AT SCHOOL.

Little Orphan Annie
"And all talk died, as in the grove all song beneath the shadow of some bird of prey." -Tennyson-
THERE GOES THAT CRAZY REPORTER GUY WHO ROOMS NEXT DOOR…
BILLY BILINE? 'SCUSE ME, BEANIE… I GOTTA SEE HIM 'BOUT SOMETHIN'…
"BEAUTY— WHAT IS IT? A PERFUME WITHOUT NAME: A SUDDEN HUSH WHERE CLAMOR WAS BEFORE: ACROSS THE DARKNESS A FAINT GHOST OF FLAME."
OH, FEATHER-STICKS!
LOOK, BILLY… I GOT SOMETHIN' TO TELL YOU… ON TH' QUIET…
GOOD! LET US FLY AWAY TOGETHER TO THE MOON… OR ANYWAY TO PETE'S SODA FOUNTAIN…
HI, PETE… ONE OF YOUR GIGANTICS FOR MY FRIEND HERE… SHORT PHOSPHATE FOR ME…
SURE, BILLY… WHAT'S YOUR GIRL'S NAME?
YOU DON'T KNOW? WHY, PETE, THIS IS CLEOPATRA OF THE NILE… WHEN SHE WAS A LITTLE GIRL…
OF COURSE! BOY, YOU SURE CAN PICK 'EM, BILLY!
O.K., ANNIE… WHAT DID YOU HAVE TO TELL ME… BUT KEEP THE VOICE DOWN, EH?
GEE! Y'GOT ME SO RATTLED I FORGET… OH, SURE… NOW I REMEMBER…
THAT OLD DESK O' MRS. BOND'S… BEANIE SAYS THERE IS A SECRET HIDIN' PLACE IN IT… ONLY HER MOM WOULD NEVER SHOW HER WHERE…
GOOD WORK, KID… (OH-OH! COMPANY!) … WHAT NOW, ME PROUD BEAUTY? CAN Y'HOLD ANOTHER OF THOSE?
LEAPIN' LIZARDS, NO! NO, THANK YOU!
SODA
SEVEN KINDS O' ICE CREAM! FRUITS AN' SYRUPS AN' NUTS! WOW! AM I FULL!

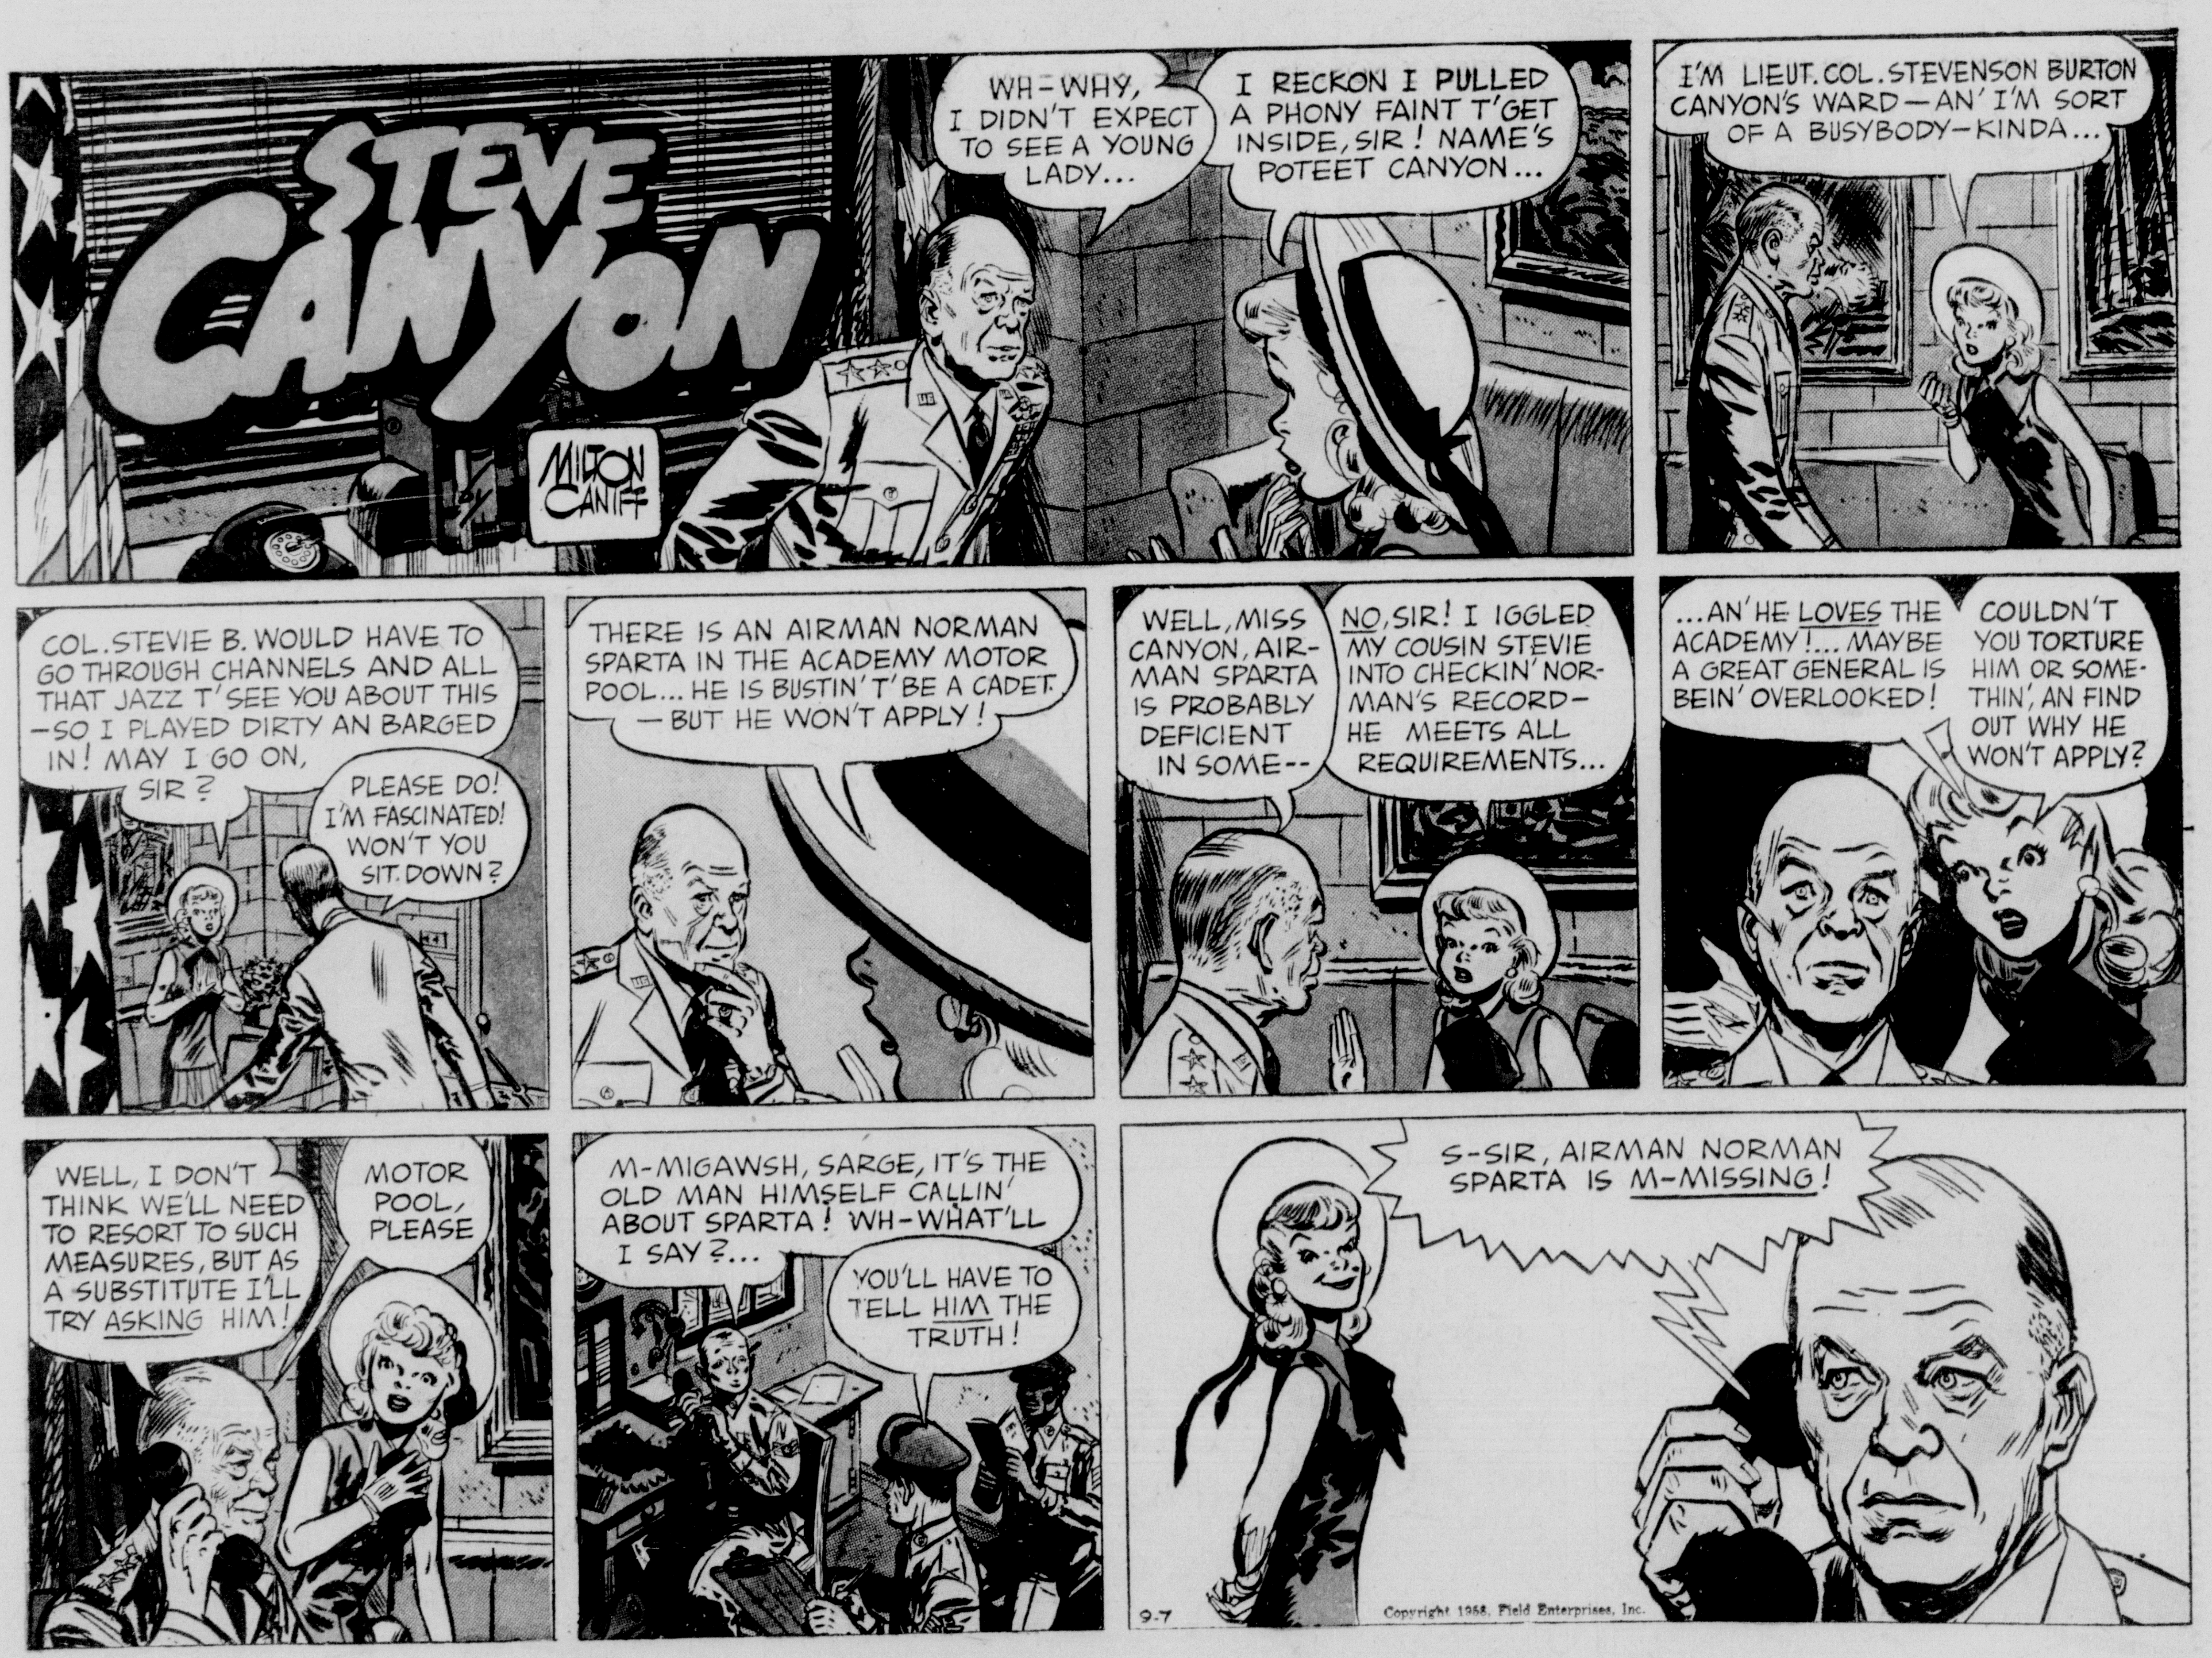
WHO WERE THOSE GUYS? THEY LOOKED AT US AWFUL SHARP…
AL ATILLA… THE BIGGEST WHEEL IN TOWN AND HIS BODYGUARD, KNUP…
BUT WHY SHOULD WE HAFTA BE CAREFUL 'BOUT THEM?
MAYBE TO KEEP FROM TURNING UP WITH OUR HEADS TUCKED UNDERNEATH OUR ARMS…
HAROLD GRAY



STEVE CANYON
MILTON CANIFF
WH-WHY, I DIDN'T EXPECT TO SEE A YOUNG LADY…
I RECKON I PULLED A PHONY FAINT T'GET INSIDE, SIR! NAME'S POTEET CANYON…
I'M LIEUT. COL. STEVENSON BURTON CANYON'S WARD— AN' I'M SORT OF A BUSYBODY— KINDA…
COL. STEVIE B. WOULD HAVE TO GO THROUGH CHANNELS AND ALL THAT JAZZ T'SEE YOU ABOUT THIS —SO I PLAYED DIRTY AN BARGED IN! MAY I GO ON, SIR?
PLEASE DO! I'M FASCINATED! WON'T YOU SIT. DOWN?
THERE IS AN AIRMAN NORMAN SPARTA IN THE ACADEMY MOTOR POOL… HE IS BUSTIN' T'BE A CADET. — BUT HE WON'T APPLY!
WELL, MISS CANYON, AIRMAN SPARTA IS PROBABLY DEFICIENT IN SOME--
NO, SIR! I IGGLED MY COUSIN STEVIE INTO CHECKIN' NORMAN'S RECORD— HE MEETS ALL REQUIREMENTS…
…AN' HE LOVES THE ACADEMY!… MAYBE A GREAT GENERAL IS BEIN' OVERLOOKED!
COULDN'T YOU TORTURE HIM OR SOMETHIN', AN FIND OUT WHY HE WON'T APPLY?
WELL, I DON'T THINK WE'LL NEED TO RESORT TO SUCH MEASURES, BUT AS A SUBSTITUTE I'LL TRY ASKING HIM!
MOTOR POOL, PLEASE
M-MIGAWSH, SARGE, IT'S THE OLD MAN HIMSELF CALLIN' ABOUT SPARTA! WH-WHAT'LL I SAY?…
YOU'LL HAVE TO TELL HIM THE TRUTH!
